Arrested for Deportation He Girds His Loins for the Set-to.

Declares the President Is Trying to Save John Bull Some Chestnuts.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, March 28.—Har Dyal, East Indian savant and former Stanford University lecturer, whom the United States government is trying to deport at the request of the British government, tonight denounced the government at Washington as being despicably subservient to the will of Great Britain and declared that the Democratic administration is "licking the boots" of England.

Dyal, who not only admits, but re[illegible] that he is in rebellion against the British government in India, attempted directly to involve Secretary of State Bryan in the deportation case. He quoted in his own defense excerpts from a pamphlet entitled, "British Rule in India," and said to have been written and published by Bryan several years ago.

In this purported Bryan pamphlet, the British government in India is declared to be unjust and oppressive, arbitrary and despotic.

At one point in this pamphlet it is stated that the Britons have been

"A MATTER OF MINUTES."

What Villa Says of His Proposed Capture of Torreon.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

JUAREZ (Mex.) March 28.—10:30 p.m.—A telegram just received from Gen. Villa says that the capture of Torreon is a matter of minutes, not of hours. No details were given.

At 12:30 a.m. there were no additional advices as to the progress of the battle at Torreon. No press dispatches came through. Officials in this city and in El Paso, however, were sitting up waiting for news of the fall of the city.

There were those who thought that Villa's message that the taking of the city would be a matter of minutes was oversanguine.

QUEEN COMING ANYWAY.

In Spite of Dire Warning Eleanore of Bulgaria Will Visit the United States.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, March 28.—A Sofia dispatch to the Times says Queen Eleanore of Bulgaria has received threatening letters warning her not to visit tthe United States. It is known that the author of the letters is not an American. The Queen will not alter her plans because of the letters and will sail from Hamburg for New York the latter part of May.

Cincinnati Woman Declares Inglewood Man Left Her Twelve Days After They Had Been Married.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CINCINNATI, March 28.—Charging that her husband, David E. Tolbert, of Inglewood, Cal., left her twelve days following their wedding in this city, Mrs. Clara Tolbert brought suit in the Hamilton County Insolvency Court for divorce today.

In her petition, Mrs. Tolbert alleges that they were married December 12, 1912, and Tolbert left her on Christmas Eve, 1912, going to Inglewood, where he has been ever since. During his absence a child was born and she prays for a divorce and the custody of their baby.

THE CITY. Jack the Snipper is abroad, clipping the tresses of many girls and women whom he catches in lonely places.

Carl F. Schader purchased 7000 acres of Imperial Valley land for $1,000,000 yesterday, and he proposes to develop the new town of Calipatria at once.

Judge Craig ruled against the Plaza rioters on their demurrer, saying in effect that they received a fair trial and justice must not miscarry through trivial technicalities.

The Los Angeles Investment Company declined yesterday to cancel outstanding notes as had been asked.

Ground was broken yesterday for the new Southern Pacific passenger station at the Arcade depot.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA. The condition of Frederick Weyerhaeuser continues serious and relatives have been summoned from the East in the belief that the illness will prove fatal.

Thirty men who voted for John C. Fremont for President attended the Republican rally at Long Beach Friday night. Saturday they formed an organization which they hope will become national in scope for the purpose of promoting Republican doctrines.

Wilmington has made extensive plans for the harbor celebration to be held in that city April 11.

PACIFIC SLOPE. Maneuvers on the Coast this year are to be staged near San Francisco.

The secret service agents arrested three supposed members of a gang of counterfeiters at Portland, Or.

Lumber dealers of Portland, Or., asked Secretary Redfield not to interfere with lumber pooling so that foreign trade could be retained here.

GENERAL EASTERN. A canvass of the general business situation in the East indicates the country has settled down to a continuous period of prosperity.

WASHINGTON. Reports of a filibuster in the Senate indicate the tolls repeal bill will be delayed for some time.

Robert Lansing will take his place as counsellor of the State Department tomorrow.

MEXICO. Stories of wounded rebels who have returned to Juarez indicate Villa met with a severe reverse at Gomez Palacio.

Thousands of dollars in rebel money has been stamped counterfeit whether it was genuine or not.

The reader who would do justice to himself will not depend wholly upon the summary, comprehensive though it is, but will take in the complete news which necessarily cannot be luminously summarized, epitomized or classified.

SEES VILLA IN HIS LAIR

Finds Tiger Lusting for Blood.

Visitor Amazed that the Unhanged Bandit Holds His Men in Line.

Illiterate and Heartless Rebel Rules by Fear Followers Better Than He.

And His Head Looks Like a Bullet that Has Never Been Fired.

BY E. ALEXANDER POWELL,
Author of "The Last Frontier."

IN THE outskirts of Gomez Palacio, where the poorer classes exist in wretched hovels of sunbaked clay, the dead lie thickest. Refuse of every kind litters the unpaved streets and smells to heaven, a dead dog here, the decaying carcass of a mule around the corner, and over them swarms of buzzing flies. There is scarcely a house wall in the place that is not pitted with bullets; in some of them there are apertures the size of a grand piano, such is the dreadful havoc caused by fighting at close range.

The residences of the more conspicuous Huerta sympathizers have been seized and converted into military bureaus and barracks and hospitals by the rebels. It was in such a house that I found Villa—"Pancho" Villa (pronounced, not as if you were starting to say "villain," but as though it were spelled "vee-yah,") less than a year ago a hunted outlaw with a price on his head, but now, if you please, Gen. Francisco Villa, commander-in-chief of all the Constitutional forces in the field.

It was not easy to gain access to him, for he had just arrived from the firing line. But he knew me as a friend of Madero and he sent word that he would like to talk with me if I would wait.

AT VILLA'S HEADQUARTERS.

Of course I would wait. The scene amid which I found myself was in itself sufficiently enthralling to keep me interested. In the dusty street in front of the general's headquarters stood a score of ill-groomed cavalry horses, noses to the ground, reins trailing, looking even smaller than they were beneath their enormous saddles. Without the gate a moving-picture operator had set up his instrument and waited, hand on crank, for the interesting, the curious, or the dramatic to happen. In the little patch of grassless garden a raucous-voiced sergeant, whose tasselled yellow chevrons stamped him as a Federal deserter, barked shrill orders at a batch of awkward, frightened recruits. On either side of the doorway lounged a sentry with a serape strapped about him, leaning carelessly upon his rifle.

The barren hallway peculiar to Mexican houses of the better class was crowded to suffocation with as motley and interesting a crowd as I have ever seen within the walls of a single room; hacendados from the interior, who had ridden in to offer Villa their fealty in the hope of safeguarding their possessions; representatives of concerns which deal in weapons, in ammunition, in explosives, in uniforms, in aeroplanes, smug-faced, frock-coated bankers from El Paso sent for in the vain hope that they would float a rebel loan; professional fighting men from many lands who had come to offer their swords and their services in return for lucrative commissions in the rebel army; newspaper correspondents, members of the Constitutionalist junta—well dressed, distinguished-looking men who had been Ambassadors and Cabinet Ministers and Governors under the ill-fated Madero, and who hoped to be Ambassadors and Ministers and Governors again.

EXPERT GUNNERS.

"See that thin, hatchet-faced fellow with high boots and the big nose?" said a newspaper man who sat beside me. "He's one of the few Americans in the rebel service. He was formerly in an American cavalry regiment and served in the Cuban and Philippine campaigns, but now he's in charge of Villa's machine-gun section. He's a nervy chap, too. They say that he won't let his men begin firing until they can see the numerals on the Federals' caps."

"Who's the young man with the light hair and the pink cheeks, who looks like a Prussian officer?" I asked.

"He is a Prussian officer," was the answer. "I understand that he got leave from his regiment and came over to offer his services to the rebels as much for the sake of seeing some fighting as anything else. But Villa doesn't want any foreigners in his ranks unless they have special knowledge of some sort—artillery or hospital work or railway transport. Still, there's a foreigner over there whom he trusts implicitly—the dark-faced fellow in the slouch hat standing by the door. That's young Garibaldi, the grandson of the liberator of Italy. He commanded the foreign legion, you remember, in the Madero revolution."

A pleasant-faced, well-groomed young fellow, one of the few whose clothes seemed to fit, bustled by amid a shower of greetings and inquiries.

"That's Raoul Madero," volunteered my informant, "the younger brother of the murdered President. He regards Villa as his brother's avenger and serves him like a faithful dog."

Just then the door to Villa's cabinet opened, and the man who had been

FILIBUSTER ON THE REPEAL BILL MAY SAVE AMERICAN SHIPPING.

O'Gorman Enlists the Senate Canals Committee Against the Wilson Policy of "Lay Down to England."

The More the Question Is Debated in the House the More Bitter Becomes the Opposition to the White House Measure to Penalize Ourselves for Having Sent Col. Goethals to Panama—Vote May Be Delayed Six Weeks.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, March 28. — Reports that an organized effort would be made in the Senate to delay the passage of the bill repealing Panama toll exemption aroused administration leaders today while general debate of the issue in the House continued to hold the public interest.

The intimation that a prolonged filibuster in the Senate had been determined upon, now that the first decisive battle had been won by the President, was reported to several Senatorial supporters of the administration and it was intimated Senator O'Gorman, chairman of the Committee on Interoceanic Canals, already was delaying consideration of the measure by his committee.

Senator O'Gorman was asked when he expected to call his committee together to consider the subject, which already is before it, Senator Owen having introduced a repeal bill similar to the Sims House measure two weeks ago. During the day Senator Crawford, a member of the committee, had returned, the chairman having stated previously that he would not take the issue up in committee until the South Dakota Senator reached Washington.

O'GORMAN'S STATEMENT.

"There will be no meeting of the committee," Senator O'Gorman said, "until after the bill comes over from the House, which probably will not be until next Wednesday. Senators Simmons and Shields are absent now and it would be unfair to act until every member has been given an opportunity to be heard."

How long the issue would be held in committee, Senator O'Gorman would not predict, declaring that there was other important legislation to keep the Senate busy, such as anti-trust and appropriation bills.

"I have heard several Democratic Senators, who probably will vote to repeal the toll exemption, declare today that they did not look for a vote in the Senate within six weeks," the New York Senator said.

Senator Owen, a Democratic member of the Canals Committee, who is leading the preliminary fight for repeal, asserted tonight that any attempt to delay the bill in the Senate unduly would be foolish. He intimated that deliberate delay in the committee might result in forcing the issue before the Senate on a motion to discharge the Canals Committee from consideration of the subject.

OWEN VS. O'GORMAN.

"Any disposition to pettifog, in this matter," Senator Owen said, "obviously would be a silly thing to do. As far as Senator O'Gorman is concerned, I think he is disposed to delay now. I personally expressed to him yesterday a wish that the committee might be called to consider the repeal bill, which I introduced two weeks ago. If he does not take it up promptly I can say this much, that delay will serve no useful purpose.

"Senator O'Gorman seems to take

MONEY PLENTY, CROPS ENORMOUS, TRAVEL HEAVY TO CALIFORNIA.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, March 28.—Evidences continue to multiply that the entire country is settling down to a season of prosperity built upon a broad, solid and lasting foundation. In some quarters hesitation still shows, but capital is plentiful and will be available just as soon as the opportunity is right for new enterprises and the expansion of industries already established.

Money is unusually easy, not only in New York, but throughout the West and South. Railroad men say the western resort travel has not been as heavy as usual this season for two reasons. The chief one was the very mild winter and the other is that thousands of tourists are holding off for the Panama-Pacific Exposition, and planning to spend practically all the winter months on the Coast, not necessarily in San Francisco, but in Southern California, making a brief visit to the fair in order to secure the advantage of low rates.

All advices from the Coast indicate enormous fruit and other crops with promises that the next two years, at least, will see unusual crops. This is the reason California has not missed the revenue that would have been derived from tourist travel.

Easy money and plenty of it in every direction is the keynote of the generally optimistic situation. Funds are available on good terms for any enterprise that bears the stamp of probable success.

One of the best business barometers is the advance sale to merchants of spring and summer goods. These merchants, scattered over a wide area, reflect actual conditions in their localities. They do not deal in theories, but buy to meet actual demands.

NEW ISSUE IN BRITAIN.

Aristocrats vs. the People.

Party Leaders Are Already Practicing the Cry in the Hall of Echoes.

Labor Agitator Burns May Next Be Put at the Head of the Army.

London Astounded at Latest Turn Made by the Whirligig of Time.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, March 28.—What has been pronounced the "Greatest crisis for statesmanship in three hundred years," is simmering over Sunday. Both Houses of Parliament will train their heaviest guns upon the whole complicated affair on Monday. Passions are running high and country houses, where the politicians customarily spend the week ends, are deserted.

The party leaders are conferring in London and urgent summons have been sent to all members to attend. If the outcome of the crisis is to be a general election in the near future, the radical wing of the Liberal party will form a close alliance with the labor party, the coalition crystallizing its platform into the battle cry, "The aristocrats against the people." Whatever may be the merits of their campaign, it seems to hold possibilities of vote-getting, which the conservative shy at.

The army order, which Premier Asquith announced today, is generally considered to have been intended as a sort of charter on which Field Marshal French and Gen. Ewart might be induced to remain in their positions. Col. Seely's tenure in the office of the War Ministery seems destined to be of short continuance.

The Westminster Gazette and the Daily Chronicle, foremost among the Liberal papers, are saying that Col. Seely must relinquish his portfolio. The name of John Burns is most discussed as his probable successor.

That a democratic government could be carried to such lengths as to give supervision of the army into the hands of the man who came into the limelight first as a labor agitator would have been unthinkable a year ago. Yet the recognition of the soldier as on the same plane with the officer in the charter rights and duties, which the government proclaimed today is a long step toward the same leveling of the classes.

The Panama debate at Washington, which ordinarily would have been read here with equal interest to that which it excites in the United States, is passing, almost unnoticed in the excitement over the crisis, and the suffragettes are being wholly ignored.

The King's actions and attitude during the crisis are gradually becoming known. The attacks of the radicals and laborites on the King for his alleged interference in politics, have subsided. The Unionists are criticising His Majesty, but quietly among themselves. The Unionists have the most reason to complain of the King's policy, as would appear from the most trustworthy accounts of the happenings at Buckingham Palace during the frequent conferences which the King had with the Cabinet Ministers and army officers.

The King followed his Ministers' advice from the beginning of the Home Rule controversy. While maintaining impartiality, apparently he had a personal leaning toward Home Rule. The King and the members of his court were outspoken in their condemnation of Sir Edward Carson in organizing the Ulster volunteer army, and resented his act in reviewing the volunteers as though they were a regular military body and of assuming prerogatives by reason of which the Liberals named him "King Carson." Such an offence, as Sir Robert Baden-Powell discovered when he placed his portrait on postage stamps during the siege of Mafeking, is an unpardonable sin in the eyes of the court.

While Premier Asquith and Col. Seely were closeted with the King recently, Maj.-Gen. Sir William M. Robertson, director of military training at the War Office, accompanied by a colleague, visited the Palace, according to reliable information, and asked to be admitted to the conference on urgent business. The request was granted, and the officers announced that they and a majority of the staff officers would resign immediately unless the government made its peace with the Curragh officers.

Premier Asquith's conciliatory statement to the Times, the first interview which the Premier has granted in office, was the result of the statement that this ultimatum had been delivered.

Youthful Leader in New York Begins Year's Sentence on Blackwell's Island.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, March 28.—Frank Tannenbaum, the youthful Industrial Workers' of the World leader, who was sentenced yesterday to one year in the penitentiary and fined $500 for the part he played in leading an "army" of unemployed into a New York church, was taken from his cell in the Tombs to police headquarters today, where he was photographed and his fingerprints taken. Then he was taken to Blackwell's Island to begin his sentence.

Beyond remarking that he was a martyr, Tannenbaum had nothing to say.

REBEL-MONEY INVALIDATED.

Thousands of Genuine Bills Stamped Counterfeit.

Most of It in Possession of Huerta Sympathizers.

Gen. Scott Denies Charge of Torturing Mexicans.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

JUAREZ (Mex.) March 28.—As the result of an investigation made on behalf of the Federal Business Men's League, charges will be filed with Gen. Carranza on his arrival, that thousands of genuine Constitutionalist bank bills held by Americans and suspected Huerta sympathizers have been stamped "counterfeit" and rendered useless by rebel validating officers in pursuance of a unique scheme to retire the money from circulation at the expense of the legitimate holders.

By declaring the bills counterfeit the rebel financiers will be able to repudiate the obligation of redemption and still be ahead of the game to the extent of thousands of dollars, the business men allege.

Owing to the existence of more than a half-million of counterfeit bills, a decree was issued requiring all money to be stamped by the validating agents and it is now claimed that gross discrimination was practiced.

Money bought at the El Paso banks was declared bad, even after American experts had pronounced the bills genuine. To refuse to accept Constitutionalist money is now a crime and to have counterfeit money in one's possession is punishable by death and the business men consider that the time has come to make a protest.

Owing to wide publicity given in the Mexican press today to the statement that prisoners at Ft. Bliss had been subjected to torture by American soldiers in order to vent their racial hatred, Gen. Scott announced tonight that after a strict inquiry it was discovered that the charges not only were baseless, but had been made with the intention of increasing the bitterness of feeling already existing. According to the Mexican newspapers, prisoners have been wired to posts and beaten into unconsciousness for some minor infraction of the camp rules and that the American soldiers have taken delight in abusing their charges on every possible occasion. Handbills circulated assert that "This is the American idea of humane action and the usual manner in which the gringoes treat those who are helpless and in their power." Other charges were that the prisoners were forced to work like slaves on regular improvements of the fort, and that even skilled mechanics received nothing for their labor.

Both Gen. Bliss and Capt. Seaman, the quartermaster, assert that the Mexicans have never been asked to do anything except keep their own camp clean and that violators of rules are judged in the camp court and confined in a guardhouse.

That Gen. Carranza declined to allow the Sonora troops out of his control was indicated in dispatches received tonight. It is reported that Carranza refused even to board the special train waiting to bring him to Juarez and that his reception of the Villa Committee of Welcome was characterized by some of the rigidity.

Carranza is said to have recalled that Gov. Abraham Gonzales of Chihuahua had placed himself in the hands of a reception committee on board a special train less than a year ago and that the committee returned with the statement that the guest of honor had fallen beneath the wheels. For this reason the first chief preferred to continue the journey on horseback in company with his picked men.

Juarez again is sizzling tonight with rumors that Gen. Felix Diaz will arrive in El Paso tomorrow to assume charge of his "interests" along the border. A telegram dated at Washington and another from New Orleans, both stated that Diaz, with a number of companions, was coming, but for what purpose was not made public. The army officers at Ft. Bliss likewise were informed of the expected arrival, but it was stated that Diaz would not be molested unless he commited some crime.

Because many of the business houses failed to decorate in honor of the coming of the first chief, a decree was issued this afternoon that all persons who failed to decorate by 9 o'clock tonight would be sent to jail for a month. All of the flags bear the inscriptions "Viva Gen. Villa" "and Viva al Ejercito" over a picture of the Chihuahua commander. So far none of the decorations contain the name of Carranza.

COMMANDS MEXICAN NAVY.

Commodoro Azueta Is Put in Charge of Gulf Coast Fleet in Appreciation of Loyalty.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

VERA CRUZ, March 28.—Commodore Manual Azueta of the Mexican navy was appointed today commander in chief of the Gulf coast fleet as a mark of appreciation for his loyalty to the Mexican government during the Felix Diaz uprising. When he hoisted his flag on board the gunboat Zaragoza, salutes were fired by all the foreign warships in port and visits were exchanged by the commanders. This is one of several changes contemplated by the Federal government in consequence of the defection of the gunboat Tampico.

Sees Villa in His Lair.

pointed out to me previously as Felix Sommerfeld, late Chief of the Secret Police, caught my eye and beckoned.

"The general will see you now, senor," he said, and motioned me within. Sitting on the edge of a disordered bed, clad in a neat uniform of olive drab with no single insignia of rank, was the master of Northern Mexico—Francisco Villa. I had been told that for eighteen years he had been a brigand—and he looked the part. He sat humped over, with head drooping. His bloodshot eyes and tousled hair would have led me, at first glance, to assume that he was just recovering from the effects of a prolonged debauch. As a matter of fact, however, he does not drink; his life has hung by a thread for too many years for him to imperil it for the sake of whisky.

MEETING GEN. VILLA.

He is stockily built and of medium height—not over five feet ten, I should guess—with the chest and shoulders of a prize fighter and the most perfect bullet-shaped head I have ever seen. Receding from the back of the neck and from the jaw, it tapers upward in the most extraordinary fashion. His head is covered with black hair as crisp and curly as a negro's; his skin is the color of a well-smoked meerschaum; a black mustache serves to mask his mouth, which is cruel even when it is smiling. The most attractive feature of the face is the eyes, which are large and brilliant and extraordinarily piercing. Indeed, they are really not eyes at all, but gimlets, which seem to bore into your very soul. After I had looked into them I began to understand the deadly fear in which his subordinates stand of him.

His methods in this particular had been strikingly illustrated only quite recently. He had ridden over to the railway station at Juarez to superintend the departure of a punitive expedition, which he was rushing south to Madera to check the depredations of Maximo Castillo's bandits. Owing to some mishap of the engine, the train was late in starting. After taking a few angry turns up and down the station platform, Villa strode across to his chief of transport, and, jerking loose his heavy automatic, shoved the muzzle of the weapon in that startled official's face.

UNREASONABLE DEMANDS.

"If that train isn't out of the station in five minutes," he snarled, "I'll blow you head off."

"But, general," expostulated the trembling official, "I'm not responsible for the delay. The engine's broken down."

"That doesn't concern me," said Villa, coldly. "I'm not an engineer—I'm a soldier. If that train doesn't move in five minutes you'll be dead."

The train moved.

The condition of the room in which Villa received me was indicative of the disorder which marks the present stage of the revolution. Lined against the wall was a row of canvas sacks, each stamped "$1000." There were thirty in all; I counted them. They doubtless comprised the war chest of the rebel army. Piled carelessly in one corner were a dozen Mauser rifles, two or three cavalry saddles and a half-empty case of ammunition. In front of these warlike implements, and half screening them, were a baby's chair and a sewing machine—relics, no doubt, of the house's former inhabitants. Hanging on the bedpost was Villa's visored cap, and on a near-by table were his field glasses and revolver. The latter, I noted, was within easy reach of his hand.

EDUCATED ADVISERS.

My conversation with Villa was constantly interrupted by the comings and goings of officers and officials, for the commander in chief is still too new at the business to intrust any decisions, no matter how unimportant, to his subordinates. The thing that impressed me most, I think, was the fashion in which his advisers—cultivated, educated, polished men for the most part, many of whom were educated at Harvard and Oxford and the Sorbonne, and who are at home in the best society of half the world's capitals, stood, hat in hand, awaiting the orders of this illiterate ex-bandit, and at his bidding pocketed their dignity and became messenger boys.

Much of this remarkable loyalty is due, no doubt, to fear, and some of it to faith in the man's abilities as a soldier, but I can't imagine anyone serving him from love, for there is nothing that is lovable about him. But, mind you, he hasn't lost his head. I could not detect a single evidence of vanity or conceit. I think I can best describe him as a man that I would not care to meet in a lonely neighborhood on a dark night.

Always grim and sullen, when angered by anything, no matter how trivial, he becomes as ferocious as a wild beast. He has about as much regard for human life as a tiger. Here is an incident to illustrate my point:

SURVEYING THE CAPTIVES.

After a recent rebel victory in Northern Chihuahua four score or so Federal prisoners were lined up in the Plaza for Villa's inspection. The rebel commander, hands thrust into the pockets of his frayed sack coat, sombrero pulled over his eyes, strode forward and surveyed the cowering captives.

"Viva Villa!" he snapped.

"Viva Villa!" "Viva Villa!" The shrill cheer, dominated, however, by an unmistakable note of fear, ran down the cringing line.

"You dogs!" he snarled. "You shout 'Viva Villa!' today because I happen to be on top, but if I lost a battle tomorrow you'd be shouting 'Viva Huerta!'"

Then, turning to the commander of the guard: "Take them out and shoot them—and mind that you waste no ammunition. We've none to spare."

They arranged the prisoners in groups of five, as close together as they could stand, and a soldier placed the muzzle of his Mauser against the breast of the foremost man in each group . . . and pulled the trigger. In this way one bullet did the work of five.

"A few more episodes like that, general," I told Villa quite frankly, "and you'll lose for your cause all the sympathy that it has gained in the United States. The reports of these wholesale executions are leaving a bad taste in the mouths of Americans."

"Those that I have executed deserved all they got," said Villa, with a sudden hardening of the muscles about the mouth. "Some of them helped betray Madero; others were prisoners whom I had paroled and whom I had caught with arms in their hands. But that stage of the campaign is over now. Hereafter we shall conduct the war along more civilized lines. There will be no more executions except in aggravated cases—I give you my word as to that."

As I rose to take my departure, Villa stood up and took my hand.

"Good-by, general," I said. "Perhaps the next time we meet it will be in the City of Mexico in the National Palace."

PARTING WITH VILLA.

His eyes flamed. "In the City of Mexico, perhaps," he answered, "if God lets me live to reach there. But in the National Palace—never, I have no wish to be President. Who am I to rule a country? I have no education for such a post. For eighteen years I was an outlaw with a price on my life. It was not until I was in prison in the capital, two years ago, that I taught myself to read and write. And my wife cannot read and write at all. I am no politician. I am a fighting man. I am fighting to free my country from the rule of a despot and to avenge the murder of Madero, who believed in me and befriended me. And I shall never rest until I have settled that score."

And, unless a knife or a bullet cuts short his career, I don't believe that he will.

Whether this former outlaw, who, less than a year ago, slipped out of El Paso with a revolver in his belt and $7.50 in his pocket, and who is now at the head of probably 20,000 victory-elated men, will ever sit in the Presidential chair, only time can tell. Far stranger things have happened below the Rio Grande, as those who are familiar with the history of Porfirio Diaz know. And Villa is but following the path that Diaz trod.

Who Boasts Like a Napoleon in Egypt.

"Pancho" Villa,

Who has acquired the bulletin writing habit (which is to say the habit of getting somebody to write bulletins for him, as he himself neither reads nor writes.) It is estimated that he has sent about as many bulletins from the Torreon region to Juarez in five days as Napoleon sent to Paris during the whole of his unfortunate Egyptian campaign. The lower panel shows Villa giving orders. The upper is one of the more recent photo portraits of him.

"THE SABER IS USELESS."

So Says an American Officer Who Cared for the Wounded From the Ojinaga Battle.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Bayonets and sabers played no part in the battle of Ojinaga, Mex., according to a report made to the War Department today by Capt. Louis C. Duncan, army medical corps, United States army, who was one of the surgeons attending the wounded cared for at the hospital camp at Presidio, Tex. Although the Federal infantry carried bayonets, and the cavalry sabers, Capt. Duncan saw nothing but gunshot wounds on his patients. He concluded that "the saber is a useless weapon."

Wounded Mexicans bore their injuries with incredible stoicism, the report says, and expected no relief from their agonies. No arrangements for the care of the wounded that were worth mentioning had been made by either army, so far as the American doctors could learn. The men were not provided even with first aid packages.

Summarizing his experience with abdominal wounds, Capt. Duncan says bullets from modern high-power rifles frequently pass through the abdomen without inflicting serious damage, if fired at long range.

Bathing is an unknown process among the Mexican soldiers, partially because of lack of water, Capt. Duncan asserts, adding:

"There were many men who had not so much as washed their faces and hands for months—if ever."

He denounces the Mexican Federal medical officers for refusal to aid in caring for Federal wounded at the hospital.

TROOPS TO NUEVO LAREDO.

Mexican Infantry Regiment Is Sent South in Hurry to the Scene of the Fighting.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

LAREDO (Tex.) March 28.—A Mexican Federal military train was hurriedly sent south from Nuevo Laredo today bearing the Ninth Infantry and some other troops. Their destination was not announced. Meanwhile, unconfirmed reports reached here that fighting was in progress about forty miles south of Nuevo Laredo. It was thought that reinforcement for the Nuevo Laredo garrison may have met opposition and was trying to fight their way through to that city.

The special war tax levied on all Mexican exports eight months ago was withdrawn at Nuevo Laredo today. It amounted to from 3 to 10 per cent. in addition to regular duties.

THE WIRE DOWN AGAIN.

In Which Event it is Safe to Guess That Villa is Making no Progress at Torreon.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, March 28.—There was a dearth of news at the State and War Departments today from the theater of war near Torreon. About the only conclusion that could be drawn from the failure to hear either from Vice-Consul Carrothers, who is supposed to be with Villa at Gomez Palacio or Bermejillo, or from the Federal side through the American Embassy at Mexico City, was that the battle was still in progress without definite results either way.

From the east and west coasts of Mexico little scraps of information leaked in tending to show a considerable renewal of Constitutionalist activities.

Inhabitants at Tampico were becoming alarmed, though conditions were not critical.

Decimated.

"HELL MET US AT TORREON."

Rebel Wounded Describe Big Reverse for Villa.

Declare Federals Surprised the Ex-Bandit Chief.

They Admit He Has Not Taken Gomez Palacio.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHIHUAHUA (Mex.) March 27, Via El Paso, March 28.—Evidence of the severe firing which the rebels suffered at the hands of the Federals outside of Torreon was brought here today with the first two trainloads of rebel wounded. Sixteen coaches filled with soldiers, distorted with the agony of their wounds, wrapped in blankets, blood-stained bandages and bent in all shapes, reached the city as the vanguard of a long line of wounded scattered along the railroad at points 300 miles southward.

Three hundred rebel wounded, including three lieutenant-colonels, and about twenty minor officers had arrived by night. They reported a total of about 1000 wounded on their side, with an unknown number of dead. Gen. Trinidad Rodriguez, probably fatally wounded, and Gen. Maximo Garcia, seriously wounded, were left at the front.

All accounts given by the soldiers were that the Federals surprised Gen. Villa, who, instead of frightening the Huerta forces on his approach, found the Torreon garrison stubbornly entrenched and prepared to resist. These accounts agreed that the first firing resulted in a victory for the Federals and loss of courage among the rebels. After five days fighting Villa had failed not only to enter Torreon proper, but had not taken Gomez Palacio, a suburb.

Most of the wounded were soldiers of the Zaragoza brigade, commanded by Gen. Aguirre Benavides, which undertook to blaze the way through the Federal cannonading outside Gomez Palacio. These soldiers were mowed down, killed and wounded by the scores, according to the stories told by individual soldiers. They were sent out to almost certain death in order to bring out the Federal fire, so that the Federals might be located for an attack from other points. Many of the wounded died and the dead, of course, simply were covered with loose earth without the digging of graves.

"Hell met us at Torreon," said one youthful soldier, as he crawled out of the train with his head, arms and legs wrapped in rags, yet with a grim smile on his face. He was one of the small boys who joined the Zaragoza brigade in numbers.

As the train with its freight of mutilated men neared the city every public conveyance in the city was ordered to the station. These formed in line and soon a continuous procession of wagons and coaches passed from the station to an abandoned warehouse, where the wounded were stretched on cots and on the floor. Most of the hotels were filled with wounded officers. Pitiful as their condition was, it was noticeable that all of the wounded had been given first aid treatment before they were started northward. This was regarded as marking an advancement in the treatment of wounded in Mexican revolutions, for in previous fights few of the wounded ever were treated on the battlefield at all.

WOUNDED AT JIMINEZ.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

JIMINEZ (Mex.) March 27.—Two more trainloads of rebel wounded from near Torreon passed through here today, en route to Chihuahua. The soldiers reported that there were 350 or more wounded at Bermejillo, who were unable to find accommodations in the northbound train.

THE BYINGTON CASE.

Rebel Agent Says American Was Put in Jail the Second Time Because His Bondsmen Withdrew.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) March 28.—The status of the case of James Byington, an American mining man held prisoner at Cumpas, Sonora, was defined in a message received here today by Constitutionalist Agent Lelevier from A. Preciado, prefect of Cumpas.

Preciado's message read: "According to information given me by the judge of the first instance, the imprisonment of James Byington, an American, was justified because of his fraudulent exploitation of a mine in this district. The reason he was jailed the second time was that the man who furnished bonds for him withdrew them."

Information sent to the United States by Americans in Cumpas was to the effect that Byington was held there without due process of law.

Advices from Nogales, Sonora, received here tonight, quoted American Consul Simpich as having said that he would press an official investigation of Byington's case immediately.

When told of Prefect Preciado's version of the case, Consul Simpich was said to have remarked:

"I consider that a reflection upon the Mexican courts: not because of Byington's guilt or innocence, for he may be technically guilty, but because he has been in jail practically five months, without trial, for an offense for which the maximum penalty is thirty-days' imprisonment and a fine of 20 pesos."

It was stated that Simpich had taken the case up with Gen. Carranza.

REBELS DEPORT EIGHT.

Double Quartette of Prominent Citizens Are Sent Out of Sonora as Enemies to Republic.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) March 28.—Eight prominent citizens of Santa Ana, in the Magdalena district of Sonora, were deported today as "enemies to the Constitutionalists," according to a message from Hermosillo received by Constitutionalist Agent Lelevier of this city. The deportations followed an order issued by Col. Calles.

The same message contained the statement that Capt. Salinas, a Constitutionalist army aviator, was making successful trial flights over Hermosillo in the aeroplane "Sonora." It was expected that the "Sonora" would be used for scouting and bomb-dropping in the next attack upon Guaymas, which, it was believed, would be ordered soon by Gen. Alvarado.

Reports from Torreon have caused considerable strength in the Constitutionalist money market along the border. Bids of 26 and 27 cents have failed to bring out 10,000 pesos either here or at Nogales, according to bankers.

NON-INTERCOURSE MEXICO REMEDY.

NORMAN ANGELL SUGGESTS NEW POLICY.

Declares if Nations Would Agree to Handle the Country Without Gloves Peace Might Soon Be Brought About in a Quick and Economical Manner.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, March 28.—That a policy of non-intercourse, enforced by the larger nations, is the only feasible, quick and economical way to settle the disorders in Mexico was the sum and substance of a discourse today by Norman Angell, noted peace advocate, author and journalist, before the luncheon of the Commonwealth Club in the Palace Hotel.

Angell's subject was the "Danger of the Pacific Coast in European Armaments." He touched at considerable length upon the Mexican war and the apprehension felt in some quarters that Japan may invade the Pacific Coast. He maintained that Japan is facing a physical impossibility if she ever has dreamed of successfully invading the United States, and cited the Boer and Italy's efforts to subdue the Arabs as examples of the futility of any attempt on the part of the Mikado to overcome the Pacific Coast.

"In some magazine the other day," said Angell, "we were asked to picture an army of 600,000 Japanese landing in California, coming across an ocean which represents a month's steaming for a fast ship. But Italy, having complete naval freedom of action in the Mediterranean as against the Turkish forces, took weeks to land 40,000 men a distance of only one day's steaming from her base."

Regarding the Mexican situation the speaker said:

"If you went into Mexico it would not be a question of a dash to Mexico City and back. Six months in Mexico you might have ... in favor of one Mexican party ... Constitutionalist. But we ... that Constitutionalist is only a way of spelling military ... tervention now would mean ... guerrilla chasing and ... course, would come ... from other Spanish-American countries. WHY CATCH COLD

One-half of the Deaths and Two-thirds of the Sickness is the Direct Result of Catching Cold.

Nothing could be of greater vital interest to the family than to know how to avoid catching cold.

We cite one typical case where Peruna was used to break up the habit of taking cold. It was the case of Mr. Arthur G. Peterson, R. F. D. 21, Box 21, Omro, Wisconsin. He was in the habit of catching cold easily. Troubled with weak, sore eyes. Hardly a day in ten years that he was without a headache. Noises and throbbing in the head. Pain back of the eyes and in the temples. The catarrh was so bad in his head that he was deaf at times. Nose dry and sore. In this condition he was constantly catching cold.

He says: "It has been seven months now since I have taken any Peruna and I haven't felt the least touch of cold since, and I am positive that I am now rid of the tendency to catch cold. Peruna is a wonderful remedy."

Those who object to liquid medicines can now procure Peruna Tablets.—[Advertisement.

The Castle Apartments at Venice Re-opens Under New Management

The Castle Apartments at the corner of Speedway and Thorton Avenue, Venice, was reopened last week under the management of Mr. W. A. Peck.

The Castle is practically a new house, as it has been thoroughly renovated, redecorated and refurnished in handsome style, and is completely equipped with every modern detail.

Among the modern features calling for special attention are a dance room, comfortable card rooms, a fine sun parlor overlooking the most magnificent mountain and marine views on the coast. Efficient maid and porter service is furnished to every apartment.

In keeping with modern social demands a banquet service is provided for ladies wishing to entertain.

Every apartment is equipped with the latest of modern conveniences including telephones.

Money Plenty.

merchandise business is actively responding to the arrival of spring. More merchants visited this market during the week than the corresponding week of last year, making a notable gain for the month.

"This last week wool dress goods business ran more than 40 per cent. ahead of the same week last year.

"During the last six or eight weeks there has been a noticeable increase in the sale of percales, and as the season advances demand for all kinds of printed wash goods increases.

"Many numbers of cotton blankets are being sold, the greatest demand being for those of New England manufacture. Wool blankets, especially plaids, are moving very freely for fall. Raw wool continues firm, with many grades advancing. The prevailing opinion is that there will be a decided shortage in the domestic line and that prices will be considerably higher before the top of the advance is reached."

FOREIGN BOURSES.

Reverting to the money situation, considerable improvement is being shown in foreign bourses. London is passing through a crisis in connection with the Ulster affair, which has depressed everything, but yesterday's dispatches announced that money was in better supply and discount rates were weak on the easy money outlook. In Paris the Caillaux-Calmette sensation caused much unrest on the Bourse and sharp reflection was shown in business conditions, but everything has steadied again.

Some concrete examples of prosperous conditions in the United States are shown in the order, placed Friday by the Union Pacific railroad with the Lima Locomotive Corporation for fifty-four locomotives to cost $1,300,000. This is the largest single order placed so far this year by any road, although heavy and frequent orders have been placed for equipment of all kinds by various lines and many others are in the market for bids for equipment running far into the millions. Note has been taken of the resumption of furnaces and steel and iron mills in the Pittsburgh district, at Gary, Ind., Joliet, Ill., Cleveland, O., and Youngstown, O., giving employment to thousands of men and through them awakening all kinds of minor industries which live and profit by their wages. Announcement was made Friday that the Youngstown (O.) Iron and Steel Company had increased its capital stock to $2,400,000, and will build at once three new open-hearth furnaces to meet the increasing demand for material.

DUN'S REVIEW.

Conditions in the Middle West are clearly indicated in Dun's Weekly Review of Chicago trade, which says in part:

"Irregular weather conditions obscure more than they retard the spreading spring activities.

"The usual returns indicate that business expands. Rising comparative gains in the volume of payments through the banks are sustained, the percentage this week being the largest reported this year. Failures are smaller and there is lessening complaint as to both city and country collections.

"Heavy construction and new building here and throughout adjoining territory exhibit seasonable advance. All indications predict an unusually busy year, much re-employment of labor and plentiful consumption of supplies.

"Demands upon the furnaces, rolling mills and forges include numerous moderate contracts and easier buying terms are likely to bring out better commitment for forward deliveries.

"Transportation returns testify to expanding movements of heavy materials, farm needs and general merchandise."

EMPLOYMENT PLENTY.

There is no longer any serious consideration of the "problem of the unemployed." It has been conclusively shown in all sections of the country that there is no need of or excuse for "unemployed" men. In every direction there is a cry for men at good wages and those who remain idle do so from choice, encouraged in the cities and in some of the States by the politicians, who need them as a campaign issues and also as voters. In Chicago, the Council has just granted permission by ordinance for the building of a $65,000,000 union terminal by the Pennsylvania and five allied lines. The excavations and preparatory work will provide, for two or three years at least, employment for all the unskilled laborers in the city. Railroads generally are also calling for men for spring repair work. Places are open for thousands and every man who really desires employment can get it, together with transportation to his work and assurances of good food and good wages for many months, enough, in fact to carry him up to the time when he can transfer his activities to the work on farms at still higher wages.

Heavy retrenchments by the Pennsylvania, the Baltimore and Ohio, and some other roads are not to be taken as an indication of poor business or doubt about the future. Investigation shows that the Pennsylvania has been running many hourly trains that were found to be unnecessary, and the patronage can be cared for just as well with fewer trains. This, of course, dispenses, temporarily at least, with the services of thousands of men, but it places the road on a firmer and more business-like foundation. This is a time when all railroads are looking carefully for every opportunity for economy. With their expenses constantly increasing, labor unions making fresh demands and giving poorer service in return for increased wages, constantly advancing taxes, and a tightening at all times by State and Federal regulating bodies, the railroads have been forced to the most rigid economy.

Expenditures for maintenance and operation of railroads operating west from Chicago have been reduced less than 10 per cent. within the last six months, and no drastic cuts are anticipated, according to interviews with operating heads of the various companies. None of the operating officials were willing to assert that expenses were too high, or that economies were contemplated similar to those put into force by the Pennsylvania Railroad. The dismissal of 10,000 employees by that road was commented upon variously, but in most cases it was ascribed to conditions local to the densely populated districts of the East, and not applicable to western or middle western systems.

Officials of the Northwestern, Illinois Central, Great Western, St. Paul, Burlington, and other roads, asked about their retrenchment plans, if any were contemplated, said they had retrenched to the limit, beginning two years ago, and could cut no deeper without seriously impairing the service.

Mountain Nook With Running Brook

Special Afternoon Auto Trip to 'Cottonwood Glen' in the Beautiful Vale of Monte Vista

A week-end retreat within an hour's travel of the business center of Los Angeles, in the very heart of the green Verdugo hills, equipped with swimming pool of sparkling mountain water, a running brook and community picnic grounds, is the plan of the delightful Cottonwood Glen, now being prepared at Monte Vista.

The cabin sites range in size about 60 by 300 feet, of good soil, and the by-trails and foot paths lead into a region of romantic jungleland.

The vale of Monte Vista is from 1500 to 2000 feet elevation above sea level and is noted particularly for its dry, balmy climate. The Verdugo Mountains cut off the ocean dampness by their elevation of 3000 to 4000 feet, yet the higher air stratas come in from the ocean and mingle with the pine laden ozone from the Sierras on the opposite side of the valley.

Monte Vista vineyards and orchards stretch between the Verdugos and the Sierras a little over a mile in width, and on the yon side of the valley the great Tujunga creek rumbles and roars through the winter and spring. Being shaded from the afternoon sun the Verdugos, on these north slopes, are covered with a dense growth of scrub oak, holly and manzanita.

The mountain slopes which face to the south are continually barren and gray in their appearance, because the hot sun beats down and checks all vegetation that starts in the spring, but on these soft north slopes, such as are found only in the Monte Vista-Canyada and Crescenta region, the hills are always covered with a mantle of bright green.

Among this trinity of beautiful valleys the vale of Monte Vista stands supreme with the most rugged scenery, the grandest canyons and the greatest amount of natural tree growth, and with a climate that cannot be described.

Mountain sports and outdoor recreations of all kinds are available in this "Cottonwood Glen" arrangement.

Book your seat for an early trip of inspection. Fare $1 the round trip. Our autos leave week days at 1 o'clock and return at 5:30 p.m.

There are only forty cabin sites available in the exclusive "Cottonwood Glen," ranging in price principally from $200 to $300. We have acre lots and other large mountain acreage for those desiring more pretentious places.

Telephone Main 762 or F3658 for auto reservation.

Sunday visitors go to Monte Vista Tavern via Roscoe or Crescenta and get directed to the Glen.

PETROLEUM DEAL IS COMPLETED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BOSTON, March 28.—General Petroleum Company has been registered in London, with £3,520,000 capital, to be divided into £1,700,000 cumulative 7 per cent. preference shares, and 1,550,000 common shares. This company will take over from the recently formed Western Ocean syndicate bonds, shares, rights, options, etc., acquired from the General Petroleum Company of California. Andrew Weir and R. T. Smith, members of the Western Ocean syndicate, returned a few days ago on the Olympic. Weir said that he would make no statement at this time, as to how far negotiations had progressed. Both members of the syndicate leave for California Saturday, to look over petroleum fields. It is not probable that further acquisitions of oil-producing properties will be made by the new company, as it will be able to take care of an immense output when its plans are completed. The new General Petroleum Company is backed by some of the largest shipping people in the United Kingdom, including builders of the Diesel engines.

San Francisco Chief of Police Plays Detective on a Patrolman Who Has to do a Lot of Explaining.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 28.—Chief White of the police department and Max Kuhl, president of the Police Commission, played detectives for the city last night and as a result, Patrolman Philip G. Welch is without his star today and if he does not resign before Monday will be prosecuted criminally.

Welch arrested a man Thursday night but released him, the chief says, on condition that he pay a bribe of $150. The man said he couldn't raise so much money in a lump but would pay what he could today and the rest in installments. Then he took his story to the chief. President Kuhl and the Chief concealed themselves in a lodging-house where Welch had made an appointment and say they caught him in the act of accepting $25.

ARREST TRIO AS COINERS.

ALLEGED COUNTERFEITERS ARE TAKEN IN PORTLAND.

Secret Service Officials Believe They Have Located Gang Which Has Been Flooding Northwest With Bogus Five and Ten-Dollar Gold Pieces.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SEATTLE, March 28.—United States secret service officers detailed to run down a gang of counterfeiters, who placed bogus $5 gold pieces in circulation in the Pacific Northwest, arrested W. C. Vaughn, alleged to be the leader of the gang, in Portland; Harry S. Stone in Spokane and Charles Dutcher in this city.

The headquarters and mint of the men is alleged to have been in a cottage in Seattle. Stone and Vaughn are alleged to have passed the coins in Bellingham, Anacartes, Everett, Tacoma, Auburn, Olympia, Portland and Seattle. More than 100 of the coins have recently been rejected by banks. Vaughn, a gray-haired man of 55, has been a saloon-keeper in Great Falls, Mont., and a real estate dealer in Spokane.

Stone is a civil engineer and was formerly employed in Glacier National Park, Mont. Dutcher is 37 years old and shabbily dressed. He says he was worth $15,000 two years ago, but is now destitute. He acted as lookout and helped about the mint, but passed no coins, government operatives say.

ARREST IN PORTLAND.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND, March 28.—W. C. Vaughn, charged with being the leader of a gang of counterfeiters, was arrested here several days ago, but the charge against him was not made public until word came from Seattle that another member had been arrested there. United States operatives say that the alleged counterfeiters have been flooding the Northwest with spurious $5 and $10 gold pieces.

Annual Report of Game Commission Indicates Tremendous Value of the State's Preserves.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, March 28.—The annual report of the State Fish and Game Commission, just filed, estimates that the sportsmen of California spent $25,000,000 yearly in fishing and hunting in California. The commission places a value of $200,000,000 on the fish and game of California. The State Game Farm since 1908, has raised 4281 pheasants, 1095 turkeys, 2338 partridges, 2524 quail and 196 guinea fowl. The total cost of maintenance of the farm was $43,246.

Jordan Says They Can Take Nomination of Another Party After They Have Lost Out From One.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, March 28.—Secretary of State Jordan took the stand today that his office would consider perfectly legal a candidate taking the nomination of one party though losing that of another.

For some time Jordan thought he might have the matter tested in the court, but is now of the opinion that there is so little question that he will stand on that opinion and allow all others to bring any test suit.

WOULD PERMIT LUMBER POOLING

Producers in Oregon Seek Aid of Redfield.

Declare It Is Necessary to Retain Foreign Trade.

Ask Secretary to Call a Halt on Legislation.

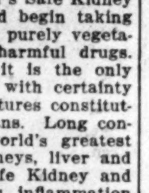
[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) March 28.—Lumbermen and bankers, representing the bulk of the producing power of the lumber industry in this State and a fair percentage of output of the entire Northwest, appeared today before Secretary of Commerce W. C. Redfield and asked his support in opposing such pending national legislation against the trusts as might interfere with the development of foreign trade.

The delegation desired that no laws be passed by Congress, aimed at restraint of trade, which would prevent pooling of the Pacific Coast lumber men in exploiting foreign lumber markets. The reason given was that no individual operator could possibly undertake to invade European or other markets alone, but that if the industry as a whole were allowed to pool their interests, the world markets could be successfully invaded. The delegation contended that it represented the business sentiment of the trade on the Coast.

In reply Secretary Redfield stated that as he was a member of the executive branch of the government, he had no power to dictate legislation or influence directly the complexion of anti-trust bills or any other forms of laws, further than suggesting provisions his own observations indicated would be salutary.

Attention was called to the fact that President Wilson had outlined the administration policy with relation to the trusts, and fear was expressed that some of the proposed laws which were already drafted might prove oppressive to legitimate enterprises.



An Unfailing Kidney Remedy

WARNER'S HELPS FROM THE VERY FIRST DOSE.

Alveolar Dentistry

Eliminates Plates and Bridgework.

We Do Bridgework, Too.

Our condemnation of Bridgework is purely and simply in favor of Alveolar, because we know that Alveolar is so far superior to bridgework that most people after they have seen samples and had the Alveolar work advantages explained to them will not accept bridgework at any price, except in such cases where they cannot possibly afford the Alveolar, the price of which is the same as the best bridgework, the standard price of which is $10 per tooth the world over, if made by first-class dentists (we do not mean dental parlors, where generally if you get your money's worth it's an accident.)

We are cutting the price of bridgework for a good and sufficient reason. But we are not cutting the quality. And when we tell you that we will do for you as good or better bridgework than any other dentist whose work will compare favorably with ours, at half his price, we are not boasting. We mean what we say. It is the truth. Therefore, if you cannot have Alveolar work, on account of the cost, it will most assuredly be to your financial and physical, as well as vanity, interest to do business with us for bridgework, plates, etc.

Class "A" Dentistry at Half Price

(Until further notice.)

While our charges for Alveolar work are the same as the standard price of high-class bridgework (and is worth many times its cost,) in such cases where it is possible to have bridgework, and the patient desires it for any reason, we will put in for him the very best and classiest bridgework, crowns, plates, etc., possible to be made at exactly one-half the price charged by dentists whose work will compare favorably with ours. "And there is a reason."

Alveolar Teeth Where Bridgework Is Impossible.

For instance, you may have only two, three or four teeth or good roots left, one or more each side, or you have lost two or more back teeth on one or both sides. We can supply all that are missing with perfect Alveolar Teeth that will be beautiful, serviceable, comfortable and life everlasting. And where bridgework is possible there is no comparison between the two.

Remember, that in addition to our specialty, Alveolar dentistry and treating Pyorrhea (loose teeth,) we are experts in every branch of dentistry from the simple filling up. Examination free. We have been established nine years. Can furnish an army of the best of references.

Sale at 642 South Broadway

J. B. Brown Music Company's Old Address

With a Real Reason Back of It

When the J. B. Brown Music Company decided to retire from the music business in Los Angeles, we were fortunate in securing this splendid line of new high-grade pianos and other musical merchandise, together with several very desirable piano agencies which we propose to add to our regular line. We cannot find space for this enormous stock in our own place of business, therefore, we must dispose of it at once before the lease at 642 South Broadway expires, and with that object in view we have reduced the price on every article in order to move it quickly.

An Opportunity of a Life Time

If you are interested in a new or slightly used piano now is the time for you to purchase it. Never before in the history of the piano business in Los Angeles have such values been offered. We wish to emphasize the fact that this is a genuine closing out sale of high-grade merchandise. No damaged or cheap commercial types of pianos will be offered.

EVERY TRANSACTION IS FULLY GUARANTEED BY THIS COMPANY

UPSET STOMACH, COSTIVE, BILIOUS, CASCARETS TONIGHT—DIME A BOX.

That awful sourness, belching of acid and foul gases; that pain in the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating, feeling of fullness, dizziness and sick headache, means your stomach is sour—your liver is torpid—your bowels constipated. It isn't your stomach's fault—it isn't indigestion—it's biliousness and constitpation. Try Cascarets; they sweeten the stomach, remove the sour, fermenting food and foul gases; take bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter from the bowels. Then your stomach trouble is ended. A Cascaret tonight straightens you out by morning.

"CHIEF" SAM UNDER FIRE.

His Uncle, Also Named Samuel, Wants to Know All About That Back to Africa Movement.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Me.) March 28.—Federal investigation of the proposed pilgrimage to Africa by followers of "Chief Sam" of the "Back to Africa movement," was begun today in response to instructions from Washington.

Alfred Charles Sam, the leader, and Capt. L. S. McKenzie of the steamer Curitybe, on which it is proposed to make the trip, were questioned at length by Arthur Chapman, assistant United States District Attorney. The officials were told the steamer was expected to leave soon for Galveston, Tex., where about two hundred negroes would be taken on board for the trip to Africa. Sam said that while many of his followers were converts to the religious teachings of the "Holy Ghost and Us Society," his movement was in no way connected with the Shiloh institution.

PARDONED, ELECTROCUTED.

Arkansas Governor Saves a Man From a 115-Year Term Purposely to Have Him Put to Death.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

LITTLE ROCK (Ark.) March 28.—A few minutes after receiving a pardon from Gov. Hays, which released him from a 115-year sentence, Fred Pelton, negro, was electrocuted today at the State penitentiary here for the killing of Melvina Hatton, negress, whom he murdered to obtain fifty cents. There was a question as to the legality of electrocuting Pelton until after he had served his 115-year sentence and for this reason the pardon was granted.

Building Commissioner of St. Louis and His Assistants Are Censured by the Coroner's Jury.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST LOUIS, March 28.—Building Commissioner McKelvey and his assistants were censured today by the Coroner's jury that investigated the death of seven men in the collapse of the building occupied by the St. Louis Seed Company.

The jury reached a verdict of accident in the case.

The building collapsed when the west wall of the Missouri Athletic Club building, destroyed by fire, was blown over on the roof of the seed company building.

SUICIDE OVER A CHECK.

Young Man Detected in Attempted Fraud Takes Poison Rather Than Face Certain Disgrace.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN JOSE, March 28. — When George Wemple, manager of a downtown grocery store, questioned the authenticity of a check for $5 presented by a young man who gave his name as E. D. Martin, the customer fled, pursued by a crowd of clerks and passers-by. Martin ran to the plant of the Sperry Company, where he turned on his pursuers and drank a vial of lysol.

"I can't stand this disgrace," he said, as he swallowed the poison. He was removed to the Emergency Hospital, where he died without giving any information about himself. He was well dressed and about 33 years of age. Authorities have failed to trace his family connection.

London Alarmed That Nothing Has Been Heard of James Gordon Bennett for Five Days.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, March 28.—James Gordon Bennett, proprietor of the New York Herald, who arrived at Suez accompanied by a special physician, has not been heard from by telegraph for five days and for that reason it is feared he has suffered a relapse from his recent attack of bronchitis, although such periods of silence on his part are not altogether unprecedented.

BORDWELL'S CANDIDACY.

TO VACCINATE PASSENGERS.

PACIFIC MAIL LINER LIKELY TO BE QUARANTINED.

Case of Smallpox Is Discovered Aboard Vessel on Its Way from the Orient and the 350 People Aboard Are Exposed, According to Message.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, March 28.—Upon her arrival tomorrow morning from Chinese and Japanese ports, via Honolulu, the Pacific mail liner Siberia, Capt. Adrian Zeeder, will be ordered into quarantine, while her passengers, numbering 350 persons, and her crew will have to submit to disinfection and possible vaccination.

This was the announcement made today by officials of the mail company and the quarantine authorities, who received word by wireless that a suspected case of smallpox had been discovered among the Asiatic steerage passengers. Just what action will be taken by the quarantine officials cannot be determined until they have made a thorough investigation of the situation this morning.

It is believed that the case is sufficiently serious to make it necessary to hold the steerage passengers, who number 200 Chinese and Japanese, for the two-week quarantine period. On the other hand, it is likely that the cabin passengers, numbering 100, will be landed after their persons and baggage are given the antiseptic bath at the Angel Island station.

According to word from the ship, the case was isolated immediately upon discovery, and the quarantine doctors may consider that this precaution eliminates the possibility of further infection.

Capt. Zeeder sent a radiogram today announcing that he would bring his command into the harbor at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. After being boarded by the doctors, the steamer will proceed to anchorage off Angel Island station, where the passengers will be landed for the disinfecting process.

The last transpacific passenger steamer to be held in quarantine for the two-week period was the Nippon Maru. This occurred about five years ago. The sixty passengers aboard treated the situation in the nature of a lark, saying that they had a fine time. Everything possible was done to make their stay pleasant. Reading matter was sent to the island in addition to baseball paraphernalia for their entertainment.

Among the cabin passengers on the Siberia are Michael Jebsen, a prominent steamship man and brother of Capt. Fred Jebsen of this city; the Rev. Edward R. Burkhalter, A. Merle Hooper, Mrs. J. T. Montgomery, Miss Linnie Terrell, Miss Josephine Mosier, Charles Harvey, Mrs. H. Guse, John E. Harris, Jr., Mrs. M. E. W. Gill and Miss Helen Greene.

BUT MRS. FLAGG HOLDS ON.

Her Job Seems Pretty Safe in Chicago Since the Four Board Members Have Backed Down.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, March 28.—Chicago educational system came before the courts again today when the four members of the Board of Education, recently appointed by Mayor Harrison, assured Judge Foell that they would make no further attempts to participate in board meetings until their appeal from his adverse decision was determined. Because of their yielding, a contempt rule against them was suspended. The four old trustees ousted by Mayor Harrison because they voted against the retention of Mrs. Ella Flagg Young as superintendent of schoolst, have announced before court action was taken that they would take their old places at the next meeting of the board.

Recently Judge Foell ruled that the Mayor had no right to accept resignations which were filed by the four board members before they took office. The terms of the old members may expire before the appeal from Judge Foell is decided.

MANN LAW INTERPRETED.

Chicago Judge Refuses to Hold a Man Because His Act Did Not Indicate Commercial Vice.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, March 28.—Explanation of the attitude of Federal officials here toward violation of the Mann Tct in which "white slave" motive does not appear, was given today when James L. Bruff, superintendent of the local bureau of investigation of the United States Department of Justice, declined to take action against F. C. Maston of Long Island City, N. Y.

Maston was arrested yesterday on complaint of a 26-year-old stenographer, who said that Maston took her with him to Kansas City and kept her there for days.

"I have taken no action inasmuch as there is no element of commercialism evident in the case," said Mr. Bruff today. "Matson certainly meant no good to the girl, but apparently she did not object at the time and she was old enough to know what she was doing."

Municipal Judge Uhlir issued a warrant for abduction against Maston.

Maston was released on a $1500 bond furnished by his counsel.

ad Visited Her to Plead for Reinstatement.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

LITTLE FALLS (N. Y.) March 28.—Eugene Gianini, a seventeen-year- boy just out of a protectory, is in the Herkimer County Jail to- t as a suspect in connection with murder of Miss Lydia Beecher, her in a country school at Poland, se body was found in a clump of ds in the outskirts of tha tvillage ay.

Apparently she had been killed af- being attacked. The boy, who had n expelled from Miss Beecher's ool some time ago, and had been ding with her for reinstatement, reported to have confessed to- ht that he had killed her, striking first with a monkey wrench and n stabbing her to death with a fe. This report could not be offi- lly verified, however.

Miss Beecher, who was the daugh- of the Rev. and Mrs. William A. cher of Sennett, near Auburn, and was only 20 years old, had taught ool in Poland for two years. Gia- i was one of her most troublesome ils. On her complaint he was ex- led from the school last June and t to St. Vincent's Protectory in , from which he was released a th ago. He sought out his former cher and told her he intended to better, and importuned her to visit parents, who are reputable and l-to-do people in Poland, to ex- n how he might be reinstated in school.

Miss Beecher had been studying for sionary work and it is believed , becoming interested in the boy ause of his repentant attitude, in desire to reform him she walked h him to the lonely place where was killed, on the way to the ianini home, and about half a mile nt from it.

Charles Gianini, father of the ful prisoner, was a furniture ufacturer in New York, first com- to Poland to spend the summer, finally taking up his home there ut five years ago. He is an orni- logist of some note, and has con- uted numerous articles on that ence to magazines.

GIRLS! BEAUTIFUL, CHARMING HAIR, NO DANDRUFF—25 CENT DANDERINE.

Try This! Doubles Beauty of Your Hair and Stops It Falling Out.

Your hair become light, wavy fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine, from any druggist or toilet counter, and just try it.

on an alleged juggling of the items. Assemblymen said the Senate cut out $500,000 for hospital and other necessary departments, to get money for carrying on two departments which the Assembly wished to abolish, the State Fire Marshal's Bureau and the Department of Efficiency and Economy. It also was contended that some of the alterations were intended to cripple so-called Republican-Democrats in the way of reprisal.

Confusion arose from cross purposes between the two branches in its closing day, and much important legislation failed of enactment.

Harry K. Thaw figured prominently in the later proceedings of the session. A resolution condemning the State authorities for their activity in seeking to extradite him narrowly failed of passage, while bills incurred by the State on this subject shared the fate of the other items in the rejected appropriation bill.

TURNS DOWN MEDIATOR.

Gould Coupler Superintendent Says He Will Not Deal With the Union on Any Terms.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DEPEW (N. Y.) March 28.—George W. Hayden, general superintendent of the Gould Coupler Works, severed today all negotiations looking to a settlement of the strike. His announcement came as a surprise to both members of the State Board of Mediation and representatives of the strikers, as a meeting between the company and the men had been arranged for today.

The company's refusal to recognize the union and its proposition to reemploy the men only as they were needed were distasteful to the men and a modification of both of these clauses was sought.

Hayden's statement says:

"I am through with the State Board of Mediation. I have submitted a proposition to the men and they may take it or leave it. I will not meet a committee of the strikers.

"The company is willing to take back all its old molders and core makers within six months, except those who have been guilty of violence to the men of the plant. We will not deal with unions as such, as we have adopted the policy of the open shop."

BABY GIRL IS BORN TO LILLIAN PALMER.

AN Associated Press dispatch from San Diego says that at 1:32 o'clock this morning a seven- d baby girl was born to Lillian mer at St. Joseph's Sanatorium that city.

The accouchement has been awaited with great anxiety for several days account of the critical condition of the 14-year-old girl and the important evidence she is supposed to have as to the guilty ones in the Kilfoil poison mystery.

Although no official statement was given out, it is presumed that the girl is doing well.

There was no operation and no statement was taken from the girl, as the doctors did not desire to risk the excitement.

SCHENECTADY (N. Y.) March 28. Two unidentified men were drowned when Freeman's bridge over the Mohawk River, two miles west of , was swept away. The damage here by the high water thus far ounts to $200,000. The river was ing late today.

FLOODS IN NEW YORK.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

BUFFALO (N. Y.) March 28.— s in Western New York are ened with a repetition of disastrous floods of a year ago. In lowlands of the Tonawandas people are going to and from their homes in boats owing to the overflow from the Tonawanda and Ellicot creeks. At Batavia, the municipal sewage disposal plant is eight feet under water. A culvert on the Erie Railroad near Attica was washed away last night, causing the dispatch of trains over the New York Central tracks. At Corning, the Chemung River is ten feet above normal and has flooded the highways west of the city. At Olean the Allegheny River has overflowed its banks and the southern portions of the city are under water.

THE OHIO SITUATION.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

COLUMBUS (O.) March 28.—With the Great Miami and White Water rivers raging, the Scioto climbing a foot an hour, and the Muskingum and Licking rivers out of their banks along the lowlands anxiety was felt during last night of a recurrence of the disastrous floods of last March. Damage so far reported has been confined to the southwestern section of the State.

SATURDAY-NIGHT BANK ROBBED BY SEVEN MEN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

TACOMA (Wash.) March 28.—Seven armed men entered the Elma National Bank at Elma, in Southwest Washington, made a prisoner of the cashier and escaped with about $8700.

The bandits, according to the reports received here, set the town clubhouse on fire to distract attention. Several shots were fired, but no one hurt.

The bank has been keeping open between 7 and 8 o'clock on Saturday nights. At the time of tonight's robbery two depositors were in the bank besides Earl France, the cashier.

Three of the bandits kept guard outside and four covered the cashier and the depositors with their guns. They seized what money was on the counters and were about to force the cashier to open the vaults when a fusillade of shots outside caused them to flee.

Sheriff Mathews of Lewis county and J. L. Smith, Town Marshal, are in pursuit with posses. The men are said to be foreigners. They were not masked.

"DRUGLESS" PHYSICIANS ARE NOW LICENSELESS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, March 28.—The licenses of 250 "drugless" physicians practicing in California were revoked today by the State Board of Medical Examiners. Applications of or more for physician's certificates were refused. The board announced that its policy hereafter would prohibit the certification of such practitioners as licensed physicians.

Certificates to practice were issued to 250 "drugless" physicians by the old Medical Board under authority of a legislative act passed in 1909.

The Medical Board made its decision today under the amended law enacted in 1913.

the view that this controversy is a party asset instead of a party liability. I think the result of the vote in the House yesterday will have some effect, inasmuch as it shows where the big majority of the party stands."

CROWDS IN HOUSE.

Debate on the repeal bill drew crowds to the House galleries today, although the climax there was reached yesterday when Speaker Clark, Majority Leader Underwood and other Democratic chieftains met defeat in an effort to prevent limitation of debate on the issue. Hours before the gallery doors were opened today the corridors were crowded with spectators and there were lively scrambles for seats later, men and women participating.

Two women engaged in a physical encounter for possession of a seat just before the House convened. It was a stirring battle, the hats and coiffures of the feminine contestants being rudely disturbed before doorkeepers could separate them.

The debate today was spirited on both sides, party lines being disregarded.

FITZGERALD CHEERED.

Representative Fitzgerald, chairman of the Appropriations Committee, who joined with Speaker Clark and Mr. Underwood in the revolt against the President, was loudly cheered when he advanced to the well of the House to attack the repeal.

"An overpowering conviction that the proposed repeal is weighted with evil, of far-reaching extent to the country, compels me to oppose the pending measure," he said. "The contention of Great Britain is that her vessels of commerce are entitled to the same or identical treatment as vessels of the United States. The rule, however, covers vessels of war as well as vessels of commerce. No demand has yet been made regarding vessels of war. The rule is equally applicable to vessels of both classes, and if it be conceded that we cannot differentiate American vessels of commerce from similar vessels of other nations, it follows that vessels of war cannot be deprived of privileges similar to those accorded to war vessels of the United States."

Fitzgerald asserted he had no sympathy with those who condemned the President for his views, but declared his firm conviction that toll exemption for American ships was essential "to provide effective competition with the transcontinental railroads; to increase the efficiency of our naval forces, and to prevent the control of an isthmian canal by a European power."

The alignment in the House remained unchanged. Representative Adamson, leading the fight for the repeal, declared the Sims bill would pass by a large majority. He predicted that yesterday's vote, 207 to 176, on the adoption of the special rule for the consideration of the bill, would be materially increased in favor of the repeal forces.

Representative Underwood, the majority leader; Representative Fitzgerald, Minority Leader Mann and other prominene members leading the revolt against the administration forces, brought every effort to bear today against the Sims bill. Throughout the day they maintained a continuous attack, interrupting and questioning the speakers favoring repeal.

Speaker Clark also has announced his intention to speak against the bill on Tuesday.

HARRISON'S VIEW.

Representative Harrison, Democrat, of Mississippi, was one of the early speakers. Although admitting his anxiety to "follow the President and comply with his wishes," Mr. Harrison said he could not reconcile his conscience to the President's views and surrender to Great Britain a principle of national honor and integrity.

"I prefer to vote my convictions, follow the platform of my party and stand up for the integrity and honor of my government," he said.

"Free tolls will aid the farmers and manufacturers of the Mississippi Valley to ship their products down the Mississippi through the canal and to the Pacific Coast at cheaper rates than are now charged by the railroads," he said.

"It would probably open up another market on the Pacific Coast, where there are natural manufacturing advantages for the cotton of the farmers of Mississippi and other Southern States."

KNOWLAND'S STAND.

Representative Knowland, controlling the time for the Republicans, assailed the repeal in unmeasured terms as "surrendering to Great Britain without a struggle."

"Is the Panama Canal now the price of the elimination of Huerta?" he demanded.

"Disguise the situation or becloud the issue as you may, there is no escaping from the naked truth that for the first time the people of this great nation are urged to surrender under foreign pressure.

"I entertain a high regard for the President of the United States. His patriotism and honesty of purpose I would not attempt to question. However, like all members of the human family, he is apt to err. In this instance, an apparent error in judgment in handling the Mexican situation has necessitated the latest move, at least his message so hints. The most charitable thing to say is that he had been imposed upon."

Knowland urged the House if it repealed the exemption to declare that it had not surrendered the contention that the United States might make one.

MADDEN WITH WILSON.

Representative Madden, Republican of Illinois, spoke for the repeal. He said he saw no reason for the people of the Central West contributing to a ship subsidy.

O'SHAUNESSY'S VIEW.

Representative O'Shaunessy, Democrat of Rhode Island, spoke for the exemption, declaring the platform pledge of the Baltimore convention for free passage should be supported.

Representative Gardner, Republican of Massachusetts, in a brief speech supporting the bill, quoted from the debates on the Hay-Pauncefote treaty in the Senate to show that the spirit of that agreement was opposed to the exemption of American ships. Representative Gray, Democrat of Indiana, supported the bill.

TEMPLE HEARD FROM.

Representative Temple, Progressive of Pennsylvania, opposed the repeal on the ground that it is a surrender of sovereignty over the Canal Zone.

STEPHENS'S IDEA.

Representative Stephens of California, Progressive, opposed the repeal on the ground that it would benefit none but British ships and interests. "Why should this administration add another to the many English things it has done in the one long year it has been in power?" he demanded.

"When the House assembled for the first time under this administration, benches were provided like those in the British Parliament. Next day the President in person delivered an address just as King George does. Several times since the Chief Magistrate has visited this building and at such times it has been said Democratic Senators and Representatives were commanded to appear before him for instruction, just as happens in dear old London. Now comes the President seeking the repeal of the tolls exemption clause, apparently to please Great Britain. Are we being Britainized?"

NEW YORKER HEARD.

Representative Chandler (Progressive) of New York, who opposed the repeal, declaring that the people, in the 1912 election, had indorsed the free tolls planks of the various platforms, and that "for one man, no matter how high his station, or how great his gifts, now to reverse that indorsement without an appeal to the people, is not the way of our fathers, who founded this republic, but the way of a monarchy, a benevolent despotism.

"I do not know what has frightened the President, but I do know that if Andrew Jackson had received, from across the seas, a British threat, instead of sending to the House a cowardly message acceding to it, he would have demanded a great appropriation to increase the standing army and buy 100 battleships."

Representative Hawley of Oregon and Representative Curry of California, opposed repeal. Curry attacked the administration's foreign policy.

CURRY'S VIEW.

"The policies and achievements of the President certainly cannot be viewed with satisfaction and commendation by his political adherents," he said. "His experimental diplomacy has proven to be a failure.

"The President is an exceedingly erudite, well-meaning, kindly, polished gentleman, more highly educated and possessing more knowledge, if not more wisdom, than any of his predecessors. During the short time he has occupied the Presidential chair it has been demonstrated conclusively that it was one of the most easy of intellectual feats for a scholastic idealist to dream dreams, evolve theories, and in imagination, govern the world from a philosopher's chair, but when it comes to dealing with flesh and blood, human nature, economic conditions, and national and international problems as they are, it is an entirely different proposition."

Representatives Steenerson of Minnesota and Gillette of Massachusetts, from the Republican side, supported the repeal bill, but the latter criticised the President for what he said was inconsistency in urging the repeal.

Representative Stephens of New Hampshire also supported the bill.

The verbal warfare raged throughout the day, holding the interest of the House membership as no debate has for many a day. In committee rooms, however, conferences of leaders were in progress, where yesterday's division in the Democratic ranks was discussed.

MINORITY PLANS.

Leaders of the present minority on the repeal issue, Democrats, Republicans and Progressives, already have begun consideration of what course should be followed in the motion to recommit the repeal bill. Such a motion will afford the minority their only chance to get an amendment before the House. Several compromise proposals are under consideration, but not agreed upon as yet.

The motion to reconsider will be made just prior to the final vote on the repeal bill.

Democratic leaders, who met defeat yesterday, were not all cast down. They determined today to carry the fight to the end, and Speaker Clark is preparing to close the debate, probably next Tuesday, in opposition to the President's plea for repeal. Representatives Adamson and Covington will close the discussion for the administration forces.

REED'S BILL.

Senator Reed of Missouri injected a new phase into the situation late today by introducing a bill to repeal the toll exemption on American ships, but providing further that foreign vessels might enter into coastwise transportation. He sought, he said, "to break up any existing American monopoly in coastwise shipping."

The bill provides that foreign-owned vessels may enter the ports of the United States to the same extent and under the restrictions imposed upon vessels of the United States, the President to prescribe and from time to time change the tolls charged for the use of the Panama Canal by coastwise traffic. It is stipulated, however, that charges should, as nearly as possible, equal the expense of transporting such vessels through the canal without seeking to cover any interest upon the investment of the United States in constructing the canal.

Senator Lewis also introduced a bill to give the President authority to suspend tolls "whenever consistent with the interests of the United States."

LUMBERMEN FAVOR TOLLS EXEMPTION.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORTLAND (Or.) March 28.—After a most convincing address by Joseph N. Teal, commercial and industrial interests of the Pacific Northwest, in conference here, passed resolutions urging further hearing before the Senate in the matter of the Panama Canal toll question and in favor of free tolls for American vessels in coastwise traffic. The address was delivered before the meeting of the West Coast Lumbers Manufacturers' Association in the Tyrolean-room at the Benson Hotel, but since the toll question concerns other industries as well, representatives of other lines were in attendance upon special invitation. The resolutions will be forwarded to all the representatives from Oregon and Washington in Congress.

CALIFORNIA VOTE ON REPEAL POLICY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, March 28.—This was the line-up today of the California Representatives on the vote in the House next week to repeal free tolls.

For repeal—Church, and probably Kent; the first a Democrat and the other an Independent.

Against repeal—Raker, Curry, Kahn, Nolan, Knowland, Hayes, Bell, Stephens and Kettner.

Although Kettner voted for the twenty hours gag rule, he will vote against repeal.

Senators Perkins and Works will oppose repeal in the Senate.

BY MY PAINLESS DISSOLVENT METHOD

I TREAT NO DISEASES EXCEPT THOSE OF THE RECTUM AND BOWELS

I cure without surgery. My patients are not confined in bed and they do not lose a moment's time from their business.

My method is not a "home cure" or a "correspondence treatment," but it is an application of skilled treatments administered under the most rigid antiseptic condition in my office.

WELL-KNOWN SANTA MONICA MINISTER CURED.

This is to certify that Dr. C. H. White has cured me of a distressing hemorrhoidal ailment of 25 years' duration. His method of treatment is effective, but not severe. He has the appliances, the knowledge and the skill born of many years of specialization in this fruitful source of physical disease. He accomplishes all he claims in his advertising and at reasonable expense.

I take pleasure in heartily commending the man and his methods.
WESLEY K. BEANS, Pastor First Methodist Episcopal Church, Santa Monica, Cal.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE SUPERINTENDENT CURED.

My Dear Dr. White: I am thankful for the privilege of bearing witness to your ability to treat without pain, and with success, the delicate and disabling diseases which result from sedentary work. To all who need the services of a skillful, sympathetic and experienced specialist in your line, I heartily commend you. Very sincerely yours,
ERVIN S. CHAPMAN, D.D., LL.D., Superintendent State Anti-Saloon League.

President of a Prominent College Cured.

For more than ten years I was a sufferer from a painful affliction, which nearly ruined my usefulness as an organizer and teacher. Dr. C. H. White of Los Angeles has completely cured me by a process that was painless and rapid, and I desire to go on record as recommending the Doctor in diseases in his specialty.
THOMAS NEWLIN, President Whittier College.

PROMINENT BAPTIST MINISTER CURED.

After suffering for years with the worst form of hemorrhoids, Dr. C. H. White cured me without pain and without detaining me from my work. I desire to commend him to all rectal sufferers.

Boston Agitator Realizes That Railroads Actually Perform More Service Than Required by Law.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Louis D. Brandeis, counsel for the Interstate Commerce Commission in opposition to the proposed 5 per cent. increase in railroad freight rates, submitted today a statement showing that free services rendered shippers by railroads in classification territory result in serious depletion of the revenues of the roads. The special free services under consideration by the commission were free storage, warehousing, loading and unloading of cars, lighterage, elevation of grain and various other free terminal services.

Mr. Brandeis asserted that the cost to the railroads of these free services was so great as to absorb from 25 to 50 per cent. of the freight rate receipts, and in certain instances more than the entire receipts were absorbed, resulting in a substantial cash loss to the roads.

Inscriptions on Clay Cylinders at Yale Recount Rebuilding of Babylon Walls and Temples.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW HAVEN (Ct.) March 28.—Inscriptions on clay cylinders in the Babylonian collection at Yale University have been deciphered, it was announced, and much information for students of Biblical chronology has been obtained.

One cylinder inscribed for Nebuchadnezzar, who reigned B.C. 605 to 561, recounts his deeds with reference to the restoration and enlargement of the walls and moats of Babylon, and of temples and sanctuaries thereabouts. He records the rebuilding of Marchuk, recognized as the ancient Tower of Babel of the Book of Genesis.

United States Sent $674,981 Unbleached Cotton Goods to British East Africa During the Past Year.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Despite the distance between the United States and British East Africa and the lack of direct means of transportation, the latter country bought $674,891 worth of unbleached cotton goods from the United States in 1913, according to an announcement by the Department of Commerce. In the trade in other lines of cotton goods, American manufacturers took little or no part.

During the year British East Africa bought $1,308,777 worth of unbleached cotton, and the share which came from the United States is considered highly gratifying to department officials in view of the many obstacles in the way.

Rear Admiral Howard at Mazatlan Gives Details of the Lower California Situation.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Rear-Admiral Howard at Mazatlan confirmed press reports today of the revolt of the Federal Governor of Lower California, who, supported by 200 troops, had seized the public moneys and the La Paz, a Mexican steamer. The rebels beseiging Mazatlan manned a locomotive today, and slipped into Mazatlan, and bore away eleven cars loaded with building material.

UNION OIL SUIT.

The Federal Government Will Endeavor to Recover Midway Lands Valued at $1,000,000.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 28.—Suit against the Union Oil Company for the possession of lands valued at $1,000,000 will be filed Monday by the Federal government in the United District Court here, E. J. Justice, special assistant to the United States Attorney-General, said today. The suit is similar to those now pending against the Southern Pacific Company and the Kern Trading and Oil Company, involving the title of claims in the Elk Hills district. The complaint against the Union Oil Company alleges that a quarter section in the Midway district should be returned to the government.

"The government contends that the Union Oil Company has no validity in its title because the lands in question were withdrawn by a Presidential proclamation," said Mr. Justice.

The lands involved have been held in title by the Union Oil Company for nearly ten years. Three wells are being operated there, and sites have been selected for others.

Melli Besse Hopes to Beat Mere Man Across the Atlantic Ocean in a Hydro-areoplane.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERLIN, March 28.—Melli Besse, Germany's famous woman aviator, announces her intention of trying for the great honor of being the first air pilot to fly across the Atlantic, for which purpose she is constructing her own hydro-aeroplane.

Melli Besse is widely known, not only as a daring flyer and as Germany's only woman aeroplane pilot, but as the only woman in the world who conducts a flying school, of which she, herself, is the principal and who makes a business of designing and manufacturing flying machines. Frau Besse is a beautiful woman of about 30 years. She is not discouraged by the fact that she has broken her legs in five places, sustained fractures of several ribs and has broken her nose three times in tumbles out of the air.

SUFFRAGISTS ARE PIQUED.

Angered Because Three College Teams Representing the Anti Side Win Out in Debats.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, March 28.—The triple tie of the debating teams of Yale, Harvard and Princeton in their recent debate on woman suffrage, in which each anti-suffrage team won its contest, stirred the New York State Suffrage Association today to challenge Yale to argue the question with real suffragists.

"The suffragists of New York City challenge the winning anti-suffrage team of Yale to debate in New York City with real suffragists, the time and place to be decided later," read the telegram sent to Yale by Mrs. Raymond Brown, president of the association. Messages were also sent to the New Jersey suffrage association and the Massachusetts suffrage association asking them to challenge Princeton and Harvard, respectively.

Suffragettes in London Declare They Have Right to Hold Meeting in Hyde Park.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, March 28.—The militant suffragettes of London claimed today the right to hold demonstrations in Hyde Park, basing their claim on the official permission given Ulster sympathizers to hold meetings there April 4.

The Women's Social and Political Union notified the Commissioner of Public Works:

"There can be no objection to the suffragettes holding a meeting in Hyde Park, since the advocates of a policy of violence and bloodshed in Ulster have been granted permission to do so. The military society has therefore announced its purpose to make a demonstration simultaneously with that of the supporters of the Ulster Orange men."

SHOWS COMMERCE CHANGES.

Big Falling off in Agricultural Exports Is Indicated by Washington Trade Report.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Changing character of the commerce of the United States and the occupations of American people is indicated in a statement today by the Department of Commerce on the notable features of the import and export trade during the fiscal year 1913, compared with the trade of earlier years. It is shown that agricultural products which formed, in 1880, 84.3 per cent. of the total domestic exports, were in 1913 46.1 per cent. of the total. Exports of manufactures, exclusive of foodstuffs, which were, in 1880, 14.78 per cent. of the total, were in 1913, 48.8 per cent.

According to the department, the transition of the United States from an exporter of natural products to an exporter of manufactures has been a steady movement during the last third of a century. Crude foodstuffs, which formed in 1880, 32.3 per cent. of the exports, gradually diminished, and were, in 1912, but 4.6 per cent. of the total. In 1913, however, their percentage was slightly larger, 7.49 per cent., due to a large wheat crop and unusually heavy exports of that commodity.

MEXICO CITY POLICE DISPERSESTUDENT MOB.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MEXICO CITY, March 28.—Small demonstrations against President Huerta have taken place in the streets of the capital. The police tonight fired upon a small crowd of students who were marching and shouting "Muertos" for Huerta and making remarks derogatory to the government.

Emboldened by the growing popular belief that the government forces are failing to hold back the rebels at Torreon, the students organized a manifestation. More than fifty of them had joined in the movement when they were faced by a squad of police near the Alameda.

About forty shots were fired by the police, who apparently aimed high, as no one was hurt.

A number of the participants were arrested and the others found safety in the side streets.

STRIP CHIHUAHUA HOMES TO FLATTER CARRANZA.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHIHUAHUA (Mex.) March 27. (Via El Paso, Tex., March 28.)—Homes of rich Mexicans exiled from their country by the rebels were stripped of furniture, bric-a-brac and costly decorations today to provide suitable accommodations for Gen. Carranza, who, on his arrival here, is to be domiciled in a palace hereafter to be known as the provisional Capitol. Wagons backed up before the abandoned home of Enrique Creel, former Ambassador to Washington, and piles of mirrors and furniture were taken out to enrich Carranza's future headquarters. The building set aside for Carranza is built in the French style on a boulevard opposite the United States consulate. Its commanding towers and statuette-studded walls overlook the city. It is here that the civil head of the revolution will conduct the government opposed to Huerta.

The long-delayed arrival of Carranza in Chihuahua is to be made the occasion for a ball to which all the foreign consuls have been invited. The city is to be decorated and church bells are to proclaim his presence here.

Gen. Villa's being in the South has called attention to the fact that he and Gen. Carranza are not likely to meet soon. The two revolutionary leaders have been hundreds of miles apart ever since the revolution reached its present magnitude and it is said they never had more than a brief conference.

IMPORTS FREE OF DUTY SHOW IMMENSE INCREASE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Striking features of the import trade of the United States during the fiscal year 1913, compared with that of previous years, were the increased percentages of goods entering free of duty, and the increased percentage entering for use in manufacturing, said a report by the Department of Commerce Friday.

The percentage of the imports which entered this country free of duty in 1913 was 54.47, which was larger than in any previous year, with the exception of 1892 and 1894, the opennig and closing years of the brief period during which sugar was admitted free of duty under the act of 1890, when the percentages were 55.35 and 57,98, respectively.

The total value of merchandise entering the United States free of duty in the fiscal year 1913 was $987,,500,000 against $367,200,000 in 1900. Manufacturers' raw material imported during the year aggregated $635,200,000, as against $276,200,000 in 1900, and manufactures for further use in manufacturing for 1913 totaled $349,400,000 against $134.200,000 in 1900.

TORREON HELD BY FEDERALS.

VILLA'S ATTACK HAS SO FAR PROVED ABORTIVE.

Tremendous Losses in His Army Prevent Him from Entering the City—Rebel Chief Sends in Frantic Haste to Juarez for More Hospital Supplies.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

JUAREZ (Mex.) March 28.—Gen. Villa's attack on Torreon last night is said to have proved abortive because the hand grenades became exhausted. It is the most useful weapon for street-fighting among one-story adobe houses. The attack was renewed this afternoon and Villa was quoted as saying that he intended to take the whole town tonight.

The positions already taken in the business section, it is said, were made more secure last night, and the center, like the bullring and the principal hotel of the city, are said to have become rebel property.

The forenoon today was devoted to disposing of the dead and making more comfortable the quarters of the wounded at Gomez Palacio, and in the field hospitals.

One telegram was received from Gen. Villa. It stated that after having received a fresh supply of 5000 hand grenades, he renewed the attack on the last of the Federal defenses.

He urged that hospital supplies, including quicklime, bandages, absorbent cotton and antiseptics, be rushed to the front in the most urgent [illegible].

The cost of his victories is known to have been heavy, and the fact that more hospital supplies must be sent from here, despite the big store which Villa took with him on the campaign, adds confirmation. The Zaragoza Brigade, which left Juarez 1300 strong, is said on excellent authority to have lost [illegible] cent. in killed and wounded. Most of the loss was at Sacramento, [illegible] Gen. Benavides was hewing a path into Gomez Palacio, and [illegible] the brigade was joined with the column of Gen. Monclovio Herrera [illegible] the dash into Torreon from the east was made.

Gen. Maximo Garcia was shot in the kidneys and is expected to die. Gen. Trinidad Rodriguez has a bullet wound in one arm. Maj. Macedonia Andana was shot in the thigh, and Juan N. Guiterrez, Chief of Police of the city of Chihuahua, was killed.

A private telegram from a man at Gomez Palacio to his father this afternoon said that it was rumored in the barracks there that Gen. Refugio Velasco, Federal commander at Torreon, had committed suicide rather than fall into the rebels' hands. Little faith attaches to the story. There were stories also that three other Federal generals reported killed in action—Pena, Reyna and Ampudia really took their own lives, firm in the belief that they would be executed if captured.

In street-fighting Mexicans say rifles are of comparatively little use against enemies using adobe walls for defense. These must be shattered with shells or attacked with hand grenades.

The average adobe home is one story high, the right-angled walls which rise two or three feet above the flat roof. It is customary for troops to station themselves on the roofs, behind the projecting walls, and in attacking such defenses the grenade, thrown by galloping cavalrymen, is the most effective weapon. Bullets do not pierce the thick walls. Gen. Manuel Chao, Military Governor of the State of Chihuahua, who carried greetings to Gen. Venustiano Carranza yesterday, returned here this morning. He said the aged chief of the revolution had ridden horseback at the head of troops for so many miles, [illegible] to finish the trip that way [illegible] clined the use of a special train. Chao said the chief would probably arrive tomorrow at noon.

In anticipation of this, the order against the sale of liquor was made effective tonight as a precaution against possible disorder. After [illegible] o'clock tonight no one without a special permit will be allowed to cross the river from the American side. This order was issued owing to a fear that some fanatic Federal sympathizer might try to assassinate the distinguished visitor. The [illegible] stay here probably will be brief as he is anxious to proceed to Chihuahua, where a special palace has been fitted up as the provisional Executive Mansion.

A private letter from the front dealing with the preliminary fighting before Gomez Palacio, tells a story of the fatalities, which followed an attempt of a body of 300 Federals to surrender.

According to the letter the [illegible] column already had accepted the surrender of 200 Federals, who found themselves hopelessly outnumbered, when in the distance 300 more Federals were observed approaching. Two rapid-fire guns were turned on them and they lost heavily before the rebels observed that their fire was not returned, and that the detachment was coming steadily forward. The rebel fire was checked and it was then learned that the 300 also wished to give themselves up.

Har Dyal,

East Indian professor who will resist deportation by quoting the words of Bryan against English rule in India.

A Servant Says Dyal.

guilty of legalized pillage in India. "Pillage is a strong word," says the author, "but no refinement of language can purge the present system of its iniquity."

Har Dyal says he will quote liberally from this pamphlet. It was printed in India in 1906 under the same title as a lecture given by Dyal, parts of which are said to have formed the bulk of testimony upon which the authorities in Washington issued the warrant for the Hindoo's arrest.

In resisting the effort to deport him, he says, Dyal will demand a comparison of the statements of the present Secretary of State, who made an exhaustive study of conditions in India, and his own utterances on the same subject. These utterances may result in Dyal's deportation to British soil, where he declares a trial for sedition awaits him, he having been a political refugee from his native land since 1908.

DYAL'S POSITION.

"Bryan's statements regarding India's condition under the despotic rule of Great Britain," said Dyal, "are true in every detail. So are the statements and utterances of myself, on which the British Embassy at Washington caused a warrant for my arrest to be issued. Any true record of existing conditions there, in itself constitutes a scathing denunciation of the rotten system that prevails.

"I feel certain that an impartial comparison of these exhibits will result in a finding for me, in that my declarations are no more radical than those of Mr. Bryan. The admission today of Deputy Commissioner-General of Immigration Larned that the warrant was issued at the request of the Secretary of the British Embassy, Ernest Scott, is a confirmation of my statements after I was arrested.

"For many months I have been spied upon by British sercret service operatives, but have gone about my affairs openly and have not turned my statements or modulated my declarations because of their presence. My arrest was not a surprise; I had been expecting it for a long time.

"My arrest calls public attention to the despicable pro-British subservience of the United States government, which is so vivid a feature of President Wilson's foreign policy. The Democratic administration is licking the boots of England, as anyone can see who observes the administration's attitude toward Great Britain on the canal tolls question."

WHAT BRYAN SAID.

Some of the matter attributed by Dyal to Secretary of State Bryan, who, at that time, had been a candidate for the Presidency on the Democratic ticket, and which will be sent to Washington by Har Dyal, follows:

"What is justice? The question has been ringing in my ears during our journey through India. When I was a law student I read the speech of Sheridan at the trial of Warren Hastings, and that masterpiece of invective was recalled sixteen years later, when a colonial policy began to be suggested in the United States after the making of Manila, and I tried to inform myself in regard to British rule in India.

"The more I read about it the more unjust it seemed, so I looked forward to the visit to India with increasing interest because of the opportunity it would give me to study at close range a question of vital importance to our country.

"I have met some of the leading English officials, as well as a number in subordinate positions; have talked with educated Indians—Hindus, Mohammedans and Parsees; have seen the people, rich and poor, in the cities and in the country, and have examined statistics and read speeches, reports, petitions and other literature which does not find its way to the United States; and British rule in India is far worse, far more burdensome to the people, and far more unjust—if I understand the meaning of the word—than I had supposed.

"The trouble is that England acquired India for England's advantage, not India's, and that she holds India for England's benefit, not India's. She administers India with an eye to England's interests, not India's, and she passes judgment upon every question as a judge would were he permitted to decide his own case. The officials in India owe their appointment directly or indirectly to the home government, and the home government holds authority at the sufferance of the people of England, not of the people of India.

"Today British rule in India is as forcibly arraigned by Englishmen as by the Indians themselves. Sir Henry Cotton, now a member of Parliament, but for thirty-five years a member of the Indian civil service, courageously points out the injustice from which India now suffers. Not only does he charge that the promises of the Queen have been ignored, and Indians excluded from services for which they were fitted, but he charges that antagonism between the officials and the people is growing.

"The government of India is as arbitrary and despotic as the government of Russia ever was, and in two respects it is worse. First, it is administered by an alien people, whereas the officials of Russia are Russians. Secondly, it drains a large part of the taxes out of the country, whereas the Russian government spends at home the money which it collects from the people.

"The people of India are taxed, but they have no voice in the amount to be collected or in the use to be made of the revenue. They pay into the government nearly $225,000,000 a year, and of this nearly $100,000,000 is expended upon an army in which Indians cannot be officers. It is not necessary to keep such an army to hold the people in subjection if the Indians are really satisfied with English rule.

"Taxation is nearly twice as heavy in India as in England in proportion to the income of the people. The Indian's income is on the average one-twentieth of the average English income. So great has been the drain, the injustice to the people and the tax upon the resources of the country that famines have increased in frequence and severity. I have more than once, within the last month, heard the plague referred to as a providential remedy for over-population. Think of it. British rule justified because 'it keeps the people from killing each other and the plague praised because it removes those the government has saved from slaughter.

"For more than twenty years an Indian National Congress has been pleading for a modified form of representative government. The request cannot be granted. Why? Because a local government composed of natives selected by the people would protest against so large an army, reduce the taxes and put Indians at lower salaries into places now held by Europeans. One of the reasons given is that the Indian people are not intelligent enough—this argument will not impress any unprejudiced traveler who has come into contact with the educated classes.

"While the Briton has boasted of bringing peace to the living he has led millions to the peace of the grave; while he has dwelt upon order established between warring troops he has impoverished the country by legalized pilage. Pilage is a strong word, but no refinement of language can purge the present system of its iniquity.

"How long will it be before the quickened conscience of England's Christian people will heed the petition that swells up from fettered India and apply to Britain's greatest colony the doctrine of human brotherhood that has given to the Anglo-Saxon race the prestige that it enjoys?"

Dyal declared last night that after his arrest he was told by Capt. Frank K. Ainsworth of the United States Immigration Service that if the Hindoo could prove he had been in this country more than three years he would be discharged. Dyal says he landed in New York from Europe February 10, 1911, and has resided here ever since.

It is said that the immigration officials, in prosecuting their efforts to secure the deportation of the East Indian, will introduce additional evidence before the record shall have been closed and forwarded to the Secretary of Labor in Washington. This additional evidence will tend to show, they say, that Dyal was in direct communication with the person or persons who wrote and forwarded a letter to India on the stationery of the University of California. This letter recently was introduced in the trial of accused seditionists at Delhi.

Har Dyal denies all knowledge of this communication.

MOTHER! GIVE CROSS, SICK CHILD ONLY "CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS"

If Peevish, Feverish, Tongue Coated, Give "Fruit Laxative" at Once.

No matter what ails your child a laxative should be the first treatment given.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign your "little one's" stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When cross, peevish, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally; if breath is bad, stomach sour, system full of cold, throat sore, or if feverish, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in just a few hours all the clogged-up, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels and you have a well, playful child again.

Sick children needn't be coaxed to take this harmless fruit laxative. Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know a little given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

PASS COTTON FUTURE BILL.

Senate Strikes Out the Amendment Legalizing Pooling and Measure Will Go to House.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, March 28.—After striking out the amendment legalizing pooling, the Senate repassed today the bill to regulate trading in cotton futures.

The pooling amendment legalized the pooling of cotton and the making of a stipulation not to sell on an exchange dealing in cotton futures.

The bill was reconsidered on the motion of Senator Smith of South Carolina, its auther.

Senator Kenyon said the pooling provision, in his opinion, legalized what the Supreme Court condemned as a violation of the Sherman law in the case against James A. Patten and others, who were charged with agreeing to pool cotton and withhold it from the New York Cotton Exchange in 1910, with a view of reaping $10,000,000 profits.

Senator Kenyon, as an official of the Department of Justice, then had charge of the indictments against Patten and others.

STRIKER IS ACQUITTED.

Miner Who Was Charged With Murdering Calumet Deputy Sheriff Is Found Not Guilty.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

HOUGHTON (Mich.) March 28.—Luke Plese, a striking miner, who has been on trial this week at L'Anse, Baraga county, on the charge of having murdered Deputy Sheriff Pollock of Houghton county on October 28, 1913, was found not guilty today. The case was transferred to Baraga county on a change of venue.

Pollock was employed as a mine guard at the Isle Royal mine at the time of the strike troubles. As he was on his way to work on October 28, he was met and attacked by a dozen men. Pollock was shot, but killed Joseph Minerich, a striker, before he died.

Plese, George Briski and Mike Knez are said to have confessed they were in the crowd at the time of their arrest. Knez later repudicated his alleged confession and now is under indictment for perjury.

ODD FELLOWS BANQUET.

Rebekah Lodge Cooks Dainties for Veterans and Furnishes Fine Evening's Entertainment.

Two hundred and fifty members of the Veteran Odd Fellows Association of Los Angeles attended a banquet last evening at Masonic Temple, Pico and Figueroa streets, prepared under the direction of Rebekah Lodge No. 104.

The Rebekahs took pleasure in showing the veterans how well they could cook. The invitation to the feast announced that the Rebekahs typified "the old-fashioned woman, the sensible woman, the sane, normal woman who knows how to cook."

The Committee on Arrangements prepared a programme with a limited amount of oratory and an abundance of good things to eat and plenty of lively entertainment. E. J. Baldwin, president of the association, presided at the meeting.

Rev. W. M. Sapp delivered an address on the subject of Odd Fellowship in which he reviewed the noble history of the organization and spoke of its beneficent influence upon thousands of persons. F. E. Pierce discussed the work of the order in Los Angeles and gave plans for the future.

"By this time next year we hope to have a building of our own," Pierce announced. "We have reason to be proud of our organization and all of us should be willing to work for its advancement."

The programme also included the following numbers: Songs by a quartette; tenor solo, G. Haddon; baritone solo, R. E. Dunn; reading, "Rooster on the Fence," Earl Spangler; baritone solo, E. C. Houk; basso solo, J. A. Mider, and solo, J. J. Wakefield.

PIONEER BUSINESS WOMAN DIES

The death of Miss Abbie L. Greene occurred at her late residence, No. 1200 West Twenty-ninth street, on Friday evening, at the age of 82. Miss Greene was a resident of California for about fifty years and of Los Angeles twenty-three years. She was a teacher in Santa Barbara and San Francisco, but upon coming here entered a business calling, which she relinquished ten years ago, and has lived retired since. Her only relative in California is Miss Josephine O'Neill of Long Beach. The funeral service will be held at her late residence tomorrow at 2 o'clock and the body will be placed in a receiving vault at Inglewood Cemetery, awaiting the completion of a mausoleum. Dr. A. B. Pritchard will conduct the services.

FEW MOMENTS! NO INDIGESTION OR SICK STOMACH—PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN

Digests All Food, Absorbs Gases and Stops Fermentation at Once.

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; your head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take Pape's Diapepsin, and in five minutes you will wonder what became of the indigestion and distress. Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps the stomach regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin, which costs only 50 cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is astonishing. Please don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary.

GIVEN TEN YEARS.

Fred Lacy, Aged Man Who Posed as Retired Officer at Venice, Comes to Grief at San Jose.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENICE, March 28.—Fred Lacy, who cut a wide swathe here last summer posing as a retired army officer, has been sentenced to ten years in San Quentin at San Jose, according to a telegram received here today by the police department. Lacy, it was alleged, passed bogus checks on several local merchants and was brought here from the north to face charges preferred against him. On account of his age no action was taken. The telegram states his present sentence is due to a violation of parole after a previous plea of guilty to a charge of forgery. Lacy is 63 years old.

COUNT RETURNS.

Sergius Apraxin, said to be an Austrian count, who has lavishly entertained here at the beach and who disappeared several days ago, returned today to announce that he will receive a remittance from home in a few days, when he will settle with his creditors. His apartments will be reserved for him at the King George and as far as known no one here has pressed any claims against the young man. After promising to return, Apraxin left for Los Angeles late in the afternoon.

VENICE BRIEFS.

Frank Stites, aviator, completed repairs to his biplane today and will give an exhibition flight tomorrow afternoon unless the wind is too strong. It was blowing hard all the afternoon, but Stites went up for a short trial flight in order to test his engine.

At a meeting of the Good Government League last night Dr. J. B. Sands was nominated to fill the vacancy on the High School Board caused by the resignation of J. J. Lewis. The latter is one of the three Good Government candidates for City Trustee.

FINAL DEBATE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WHITTIER, March 28.—In the Los Angeles Interscholastic Debating League the highest number of points go to Hollywood High School and Pasadena High School. Except for the final debate between these schools the debating season is over. Ten High Schools belonged to the league this year and the year has been one of the most successful in the league's history. The final debate of the year to determine the Southern California championship will be held May 22. At present Pasadena High has a little the better of the score, having a total of 602 points against 597 1-3 for Hollywood. High Schools belonging to the league this year are Los Angeles, Hollywood, Alhambra, South Pasadena, Whittier, Compton, Inglewood, Anaheim, Pasadena and San Pedro.

WILL FIGHT FRUIT TRUST.

GROWERS OF SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY INCORPORATE.

Will Send Representatives Through the East With View to Selling Green Fruit in Undeveloped Markets—Pittsburgh Concern Alleged to Have Situation Under Control.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

FRESNO, March 28.—The beginning of a fight of the green fruit growers of the San Joaquin Valley to eliminate the Di Gorgio interests from this district, was started yesterday when incorporation papers for the Powers Fruit Company were placed on file with the County Clerk.

The new company is organized with a capital of $100,000 and the directors are Lucius Powers, Hans Karrer and Frank Kummeth of Sanger; O. O. Oliver of Kingsburg, and George Cosgave of this city.

This company proposes to send traveling men through all of the States and to create new markets for California fruits and to eliminate the Di Gorgio interests from all of its transactions. The organization of the new company to market green fruits of the San Joaquin Valley has caused much interest in this section and the activities of the company will be closely watched. The growers propose to market their own fruit. Instead of pouring the goods into the auction markets of the East, as has been done in the past, they will seek out the smaller markets where California green fruit is practically unknown. Within the past few years the Di Gorgio interests, represented by the Fanning-Charters Company of Pittsburg, have made rapid strides in securing control of the green fruit industry of California and it is to break this control that the new company has been organized.

NEW CHURCH.

Work on the construction of the new edifice for the congregation of the First Christian Church will be started Monday, April 6. The church will cost in the neighborhood of $50,000, and will be completed by December 1. The new church will be located at N and Tuolumne streets. The present church at N and Mariposa streets has been sold. W. H. Minard will be superintendent of construction. The work will be done by day labor. The building will be of pressed brick with terra-cotta trimmings. Besides a large auditorium the church will have thirty-two Sunday-school rooms and a roof garden. Rev. H. O. Breeden is pastor of the church.

BROKER ARRESTED.

Elsworth Beeson, formerly a real estate dealer in this city, but now located in Sanger, is under arrest on a charge of obtaining money from an insurance company by misrepresenting his loss, while Walter Everton, a parole violator of Fresno, is being held in jail in San Francisco, and has made the statement that Beeson and C. A. Cooper, director of the First National Bank at Sanger, had offered him $5000 to fire the Ben Lomond Hotel, near Santa Cruz, which was destroyed by fire three weeks ago.

The arrest of Beeson here for making misrepresentation in collecting insurance in payment for loss of a barn on his Sanger ranch, was coincident with the arrest of Everton in San Francisco. Beeson and Cooper were the owners of the Ben Lomond Hotel and Everton was a night watchman there. After the two men bought the place, the insurance was raised from $12,000 to $30,000.

The insurance companies have not paid the polices and their investigations resulted in the arrest of Everton in San Francisco.

DEFERENCE TO AUTHORITY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PORTERVILLE, March 28.—Records in prompt work by a public service corporation were made today when the Mt. Whitney Power Company started a crew of men at work removing poles in the Main-street business district just as members of the Street Committee, who passed the order, were leaving the Council chamber. Removal of the poles was necessary to the plans of extending certain of the business streets. The power company officials were called in conference with the street authorities and when the orders were agreed upon telephone messages from the Council chamber started the men at work.

FEAR CAUSES SUICIDE.

Widow of Harvey House Manager, Dreading Sickness, Uses Pistol to End Apprehension.

Mrs. Elizabeth Langowsky, about 35 years old, widow of the late John Langowsky, who for twenty-seven years was one of the managers of the Harvey House restaurants along the lines of the Santa Fe, committed suicide by shooting herself in the mouth, in her room at the Hotel Gates, yesterday. The bullet came out the top of her head. She was dead when the housekeeper there reached her room.

The woman had arrived in Los Angeles from Rawlins, Wyo., only last Monday. Her intention had been to start a rooming-house here. Despondency over the death of her husband at Monrovia about six months ago, coupled with fear that she had acquired the disease of which he died, is believed to have been the causes of her act.

She left a will bequeathing to her sister, Mrs. Charlotte Ehrenfeldt of Rawlins, Wyo., all her belongings, which consist, besides household goods and personal effects, of bonds valued at about $6000. She also left a small bank account here, and an insurance policy for $2000.

On her dresser was found a note addressed to Jacob T. Jacobsen, one of the California superintendents of the Harvey House organization. In it she asked that he take care of her affairs until her sister arrives from Wyoming. She also asks him to arrange that her body will be buried beside that of her husband in Calvary Cemetery, this city.

Mrs. Langowsky, an estimable woman, since the death of her husband, had been housekeeper in the Harvey restaurant at Williams, Ariz. About a month ago, she left that position to go to her mother and sister in Rawlins, Wyo. She left there on the advice of a physician, who said the climate of Los Angeles would be better for her health.

CHICKEN THIEVES AFOOT.

Thousands of Fowls Stolen From East-Side Coops and Slaughtered for the Market.

East-Side residents are in a rage over the depredations of what is believed to be an organized gang of chicken thieves, who use a wagon to cart away their loot, and achieve their thefts during the small hours in the morning, just in time to reach the markets at daylight.

It is estimated by detectives from the East Side Station that about $3000 worth of fowls have been stolen by the gang within the last six months. The fact that many of the thefts consist of just a few chickens accounts for the circumstance that many of the cases never reach the ears of the police.

The latest theft, and one of the most brazen, was that of about 160 pounds of fine pullets from the pens of Mrs. O. M. Bonner of No. 570 East Avenue Twenty-eight, who makes a business of poultry. They were stolen Thursday night and taken to a vacant house across the street, where they were plucked. The ground floor rooms were found filled with discarded feathers yesterday morning. Neighbors heard a wagon slowly driving along the street early Thursday morning.

LOAFER CAMP DEPLETED.

Time Limit for Remnant to Loiter in Riverside Will Be Tomorrow Noon.

Discouraged by rain that made the river-bed camp assigned them a less comfortable "flopping" place" than convenient box cars, and by the cold wind that plays merry pranks in the particular bend of the stream picked out for them by the police, the personnel of "Gen." Rose's "unemployed army" of hobos has practically ceased to exist.

Though the camp is now theoretical rather than real, the leader yesterday exhibited characteristic nerve when he applied to Chief of Police Sebastian for an extension of the time within which the camp must be vacated. He asked for leniency till Wednesday and was flatly refused.

Today at noon, the time given Rose to make other arrangements for his following, will be up, and any lingering remnants of the lazy crowd who may be in the river bed must clear out or police action will result, say the authorities. This is in keeping with the ultimatum of Chief Sebastian, when twenty-eight of the crowd were released from jail and given ten days in which to get themselves out of the way of other citizens of the city.

LIVED ALMOST CENTURY.

Mrs. Rachel McIntyre, 95 years old, grandmother of George McIntyre, Jr., general manager of the Continental Insurance Company, of No. 330 South Alvarado street, died yesterday in Fulton, Mo., from burns sustained the 18th inst. She was the mother of George McIntyre, for forty years Chief of Police of Fulton.

San Diego.

CITY OF BAY AND CLIMATE HAS A DAY OF FRIVOLITY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN DIEGO, March 28.—San Diego was today the scene of the biggest merrymaking carnival ever held here, by the citizens, and the thousands of visitors, in celebration of "harbor day."

The celebration began at 1 o'clock this afternoon with a parade to the new municipal pier, and from then on until long after midnight, dancing and roller skating on the pier, yacht races, a magnificent water pageant, a pyrotechnic display and a grand masque ball on the pier was the programme.

Coincident with harbor day was the celebration of newspaper day in Southern California, and many thousands of newspapers were sent East from here by San Diegans. The humblest toilers and the elite of society entered into the celebration in honor of the harbor, which San Diegans consider their greatest asset. The carnival was the most spectacular in the history of the city.

In the sailing races, which began at 2 o'clock, there were seventy-five craft of the San Diego and Coronado Yacht clubs, and many thousands of spectators lined the wharves, or viewed the races from yachts and launches. Owing to an accident to Francis Wildman's flying boat yesterday, he could not enter the race between the airship and the Kittyhawk, L. V., a thirty-mile power boat owned by L. H. H. Jimkin. In place of the Wildman airship one of the army airships entered in the exciting contest.

The programme included races of sailing vessels, power boats, rowing races by members of the San Diego Rowing Club, and crews of the whale boats, of the torpedo boats, and dingheys of torpedo destroyers.

In the evening a water pageant of 125 boats of every description, including boats of the San Diego, the Coronado and Chula Vista yacht clubs, was the most spectacular event ever seen in southern waters. The craft in the marine Mardi Gras paraded up the bay, and 10,000 Japanese lanterns decorated the various boats, while thousands of electric globes strung around the edges of the pier in different colors added to the brilliancy of the scene.

Great searchlights flashed on the waters from the United States warships in the harbor and from yachts.

A confetti battle started on the pier early in the evening among the gaily masked dancers and spectators, and here the spirit of democracy of the festival was again evident, as society bells and laughing shop girls, laborers and millionaires mingled in the fun.

A magnificent pyrotechnic display, the most expensive and elaborate ever witnessed in the South, was given late in the evening. There were fifty-four different pieces in the programme, the most spectacular being the "aerial warfare." A coast city of many skyscrapers was shown in an outline of fire, then an aeroplane approached, and soon a battle between airships and warships anchored below was seen. Clowns, in fire in the sky, American eagles, flowers and other novel displays appeared. The grand finale was 100 rockets, which were set off simultaneously, followed by "adios" in red.

Carl Heilbron, chairman of the Citizens' Committee in charge, and Otto Jeancon, led the grand march of the ball in the evening.

NIGHT SCHOOLS POPULAR.

Three Hundred Pomona People Take Advantage of the Opportunity to Add to Their Knowledge.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, March 28.—Only two more sessions of the night-school classes, which have been successfully conducted here the past year, will be held before the annual vacation of the public schools. The night classes, which were introduced for the first time here last year under the direction of R. A. Coverdale, have proved most popular, and in all there have been 300 registrations, the average attendance having been 200. The courses covered the most useful and practical branches and the teaching has been done as extra work by different High School teachers. Because of the fact that these teachers have so much added work after the spring term in preparation for the closing of the school year in June it was decided best to close the night-school sessions as stated. The night school will be continued next year.

POMONA NOTES.

Pomona College has closed for the annual Easter vacation and the students in sociology, in Prof. Charles G. Neely's class, are in Los Angeles, studying sociological conditions. Daily trips of investigation are being made, the courts visited, settlement work and immigration studied under the guidance of Dr. Dana W. Bartlett.

Over half an inch of rain, which fell here during the night, did much good to growing hay and grain and other crops and increased the season's rainfall to 28.58 inches.

The new Pomona tractor made by the Ranchers' Manufacturing Company is attracting considerable attention here. The machine contains several important patented devices and is intended for special traction use either on the road or on the ranch. In a recent test the tractor hauled four wagonloads of bricks, making a total weight of thirteen tons, over the soft ground in the Pomona brickyard west of the city.

The funeral of the late George W. Eells was held this afternoon at the family home, Rev. Albert P. Davis of Pilgrim Congregational Church officiating at the house, and Pomona Masonic Lodge having charge of the services at the cemetery, the deceased having been a member of the lodge, of which he was organist, for years. Interment was made in Pomona Cemetery.

John S. McGroarty delivered his famous lecture, "The Romance of California," before a large audience at the Ebell Club House last evening. The speaker, who has the poetry of life and charm of romance to the fullest extent, delighted his hearers as he recounted the wonderfully thrilling and romantic history of the Golden State.

CONSIDINE FALLS VICTIM.

Theatrical Magnate Will Build Fine Home at Ocean Park—New Theater for Strand Strollers.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

OCEAN PARK, March 28.—According to James H. Hardman of this section, John W. Considine, theatrical magnate, has decided to build a beautiful home on the half-acre tract recently purchased from Hardman. The site overlooks Santa Monica Bay and is well adapted for the home of a millionaire.

There is a persistent rumor that the management of the Orpheum chain of high-class vaudeville houses will lease or purchase a site on the ocean front just south of Rose avenue. Charles Damerel, one of the owners, said today that negotiations are in progress and that eventually a theater will be built on the 100 feet frontage even if the present deal falls through.

OCEAN PARK NOTES.

James Appleby of Portland left his motor car out on the Speedway last night, being unaware of the city ordinance against such a practice. Today he found a note on the machine requesting him to call at the police station. When he went there the ordinance was explained to him. The automobile owner left to rent a garage.

Members of the San Francisco Tango Club are scheduled to pay a visit here on their way to San Diego. The club travels in two special cars and is accompanied by an orchestra of twelve pieces.

EL SEGUNDO.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

EL SEGUNDO, March 28.—A grading gang commenced work yesterday on local streets and $2000 will be spent on grading, oiling and improving them. The weeds will be removed, and those that were in any way damaged by the recent big storm will be put in condition again. A fine large schoolhouse will be erected this summer on the east side of the city, and on all of the streets near the location of this building, cement curbs and sidewalks will be placed. This is only one of the many improvements contemplated.

BIG DAY AT NILAND.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

NILAND, March 28.—"Holtville day" will be celebrated here tomorrow, when a special train of visitors from that city comes here to see the progress of this two-week-old town and get in touch with the big activities incident to the development of 47,000 surrounding acres. Many of the visitors of tomorrow are business men and farmers who have announced an intention of making heavy investments in this part of the Imperial Valley. Many Los Angeles excursionists are expected to join in the celebration of the day.

SCHOOL ELECTION.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDONDO BEACH, March 28.—A school election will be held Friday, when trustees for both the grammar and high schools will be chosen. The candidates for the grammar school are J. T. Judson and E. C. Thomas and for the High School, R. E. Matteson. E. C. Thomas holds an important position in the traffic department of the Pacific Electric Railway, while Mr. Judson is a contractor and builder. Mr. Matteson, who is vice-president of the local gas company, has been very active in school matters for many years.

Sierra Madre.

ANNUAL FLOWER SHOW TO BE HELD THIS WEEK.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SIERRA MADRE, March 28.—Tents, bunting, banners, additions to the Woman's clubhouse, and a band of energetic, sweet womanhood mark the preparations of the fourth annual flower show to be held here Thursday, Friday and Saturday of the present week.

Owing to the crowds of former years it has been necessary to enlarge the clubhouse and extensions have been built to the kitchen and dining-room. The main display of flowers and plants will be housed in a large tent erected in front of the main building. The chairman, Mrs. W. J. Lawless, comes to the position with the laurels and experience of three successful shows which she has managed. The show is given under the auspices of the Woman's Club, of which Mrs. Frank Wright is president.

It has been due to the co-operation of the civic bodies and the general "get together" spirit of the community that has made this affair an event of great importance to this city and the surrounding countryside.

Mrs. W. H. Ingraham is the secretary of the committee, James N. Hawks of the Board of Trade is treasurer, and Mrs. J. T. Mason has charge of the decorations and entertainments. L. E. Steinberger, member of the City Council, looks after the housing and civic features, and E. J. Webster the exhibits. A cafeteria has been installed in the dining-room of the clubhouse. De Nubila's orchestra will render musical selections every afternoon.

Exhibits of plants and flowers have been received from all parts of the city and prizes will be awarded Thursday evening. A display that has always aroused much enthusiasm will be the Japanese gardens arranged by the Japanese colony. A larger space has been alloted this display. Thursday, April 2, will be the last day for entries.

Brahms Trio, assisted by Miss Grace James, soprano, will give a special concert Friday evening. Saturday afternoon piano selections will be rendered by Miss Lucile Whitworth, and an operetta entitled "Flowerland" will be presented by the young girls of the public school. The evening of Saturday, April 4, will be given over to dancing on the floor of the clubhouse.

The Pacific Electric Railway has arranged for special car service during the three days of the exhibit. For the dancing party Saturday night a special car will leave here after midnight. Special automobile trips will be offered all visitors to points of interest in the city and the surrounding country.

Marshal A. M. Udell will handle the parking of the many automobiles that usually line up on the streets during exhibition days. Many out of town people have announced their intention of being present. If the record of previous years, with its many delegations from other clubs, is any criterion, vast crowds will congregate about the grounds of the clubhouse.

The Flower Festival had its inception in this town four years ago through the able efforts of the late Mrs. George H. Latteau, and one of the most charming and popular former presidents of the Woman's Club, and Mrs. W. H. Lawless, whose well-known executive ability has been shown. The affair is an annual event that is now looked forward to with much pleasure.

WHITTIER DEFEATS ALHAMBRA.

High School Debating Team of the Quaker City Settles an Important Matter—Land Sales.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WHITTIER, March 28.—With a score of 200 to 174 Whittier High defeated Alhambra High School in debate here last evening. The winners affirmed and the losers denied that "the proper solution of the trust problem would be secured by compelling all corporations engaged in interstate commerce to operate under a Federal charter." Alhambra came with a crowd of boosters 100 strong. William Crofoot, second speaker on the Whittier team, was awarded a perfect score by all three judges, a score of 300. The winning team was Paul Woolomes and William Crofoot, while Alhambra was represented by Harold Lindeman and Gray Harriman.

LEMON GROVE SOLD.

Announcement was made this week that Postmaster Clyde F. Baldwin had sold his beautiful bungalow on Broadway to Karl Lester, assistant postmaster, and that the seller will build a home at once on his lemon ranch a short distance southeast of this city and will remove to his ranch home at once.

ANOTHER SALE.

A deal in dirt involving the transfer of a young five-acre lemon grove was made this week wherein J. H. Hart of Whittier sold to I. H. Carter of Los Angeles a lot in the Stamy tract southeast of the city for the sum of $5500. The trees on the place are one to two years old. Mr. Carter, the purchaser, will build a fine home on his newly-acquired grove and will make his residence there. Transfers of lemon groves for this month total more than $60,000 in this immediate vicinity.

NOTED WORKER SPEAKS.

The Men's League of the Whittier Friends Church had as their speaker for their regular monthly luncheon and business meeting last evening, C. L. Boynton, general secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association of Shanghai, China. Boynton is in America on a furlough, returning to this country after a service of seven years in China. His address to the Whittier men last evening was in the nature of a summary of the Christian work accomplished during the last decade, a decade which has opened up China to western ideas and which has seen considerable advance in Christian work. Sato, a Japanese Y.M.C.A. worker, connected with the Japanese work at Tien-tsin, was also a guest of the Men's League last evening, and told briefly of the Y.M.C.A. work there.

MUNICIPAL DIPLOMACY.

Sewer Treaty Between South Pasadena and Alhambra Results in Settlement of Vexatious Problem.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SOUTH PASADENA, March 28.—So quietly that not an inkling of what has been done has come before the public, the City Trustees of Alhambra and South Pasadena have practically closed a deal with Pasadena whereby the vexing intercity sewer problem probably is solved.

The plan is to have this city construct a sewer system to connect with the new Pasadena Grand-avenue system at the south city limits of Pasadena. This South Pasadena system is to carry the Pasadena sewage through Pasadena and to collect the South Pasadena sewage and feed both into the Garfield-avenue outfall, South Pasadena being given the privilege in return for taking care of the up over the hill to South Orange Grove avenue and Columbia street. Alhambra has agreed to allow South Pasadena to run its system through that city to the Pasadena city farm, the understanding being that when Alhambra puts in a sewer system, which it probably will do shortly, it is to be allowed to tack on to the pipes South Pasadena and Pasadena have laid.

All the sewage of the three cities is to be run to the Pasadena city farm, both South Pasadena and Alhambra agreeing to pay any additional cost for caring for the additional water there. If more Imhoff tanks are needed, as they probably will be, South Pasadena will install them and when Alhambra comes into the system, if more tanks are still needed, Alhambra will foot the bill.

When this is done, if the Crouch plan of running a big sewer main to the Whittier "narrows" is carried out, the Pasadena farm would be abandoned as a method of disposal and the Crouch people would take over the sewage at the "narrows" and handle it there. The plan as submitted to the Pasadena commission is the plan of City Attorney William J. Carr of South Pasadena.

ANOTHER CANDIDATE.

Another candidate for the office of member of the school board has come into the field and the election next Friday promises to be a bitter fight instead of the walk-over that was expected. Fred K. Groves, Jr., is the new candidate, a real estate broker of the city, and living at No. 1905 Oxley street. He has been identified with school work the greater part of his life, teaching four years in Kansas, and is a graduate of Knox College. The other candidate, E. E. Thompson, has already served one term on the board. He also has been a professor and is thoroughly acquainted with school work. It is expected as a result of the contest that a much larger vote will be cast.

CITY BRIEFS.

Sunday evening at the Christian Church, Rev. R. J. Gray will address all voting citizens and their friends on one of the most prominent present-day issues, his subject being "Dry California." This is the second of the campaign speeches to be made in this city. H. E. McMonigal will have charge of the special music, which includes a male quartette.

The sacrament of baptism and the Lord's Supper will be observed Sabbath morning at the Calvary Presbyterian Church. At this service new members will be welcomed into the church. This is the last communion of the church year, and the pastor, Rev. Charles Fisher, D.D., will conduct the services. In the evening the pastor will speak on the theme "The Strength of Youth," and will illustrate the address with stereopticon slides.

An enjoyable reunion was held at the home of Mrs. Etta Evans, the guests being her sister Josephine, wife of former Gov. Hughes of Arizona; her cousin, Charles H. Haskins, H. Doughty of Los Angeles, and A. C. Johnson of South Dakota, all former residents of Crawford county, Pennsylvania. The gentlemen had not met for nearly sixty years. Mr. Johnson was accompanied by his granddaughter, Miss Johnson, of Monrovia. The hostess was assisted by her daughters Bertha and Maude.

RECEPTION AWAITS HIM.

Congressman Stephens has sent word to the Chamber of Commerce that Hon. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, expects to arrive in Los Angeles April 11 and remain in the city for a few days. The chamber has extended the courtesies of the organization and Roosevelt will be accorded the same treatment as it has been the custom to show the other secretaries who have recently visited this section.

TWO CHAMBERS ARE IN ACCORD.

San Bernardino and Highland Bodies Work Together.

Road Bond Sentiment Strong Throughout the County.

Auto Club to Open Branch in Gate City.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN BERNARDINO, March 28.—The San Bernardino and Highland chambers of commerce have gone on record in the shape of instructions to their delegates on the Advisory Committee for the county highway bond issue, favoring the re-appointment of the same highway commission named for the previous attempted bond issue, the outlining of the same system of highways. Both chambers, however, would be willing that one or two roads not included in the former bond issue be placed in the new one, notably the bluff road from Redlands to the Riverside county line, and possibly one or two other short stretches.

The Advisory Committee is to meet in this city, Monday at 2 o'clock, being composed of representatives from all parts of the county, twenty-five in number. A. M. Ham has been named to represent the San Bernardino Chamber of Commerce, W. M. Bristol from the Highland chamber, F. H. Owen and H. B. Smith from the Colton chamber and city government, and B. W. Cave from the Redlands chamber.

The road bond sentiment is strong throughout the county, the success of the movement depending in a very large degree on a plan that will bring the Redlands voters behind the plan and at the same time be entirely satisfactory to the balance of the county.

OPEN HEADQUARTERS.

Arrangements have been completed by which the Automobile Club of Southern California will open a branch office in San Bernardino to be in charge of H. T. Wilson of that organization. Rooms have been secured in the Chamber of Commerce building for the purpose. This office is designed to serve the entire interior district of the Southland, giving a club a base of operations here that is on both the State and Old Trails national highway.

Agents of the club located here will keep in close touch with road conditions in the interior, seek to interest auto owners in the organization, and serve as an information bureau for automobile travelers and owners generally. The opening of an office in the interior will be appreciated by automobile men here generally.

SNOW-CAPPED PEAKS.

Showers which fell last night added .40 of an inch to the rainfall, making a total of .47 inches for the storm and 17.67 for the season. The continued rain is doing a great amount of good to all kinds of agricultural projects, as it is refreshing the top soil and putting all kinds of crops in shape for a rapid growth.

Snow fell all along the San Bernardino Mountains last night, but it is wet and with the warm air is today melting rapidly and is not expected to do any damage to the fruit, the apples being in bloom in some sections in the hills. No seriously low temperatures were encountered and with the warmer temperatures today it is not believed they will be.

FORGERY PROVED.

Forgery of the will of the late T. T. Bates of Redlands, disposing of $4000 worth of property, was proved in the Superior Court and the contest brought by the Public Administrator was upheld by Judge Bledsoe. After Bates's death the will had been forwarded here from Clarksdale, Miss., by Attorney J. S. Butt of that city. It purported to leave the estate to James A. Ball of Brazos, Tex. Local officers have never been able to locate Ball and by some he is believed to be a mythical person.

Whether the matter will be followed any further the local officers do not announce, but it is more than possible that it will be.

GRANTED DECREE.

A peculiar coincidence has come to light in the divorce case of Mrs. Melissa J. Williams, who a few days ago was granted a decree from David B. Williams, who was for several months in jail on a charge of having poisoned his wife in an attempt to kill her.

In connection with the case Mrs. Nora Brady was arrested and held for several weeks, finally being released, it having been alleged at the time that she was an affinity of Williams. It has now been learned that Mrs. Brady received a divorce decree also on the same day that Mrs. Williams received her's. Mrs. Brady's divorce was granted at Clarion, Pa.

BUSINESS MEN HELP IN COMPLETION OF HARBOR.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WILMINGTON, March 28.—Wilmington is animated with excitement and enthusiasm over the big harbor dedication festivities which are to be held here on April 11, commemorating the readiness of Los Angeles Harbor to receive the deep-sea-going vessels, the completion of the big new municipal dock, pier A, and the arrival of the Isthmian, the first of the American Hawaiian liners, which are to make Wilmington a port of call every few days from then on.

It was announced by Secretary Henry E. Carter of the Chamber of Commerce that Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels had promised to have all government vessels within a large radius of the port to lie at anchor at Wilmington on April 11.

The Celebration Committee is so anxious to have the municipal dock completed in time for the celebration that they are turning out and doing actual carpenter and masonry work during their spare hours, along with the workmen hired by the city.

The girls of the town are aiding by bringing luncheon to their fathers, brothers, sweethearts and friends, to stimulate them to harder efforts.

The girls are also busy decorating the smaller marine craft for the regatta to be held on the afternoon of the eleventh.

The programme includes the official dedication of the new docks, a monster fish dinner served free to all guests, boat rides on the harbor, brass band concerts from morning till night, aerial feats by Glenn Martin, who is to drop Tiny Broadwick, his feminine partner, from the clouds, via the parachute route, into the waters of Los Angeles Harbor; daylight fireworks, a motor boat regatta, the launching of Ben Watson's new racing sloop, a general programme of water sports, and many other features to be arranged later.

Senator Henry E. Carter, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, is chairman of the General Committee; D. R. Woods is head of the Arrangements Committee, F. P. Guiton is chairman of the Committee on Entertainment and Amusements, R. W. Burnham is chairman of a special Harbor Day Committee appointed by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce to co-operate with the local organization and with the Harbor Commission for the big event.

Arrangements are being made for a special train to carry the members of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce to Wilmington on that date. The entire membership has been extended an invitation to attend as special guests of honor.

The Los Angeles Realty Board, the Los Angeles Press Club, the Ad Club, the City Club, and various other organizations expect to be represented by a large number of their members at the ceremonies.

Special rates will prevail on the railroads, while the automobile boulevard will be placed in the best of shape for the thousands of motorists who will make Wilmington their Mecca on April 11. It is estimated that more than 30,000 persons will take advantage of this occasion to inspect Los Angeles' greatest investment, her harbor, and note the marvelous work that has been accomplished by the Harbor Commission, by the government, and by private enterprise at the water front.

ELECTION DAY SET.

Visalians Will Again Line Up for a Campaign with Wets and Drys Opposing.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VISALIA, March 28.—The City Trustees at a special meeting tonight fixed May 4 as the date for holding a Wyllie local option law election in Visalia. The election will be called as the result of an initiative movement promoted by the Good Government League, which hopes to stop agitation of the saloon question in Visalia for a period of two years at least.

The coming election will be the sixth in a period of three years in Visalia at which the saloon question has been the leading issue. At the election to be held in May the proposition of recalling City Marshal Devall will also be decided.

STOLE A PUMP.

One of the most peculiar thefts ever reported to Tulare county officers was that of Harry Spaulding, an employee of the local postoffice, who complained today that somebody had stolen his pumping plant outfit from his ranch north of town. The engine and pump and part of the well casing was gone when he went to his place yesterday to do some irrigating. Nothing was left but a hole in the ground. The removal of the outfit must have required several men and a large wagon.

WIFE HYPNOTIZED.

Sheriff Collins was notified today by Richard L. Dunkenson, a homesteader living in the hills northeast of Visalia, that his wife had been hypnotized by Walter Thorne, a neighbor, and refused to leave the latter. Thorne has promised to kill Dunkenson if the latter tries to visit his wife, according to Dunkenson. The authorities are investigating.

NEW RAILROAD.

Rights of way are being secured for a proposed railroad to connect the new town of Venice Hill with Visalia.

The new road would connect with the east-side Southern Pacific branch, the new east-side Santa Fe line and the terminus of the Visalia Electric, completing a loop for the latter and traversing a rich agricultural district. What interests are behind the proposed line, which would be about eight miles long, are not divulged by the right-of-way agents.

CRAZY "PEEPING TOM."

John Twaddle, the "peeping tom," who has been bothering Tulare city residents for many months past, was today found insane and ordered committed to the State Hospital at Stockton. With him will go Steve Wheeler, an old Civil War veteran, recently struck by a Southern Pacific train and almost killed, who, some time ago, gained fame by mistaking a mule for a cow and suffering a fractured skull, when he approached with a pail and tried to extract milk.

BAKERSFIELD, March 28.—The complete returns on the question of whether City Marshal James McKamy should be reappointed, as determined yesterday by a referendum vote, gave the Marshal a majority of 263 out of 4065 votes cast. McKamy was recently ordered removed from office by the Superior Court for alleged failure to perform his duty. Yesterday, the people voted him back in office.

To See Imperial Cotton.

Sir William Garson, Egyptian Agricultural Commissioner, and Engineer McCutcheon of London are on their way to Southern California for the purpose of inspecting cotton lands in Imperial Valley. The remarkable success secured by Imperial Valley growers in producing long and short staple cotton has attracted the attention of the cotton men of the world. The visitors, it is expected, will make a comparison of the cotton grown in Egypt and the same varieties so successfully produced in California.

Canadian Woman Dies Here.

Mrs. A. A. Gilroy, wife of A. A. Gilroy of Winnipeg, died in this city on Friday evening, and her husband left for his Canadian home with the body yesterday morning. Several years ago Gilroy came here owing to his wife's failing health and built a home on Berendo street, where she has lived since, though her husband returned periodically to his business at the head of one of the largest department stores in Canada. The deceased was a much-loved and benevolent woman and her death is mourned by many new-found friends in this city.

Passing of Prominent Educator.

Dr. J. L. Pickard, father of F. W. Pickard of this city, died on Thursday at the home of his daughter in Cupertino, this State, at the advanced age of 90 years. He was a native of Massachusetts and spent his active life in educational work. He was a teacher in Bowden College, conducted a boys' school in Wisconsin, was superintendent of schools of that State for four years, superintendent of the Chicago city schools for fourteen years, and was for nine years president of Iowa University. He is credited with having been the originator of the grading system in the public schools.

POPULAR THROUGHOUT STATE.

Young Men's Republican Club Makes Fine Progress—County Organization Doubles Membership.

The following statement was issued yesterday by Secretary J. T. McBean of the Young Men's Republican Club of Los Angeles county:

"The Young Republican movement is highly regarded in Northern California, while in the south public sentiment among Republicans and those who want good government is enthusiastically behind it. There is no question but what the Young Republican movement is going to sweep the State.

"Preliminary organization in Alameda county was perfected yesterday, so that every Assembly District in that county is now organized.

"Ralph L. Hathorn, a member of the Executive Committee, which conducted Gov. Johnson's campaign for election, has taken hold of the Young Republican movement in San Francisco county and will soon have a complete organization.

"The Los Angeles county organization has nearly doubled its membership during the last week. Some of the districts in the county have been organized and the rest will be in another week.

"Long Beach is very active in the movement, and men who do things are now enrolling.

"Encouraging reports are coming from Whittier, Pasadena and all of the outlying districts. All we want is a little more time to make the Young Republican movement south of Tehachepi one of the most complete and effective political organizations that has ever been formed in this State. Inquiries are coming to this office from every corner of the State regarding the State organization that is to be formed at San Diego on the 11th. The delegations from San Bernardino county, Riverside county and immediate vicinities will unite with the delegation from this county and go to the convention in a special train."

At the club's Executive Committee meeting yesterday the following permanent Finance Committee was appointed: Harry Brolaski, Norman A. Baillie, R. A. Dunnigan, C. E. Donnatin, Walter C. Fisher, Charles R. Holton, Fred L. Hunt, J. W. McCoy and Max E. Cocha. The officers of the club serve as ex-officio members of the committee.

THE WEATHER.
[Official Report.]

LOCAL OFFICE, U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, Los Angeles, March 28.—[Reported by Ford A. Carpenter, Local Forecaster.] At 5 o'clock a.m. the barometer registered 29.88; at 5 p.m., 29.90. Thermometer for the corresponding hours showed 51 deg. and 60 deg. Relative humidity, 5 a.m., 82 per cent.; 5 p.m., 58 per cent. Wind, 5 a.m., east, velocity 6 miles; 5 p.m., southwest, velocity 11 miles. Highest temperature, 65 deg.; lowest, 49 deg. Rainfall for season, 22.82 inches. Barometer reduced to sea level.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.—The general distribution of atmospheric pressure remains practically unchanged. The high area is passing seaward off the North Atlantic coast, and the barometer continues low over the Western States. It is warmer throughout the greater portion of the United States, freezing temperatures being limited to the northern tier of States and to some portions of Nevada. Precipitation, mostly in the form of rain, occurred east of the Mississippi River. The greatest amount, 1.14 inches, was reported from Buffalo. Showers were general south of the Tehachepi during Friday night. The greatest amount in this region was .52 of an inch, at Pomona, bringing that station's seasonal amount to 26.08 inches, as against 12.11 last year. The western trough of low pressure deepened in the North, and a well-defined area of low pressure is entering the Columbia River. This is the first area of low pressure to enter the western Coast for over a month. The southerly deflection of this depression will give Los Angeles and vicinity occasional showers Sunday.

LOCAL FORECAST.

For Los Angeles and vicinity: Occasional showers Sunday; southwesterly winds.

For California south of the Tehachepi: Rain Sunday.

STATE FORECAST.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 28.—Forecast:

San Francisco, Oakland and vicinity: Rain Sunday; brisk south wind.

Sacramento, Santa Clara and San Joaquin valleys: Rain Sunday; light south wind.

California south of the Tehachepi: Rain Sunday; light southwest wind.

ARIZONA FORECAST.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Forecast for Arizona: Fair Sunday; warmer in east portion.

Beauty's Despoiler.

UARD YOUR FAIR TRESSES ALL YOU PRETTY GIRLS!

k the Snipper's on the Streets With His Clippers and Cutting Hair from Heads in the Night. He Selects the Finest.

K THE SNIPPER is operating in os Angeles. Three cases where ir young women lost their have been reported to the police and it is believed that many other ave been shorn of their locks e mysterious scoundrel, who s beauty for profit.

o who have so far complained e police that they have been attacked and robbed of their hair are Marie Fairman, No. 4030 Denker e; Mrs. Vivian McClintock, No. West Twenty-third street, and Leah Bell of the Gray Hotel, who ce gone to Pasadena.

each instance the women were ed on the street in the dark; was placed over the mouth to outcry, there was a metallic a snipping of hair and the man gone.

descriptions of the clipper vary details, but the police believe is only one man. The description of him generally, is that he is five feet eight inches in height, r complexion, light hair, well and with a slight German accent. One of the women said he has dish accent. He is described wearing dark clothes and a stiff He has a small mustache, according to two of the women, and is shaven, according to a third. the Snipper, it is believed, here from Philadelphia, where operating extensively.

ROUGH ABOUT IT.

McClintock asserts that she walking on Twenty-third street Figueroa Friday night, when a young man walked briskly out glare of a street light and entered her in the shadows. thrust what looked like a pistol face and told me to be quiet or would shoot," said Mrs. McClintock. "Then he placed his left hand my mouth, and with the right, he of my hat, nearly pulled my out by the roots, and snipped off a long bunch at the side of my head. I was terribly frightened and did not utter a sound. He told me to beat it for home, and if I stopped he would shoot me. I told my folks about it and it was reported. Afterward when I thought it over I remembered that instead of having a gun he pointed a pair of scissors at me, and it gave me the impression it was a revolver."

Slipping stealthily through the streets at night, Jack the Snipper has operated extensively in other parts of the city, until he has, no doubt, collected a valuable lot of human hair. Police and detectives have been notified and a careful description of the man has been sent broadcast.

Miss Fairman's story of the attack on her is quite the same as that related to the police by Mrs. McClintock, through her family.

IN HEART OF CITY.

Miss Leah Bell, whose hair was snipped, is nearly prostrated. She was approached by the mysterious clipper when leaving her hotel Thursday night. Until yesterday she has been in a nervous condition and remained at the home of a friend in Pasadena.

The clipper is known to have a ready pair of shears and is said to carry them concealed under his coat until the time seems opportune for approaching a victim. Principals of two schools have sent warnings to the girl pupils, through the teachers, against being alone on the streets after dark. In many parts of the city a watch is kept for the mysterious hair thief.

HAIR "FENCE."

At the same time, the police are investigating what is believed to be a "fence" for the sale of human hair. It is said that the market for hair is better now than ever before, and that long braids of choice blonde or winning brunette, are bringing sufficiently high prices to make the operation profitable.

It is because of the high prices in the hair goods market that the activity of the clipper has increased to its present alarming extent. The police do not believe that the three women who have complained at various times are the only ones who have been victimized by the hair pirate. They assert that the history of Jack the Snipper is replete with instances where only a small percentage of the victims make the matter known to the police for fear of the resultant publicity.

"I would know the man who stole my hair if I saw him in a crowd," said Miss Bell in Pasadena yesterday. "He had a peculiar gait, and a shrug to his shoulders that would distinguish him from other men. He was very polite, at first, but when he pulled my hair out, so he could cut it, he seemed possessed. I wasn't badly scared when I saw that he was not going to rob me, but I didn't dare call out for fear he would kill me.

"He took the hair from only one side of my head, although I begged him quietly not to do it. He told me he liked girls, but liked their hair better, and in a moment he was gone."

A report was made last night to the police that a man answering the description of the clipper was seen in the vicinity of Pico street and Westlake avenue, but no definite information was given.

See where the villain cut it off!

These three young ladies were robbed of beautiful hair on the streets the past few nights, a man with a sharp pair of shears sneaking up and swiftly clipping it, then dashing away. In one instance the snipper held his victim while he wielded his shears, and threatened to shoot her if she made an outcry. Descriptions of the mysterious scoundrel indicate that he is the same who terrorized women in Philadelphia, was arrested and released there, and is now wanted more than ever by the Quaker City police.

PLAZA RIOTERS MUST STAY PUT.

JUDGE CRAIG OVERRULES PLEA FOR NEW TRIAL.

Says Time Has Passed in This State When Technicalities Will Serve to Free Criminals—Business Too Serious to Turn on Mere Words of the English Language.

In overruling the demurrer of the attorneys for Jim Daly and other Christmas-Day rioters, convicted in Judge White's Police Court, Judge Gavin W. Craig of the Superior Court yesterday handed down his decision in diplomatic but positive language, disposing of the trifling argument that an indictment must be couched in specified words to make it binding on the court.

The main point in the demurrer before Judge White, when he refused to grant a new trial for the rioters, was that the words "disturbing the peace" had been used instead of "disturbing the public peace." Judge Craig counted nothing else of importance in the appeal of the defendants to his court. A part of his decision is as follows:

"As I understand counsel for the defendants, it is their contention that no other words can be substituted for these particular words. . . . It may be and probably is true that in times past, courts have ruled that particular words must be used in alleging certain offenses, but at least in this State, the time has passed when such technicalities will avail to secure the relief of defendants where it does not appear that their substantial rights have been affected.

"The business of courts, that of administering justice, whether such administration results in the feeling of innocent persons, or the punishing of guilty ones, is too serious and too broad a work to allow its action to be based on such questions, as whether or not certain words of the English language are used in a complaint.

"This complaint does, in language sufficiently clear to apprise the defendants of the nature of the charge made against them, allege facts which constitute riot. The action of the Police Court should be affirmed, and the motion for a new trial denied."

DRUNK OR LUCKY?

Rancher, Who Falls with Horse, Perplexed by Phenomena of His Condition.

Ben Moore is undecided whether or not he was intoxicated when he rode a horse along Figueroa street yesterday. The horse slipped on the wet pavement at Sixth street and fell. Moore was arrested for piloting a horse while intoxicated.

To Police Judge Chambers he explained his perplexity. "If I had been drinking, judge, I couldn't have ridden the horse at all and, if I hadn't been drinking I would have been hurt when I fell, so I can't really tell whether or not I was drinking."

The police judge continued the case until Monday. Moore is a rancher.

Where Crops Are Certain.

MILLION-DOLLAR SALE OF IMPERIAL LANDS.

Prominent Angeleno Actively Engages in Valley Development.

Site of New Town of Calipatria and Seven Thousand Acres of Rich Land Included in Deal that Will Materially Stimulate the Growth of the Great Tract in the North End.

THE biggest Imperial Valley land deal since the purchase of 47,000 acres of deeded land in the north end of the valley from the Southern Pacific Company by the Imperial Valley Farmlands Association was consummated yesterday, when the syndicate sold to Carl F. Schader 7000 fertile acres midway between Brawley and Niland. The purchase includes the site of the new town of Calipatria, which is to be platted at once and introduced by Schader as a member of the Imperial Valley family of thriving cities. The purchase price of the land and the townsite was approximately $1,000,000.

The purchase comprises a tract seventeen miles long and ten miles wide, and is in the "soft land" district. The land is especially adapted to the raising of cotton and other high-priced crops. Several hundred acres are already in cotton and it is expected that the tract, which is all tributary to Calipatria, will be planted to cotton and other crops in the next few months.

The acreage immediately adjoining the town will be subdivided into five and ten-acre tracts and practically all the balance of the 7000 acres will be divided into twenty and forty-acre tracts. Calipatria is ten miles south of Niland and ten miles north of Brawley on the Southern Pacific Railroad, and its founders predict that it will speedily become one of the most important agricultural centers in Southern California. It will be surrounded by highly developed acreage, cut into comparatively small tracts.

DENSER POPULATION.

This condition, which is already indicated in the entire northern end of the valley, assures a more rapid development and denser population than in the older parts of the valley.

As predicted three months ago when the purchase of the Southern Pacific lands was announced, the bringing of water to the north end and the reclamation of that magnificent body of land, has opened an era of Imperial Valley development and growth even greater and more important than the previous remarkable achievements of the pioneer settlers.

With the opening of Calipatria and Niland, two cities of great promise have been added to those already successfully established. Thousands of acres of land have been sold to men who are now preparing the soil and planting crops. The whole face of the desert is undergoing wonderful transformation and in a few months more will be contributing largely to the magnificent products of the Imperial Valley, whose agricultural achievements have been greater than that of any other region on earth.

Yesterday's deal, which introduced Schader's forceful personality and powerful connections into Imperial Valley activities, supplies another important factor that will make for the rapid development of the valley, whose possibilities are admitted to be many times greater than have yet been realized.

Schader has for years been one of Southern California's most prominent and successful real estate operators. He recently sold the Palos Verdes ranch for $2,000,000 and is associated with Frank A. Vanderlip, president of the National City Bank of New York, in the handling of that property. He is a heavy stockholder in the Merchants' National Bank of this city and has other strong banking connections.

Carl F. Schader,

Prominent real estate operator, who purchased yesterday 7000 acres of choice land in the north end of Imperial Valley and who will at once open the new town of Calipatria in the heart of his tract.

FUTURE LOOMS BIG.

"I believe Imperial Valley offers the greatest and best opportunities of any spot on earth," he said yesterday. I have studied it from every angle and it has everything to recommend it, without a drawback. I propose to devote my energies and my resources in helping to build it up and I am convinced that its growth in the next year or two will be amazing even to those who know it best."

Schader has been familiar with Imperial Valley for many years, but admits that the results of his recent investigations while the deal was pending amazed him. He says that the prices of the land cannot remain as low as at present much longer because it is intrinsically worth much more.

"I am told that when there was more land than settlers," he said last night, "acreage changed hands as low as $10 per acre. Then it went to $50 and now it is valued at $150 to $250. That condition must inevitably change. There is plenty of water for the 400,000 acres now under cultivation, including the 47,000-acre tract in the north end, but no more land can be included under the irrigation system.

"We are developing now all the land there can be in the valley for many years. That land is intrinsically worth $400 to $500 an acre be-

HOODOO BOAT STILL IN HOCK.

Law Lays Hands on Launch Used in Smuggling.

Romantic Career of Craft Since Midnight Dip.

A small craft without lights moved silently into the inner harbor at Long Beach at 8 o'clock on the evening of December 23, 1912, and docked at the yards of the Pacific Yacht, Launch and Engine Company. Working quietly with shaded lanterns, a crew of twelve men, under Capt. W. L. Sassaman, began preparations for launching a boat.

No axes or sledges were used and the boat was lifted with hydraulic jacks. At midnight all was set and the men went back to their launch to await the incoming tide. The water was sufficiently high by 2 o'clock and the crew returned to work. Finally the mate removed the last jack and the vessel started slowly.

The captain called to all hands to clear the boat. There was no cheering crowd present, as usual on such occasions, and no maiden to heave a bottle of wine against the bow. The skipper, the only man on deck, raised his cap as the boat slipped down the ways, and exclaimed, "I christen thee Calypso."

From that dark hour when the Calypso, a swift and beautiful craft, leaped into the sea, nothing but ill-luck has followed her. Beginning with her clandestine launching, made necessary by the failure of the construction company and the fact that creditors were attempting to hold the craft, a peculiar series of misfortunes has befallen her.

CONFISCATED.

The crowning calamity came when the launch was confiscated by the government, January 18, last, at Monterey, on the ground that it had been used to land smuggled Chinese. Immigration inspectors arrested a crew of three men—Capt. Maurice Pettenger, Fred Fox and David Mayne, an Indian.

The announcement is made that the government will use the craft, said to be the fastest on the Coast, to chase smugglers. The government's posession of the boat is disputed by Capt. Sassaman, who claims to own five-sixths interest in her and that he was not aware the craft was used in the contraband trade.

Capt. Sassaman, who lives at No. 1158 San Pedro street, accuses Pettenger, said to have one-sixth interest in the boat, of treachery. The captain says that just before Pettenger left Los Angeles harbor on the alleged smuggling expedition he went to the customhouse and represented he was the master and chief owner of the craft and obtained a sailing license.

Capt. Sassaman says all of his savings are invested in the boat and that he will make a strong effort to recover her. Capt. Connell, local immigration inspector, thinks Sassaman is wasting his time.

HAS THE GOODS.

"We have the goods on the Calypso," Capt. Connell declared. "The boat has been libeled and is now in the possession of the government and I believe there is no chance to recover her. Capt. Sassaman may prove his contention that he owned five-sixths interest in the boat and that he was not aware she was being used in the illegal trade, and still the situation will not be altered.

"Under the Federal law any craft engaged in smuggling is confiscated, no matter to whom it belongs. Recently the government took over a motor car in which opium was found when it was clearly shown that the owners of the car were not guilty of conspiracy."

The libel against the boat will be tried April 14 in San Francisco. Capt. Sassaman had put up a deposit of $500 to defend his rights and will make a strong fight to regain possession, he declares.

"I have been wronged all the way through," Capt. Sassaman says. "It seems that the boat has just been unlucky. From the first I have had all kinds of trouble.

"I believe that enemies I made when I opened the port of Avalon with the boat are responsible for some of my trouble. As a final calamity, my partner played me wrong and took out the boat under false representations. I am investigating this matter now."

MAIDEN TRIP.

The Calypso made her maiden trip to Santa Catalina Island, May 11, 1913, and at once gained notoriety by opening the port of Avalon, which had previously been closed to all vessels except those of the company controlling the island. From September to January, the boat was at Long Beach and was used in carrying passengers to the warships and in conveying pleasure parties.

The boat suffered a mishap last August, when the engine went dead eight miles out of the port of Avalon. The forty-five passengers aboard were taken off at sea by the Virginia, owned at Long Beach. The Calypso with a crew of four men, drifted for thirty-eight hours and finally was towed into Los Angeles harbor.

The Calypso cost $10,000 and was built for speed and to ride in a heavy sea. She is equipped with a sixty-horsepower engine and an improved liquid compass that cost $100. The craft is sixty-five feet long, has a fourteen-foot keel, a displacement of thirty-three tons and travels, under pressure, eighteen knots an hour.

NORWEGIAN DAY.

Celebration Here in May on Anniversary of Adoption of Constitution a Century Ago.

The Norwegians of Los Angeles will hold a celebration, May 17, at Schutzen Park, in commemoration of the 700th anniversary of the adoption of the Norwegian Constitution. O. WOMEN WAR IN INSANITY CASE.

HIGH WORDS FOLLOW CHARGE MADE BY MAN'S MOTHER.

Scene at Inquiry Room Ends Efforts of Bride-to-Be to Stop Committment of Fiance to Patton for Chronic Intemperance—Conspiracy Is Publicly Charged.

Cheated of a husband by Judge Hewitt's order committing C. G. Coleman to Patton for intemperance, Mrs. Maud Stokes last Friday engaged in high words with Mrs. B. C. Burt, mother of Coleman, who swore out the complaint.

Coleman had consented to go ahead with the proceedings before the Lunacy Commission at the County Hospital, and part of the testimony had been taken when D. G. Hathaway bustled into the inquiry room, announcing that he was present to represent Coleman, appearing for Guy Eddie. He immediately asked for a jury trial for his client and an opportunity to consult Coleman.

"You have made trouble enough already," exclaimed Mrs. Burt, addressing Hathaway. "Judge," she appealed to the court, "I know what is best for my son. He has been in Patton before, and these people (indicating Hathaway and Miss Stokes) are trying to make some trouble. My son is willing to go."

"Do you desire to be represented by counsel?" Judge Hewitt asked Coleman.

"No, not at the present time," replied Coleman. "I would like to speak to Hathaway with your permission."

"What interest have these people in this room?" queried Judge Hewitt.

"I will tell you, judge," spoke up Mrs. Burt. "When my son was out on a drunk last Saturday, he got in with this Guy Eddie's sister, a Mrs. Stokes, and got a marriage license. This man here," pointing to Hathaway, "knows what I have gone through. These people are trying to take my home away from me."

"I withdraw from the case upon the request of the patient," said Hathaway.

The proceeding was resumed. Mrs. Burt stated that her son had been drinking too much since Christmas. She said liquor had got control of him.

Coleman attributed his weakness to the pain of neuralgia. He said he drank to ease his suffering. His case was passed on by Dr. Charles L. Allen and Dr. M. H. Bewley.

SUWANEE RIVER.

As Sung by Christine Nilsson.

The first popularity of "Suwanee River" dates back to the time when Christine Nilsson, the fair-haired daughter of a farmer near Wexio, Sweden, surprised all who heard her with the sweetness and compass of her voice, as she sang Foster's plaintive melody. She was an accomplished player on the flute and violin and made her debut at the early age of seventeen at Stockholm. Like many of the famous prima donnas, the opera chosen for her appearance was "La Traviata." She made a concert tour of the United States and sang many years in Italian opera. At her farewell concert given in London, her voice was exquisite in its purity and sweetness and evenness of tone, having a compass of three octaves, an exceptional range. In America she will be known and long remembered for her singing of "Suwanee River" in the height of her success, and operatic triumphs. She was the acknowledged incomparable artist of her times. This beautiful song, and many others sung by Nilsson are to be found in "Hearts Songs" now offered by The Times to its readers, who will find the terms given in the coupon published on another page of today's issue.

AD CLUB'S LUNCHEON.

Thomas Dreier of Cambridge, Mass., editor-in-chief of Associated Advertising, the monthly magazine published by the Associated Advertising Clubs of America, editor of "Character," author of "Vagabond Trail" and other books, will be a guest of the Los Angeles Advertising Club at luncheon next Tuesday. Mr. Dreier is noted on the Atlantic side as an orator as well as writer. William Woodhead, national president of the associated clubs, will also come to Los Angeles for this meeting and address the local organization. The meeting will be of an educational nature, B. O. Bliven, the chairman of the day, being a member of the National Educational Committee. Musical features will be provided by students from Polytechnic High School. The luncheon will be held at the Bristol.

Angel Cake.

"THE TIMES" SCHOOL OF DOMESTIC SCIENCE.

THE SURPRISE at the Times School of Domestic Science yesterday afternoon was even more delicious than anyone anticipated, notwithstanding Mrs. Haffner-Ginger's reputation for imparting sweet bits of information.

The little cook lady demonstrated and cooked four cakes. They were fit to tempt the gods. There were two angel cakes, and well named they were, for they couldn't have been more attractive looking or more delicious. After mixing the batter to its proper consistency and filling her pans, Mrs. Ginger dried and cut up Maraschino cherries and angelique over the top, and when it was done, behold, not only a delicious cake, but a symphony of color, in red and green and white. Two lovely "gold loaf" cakes were also made. In mixing this cake, Mrs. Ginger warned her class of Solomon's advice in his famous lecture on making a good boy, when he said "spare the rod and spoil the child," only Mrs. Ginger said "spare the spoon and spoil the cake." In making a cake of this kind you must use the spoon with a lot of ginger, an angel cake must be handled more delicately.

The lecture of the afternoon was invaluable, but there were so many things talked about that no poor mortal would undertake the responsibility of trying to tell you half she said.

For the sake of "Auld Lang Syne" Mrs. Haffner-Ginger used Ingleheart's Swansdown cake flour. It was partly through the use of this flour that the little lady carried off the gold medal, as well as the diploma, for the best cakes at the St. Louis World's Fair, and she had to compete with famous cooks from France, England and Germany, as well as with those from other countries. Every woman in the house rose in one accord, wanting to know the name of the flour, and if it could be had in Los Angeles, and when told that it was for sale here, said that they were going to make an order at once, and were going to bake an angel cake like the kind that Mrs. Ginger makes.

A bit of news was divulged when Mrs. Ginger told her class that nearly every cook book on the market is only a rehash of the old ones; that recipes were years ago originated by men, and since then there has been scarcely any improvement on the old methods of cooking, or any originality. The old recipes told us to mix our cake and put in the oven at once and bake from forty to sixty minutes. You were not to open the door for fifteen minutes, and you didn't dare to walk heavily across the floor for fear of making the cake fall.

Mrs. Ginger showed her class how to bake these cakes fast, in fact, she cooks everything faster than it was done in former years, and she also said you could tango across the room if you wanted to, those sayings in the old cook books don't amount to anything. But much does depend on the may in which you do your mixing and on the kind of whippers you use in whipping your eggs. Recipes don't count for much anyway, unless you are there to get all the little details. Mrs. Ginger tells you why you should use a rotary whipper one time and why you shouldn't use it another. She knows when to use one kind of baking powder and when to use another. To use her recipes alone and not be able to hear her lecture along with it would not benefit one very much, and it is impossible for any one to repeat them. It has taken years of hard work and a close study of chemical combinations to enable Mrs. Ginger to cook with such success. She knows the reason why for everything she does, and she certainly has broken every rule laid down in the old cook books.

Mrs. Ginger baked these cakes in a pan patented a dozen or more years ago by herself. It is called Haffner's twentieth-century cake pan. With this pan you use no grease, nor do you have to lose your temper removing it.

The lecture of Saturday was by far one of the best, and there was so much learned that it is impossible to tell the half.

She is going to serve these four cakes next Tuesday, so be on hand. The classes meet every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday afternoons.

STRANGE WILLS.

First Person Who Laughed at the Opening of an Englishman's Will Became the Chief Beneficiary.

[Indianapolis News:] Parisian papers are commenting on a will made by a Monsieur Sapene, who devised his entire fortune of three million francs, which his natural heirs had hoped to inherit, to the King of Spain. The King has accepted this modest souvenir of an unknown admirer, who died in a hospital for the insane. The sister of Monsieur Sapene brought suit to show the nullity of this last will and testament and clearly proved that her brother was insane. It now appears that M. Sapene was crazy, but it was held that he had lucid intervals and that this will was made during such an interval. This decision of the tribunal, from which an appeal will be taken to a higher court, is a subject for ridicule and recalls other strange wills.

About 1850 a rich English land proprietor had just died. His relatives, friends and the members of his household assembled to hear the reading of his last will and testament. While the notary was breaking the seals of the document, a frisky cat jumped upon the shoulder of a servant girl, who gave a hearty burst of laughter. The others, indignant at this inopportune merriment, were about to put her out of doors, when the notary reading the opening lines of the will proclaimed her the only heir as, in fact, the testator had left his fortune to the person who could not restrain laughter at the opening of the will. One may imagine the tender care that was afterwards lavished upon the cat that had brought wealth to a humble servant girl.

A lawyer of Colmar, who died 1826, left by will 74,000 francs to a hospital for the insane, with the words: "I gained this money from those who spent their lives pleading in court. This is simply an act of restitution."

Rabelais in this will wrote: "I have nothing of value. I owe much; the remainder I give to the poor."

Roman Mundus Discovered.

[The Living Church:] Signor Boni, director of excavations in the Roman Forum, announces that he has at last found the Mundus, around which the ancient city of Rome was built. He proceeds at length to describe what a mundus is. It was the hole dug in the ground on the Palentine Hill, presumably by Romulus and Remus, April 21, B. C. 753, as the actual and sacred center of the proposed new city. Into this pit were cast shovels of earth from the former homes, with other precious things, and around it at suitable distances, and after much religious ceremony, were ploughed boundary lines where the walls of the city must rise. It seems that there really was this ancient civic center, over which was placed a square stone, and on which there was to be kept burning forever a fire which would symbolize the common hearth of the city, as the fireplace does that of the private home. The stone was "the porta, the gate, which separated the world of the living from that of the dead," a theory taken to be suggestive of a vague faith among the ancients in life beyond the tomb.

Republican State Central Committee Opens Headquarters in Los Angeles With Vice-Chairman in Charge.

Headquarters of the Republican State Central Committee for Southern California have been opened at 214-215-216 Coulter building.

The headquarters are under the immediate direction of Robert Sweeney, vice-chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, and C. J. Sullivan, secretary. A Finance Committee for this southern jurisdiction was selected, consisting of E. P. Johnson, chairman and treasurer, and F. C. Fairbanks and C. C. Chapman. A most aggressive campaign of organization, publicity and speaking will be waged with increasing vigor by the southern headquarters of the Republican State Central Committee that will aid and increase the efficiency of all the Republican county organizations until the issues involved in this campaign are placed, from a Republican standpoint, before every man and woman of voting age in Southern California.

The disintergrating "Progressives" and the Democrats will be kept exteremely busy defending commissions, omissions and repeals.

The unanimous sentiment expressed by the southern members of the Republican State Central Committee is that in the bright lexicon, which the people of California are preparing to present to the Republican party, there is no such word as defeat.

The members of the State Central Committee are full of enthusiasm and the only difference of opinion that exists is which constituency will roll up the largest Republican majority.

The high character of the Republican candidates, who are entering the field, was commented upon most favorably as insuring a clean Republican ticket and a clean Republican sweep.

THE TIMES' great Song Book offer on Page 29, Part III, will interest you.

DEMOCRATS SECOND.

They Register More in a Day Than the "Progressives" — Republicans Far in Lead.

Even the Democratic registration exceeded that of the "Progressives" yesterday. The excess was not very large, but at the same time, it clearly demonstrated that the "Progressives" and Democrats will make a close race for the Republicans, if they unite their votes with the Socialists, Prohibitionists, non-partisans and a few of the other nondescript parties in the field. The total registration of voters yesterday was 188 Republicans, making a total of 77,960; ninety-seven Democrats, making a total of 35,852; eighty-four "Progressives," totaling 43,978; sixteen Socialists, totaling 14,717; twenty-seven Prohibitionists, totaling 10,282; 118 Nonpartisans, totaling 27,969; one Independent, totaling 294. Also one labor-unionite, apparently having compunction for the lone member of his party registered under that approbrious title, added his name to the list, making a total of two voters for the Union Labor party.

Get the People to Think.

[Leslie's:] Education! Instead of shirking publicity, as was formerly the custom, every great corporation whose cause is just is today cultivating publicity. The railroads are placing their case squarely before the bar of public opinion. They are doing this through a frank and logical discussion of the situation, and if the American people have not lost their sense of justice the railroads, through this method, will win out. The only trouble is that people are not interested in reading a calm, dispassionate recital of facts. Our press has educated the public away from the appreciation of such writing. What the public wants is sensation. Everything must be highly seasoned, with plenty of "thrills." This is reflected in the class of plays that are most popular, and in the moving picture craze which fits the mood of America better than that of any other country.

Cleanliness!

IT IS useless to think you can get your home CLEAN with a broom. Brooms and dust-pans are things of the past now, because the modern Housewife knows they serve merely to distribute the dust from one part of the house to another.

The "Vacuum way" is the only way to secure positive CLEANLINESS in the home. And one Vacuum System stands out above all the others—the "Boynton Invincible."

With the Boynton System you have no machinery to drag or push around. All this is in the basement. You just attach the hose to a plug in the baseboard of each room.

If you are considering the purchase of a Vacuum Cleaner, withhold your decision until you see the "Boynton Invincible."

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

The Fire Commission yesterday approved Chief Eley's estimates for the fire department for the next fiscal year, totaling $1,158,938.

The City Council yesterday adopted a resolution asking the Pacific Electric and Southern Pacific companies to use the Municipal Employment Bureau in securing laborers.

The City Council yesterday received notification from San Francisco and Oakland that they have appointed representatives to participate in next Tuesday's conference on a proposed amendment to the Constitution providing for city and county consolidation.

The City Council made appropriations yesterday for work to open passageways to the plant of the new garbage reduction works. It was announced that thirty carloads of equipment for the plant will be shipped to Los Angeles next month.

The Board of Public Works has awarded the contract for the paving of Mission road, from Gallardo to Baldwin streets, after a long fight as to what should be the width of the paving.

At the City Hall.

ASKS MILLION TO FIGHT FIRES.

ESTIMATES INCLUDE NUMEROUS SERVICE BETTERMENTS.

Commission Approves Figures Submitted by Chief Eley, Which Provide for Purchase of More Engines, Hose Wagons and Other Needed Equipment.

More than one million dollars—in exact figures, $1,158,938—is the total estimate of Fire Chief Eley for the fire department for the next fiscal year. Eley declares that this is only a reasonable demand, in order that the fire department may keep pace with the general growth of the city. The commission approved the estimates and they will go to the City Auditor tomorrow for presentation to the Budget Committee.

A summary of the estimates shows that whereas the amount for salaries and wages for the present fiscal year was $522,840, the need for the next year will be $623,615. The outlays for the present year were $321,539, while the estimates ask for $412,089 for the new year. The present year's expense estimates are $71,384, while the sum of $123,284 is placed for this item for the new year.

In the proposed new outlay there is provision made for equipment for various sections of the city not now adequately provided. An item of $10,500 is listed for four 50-horsepower combination chemical and hose wagons for the East Hollywood and Vernon and Lima-avenues fire houses. For chassis for chemical wagons, two autos and one auto truck, $6600 is asked. An auto pumping engine for San Pedro, $10,000, and two for new engine houses in the city proper, $20,000, are in the list.

Then there is the item of one motor-driven aerial truck for the house at Seventh and Figueroa streets; one city service motor truck for Hollywood and one for Washington and Arlington avenues, totaling $14,000; eight tractors, $20,000; five chassis for hose wagons, $16,300; tractors for trucks, $13,500; tractors for seven engines, $31,500; chassis for combination wagons, $20,500; motor-driven wagons for Wilmington, Rose Hill and Compton and Forty-sixth street, $17,260; combination motor-driven pumps for San Pedro, Cypress and Pepper avenues, hose companies 2 and 5, Thirty-eighth street, Western avenue and Fountain and Vermont avenues, $63,000.

There is an item of $105,000 for a new fire boat for the harbor.

New apparatus totals $283,800; new equipment, $28,500 and provision for hydrants, etc., $9239.

CONSOLIDATION PLAN.
NORTHERN CITIES RESPOND.

The City Council was notified by telegrams yesterday that both San Francisco and Oakland have responded to the invitation to participate in a conference next Tuesday in this city on the subject of the proposed constitutional amendment providing for city and county consolidation.

San Francisco has selected Percy V. Long, its City Attorney, to represent it in this conference, and Oakland will be represented by B. F. Woolner, City Attorney of that city.

Los Angeles Councilmen take the position that the great problem before the city at this time is that of providing legal means for the placing of Los Angeles aqueduct water upon land where it will be of the most service and practicability. To this end city and county consolidation is the desideratum to be advanced as speedily as possible.

Without the combined aid of Los Angeles, San Francisco and Oakland, any single city's move will fail. Each of the trio has plans for expansion under consideration, and the object of Tuesday's conference will be to reach a common understanding on a plan that will fit each situation. With such an agreement it is practically certain that the needed measures will be carried at the State election.

Male Stenographers Wanted.

The Civil Service Commission has raised the ban against male stenographers who have not lived in Los Algeles for one year. Scarcity of competent male stenographers is the cause. Men are now wanted. A civil service examination will be held April 11.

IT'S ON THE WAY.
GARBAGE REDUCTION PLANT.

The City Council yesterday made an appropriation of $15,075 to carry on improvements that will be necessary to provide proper access to the grounds for the garbage reduction plant to be built by C. D. Crouch for handling city garbage.

It will be necessary to improve Leonard street, build up two subways underneath the Santa Fe tracks, construct a sewer and lay water pipes. All this must be done at the direct expense of the city, with the exception that the Santa Fe railroad will stand half of the cost of the construction of the subways under its tracks.

There will be two ten-foot wide subways and a strip of Leonard street twenty-one feet wide and for a distance of 1475 feet will be paved.

Members of the Finance Committee have been perturbed over the possibility of Crouch's plans falling through, and telegrams were sent East to ascertain whether the orders for machinery have been placed. Councilman Conwell stated yesterday that assurances have been received that the entire equipment has been ordered and that its manufacture is well under way, while thirty carloads will be shipped here during April.

The outlays on the part of the city will be practically useless unless the plant is constructed, but they are necessary for use before the construction work proceeds.

PROVIDE FIRST FUNDS.
CITY'S INSURANCE SCHEME.

The city has a new fund—the workmen's compensation, insurance and safety act fund. The municipality from this time forth will carry its own risk, under the provisions of the new act.

The City Council yesterday made an appropriation of $1000 for the initial needs of this department, and placed it at the disposal of the City Attorney, who is to act as head of the insurance department until the task reaches proportions too great for him to give it the necessary time. The $1000 is to be used for preliminary work.

URGES BUREAU'S USE.
GIVES MEN WITHOUT FEES.

The City Council adopted a resolution yesterday calling upon the Pacific Electric and Southern Pacific companies to use the Municipal Employment Bureau to get men for their work crews, urging that they can be supplied without being required to pay agency fees.

Councilman Betkouski declared that every effort must be made to secure the patronizing of the Municipal Employment Bureau by the concerns employing large numbers of men.

The resolution adopted was introduced by Councilman Wheeler. In speaking on it Betkouski said:

"The spirit of the resolution is good. We must do everything in our power to boost the city's employment agency. The Salt Lake and Santa Fe railroads have used this bureau, but the Pacific Electric and the Southern Pacific have never placed an order there."

BIG PAVING JOB.
MISSION ROAD IMPROVEMENT.

After years of waiting, and of late the insistent demand of the Board of Supervisors, Mission road is to be improved. This will provide a paved highway from the main part of the city to the County Hospital and will make a direct connection with the improved streets leading to the county's good roads system.

A long fight was carried on over the width of the roadway to be paved in Mission road, which has a 100-foot width. Various property owners were willing to stand the expense of a paved strip equal to that of the county good roads system, but they declared that paving of the entire roadway would be so expensive as to practically confiscate certain of the fronting properties. They failed, however, to obtain a majority protest, and the City Council carried through proceedings for the paving of the entire roadway.

The contract has been awarded by the Board of Public Works to the Fairchilds-Gilmore-Wilton Company for the paving of Mission road from Gallardo to Baldwin streets, for $108,702.44. This is one of the biggest paving contracts awarded by the board for many months.

City Hall Brevities.

The City Council yesterday granted a new franchise to the San Pedro Transportation Company for a ferry service between San Pedro and East San Pedro.

Inquiry was made by Councilman Langdon yesterday as to the prospects for the long-talked-of comfort station at Ninth and Main streets. President Whiffen stated that while an appropriation had been made for this station in the last budget, the extra demands for money had caused it to be used for other purposes, and the project will have to await the next budget. The money will probably be available in August.

The City Council yesterday set 9 o'clock of April 22 as the time for hearing protests on the petitions for establishment of lighting districts for Fifth street, between Main and Central avenue; Eighth street, between Main and Figueroa streets; Seventh street, between Hoover and the Los Angeles River, and Sixth street, between Hill and Alameda streets.

The Fire Commission yesterday recommended that the City Council at once purchase two combination engine and hose wagons of a capacity of 700 gallons a minute. Provision for these was made in the last budget. The Fire Chief yesterday recommended that fourteen fire alarm boxes be placed in the San Pedro district. The commission approved.

Does Away With Constant Drugging

Fruitola Is Taken in One Dose, and Results Are Quick and Positive.

There are times when the heroic doses of our grandmother's days are still necessary, and that is especially true of biliary colic, or hepatic colic, as it is also known. The layman will recognize it by severe pains that start at the margin of the ribs on the right side and extend to the shoulders and entire abdomen. There may also be vomiting and chills and fever, and the pains, as the hardened bile stones pass from the gall duct into the intestines, are agonizing beyond words.

Simple laxative and "liver medicines" will do little good, and even operations are not always successful, or necessary, as is proven by those who have tried the proper method. Mr. Robert Struck of 1816 Jefferson street, Kansas City, Mo., writing for his wife, says that Mrs. Struck had these symptoms to a very marked degree and after a long period of suffering was persuaded by a friend to take Fruitola, a California remedy made for just these symptoms. She passed several hundred stones in all, which both she and Mr. Struck are convinced were gall stones, and she has been entirely well ever since.

There is no argument that can be advanced that is half so convincing as the testimony of honest folks who have tried Fruitola, and there are hundreds who have had even more remarkable experiences with Fruitola than Mrs. Struck. Many have prevented jaundice by its use, many chronically constipated, whom no ordinary laxatives would benefit, have found permanent relief from the flushing out that Fruitola gave them. This excellent remedy is prepared by the Pinus Medicine Co., Monticello, Ill., for whom this is published, and can be obtained at any drug store with full directions for use.

HIGH-SEA SUIT OVER BUNCHES.

CAPTAIN OF FREIGHTER LOSES PARTNERSHIP MIX-UP.

Agrees to Enter Fruit Company and Then Backs Out—He Loses Fat Carrier Bill Because of Bankruptcy—Glendale Family Dispute Again Taken to Court.

A partnership agreement entered into on the high seas had its echo in Judge Works's court yesterday when the suit of Capt. F. Jebsen against J. H. Grande of the Grande Fruit Company, was tried for the recovery of a freight bill of $1575, covering a shipment of 5250 bunches of bananas from Las Penas, Mex., to San Pedro.

Grande contracted with Capt. Jebsen to bring up the bananas and arranged to accompany him on the trip as the personal representative of the fruit company. Previous to embarking Grande obtained an option from his two partners for their interest in the concern.

On the trip he talked over with Capt. Jebsen the advisability of him taking a half-interest. As the talk ran Jebsen would not have to put up any money, his interest consisting of the amount of the freight bill. Jebsen finally consented, agreeing, however, to put in only $1500.

On the return trip Grande left the ship at San Diego, reaching San Pedro ahead of the vessel by train. He bought out his partners for $350 each. Capt. Jebsen was then to all intents and purposes a full-fledged partner in the fruit company.

But being a sailorman and not a business man, it would seem that Jebsen acquired cold feet, especially as he and Grande had an altercation. At any rate he declined to become a partner and demanded his freight money. Meantime, it developed that the Grande Fruit Company had become bankrupt.

The bananas were sold, probably for the benefit of the creditors of the concern.

This was the situation when Jebsen's suit was tried by Judge Works. The result leaves the sailorman apparently high and dry, for the court held that while there was a contract at sea, no papers were signed. No judgment could be made against Grande, for his concern was bankrupt. His two partners had been released by the contract. A judgment of $75 was entered against them and judgment for costs in their favor.

The net results of Capt. Jebsen's venture therefore appear to be the sum of $75. He has an action, however, in the bankruptcy proceedings.

CAN'T STAND NOISE.
BRINGS SECOND SUIT.

Youth and beauty will have its way. This is apparent from the plaint of J. J. Laws of No. 105 East Palmer avenue, Tropico, who is 84 years old and hence lacks the sentiment of younger persons. Laws, who married Alma Turner's mother in 1909, complains in a suit filed yesterday that Miss Alma persists in having her own sweet-willed way in his home.

In short, Laws asserts that Miss Alma refuses to leave the house and quite rebelliously persists in entertaining her young friends three or four evenings a week with all the accompaniment of mirth and music, to the disturbance of the rest of her stepfather. When she is not entertaining callers, Law asserts she goes out and comes back late at night.

Laws says Miss Alma conducts herself at his house in accordance with her own wishes. He asserts she has put her dainty foot down and declares she will live there as long as she pleases. Now he wants her restrained from disturbing his rest at night, and to that end asks the court for an injunction.

Laws recently filed suit against Miss Alma on the same grounds. Apparently some pressure was brought to bear upon him, for he had E. C. Peck, his counsel, withdraw the action. The second suit, he declares, will stick and the battle with his stepdaughter will be fought to the bitter end.

MUST PAY IT BACK.
ERROR CAUSES LAWSUIT.

Mrs. Elva Kemp must repay to the American Savings Bank $500 she withdrew, due to an error of the bank in crediting her account with that sum. The testimony showed that she obtained $500 on a promissory note secured by a mortgage, depositing the money. She was credited in error with double the amount and later checked it all out.

Judge Shenk held that the bank was clearly entitled to recover and gave judgment against Mrs. Kemp. Her defense was that her son frequently deposited money to her credit in the bank and she believed the balanec shown was hers by right.

GETS TEN THOUSAND.
INJURED BY AN AUTO.

Vincent Gerardi obtained judgment for $10,000 against D. Bonoff by a jury in Department Fifteen yesterday for injuries he received when he was struck by Bonoff's auto at Eleventh and Bonnie Brae, July 13, 1912. He sued for $32,189.

The testimony showed that a portion of Gerardi's skull was removed by the surgeons as well as blood clots and that the injury superinduced paralysis.

The auto was driven at the time of the accident by Carl Bonoff, a son of the defendant. Myer Siegel, a merchant, and the elder Bonoff, were passengers.

COURT PARAGRAPHS.
PROCEEDINGS IN BRIEF.

COURT'S PUNISHMENT. William Hood, 29 years old, must pay $300 for an offense committed against a 16-year-old girl. He pleaded guilty and asked for probation, which Judge Taft denied. Instead he gave him a suspended sentence yesterday and required him to put up bonds to guarantee the payment of the fine. In this way Judge Taft believes the young man will be punished for his sin.

TO ATTACK INSPECTOR

Defense of Chinese rows to Question of U. S. cial's Integrity.

The defense in the case of Yick, the rich Bakersfield who is now on trial before Wellborn and a jury in the States District Court on the smuggling contraband Chinese, been indicated in a question spector E. P. Morse by Isadore weller of counsel for the defense discredit the inspector who up the case against Sam and low-defendant, Jung Kin.

The question was whether ber 14, 1911, he had not business place of Sam at about 7 o'clock in the morning borrowed $100 from either his wife. Morse replied at that time nor any other borrowed $100 from either Sams.

In this case Judge Wellborn ready decided that even if en that immigration officers the conspiracy in which wards participated, that fense for Sam. The court to be legal the seizure of longing to Sam, after he petition in bankruptcy. it is said, will tend to him.

Attack upon the integrity of the spector is regarded as the nue of defense left the Chinese.

SEEING IS BELIEVING.

Thank heaven, the new Southern Pacific depot will soon exist somewhere besides in imagination or on paper. Dirt for the foundation has actually been broken. When the ticket office is installed our last doubt will be removed.

SHOULD BE ACCEPTED.

Wilmington invites California in general and Los Angeles in particular to a harbor celebration and feast in that growing port April 11. Our people should accept, if for no other reason than that every opportunity to express and ignite harbor enthusiasm should be seized.

NOT A CHANCE.

A bandit in a taxi tried to rob a woman yesterday morning and she proceeded to empty a revolver at him and to follow him in her own automobile. A robber who knows no better than to try to rob a woman in this day of equal rights should not trust himself at large without a chaperon.

DANGEROUS PLEASURE.

Some of the children of the city are playing polo on skates. They naturally need the paved streets and boulevards for this amusement. Since nobody can tell at what moment an automobile will appear, nor what speed it will be making, we do not feel like encouraging the children in their new game. The street makes a poor playground under any circumstances.

THE OLIVER TWIST OF NATIONS.

An insidious Yankee Congressman suggests two riders to the bill repealing the Panama Canal tolls exemption bill. One is to prohibit Chicago from lowering Lake Michigan more than two inches in order to obtain water to flush her sewers. The other is to pay the losses sustained by British subjects who during the late unpleasantness invested in Confederate bonds. Any other legislation suggested by Sir Edward Grey will receive favorable consideration.

TIDING IT OVER.

A scientist is a person who draws part of the Rockefeller endowment at the University of Chicago and takes his dyspepsia tablets on the campus of that institution. These functions enable him to analyze the bowels of the earth, look boldly into the heart of life and dissect the ways of Providence. Having done this, one of them has discovered that the earth is not a fiery mass inside, but is more rigid than steel and that the solid surface of the earth is subject to the same ebb and flow as are the tides of the ocean. The only importance attaching to this statement is that the knowledge is likely to make some of us seasick.

DESERVES A BOOST.

We are glad to see the movement to secure $500,000 as an endowment for Occidental College. One man offers a third of this amount if the other two-thirds be raised first. We are living in a prosperous land. The city gets bigger and richer every day. Its colleges and universities are of vast importance. They do a great work in the making of the city and the State and they deserve to reflect our highest prosperity and best success. They should always be regarded as givers and not beggars. To endow them is to invest wisely in the manhood and womanhood upon which the security of city, State and nation must ever rest.

TWELVE HUNDRED YEARS HENCE.

Since the Alaska railroad construction bill was passed Pinchot has retired in disgust from the position of adviser to the Secretary of the Interior, the President, and Congress. But the scepter which he dropped was promptly picked up by Dr. George Otis Smith, director of the United States Geological Committee.

Dr. Smith appeared before the Public Land Committee and urged the passage of a bill providing for the leasing instead of the sale of coal, phosphate and mineral lands on the public domain. The doctor pictured to the committee the awful condition of things that would exist 1200 years hence in A.D. 3114 when the coal supply would be exhausted at the present rate of mining.

Dr. Smith evidently does not indorse the sentiment of the British orator who inquired: "What has posterity done for us?"

REIMBURSING THE SOUTH.

Congressman Johnson of South Carolina is not unmindful of the interest of his constituents. He has an eye on any "unexpended balances" that may be lurking in the Federal treasury. He has introduced a bill "for the relief of Confederate soldiers and citizens of the Confederate States," and another bill "to authorize the Secretary of War to cause to be investigated and to provide for the payment of all claims presented on behalf of churches, schools, libraries, hospitals, and establishments conducted for the benefit of churches, or for charitable purposes, arising from the occupation and use of the buildings, grounds, and other property of various kinds occupied, used, taken away, injured, consumed, or destroyed by the United States or its army during the Civil War or for its benefit in any way."

No bill has been introduced to place all Confederate veterans and their widows on the pension list on an equality with Union soldiers. That may come later.

WILL THE CANAL PAY?

Will the tolls received from the Panama Canal pay the cost of its upkeep and the interest on the bonds issued in aid of its construction?

The cost of maintaining the canal is estimated at $2,000,000 per annum. The interest on $400,000,000—its total cost—at 3 per cent. will be $12,000,000. In all $14,000,000 per annum.

To make up this amount it is necessary that 12,000,000 of tonnage should pass through the canal at $1.20 per ton. Where will the 12,000,000 of tonnage come from? Taking the tonnage of the ships that now pass around Cape Horn and through the Straits of Magellan, and the tonnage carried across the Isthmus by rail, it appears that 2,000,000 tons of California, Oregon and Washington wheat, and a million tons of canned and dried fruits, canned and salted fish, wine, brandy, hops, wool and citrus fruits are now shipped to the East and Europe from Pacific ports. Two million tons of nitrates, guano, wheat and ores go from Chile, Bolivia and Peru. Six million tons of miscellaneous freight are carried between Europe and our Atlantic Coast, and Australia, Japan, China, and American Pacific ports. The increase in grain shipments—the production of which would be stimulated by a saving of 10 to 15 cents per bushel in cost of freight, sacking, interest and insurance will exceed 1,000,000 tons per annum. The lumber shipments from this coast to European, Eastern and South African ports—a traffic that would be created by the canal—may be safely estimated at 2,000,000 tons. The proportion of general traffic contingently tributary to the canal would probably not be less than 2,000,000 tons.

From these various sources there will be 16,000,000 tons to pass through the canal annually, when but 12,000,000 tons are needed to pay for maintaining the canal and paying 3 per cent. interest on the cost of its construction.

After this year no ship can afford to round the Horn. The voyage from any Pacific port to Liverpool in a sailing vessel occupies an average of 120 days. The annual allowance charged against her earnings for interest on capital is 6 per cent., for insurance is 8 per cent., and for amortization or depreciation in value is 10 per cent.—in all 24 per cent. The cost of such a vessel of 2000 tons register and 3000 tons carrying capacity is $120,000. Her fixed charges are therefore $28,800 per annum. The cost of wages and subsistence of officers and crew will be about $13,000, making her total annual outlay when in commission about $42,000. The number of days of detention in port of a vessel plying between California and Liverpool will average ninety-five in each year, her sailing days are 270, and she makes two and one quarter voyages each year. She moves 6750 tons of wheat at a cost to her—making allowance for return freight—of $6.22 per ton. By use of the Panama Canal, which would shorten each voyage sixty-one days, she could make four voyages per year and allow 125 days for detention in port. She would move 12,000 tons at the same cost now incurred in moving 6750 tons, or at a cost of $3.50 instead of $6.22 per ton. Add to this sum the $1.20 for tolls—if bound to a foreign port, and possibly if bound to New York, and she would increase her earnings $18,400 per annum, or 15 per cent. of her cost if she retained the entire advance, or 7½ per cent. if she divided with the producers and consumers of her cargo.

There are numerous other advantages that will inure to a ship passing through the canal. The percentage of depreciation for wear and tear, the cost of insurance and the days of detention in port would be less, for the stormy passage via Cape Horn would be avoided, while in the case of iron hulls the cost and delay of docking would disappear, as the change from salt water to fresh in passing through the canal would rid the ship of the marine growth that is so great in tropical waters.

Yes, the canal will pay. It will pay the railroads, for they will gain more from the increased local traffic between the interior and the Pacific seaboard than they will lose in through traffic. It will pay the producers and consumers of the world, for they will gain nearly $3 per ton on every ton of freight that passes through the canal. It will pay England, for the earnings of her 20,000,000 of tons of shipping will be increased more than the value of the carrying trade she will lose by the revival of the American merchant marine that will be stimulated by the building of a passage for deep-sea ships, that American genius and money and power has rifted through the continents of the western hemisphere.

THE ONE THING FOR MEXICO.

Day by day authentic accounts come out of Mexico showing more and more conclusively that the attitude of the administration at Washington is wrong—not only wrong, but dangerous.

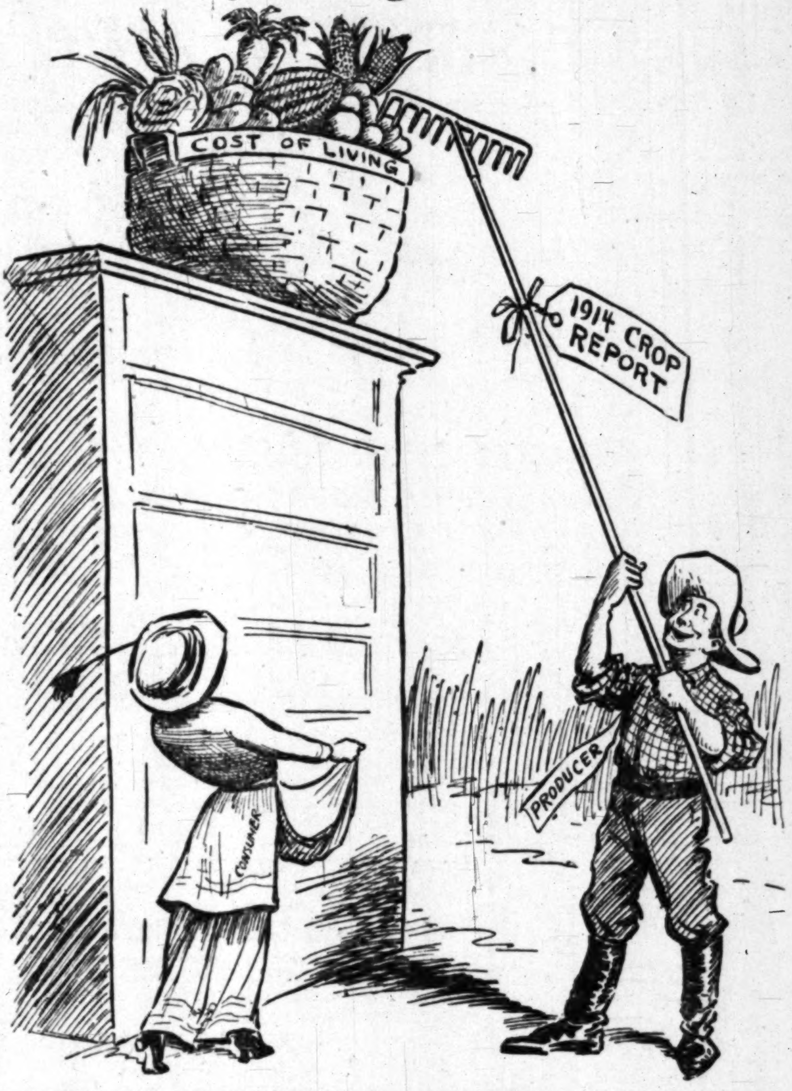
The policy of ignoring Mexico is one of ignorance; the hope that conditions will right themselves below the Rio Grande is suckled by Mr. Wilson and Mr. Bryan when all of the indications—the history of the past, the temperament of the people, the anarchy of the present—show beyond the reasonable possibility of even sanguine hope that conditions will not right themselves, but will grow worse.

The outlook is portentous. Yes, it would be portentous even if the administration recognized, as it does not, the demands of the situation and sought to meet them. With European nations becoming more and more involved, with menacing complications close at hand, and with incompetency, or, at least, with negligence at home, the time has come for the American people to demand that decisive action be taken.

Statesmen and soldiers, whose perception has been trained to analyze such situations and whose concern is vital, declare that the one logical, and perhaps the only logical, solution is for the United States to unite with other interested nations for a joint, armed intervention to pacify Mexico. It would not be an intervention for conquest. It would be to restore a Mexican government for Mexico, to re-establish peace and order, to protect and to indemnify foreign citizens for losses that have been sustained by them during this carnival of anarchy.

An intervention of this nature would not violate any American principle. The spirit of the Monroe doctrine is to prevent conquest on this hemisphere, but it could not be invoked to stop any nation from protecting its citizens. The European nations are patiently tolerating the Mexican chaos out of deference to the United States, believing that this country cannot long ignore the butchery of its citizens and the spoliation of their property.

May Bring It Down.



It would cause no surprise to those who are observant if one or more powers of Europe do not give the United States the choice between intervening single-handed and alone, or of seeing some aroused and indignant nation of Europe do so. Such is the logical outcome of the "watchful waiting" policy.

Several military men, who for obvious reasons must speak with the greatest restraint and moderation, have expressed themselves as of the opinion that this country can only obviate worse complications by uniting with the interested nations in a joint intervention. Many statesmen, agreeing with them, have also unqualifiedly declared that the present policy of the administration, if continued, must terminate in war with Mexico.

From every point of view joint intervention would be more acceptable than any other plan known. Even the Mexican people would receive it with less resentment than if this government, or any other, attempted to intervene. The moral effect of the world's nations joining together to restore peace and order would disperse opposition which a single-handed intervention would intensify.

It is estimated by war authorities that American intervention single-handed would require 400,000 men and cost $1,000,000 per day while the war lasted. It is also computed that the pensions resultant would amount to over $800,000,000. Those are the direct war costs. The indirect costs would be felt by every commercial and industrial concern in the nation. The Democratic tariff bill has already set many extensive businesses to tottering—war would definitely establish the usual Democratic record for failures and panics.

It is evident that if the inane and inactive policy of the Wilson administration is continued war is imminent—by some astute statesmen considered inevitable. The only plausible recourse is a joint intervention of the world powers. It would not be expensive to each that took part; the number of soldiers and ships required from each would be small; and, most important of all, such a confederation would impress the bandit hordes of Mexico as invincible and the intervention would be more than half successful from the day it was agreed upon.

If intervention should be agreed upon, say by Germany, England, France, Russia, Italy and the United States, it would be necessary for each nation to bind itself not to acquire so much as a foot of Mexican territory, and also to agree to withdraw all naval and military forces after peace and order had been restored and the indemnities due their citizens for outrages had been paid. Acting under such an agreement, the independence of Mexico would not be endangered and the Monroe doctrine would not be violated. It would be a compact entered into for the good of all nations; and the subsequent prosperity and peace in Mexico would repay all of the expense and trouble entailed.

THE GOSPEL OF IDLENESS.

With a political cult preaching the arbitrary division of wealth, and proselyting among people among whom the tendency toward idleness is transparent, with tons of literature being distributed to convince the lazy that the prosperous and industrious classes owe them an unearned livelihood, it is not surprising that the "army" of hoodlums which recently appeared in Los Angeles should flatly declare a purpose to live without working.

In this, the busiest city of its size in the world, there is no place for sympathy with such an attitude. Had they come to Los Angeles as honest, unemployed workmen seeking jobs, they would have been given respectful attention.

But they have come declaring that they will not work and that they will take what they need to live, when and where they find it.

Brigands, sneak thieves and professional criminals have the same debauched code of ethics.

There is work here for those who are willing to take it. General Manager McMillan of the Pacific Electric Railway has been compelled to ask the city for an extension of time in track laying because men cannot be found to do the work.

If a band of thieves came to the city publicly announcing the intention of "taking" what they wanted, the police would hustle them out of the city or into the jails. But these "unemployed" have been argued with, and to a certain extent tolerated. So far they have been inoffensive—merely begging from kitchens and asking for "two bits to get a cup o' coffee and a flop." They preach the gospel of idleness and practice it; they represent a demoralizing force in society—by their own admission they are drones, parasites on the body politic. They have just enough learning to argue, but not enough to understand the merit of the question they discuss; they talk largely of "labor and capital" and of "rights," as a justification for their laziness and thievish proclivities.

With labor unions condoning violence, with Socialists maundering over the division of property and equalization of wealth, with the erroneously named "Industrial Workers of the World" agitating a revolution, and with bands of hoodlums brazenly marching about the country bragging that they won't work but will "take" what they want, it is time that the citizens of the country view the situation with less lassitude. These anarchistic movements have long been treated as a sort of joke—material for comic papers and vaudeville chestnuts. Now and then some particularly dastardly crime shocks the public into transient indignation. But there must be more than indignation: these idlers, these agitators, these anarchists and their variegated disciples must be made to know that the American people will not tolerate theories or practices that have the avowed purpose of wrecking the republic and violently disrupting the social order.

ARMORED AUTOS.

Huerta is evidently striving to be up to date in his arrangements for contending with the Carranza-Villa bandits. His War Department has contracted with Italian makers for 500 automobiles to be used in patrolling and protecting railway lines. It is believed that the autos will be more efficient than trains for patrol work.

The Italian manufacturers will furnish only the chassis of the autos. A portion of the fittings will be procured in the United States and sent by sea to Vera Cruz. At Aguas Calientes there is an extensive factory where solid tires will be fitted to obviate the loss of time resulting from punctures and to bear up the weight of the heavy armor plates which will be proof against all missiles except cannon projectiles.

Each auto will be fitted with one or two machine guns. Armed and armored autos cannot be so readily attacked as trains, and they can be used where trains would not be available to run down small bands trying to damage the railway.

At the national railway shops in Aguas Calientes the hands are only employed four days in the week. They will now be employed the other two days in manufacturing artillery shells for the Federal army.

Five hundred armed autos patrolling the railroads and guarding the trains from Mexico City south and west will prove of great help in the campaign of Huerta against the bandits.

THEY EARN IT.

On April 1, sixty-seven California teachers go upon the State's pension rolls. Having taught for thirty years they will now receive $500 annually the rest of their lives and be retired. No one can hold a place in our schools in this day and time for all of those years unless he bring enthusiasm and ability to his work. It is not the sort of a berth in which one can go to sleep for thirty years and wake up pensioned for life.

STREAKS OF WIT.

A Reflection.

[Yonkers Statesman:] "Say, waiter," remarked the blonde lady, "this lobster you've brought me is only half-baked."

"Well, madam," said the man, looking at her male companion, "I thought perhaps you preferred your lobsters that way."

Would Light the Town.

[Pittsburgh Post:] "Much energy is not utilized. There ought to be some way of conserving the rays of the sun."

"Yes, and look at all the energy that goes to waste in chewing gum. If we could only harness the gum chewers, eh?"

No Objection.

[Boston Transcript:] She: No, Jack. I fear we could never be happy; you know I always want my own way in everything.

He: But, darling, you could go on wanting it after we are married.

The Usual Accompaniment.

[National Monthly:] A kindergarten teacher, after explaining to her much-interested class that birds have feathers, bears have fur, sheep have wool, etc., asked the question: "Now, who can tell me what oysters have?"

A bright little girl, very eager to recite, answered: "Crackers."

Used to Scarecrows.

[London Opinion:] "The sparrows seem to be getting at these peas," John. Couldn't you put up some kind of a scarecrow?"

"Scarecrow wouldn't be no use, Miss. Why, if you was to stand there yerself all day, I doubt of ye'd keep 'em off."

His Hardest Study.

[Yale Record:] First Student (wearily:) I suppose I'll be up all night tonight; I have to make out my expense account.

Second (more hopefully:) Why don't you tell the truth and get a good night's rest?

Song of the Hereafter.

[Sydney Bulletin:] The Curate: Now, my deah children, I want you all to join me in singing that bee-utiful hymn, which I hope and trust we will isng together in the Great Beyond, "Heah We Suffer Grief and Pain."

Natural History Lesson.

[Cincinnati Enquirer:] Willie: Paw, where do jailbirds come from?

Paw: They are raised by larks, bats and swallows, my son.

The Common Kind.

[Christian Register:] Miss Gush: Oh, captain, were you ever boarded by a pirate?

Capt. Storms: Yes, he charged me $3 a day for a bedroom on the fourth floor.

THE TOWN ROW.

WALT MASON IN THE TIMES.

We had an ancient, vicious fray, at Pinktown-on-the-Heights, and people raised Old Ned by day, and filled with strife the nights. I helped to paint the village red, and fought our faction's foes; one day I had a busted head, the next a ruined nose; and oft my eyes were in a sling, and life was so intense I couldn't smile or dance or sing for twenty-seven cents. One day I sat me down to rest, a poultice on my face, and then there came a stranger guest, a man of wondrous grace. "I've watched you scrapping far and near, to put your foes to rout, and now," he said, "I'd like to hear what all the row's about." I hemmed and stammered for a spell about our local war; to save my neck I couldn't tell what we'd been scrapping for. "I've asked and asked," the stranger said, as he prepared to go, "why this poor burg is painted red, and no one seems to know." Then I obtained a flag of truce, and sought my warmest foe—full often I had cooked his goose, and he had laid me low. "I welcome peace," said he, "by heck, so let the White Dove whiz!" And then he wept upon my neck, and I shed tears on his. We thus might squelch most village rows, and shake our load of care; but we keep wrangling till the cows come home, their tails in air.

Coining Words.

[Kokomo Times:] The esteemed Weather Bureau has sprung a new one. It is the word "smog," and it means smoke and fog. The bureau explains that very frequently there are times when this mixture is apparent in the atmosphere, and it considers the new word a great little idea.

Very well, "smog" let it be. But why end there? Let's call a mixture of snow and mud "smud." A mixture of snow and soot "snoot," and a mixture of snow and hail "snail." Thus we might have a weather forecast:

"Snail today, turning to snoot tonight; tomorrow smoggy with smud."

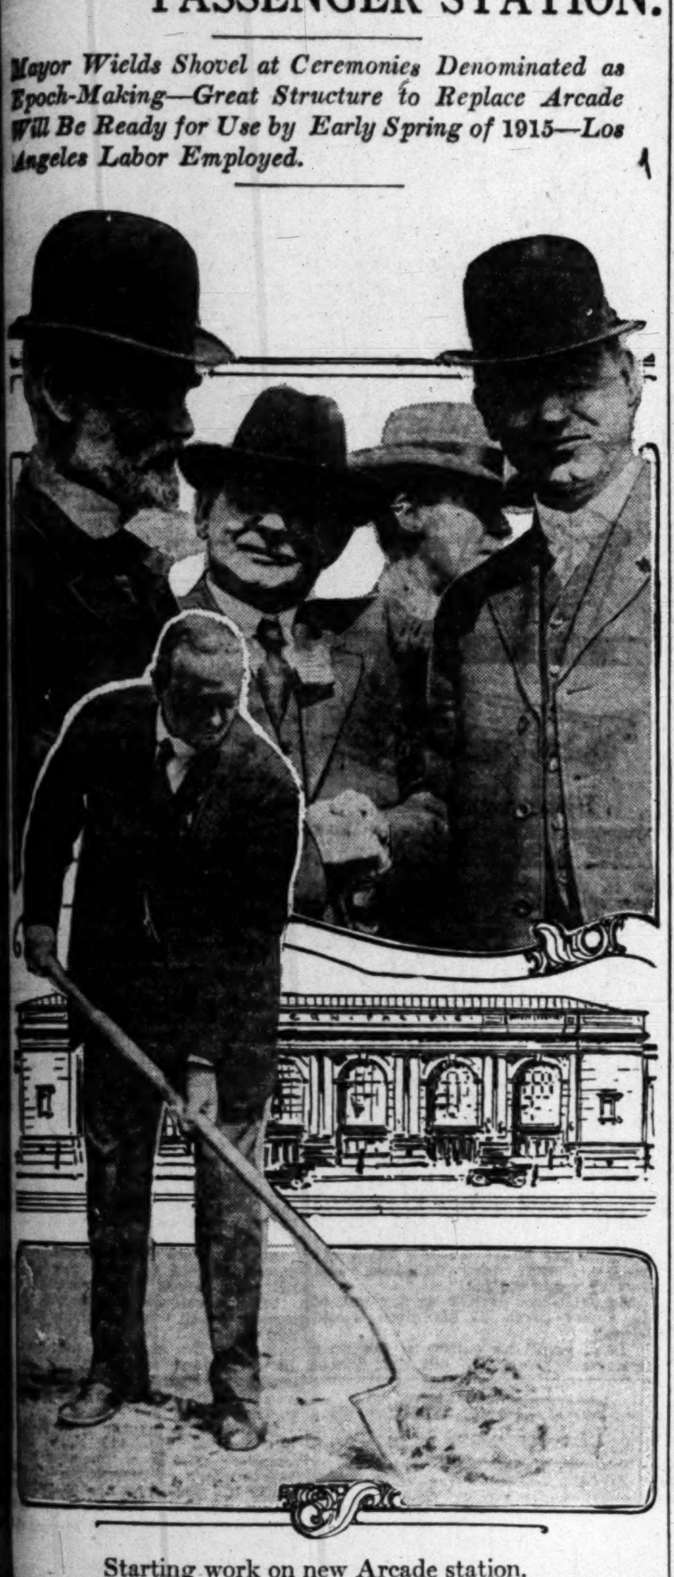
Vale Arcade!

GROUND BROKEN FOR PASSENGER STATION.

Mayor Wields Shovel at Ceremonies Denominated as Epoch-Making—Great Structure to Replace Arcade Will Be Ready for Use by Early Spring of 1915—Los Angeles Labor Employed.



Starting work on new Arcade station.

President Whiffen of the City Council and Assistant General Manager Platt of the Southern Pacific shaking hands in mutual congratulation over the passage of the ordinances which make the new structure a surety for 1915. R. E. Wirsching, member of the Board of Public Utilities, in the background. Below, the Mayor turning the first shovelful of dirt.

IN THE presence of 5000 persons, including the City Council, Depot Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, heads of city departments and prominent railroad officials and citizens, the Mayor turned the first shovelful of earth yesterday morning for the new Southern Pacific station, inaugurating an enterprise on which $750,000 will be expended. The structure is to be ready for use in the early spring of 1915.

"An epoch in the history of the city," said F. W. Blanchard, chairman of the Depot Committee of the Chamber, who was master of ceremonies.

"A beautiful day for the occasion and a beautiful occasion for the day," said Assistant General Manager Platt of the Southern Pacific, who was the second speaker.

"I consider myself to have been born under a lucky star," the Mayor asserted as he took the shovel, handsomely nickel-plated, to start the excavating, "in being the executive of this city at the time that a structure is to be erected as a gateway for 1915 visitors."

Preceded by Chief Sebastian and Fire Chief Eley in their automobiles, the Mayor, City Council, Depot Committee of the chamber, heads of city departments, and railroad officials and prominent citizens left the City Hall in automobiles at 10 o'clock. The procession of machines swept down Broadway to Fifth, then on that street to the site of the new station.

WITHIN THE ROPES.

Just south of the Fifth-street entrance to the present station and in the almost exact center of the public concourse of the new station, a space had been roped off. Here the ground-breaking ceremonies took place, while thousands looked on and a motion-picture camera clicked off each phase of the auspicious occasion.

As the automobiles swept up to the Arcade station, the Southern Pacific shop band of forty pieces played "Hail to the Chief." Following the ceremonies, "I Love You, California" was played, while aerial bombs were set off by the Los Angeles Fire Works Company to unfold the American flags in mid-air, as the crowd cheered.

Simplicity and brevity marked the whole affair. In a few words, Blanchard sketched the history of the station project and congratulated the city and Platt on their successful efforts to arrive at an understanding on franchise matters and make possible the erection of a fitting station for 1915.

"The efforts of the Chamber of Commerce to promote harmony at all times," said Platt, "is appreciated by the Southern Pacific and will be appreciated by untold millions of visitors. I now wish to thank its members and its Depot Committee and the Mayor and City Council for their patience in this matter and to assure all that a station they can be proud of will be erected on this site by 1915."

THEN.

"When I first came here they landed me at the old River station," said the Mayor. "I remember I combed the town for a place for my wife and myself and finally had to be contented with a room I rented of Simon Rienhart in the old station building. Finally we got discouraged and packed up and went back to Wisconsin. People asked me about California and I began to describe it to such good effect that my wife and I soon saw that Southern California was the only place for us to live.

"We settled in Pasadena and one day, twenty-five years ago, I came over here to see them start work on the Arcade. There were stubs of grape vines sticking up where we stand now and orange trees dying a slow death from white scale. Things looked bad. But the railroads came in and gave the town energy and now we are to break ground for a station to accommodate a million persons."

Following the Mayor's turning of the first shovelful of dirt, Platt and Whiffen both turned shovelfuls, to be followed by members of the City Council As a final, an evcavating plow was commendeered and put to work, with the Mayor holding the handles, Platt driving, and Blanchard leading the forward span of horses.

Parkinson & Bergstrom drew the plans for the station, which will cost $350,000, and, with track changes, auxiliary buildings, and the like, $750,000. The Alta Planing Mill Company has the general construction contract, and yesterday afternoon started excavating work in real earnest.

Many men will be employed in the work, which will be done exclusively by Los Angeles firms, working largely with Los Angeles material.

The new structure will face Central avenue, instead of being hid behind other buildings, as is the case with the present station. The cars of the Los Angeles Railway will swing right up to the curb, while Pacific Electric cars will enter the station grounds from the south, over switches to be placed just east of Central avenue.

WORLD-WIDE FILM EXCHANGE.

Twenty-Five Thousand Miles of These Modern Entertainers Were Sent Abroad the Past Year.

[Providence Journal:] A person comfortably seated in space to observe the revolution of the earth could be entertained continually for one complete whirl of twenty-four hours with motion pictures from the American films exported this year; twenty-five thousand miles of them, enough to loop around the equator. This new export business is increasing faster than the gait of seven-leagued boots. Twice as many million feet will have been exported this year than last, according to an estimate of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. Not all this enormous output carries pictures, of course. It is believed that three-fourths of the films used all over the world are manufactured in this country, and the larger quantity of exportations are unexposed, for picture making by the foreign purchasers. On the other hand, most of the imported films contribute pictures to the limitless panorama of the movie shows. Some million feet of the exported blanks return annually printed with pictures from the ends of the earth. It is an amazing industry, and the interchange helps to make the whole world kin.

Million Dollar Sale.

cause it produces a profit that absolutely fixes its real value.

"I saw cotton land that produces one and a half to two bales to the acre. I saw a forty-acre tract that netted $14,000 in one year from asparagus. I saw the finest olives grown anywhere. It only takes sixteen of them to weigh a pound. I have eaten grapefruit grown in many parts of the world, but none can anywhere near compare with the fruit grown in Imperial Valley. It was a revelation to me and will be to anyone who sees it for himself.

NEW POSSIBILITY.

"I am familiar with the sugar-cane industry. Sugar-cane land is worth $500 to $700 an acre and there is none anywhere so well adapted to the successful raising of this product as Imperial Valley. That is one possibility that I saw which appears to have been overlooked and I believe there are many more.

"Calipatria will soon be a great agricultural center. It will have the people living all about it on highly-productive farms. It will have a fine gravity water system, for it lies 100 feet below the canal that supplies it. It will have cottonseed oil factories, gin mills and compresses, olive oil mills and many other branches of industry as well as the development that it will have as the supply and distributing center for a wide stretch of rich farm land."

In looking over the valley last week Schader was particularly impressed with the necessity for an interurban electric railroad to connect not only the cities and towns, but the agricultural regions. The thoroughness of his investigations in this connection gave rise to the report in the valley last week that he contemplates building such a road, but he declined yesterday to state what his plans are.

Regarding his plans for Calipatria Schader said last night that he shall eliminate the speculative feature by selling lots only to men who will enter into a contract to build upon them at once. The future of the town is assured, he says, and buildings will be required from the beginning to take care of the business.

SUGAR INDUSTRY SUFFERS.

Pineapples Assuming Commercial Supremacy in Tariff-Burdened Hawaiian Islands.

Demoralized by the effects of the Democratic tariff, the sugar industry, that has brought untold millions of dollars to the Hawaiian Islands, is now in an equivocal state, declares J. E. Graves, general manager of the Hawaiian Pineapple Products Company, who is a guest at the Los Angeles Athletic Club.

The future prosperity of the islands, he said yesterday, is apparently dependent upon the pineapple industry, which in the last few years has made wonderful strides, rivalling in its proportions the industry that for many years has been the sole mainstay of Hawaii. The place the pineapple is assuming in the commercial life of the islands is the more logical, he stated, because sugar and pineapples seem the sole great resources of the group and the former is practically removed from consideration by the effects of the present tariff.

Credit for what has been done with pineapples of late years he gives to James D. Dole, a young Harvard graduate, who has developed the Cheyenne variety, recognized as far superior to either the Florida or Singapore "pine."

Hawaiian packers are now unable to supply the demand, said Graves. The expansion of the output he illustrated by the case of one by-product, 10,000 cases of which were put out the first year, 1909, as against 1,000,000 cases in 1913.

He said he does not credit stories that the islands are seriously affected by the present drought.

SOLDIERS FORGET FEAR.

Heavy Demand for Courage When Battle Impends—A Foraged Hen Helped the Situation.

[Youth's Companion:] "If an old soldier should tell me," remarked the veteran, "that he wasn't nervous before his first battle, I suppose I should have to believe him, but should regard him as a freak of nature. There aren't many who could say as much. I know I was scared through and through, and besides that, I was scared for fear somebody else would find it out. I was 19, and I've often thought that if it hadn't been for a little thing that happened to distract my mind while we were on the march, my legs never would have carried me to the front, but in quite the other direction.

"We were in camp, and just getting ready to have our dinner, when orders came for us to hurry forward and join a brigade that was likely to engage the enemy at any minute. So we had to gobble down a cold snack and start. Having my first battle loom up before me sudden like that I couldn't eat much of anything, and not having had a civilized meal, I didn't have much stomach for fighting. At first I was looking around for a haystack to scoot for and hide in, but after a time I began to get interested in the lefthand overcoat pocket of the man in front of me, a chap named Piper.

"It looked to me as if there was something very much alive in that pocket. Every now and then Piper would clap his hand over it, as if he was afraid the critter would get out, and I could hear stifled noises from the depths of the pocket that made me suspicious. The lieutenant heard them, too, for twice he turned around and looked fierce enough to eat us.

"By and by, when Piper was off his guard, the thing poked its head out far enough to screech: 'Cut! cu—!' Piper, he squelched the second 'cut'—cut it in two, you might say; but the lieutenant heard something, and he looked round and shouted, 'silence in the ranks there!'

"The men near Piper snickered, but nothing more happened till the order came down the line to shift our guns to the right shoulder. Then, of course, Piper had to use both hands, and the minute he let go of his pocket out scrambled as mad a pullet as you ever saw; and when she'd flopped onto the ground she scurried away, screeching, 'cut! cut! cad-dah-cut!' at the top of her lungs. Well, the captain couldn't help hearing that, and naturally he looked back to see what the row was, and when he saw what had happened he sung out at the top of his voice:

"That made everybody feel middling cheerful, but those who knew where the chicken had come from got a real good laugh when Piper put his hand into his pocket and pulled out a new-laid egg.

"Honestly, I forgot all about being afraid after that."

A Successful Negro Farmer.

[The Southern Workman:] Twenty-two years ago Jonas W. Thomas of Marlborough county, South Carolina, began his career as a farmer by buying an old horse for $40.75 and by renting thirty acres of ordinary South Carolina land for 1400 pounds of lint cotton. After four years of hard work and close saving he was able to buy a mule for $69 and also seven acres of land. Then he began renting and working farms which belonged to other men. Gradually he was able to buy the land he had been renting. Now Thomas lives in a twelve-room house and employs on his $40,000 plantation thirty-nine families, consisting of 189 men, women and children. He has received as much as $31,000 for his cotton crop alone—400 bales of long staple. On an average he has saved $3000 a year for twenty-two years. All that he now has on his farm is his own, "directly and indirectly," he affirms with justifiable pride. In a single year he has borrowed of one local bank, and repaid, $23,000. "Good credit," so Thomas says, "explains a fair share of my success."

$58,185.00 Fire Insurance Paid Us

Our severe losses in the fire which ravaged our Sixth Floor about three weeks ago were fully covered by insurance. The insurance companies have paid us $58,185.00. As we told the public in our preliminary announcements, we determined to distribute every dollar of this money in the shape of EXTREME REDUCTIONS in every department of our store. No matter what kind of a Musical Instrument you wish, you'll save handsomely by buying it here. Discounts prevail on everything except Victors.

Third Week of the Birkel Company's Fire Sale

Let us impress upon you that not one of the Instruments that were damaged during the fire is being offered in this sale. About 35 Pianos and Players were totally destroyed. About 40 Instruments were damaged and required repairs in our shops. It will take about six months to place these Instruments in perfect condition. Not one of them will be sold before that time.

The Instruments being sold during this FIRE SALE comprise the entire remainder of our stock—over 400 absolutely new and unharmed Pianos, Pianolas and Players—that would have to be crowded together and moved about if they remained when the plasterers and decorators commence renovating the building. It is far better judgment for us to dispose of several hundred Instruments, even at radical reductions, than to take the risk of having them injured by the workmen.

Several carloads of Steinways, Webers, Stecks, Sohmers and Kurtzmanns were en route when the fire occurred. These also must be sold. Every agency represented by this House is a leader in its field.

OVER HALF OF ALL SICKNESS CAUSED BY CLOGGED-UP WEAKENED KIDNEYS.

Hundreds Are Suffering With Kidney Trouble and Don't Know It. Backache, Bladder Disorder and Rheumatism Are The Result.

It is a well recognized fact among physicians today, that the greater part of all sickness can be avoided by keeping the kidneys working properly.

This is even more important than for the bowels to move regularly, because the kidneys and bladder are the filterers and sewers of the body. If you suffer with pains in the back or sides, bladder or urinary disorders, lumbago, rheumatism, dizziness, puffy swellings under the eyes or in the feet and ankles, nervousness, tired and worn-out feeling, or any of the many other symptoms of kidney trouble, don't neglect yourself another day and run the risk of serious complications. Secure an original package of Croxone, which costs but a trifle, take three doses a day, for a few days, and you will be surprised how entirely different you will feel.

Croxone overcomes the very worst cases because it removes the cause of such troubles. It soaks right in and cleans out the kidneys and makes them filter out all the poisonous waste matter and uric acid that lodges in the joints and muscles, causing rheumatism; soothes and heals the bladder and quickly ends all such troubles.

It is the most wonderful remedy ever made for the purpose. You will find it entirely different from anything you have ever used. There is nothing else on earth to compare with it. It matters not how old you are or how long you have suffered, the very principle of Croxone is such that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results.

You can secure an original package of Croxone from any first-class drug store. All druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if Croxone fails to give the desired results the very first time you use it.

CALIFORNIA STOMACH SUFFERER TELLS HOW HE GOT QUICK RELIEF.

L. C. Jones of Martinez Says Mayr's Remedy Gave Him Surprising Results.

L. C. Jones of Martinez, Cal., suffered from stomach troubles for a long time. He tried many remedies. At last he took Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy. The results surprised him.

In a letter telling of his experience Mr. Jones said: "I took Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy with most pleasing and surprising results. My trouble has been principally gastritis, with gas around by heart, at times so bad I thought I was going to die. My wife is also taking your remedy with pleasing results."

From all parts of the country such letters come by the thousands. Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy is known everywhere. The first dose proves—no long treatment.

Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy clears the digestive tract of mucoid accretions and poisonous matter. It brings quick relief to sufferers from ailments of the stomach, liver and bowels. Many declare it has saved them from dangerous operations; many are sure it has saved their lives.

Because of the remarkable success of this remedy, there are many imitators, so be cautious. Be sure it's Mayr's. Go to the Owl Drug Company's stores and ask about the wonderful results it has been accom ing—or send to George H. Mayr Mfg. KILFOIL CASE TO GRAND JURY.

Murder Charge to Be Sifted by Inquisitors.

Court Overrules the Motion to Quash Indictment.

District Attorney Hunting for Diamonds.

With the delivery to the District Attorney yesterday of all letters, papers and evidence tending to throw light on the Kilfoil murder mystery, it was announced by Chief Deputy District-Attorney Ford that the grand jury will take up the matter next Tuesday and sift the baffling story of the poisoned chocolate and fasten the crime upon the person responsible.

While the Kilfoil family was cooperating with the District Attorney, the lines were tightened about St. Joseph's sanatorium at San Diego and every effort to see Lillian Palmer, the girl in the case, was frustrated by a permanent guard of physicians, nurses and members of the girl's family. The interesting event looked for had not arrived early in the evening, although Dr. R. B. Irones asserted that the crisis is at hand and the girl's suffering is intense.

Attorney Dysert, for the Kilfoils, yesterday turned over to Ford the statement entrusted to him by Phil A. Kilfoil on February 28. This statement was written, according to Kilfoil, when he wrote the pathetic letter to Lillian Palmer. The letter to the girl and the statement accompanying it were in a sealed envelope to "be opened after death" of Kilfoil. At that time he had an attack of heart failure and thought he was going to die. The statement is like that of March 23, written in the County Jail, in which Kilfoil accuses Lillian Palmer of the poisoning.

NEARER SOLUTION.

All three documents are regarded by Deputy Ford as reaching nearer to a solution of the murder mystery than any development that has yet appeared in the Kilfoil case.

The moving force behind the investigation which has now reached the doors of the grand jury is composed of members of the Kilfoil family, led by John F. Kilfoil a brother of Phil. Members of that family explain that they were willing to let the public believe that Mary Kilfoil committed suicide because of the report of District Attorney's detectives bearing out that theory, and because they wished to see an end to publicity of the matter. Another reason for their wish that the press would drop the case, was that they feared an investigation might reveal the condition of Lillian Palmer, whom they were trying to protect. A charge against Phil Kilfoil, who was often in the girl's company, was foreseen at the time, and it was freely stated by members of the Blaine family that if the condition of Lillian Palmer became known the police would scent a motive for the poisoning of Mary Kilfoil.

An investigation has been continued that is outside of the sordid charges involving Phil Kilfoil and the girl, as his alleged victim. This investigation has developed many important bits of evidence which, it is believed, will lead to the uncovering of the murderer at the proper time.

BOTH SIDES TO SHOW.

That both sides will have to show their hands in court on the statutory charge against Kilfoil was virtually decided yesterday when Judge Willis overruled the Kilfoil motion to dismiss the grand jury indictment. The trial was set for May 14. In the meantime the grand jury will probe the murder case.

At a conference yesterday John F. Kilfoil and Attorney Dysert reported to Deputy Ford that two diamonds and a ruby had been stolen from Phil Kilfoil's desk on the night of February 19, when that desk was searched for evidence by former Detectives Fred Boden and Charles Herne. Ford was asked for a complaint, but as there was no evidence to fasten the theft upon either one of the detectives, the case was sent to Deputy District-Attorney James Hogan, who said he will investigate it at once. Both Boden and Herne were working for the police department at the time and they assert they did not see any gems in the Kilfoil desk.

MORE SONORANS DEPORTED.

Second Trainload of Refugees at Nogales to Be Augmented by Women, Is Report.

Private advices received here yesterday state that a second special train arrived at Nogales, Ariz., yesterday, bearing refugees driven from Sonora, Mex., by orders of Plutarco Elias Calles, military commander of Hermosillo, Sonora.

Four of them, the advices state, barely escaped being shot down by firing squads, telegraphic orders countermanding the sentence of death being received after a hollow square of troops had been formed about them with orders to fire. Two of these, J. Esperjencio Montijo and Rafael Mariscal, are newspaper editors of Hermosillo. The others, Brigido Caro and Eduardo G. Ramos, are business men of the Sonoran capital.

The refugees reported at Nogales, the advices state, that thirty prominent women will also be deported by Calles.

Deportations are in pursuance of a policy said to include the driving from Sonora of everyone who refuses to actively support the Constitutionalist cause.

Those who arrived in Nogales Friday were: Lic Miguel A. Lopez, attorney of Hermosillo; Brigido Caro, business man of Hermosillo; Jesus del Raso, representative in Hermosillo of the piano firm of Wagner & Levien of Mexico City; Ricardo Rodriquez, merchant of La Colorada, Sonora; Jose Esperjencio Montijo, editor of Hermosillo; Gabriel V. Monteverde, editor of Hermosillo; Rafael Mariscal, editor of Hermosillo; Juan Bojorquez, merchant of Hermosillo; Jose Rodriquez, late rebel City Treasurer of Hermosillo; Bernardo Cabrera, merchant of La Colorada, Sonora; Manuel Montijo, merchant of La Colorada, Sonora; Pablo Rubio, Jr., lawyer; Joaquin Louistaunau, large land owner; Rev. F. Johnson; Raul Dominquez; Rosario Moncada; Carlos D. Ainslie; Jesus V. Gonzalez, merchant of Hermosillo; five merchants from Huatabampo; five merchants and farmers from Santa Ana, Sonora.

Lure of the Lights.

REALM OF OOZING JOY ON RIALTO DE RAG.

Colorful Scenes at the "Sign of the Greasy Spoon," on Main Street, Where the Rag Is Ragged and the Bunny Is Hugged With Uncurbed Enthusiasm—Like Ellis Island in the Way of Nationalities.

DOWN on the Rialto de Rag, on Main street, next door to one of those all-night restaurants ("Sign of the Greasy Spoon," or something,) there's a dance hall where they put the tang in the tango.

And Saturday night the place is like Ellis Island for nationalities. It is the lingofest de luxe. There are Italian fishermen, Irish coal-heavers, German truck-drivers, Jewish pawnbrokers, the waitresses and telephone girls and Mary Anns flirt in every tongue, and the little Japanese girls, lately graduated from the paternal tea garden, make up to look like Mexicans, while the Mexican senoritas parade the most wonderful self-made complexions.

But they all dance in the same language.

And mostly they are young. Youth, after the week's labor, packing with joy those three throbbing, glorious hours, hugging to itself love of life, and filling the time with joyful memories to be spread thinly over the whole coming week!

"You made me love you; I didn't want to do it,
I didn't want to do it—"

There was a rush of orchestra through the open door, as we paused at the ticket office, and we were a part of the rhythm-mad mob. Individuals were indistinguishable for a minute. Then the room resolved itself into embracing couples.

A black-gowned woman with gray hair duennas the dances. And nobody could possibly be as respectable as that woman looks.

The joy impresario, a good-looking slim youth with curly hair, spots you at once, and asks you if you wish to dance. You do? Sweetness and light! Here's a partner for you at once. Partners ooze from the crowd in every direction, sometimes one at a pop, sometimes two at a pop, if you're a woman, there being many more men than girls.

The gents don't lose a second after the music strikes up, but grab their girls and dash into the arena. But when they get up on that slippery floor to dance, you feel they must need skid-chains!

The orchestra "intermishes" a good deal, with the apparent object of collecting as many fares as possible. But when they do play, the gay revellers dance all the dances there are, in all the ways there are: The bunng-hug and the jelly roll, the angleworm gallop and the moving-picture reel.

MOTLEY BUNCH.

The throng is motley to view; in all sorts of costumes, from evening clothes to sailor-rigging; from low-and-behold gowns to shirtwaist suits. One man came in a dinner jacket, and everybody looked up to him with awe!

A little pocket Venus from a nearby food bazaar leaned on the bosom of the elevator boy Adonis, and forgot the call of the cook in the airy delights of a Strauss waltz. A tall blonde, in one of these standing-room-only skirts, danced with a barker from the dime museum. Some sailors were doing a tango version of the sailor's hornpipe.

"They don't dance no straight stuff here," complained a dancing teacher from East First street. "What's the use o' teaching a pure tango or a straight-clean-cut rag, when they're going to mix 'em all up with the spring-song dance and a clog?" he asked bitterly, as he glared upon the blissful assemblage, and fixed his baleful eye upon a young lady in yellow, a local Prometheus from a big hotel, with her professional chewing gum. She was practicing a new hybrid dance, and it was fascinating to watch her dance three chews backward and three chews forward, with the top of her head rising and falling on her partner's shoulder.

Two chorus girls leaned against a pillar and talked rather loudly about their craft, after the manner of their kind. They criticised the dancing freely:

"Say, looka the steam rollers tryin' to frisk!"

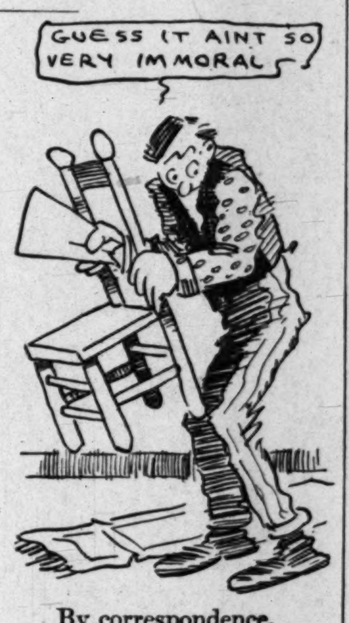
"There's a battleship in harbor! Boom, boom!" as a fat woman whirled by in the arms of an amateur prizefighter.

A sailor was making painful and ineffectual efforts to tango.

"For gawsake, Mr. McCarthy, did you learn to dance in a correspondence school?" his partner inquired in asperity.

It transpired Mr. McCarthy had been trying to learn from the daily papers, where they give "dancing hints," with little dotted lines.

"I took a galley chair," he explained, "and first I was 'A,' a lady, and then I was 'B,' the gent, but the chair was a prize-fighter in a previous existence, and it rose up and swatted me every time. It said in the paper: 'Take a step to the left with the left foot.' But, darn it, it didn't say anything about your right foot. Some o' them directions reads like directions to a one-legged man. What was you to do with the other leg? Twirl it airily around your head, for instance? Then it would say: 'Standing easily thus, take a long glide forward.' However can you glide with only one leg? Then you think to yourself it must mean the other leg, but the other leg has gone to sleep, and when you try to glide with it your legs get tangled all up with each other, and then that cowardly chair rises up and gives you a knockout under the chin! Say, there ain't nothin' to that correspondence dancing-class stuff a-tall. No, ma'am, I don't think the tango is no more immoral than a roller-coaster, I don't!"



GUESS IT AINT SO VERY IMMORAL

By correspondence.
"Standing easily thus take a long glide forward."

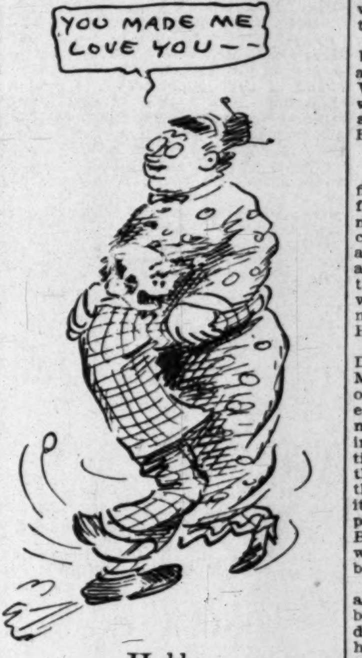
SOCIETY SET.

There is a crowd that apes "society" and dances like Valeska Suratt and the vaudeville favorites. Among these was a pretty girl with a peaches-and-cream complexion, guiltless of make-up, the warm, rich color of youth in her cheeks, while her round little form was draped in a cheap, modish dress of blue. Just as she was lost in the mazes of a dreamy glide, a neat-looking little woman with toil-stained hands stopped outside the door and anxiously questioned the policeman in the ticket office.

"Don't know, ma'am," he answered briskly. The woman looked through the glass doors and clasped her hands. "There's my baby! There's Ella! she cried. "Why, Mr. Callahan, she ain't 15 years old yet!"

Mr. Callahan leaned as far out of the ticket booth as his girth would permit.

"Hey, you!" he called to the floor manager. "Hey, cop out that girrul with the red hair and directory dress. Her mother says she ain't but 15. Step lively there!"



YOU MADE ME LOVE YOU--

Hubby
Is the victim in a case like this.

And because she was lucky enough to be just a few months younger than some of the other dancers and because she had a watchful mother, she was sent home.

The eternal triangle presented itself here, too. Henry and Belle were the original parallels, and it was Jen who introduced the angle. Belle, in a red dress and red pumps, sat next me and wistfully eyed the door, while a washed-out-looking youth tried to console her.

"'Taint no use, I just can't stand it to think of her! Pure Maltese, she is! An' after all I've done for him, too! Would he've been in the sporting goods today if it hadn't been for me? Nix. He'd 'a been down among the tin cans yet. Didn't I go and tell the boss he knew all about golf when he didn't know a tee from a teabone and thought a brassy was a thing to eat cantaloupe with in the swell joints?" She gave a start, and her throat had a painful catch in it. "There—there he is—with her! Well, of all the nerve! Watch me! They won't catch me burning low and smelling of the wick, believe me!

RIALTO COLOR.

"Some swell garment, that!" she cried admiringly to Jen, when the other girl came up. "Gee, Jen, you certainly do rock the boat!"

"You ain't no busher yourself!" cried the false ex-swain, admiringly. "Come and dance with me!"

"Oh, go on back to the blue bench," she laughed. "All here's the face-card tonight," and she looked over her shoulder to smile, as she floated off into the dancing crowd as the lights went low and the orchestra began the seductive strains of "Aloha."

An aged man sat in a corner and watched a girl in black silk, cut low at her ivory throat. A crowd of young persons about her saw him and laughed.

"Who's the gink? It ain't time for Santa Claus yet!" one of them laughed.

"That's my father!" flashed the girl in black, reddening. "He—he always thinks he has to come and chaperon me."

The young man smiled a little sheepishly, and said: "Aw right, Mamie, if they keep you in cotton wool. But look out for the moths!"

A pretty little girl sat on one of the folding chairs. She glanced anxiously about her from time to time, plucking at her dress nervously. By and by a big, dark man came in. She saw him, and her teeth caught her under lip. She fixed a fascinated gaze upon him. He came quickly over.

"You here!" he cried delightfully, laying a hand upon her arm. "But I knew you'd come. The luxury wagon's outside, little one. Come on!"

"I—I promised my mother—" she began.

"Oh, never mind, come on! Just a little spin!"

"Not to Vernon!" she cried.

"All right," he answered, good-naturedly. "Not to Vernon—unless you want to go after we get started," he added, leering upon her.

She went like one in a trance over to the cloakroom and got her hat and coat and went out with him.

And the orchestra played "Get Out and Get Under," and the wife who, the love of life in her eyes, begged her surly husband: "Oh, Jim, just one more. I ain't danced before since we were married, and I'm having such a good time!" whirled away while the crowd bunny-hugged and tango'd and ragged the old rag to shreds!

CHURCHMAN IN THE SPOTLIGHT.

AN ONTARIO CANDIDATE SUES FOR A DIVORCE.

Plaintiff in Case Recently Achieved Brief Fame by His War on Pool and Billiard Halls—Defendant and Husband Reside in the Same Residence While Case Waits.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ONTARIO, March 28. — Church, political and social circles of this city are agog over the suit filed this afternoon in the Superior Court by Edgar W. Sewell, reformer, churchman and candidate for the City Council at the April election, to divorce Linnie D. Sewell. The divorce is asked for on desertion grounds, although the couple reside in the same house on J street and Vine avenue. Attorney Archie D. Mitchell represents the plaintiff.

Sewell recently won notoriety here through the prominent part taken by him in the fight to close the pool and billiard halls of the city, which he declared were ruining the morals of the young men of Ontario and as a leader in the fight succeeded in having the question of closing these places of amusement put on the ballot for the decision of the people at the municipal election April 13. His candidacy has had the backing of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union and other reform organizations of the city.

Sewell is his wife's second husband. Sewell is said to have boarded with his wife before their marriage.

Mrs. Sewell declined to talk of the case in detail tonight, saying that she had no wish to hurt her husband and that the suit was the result of an agreement between them. Sewell made the statement that the matter was a private one and of no interest to the public.

Sewell is a grocer with place of business at No. 419 North Euclid avenue. He is a member of the Westminster Presbyterian Church, while his wife and her daughter are attendants at the First Methodist Episcopal Church.

ITY CLUB INDORSES BOTH OF THE TUNNELS.

HE CITY CLUB yesterday indorsed the First-street and Second-street tunnel projects and lowering of the floor of the dway tunnel, urging that these be carried through with the posible delay.

club also adopted resolutions ing the proposed issue of $6,- 000 power bonds and advising to vote for the issue.

Committee on Morals made a rt on complaints that moving- re houses are showing objec- ble films. It recommended that d of naming certain films able, the club give its earn- pport to the Board of Censors Moving Pictures, in order that all ral and objectionable films may kept from display in Los Angeles houses.

rcy V. Long, City Attorney of Francisco, addressed the club the subject of "The Water Supply of San Francisco." He gave an eresting resume of the various taken by the city in its efforts ecure ownership of a municipal r supply, and declared that the ect was first started fifty years

Outlining the efforts of the private rns to supply water for the thern city, Long declared that at present time more than half of supply comes from the Alameda gravel beds and is carried the bay.

Step by step the proceedings looking to the use of the Hetch Hetchy y for a great storage of water the city were explained and many ghts were thrown on the hind- put in the way of these plans. The speaker told of the faith in project exhibited by the citizens San Francisco when they voted, ty to one, for the bond issue of ,000 for the project. In the Hetchy plan, said Long, San ncisco guarantees to supply the gation districts the normal supply of water, providing 2360 second and from April to June 4000 d feet, if it can be stored by irrigators. The city also offers ll at cost all surplus water. The city guarantees to amply pro- for the irrigators—better than could do it for themselves— it must also pay as high as ,000 a year for the use of the val- which money is to be used for ways and improvements in na- parks.

The speaker declared that the Hetchy project would cost than some others that had been gated, but that the possibilities power development made it the plan and more valuable, as from ,000 to 250,000 horsepower could developed. San Francisco, he is now putting in electric conduits in the streets it is improving, and it expects eventually to have a conduit system that will provide for the lighting of the city from this project. In twenty years, was Long's prediction, the power income will offset the interest and operating charges. The first development will provide for a daily supply of 200,000,000 gallons of water.

In closing his address, Long presented the greetings of Mayor Rolph of San Francisco, and expressed the hope that the two cities would work in the closest unison for the advancement of both and of all of California.

AUCTION OF PAINTINGS.

Bassano's Famous Masterpiece to Be Sold in Los Angeles—Chance for Collectors.

Leandro Bassano's famous masterpiece, "Orpheus Taming the Animals," is about to be offered for sale at auction.

This method of disposing of works of art of rare merit has been recognized as the best.

Some fortunate collector will be able to acquire, this week, a canvas of guaranteed authenticity, probably the companion of the celebrated "The Forge of Vulcan," from the same brush, which is one of the chief ornaments of the Madrid Museum.

Bassano, in the early years of the seventeenth century, departed from the accepted type of painting, given almost entirely to the representation of Biblical scenes and portraiture.

In "Orpheus Taming the Animals" the artist has given an original interpretation of one of the most beautiful myths of classical times.

Orpheus, son of Apollo and Clio, was such a skillful musician that the trees and the rocks leaned toward him; rivers ceased to flow, and the animals of the fields and forests drew near, under the spell of his divine harmony.

In his composition, the master painter has portrayed with rare originality animal pleasure under the charm of superhuman melody.

The grouping is admirable; the richness of the coloring is remarkable as retaining to an unusual degree harmonious tonality. In workmanship, as well as in conception, the canvas interests by its poetical inspiration, retains and satisfies the beholder.

Paintings by Leandro Bassano are rare in any condition. A canvas like this, mellowed by centuries, yet without blemishes, and in perfect state of preservation, is a noteworthy example of the most famous period of the painter's art.

STRENGTHENS CONFIDENCE.

Foundation for Optimism Is Becoming Firmer.

Clearings to Exceed One Hundred Millions.

Deposits Growing; Dividends Next Month.

While the improvement in the local money market itself has so far amounted to little more than a tendency toward easiness in rates, and a somewhat more liberal attitude of certain classes of banking institutions toward borrowers, features are constantly appearing which serve to strengthen that feeling of optimism which assumed crystalline form about the first of the year.

Bank clearings this month will total considerably over $100,000,000, which has been a rather infrequent occurrence in the past ten months. The total already exceeds that figure by over $50,000, and at the average rate maintained thus far this month, with two more active business days remaining, should be over $108,000,000 by the end of the month.

The daily average for this month has been very nearly the same as for last month, and would have been considerably larger, were it not for the fact that clearings for the past week were somewhat below normal. The total for this month will be about the same as for March, 1913, this despite the fact that several bank mergers were consummated in the interim, which tends to reduce slightly the volume of clearings.

Deposits in the savings banks of the city have increased about $3,250,000 since the first of the year, while the cash reserve of these same institutions has been strengthened to the extent of nearly $4,000,000. National banks have also gained in deposits and cash. These increases are among the most favorable features which have developed in the local situation during the present year.

The contraction in clearings during the past week may be explained to some extent by that general tendency toward restraint in anticipation of the April disbursements. In eastern sections this is usually quite pronounced.

Locally, a considerable amount of money will be disbursed in April for bond interest and oil and industrial dividends. Nearly $200,000 will be disbursed in dividends by the industrial corporations whose stocks are listed on the exchange here; the principal payment will be the Producers' Transportation Company's quarterly of 1½ per cent., which aggregates $105,000. This will be the fifth dividend paid by this company, since its organization.

Interest on bonds listed on the exchange to the amount of about $175,000 will be paid during April, while during this month, some $225,000 has been paid out. Banks whose stocks are listed will disburse dividends aggregating about $420,000 next month. Dividends on California oil stocks, of which a record is obtainable, will approximate $750,000. The principal disbursement is the Associated's semi-annual dividend of 1½ per cent., aggregating $600,000. This is, of course, made from San Francisco, where the executive offices of the company are located.

BEWARE THE SCHEME!

Warning Issued to Business Men Against the Private So-Called Police Department Souvenir.

The Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association yesterday issued the following warning to its members:

"Do not subscribe, contribute or patronize the so-called Los Angeles police department souvenir as it is purely a private scheme that benefits nobody except the promoters and has been so declared by the Mayor and Police Commission.

Do not throw your money away to line the pockets of promoters. The publication has absolutely no merit."

The Police Commission has sent out the following over the signature of its members.

"You are hereby notified that the publication known as the 'Souvenir Album of the Police Department for the Year 1914' is issued with the consent of the undersigned, but this does not imply that it is an official publication. On the contrary it is strictly a private enterprise, and the police department receives no part of the proceeds of its publication or its advertisement."

The game of these promoters is an old one, and business firms have expressed amazement that the authorities should give their consent in any way to this publication. The business men of Los Angeles have been imposed upon for years with similar schemes apparently just sufficiently "indorsed" to make them plausible.

FIRES AT JOYRIDERS.

Elderly Market Woman Retaliates When Made Butt of Autoists' Drunken Jibes.

Mrs. Rosa Markovitz of No. 808 Temple street was seated in her spring wagon early yesterday morning, driving to the public market, when she passed a taxicab loaded with revellers at Third and Figueroa streets. The revellers thought it was witty to hurl drunken jibes at the elderly woman.

For just such persons Mrs. Markovitz was prepared. She pulled a rusty little revolver from under her dress and shot twice at the taxicab merrymakers. Then both parties fled, mutually scared.

Mrs. Markovitz went to market and then to the police station, where she reported why she had discharged firearms within the city.

GRAFTERS SENTENCED.

Harry Schuman and Gilbert Atkins, employees of the State Board of Pharmacy, who offered Tom Lee, a Chinaman, a great many things if he would give them $50, were sentenced in Police Court yesterday. Schuman was sentenced to serve four months in the County Jail. Atkins was given a six months' jail sentence which was suspended.

Live Frog in a Rattler.

[Philadelphia Record:] Somewhere in the Laurytown Valley a big frog is croaking, thanks to H. H. Sloat of Rockport, who saved his life after he had been swallowed by a large rattlesnake in Sloat's field.

Sloat, while reaping cut a rattler in half with the machine. From the forward half of the snake wriggled the frog after considerable effort, and as he emerged from his involuntary abode, he leaped as in glee to escape such a fate. The frog had evidently been swallowed but a short time before the snake met his doom.

The snake had thirteen rattles.

SAVE YOUR EYES

Marvelous Home Treatment Does It.

Headaches Banished

TRY THIS FREE PRESCRIPTION.

Do your eyes ache? Do they itch and burn? Would you like to dispense with your glasses? Are you troubled with headaches If so, here's a free prescription for you.

A New York physician comes forth with the edict that glasses must go. These windows are, in many cases, merely crutches, and you might just as well expect crutches to cure rheumatism as to expect all eye trouble to be cured by glasses. Many wear glasses who would not require them if they took proper care of their eyes.

This simple home remedy will astonish you after a few applications. It is absolutely harmless in every way. You may use it in a baby's eyes without the slightest fear of injury. The eyes need a bath just as do other organs. The eyes are constantly throwing off poisonous matter, and, unless it is washed away, weak, inflamed eyes are apt to result.

We publish this prescription so the readers of this paper may reap benefit. Persons having granulated lids will appreciate the comfort and relief this prescription gives. Inflamed, watery eyes, or eyes which look dull and glassy, will be greatly improved after a reasonable trial of this remarkable remedy.

Do not become a victim of neglect. Cut out this prescription and go to your nearest drug store and get a box of Optona Tablets; dissolve one in a two-ounce bottle of pure water and apply four times daily. Note how your eyes will clear up and how refreshed they will feel. Headaches due to tired eyes quickly disappear.

You will then thank us for calling your attention to this valuable prescription. In the package you will find a valuable, instructive booklet, which gives a vast amount of intensely interesting information pertaining to eye disorders. It should be in every home. Many who are hopelessly blind put off eye protection until it was too late.

GRAY FADED HAIR, OR BEAUTIFUL, DARK, ATTRACTIVE—CHOOSE, MADAM!

Says Sage Tea Mixed With Sulphur Restores Natural Color and Luster.

Gray, faded hair turned beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night, is a reality, if you'll take the trouble to mix sage tea and sulphur, but what's the use, you get a large bottle of the ready-to-use tonic, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," at drug stores here for about 50 cents. Millions of bottles of "Wyeth's" are sold annually, says a well-known druggist, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. Those whose hair is turning gray, becoming faded, dry, scraggly and thin have a surprise awaiting them, because after just one application the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful — all dandruff goes, scalp itching and falling hair stops.

This is the age of youth; gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with the Sage and Sulphur tonight and you'll be amazed at your youthful appearance and the real beauty and healthy condition of your hair within a few days. Inquiry at drug stores here shows that they all sell lots of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" and the folks using it are enthusiastic.

San Diego Fair.

BIG SHOW UNAFFECTED BY RESIGNATION OF COLLIER.

G. Aubrey Davidson Elected to Succeed Him as President of the Panama-California Exposition—Buildings for Fair Almost Completed, and Many Scenes from the Old World Are Being Transplanted.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN DIEGO, March 28.—When the myriad lights of the Panama-California Exposition wink into one gigantic blaze of glory at a minute to midnight on December 31, 1914, and the southern city's exposition is ushered in with the "infant" 1915, it will be a full-grown exposition ready and waiting for the crowds that will storm its gates. In fact, with the opening ceremony not quite ten months away, the greater part of the building work has already been completed.

So well is the exposition under way that not a ripple stirred the smooth surface of the management when the new president, G. Aubrey Davidson, last week stepped into the place made vacant by the resignation of D. C. Collier. This was largely due to the fact that Collier's resignation was not unexpected to most of the directors of the exposition. In fact, when leaving for his foreign trip in the interest of the fair a year ago, Collier told many of his friends that he would never return to San Diego, although his heart would ever remain faithful to the city of the "Harbor of the Sun." More than a year ago those who were familiar with the financial straits into which Collier's generosity and lavish spirit had plunged him in his desire to further the exposition work, quietly took up the work where he left it. Only a few knew that Collier was president in name only, while the exposition was hustled forward toward completion.

DAVIDSON WELL KNOWN.

The new president, G. Aubrey Davidson, who for many years was an official of the Santa Fe and is well known in Los Angeles, was unanimously elected after Frank J. Belcher, who had also been named for the vacancy, withdrew from the contest, which had promised to be spirited. Belcher was then placed at the head of the Executive Committee.

A campaign has been started that will bring millions of people and money into Southern California, for in every part of the world the Panama-California Exposition is attracting wide-spread interest.

From the four corners of the globe, and a few places that are not corners, will come throngs of people, who in return for their dollars will revel in a wonderful fair that will be as typically a Southern California picture as are the orange blossoms and golden sunshine.

The buildings that are to line the Prado, as the main street is to be called, are all either completed or well under way, and even the Puente Cabrillo, the massive bridge that spans a gorge 136 feet deep, is fast assuming finished lines.

DEMAND FOR CONCESSIONS.

Perhaps the greatest development at the present time can be seen on the work which was only recently begun on the "Isthmus," as the amusement section of the ground will be known. Of the 5000 feet available on the two sides of the street, 3500 has been signed up, and the balance has been bid on many times over, and but for the fact that the Committee on Concessions is unusually hard to suit and will have none of any offering except the highest grade of amusements, the balance of the space could have been signed up many months ago. The two-mile skeleton of the Thompson scenic railroad, which is to be the largest in the world, is already winding its dizzy serpentine length along the brow of a hill. The company of fifty Arizona Indians who are to construct the "Painted Desert," which is to be built as an exhibit for the Santa Fe Railroad, have begun their survey, and on all sides concessions are springing into activity.

HASTENING TIME'S RAVAGES.

Into the dust and the twentieth-century pounding of steam drills and modern construction work, a little of the atmosphere of the Old World is stealing, as the buildings along the Prado near completion. The walls of the buildings are ageing and the old ivory tint is fast deepening. With their red-tiled roofs the buildings of Spanish colonial architecture are wonderfully attractive. In the tower of the California building hundreds of pigeons are now housed, and here they will rear their young. Thus when the exposition opens the whir of their fluttering wings at sundown as they wing their way to the Plaza for corn will carry the visitor who has seen the Campanile of Venice back to the days when he visited the "Bride of the Adriatic."

Perhaps the strongest feature that is being planned to give the Panama-California Exposition the atmosphere of the Old World, and especially the flavor of old Spain, will be the company of famous dancers which are now being organized in Seville. This company will be headed by one of the best-known dancing teachers of that city and will be composed of native talent of the highest order. These picturesque men and maids in their attractive costumes, mingling with the visitors just as they would do in their native city, will add much to the realism of the Old World picture. There will also be scores of monks, gowned and cowled, whose presence will add the finishing touch to the picture which the exposition is to present—a picture which will link the Southern California of today with the days of the Spanish reign.

BIG RUSH EXPECTED.

Winfield Hogaboom, director of exploitation and publicity, stated yesterday that he had received encouragement from every side. "From the present indications, the opening of the Panama-California Exposition will bring more visitors than our transportation lines into San Diego can handle," he said, "although so well are the railroads handling the advance sales of tickets, the traveling public will suffer little or no inconvenience. Our many new hotels and apartment-houses will amply care for all who visit us, but we will not have many rooms to spare, from the reports of the transportation companies."

G. Aubrey Davidson, the new president, yesterday announced that there would be no change at the present time in the policies under which the exposition had been running for the past year and a half. "We have known since Collier departed for the European trip," he said, "that it was uncertain as to whether he would ever return to take up the control of the exposition, so the management is the same now as when it was reorganized more than a year ago."

Frank J. Belcher, chairman of the Executive Committee, in whose hands the finances of the exposition were placed following Collier's statements to friends that he did not expect to return to San Diego, where he had lost his private fortune, as well as considerable of his wife's money while exploiting the exposition, announced yesterday that the funds of the Panama-California Exposition were on an absolutely sound basis. "There has never been a time during the year and a half I have had charge of the finances that there has not been a surplus of at least $75,000, and we have arranged our expenditures so that there is always money on hand to meet every contract as it falls due," he said. "We will open our exposition free from debt and with money to spare. Some people have called me the 'original tight wad,' but the results show that it pays to earn such a title."

COLLIER WAS GENEROUS.

When D. C. Collier accepted the presidency of the Panama-California Exposition he was rated as a wealthy man, and his refusal to accept a salary or to allow the exposition to pay his expenses was considered by all who knew him as typical of the man, Collier being a thorough Westerner, money having no value with him. It was his lavish expenditure of money that caused criticism from various sources during the first few years of the preparation for the exposition. If the money stringency had not developed last spring, Collier would have been able to weather the crisis and would have made as many thousands as he is said to have lost, but finding himself pressed to the wall, he was forced to allow the exposition to finance the last European trip. Upon his return to New York last January he found conditions the same as when he left California, so he forwarded his resignation. Collier, it is said, will begin life over in Arizona and New Mexico, where he owns considerable land. Mrs. Collier, according to her friends, will continue to make her home in San Diego. Her failure to join Collier in New York last January has given color to the rumor that domestic troubles followed closely in the wake of the financial difficulties which submerged the breezy head of the Panama-California Exposition.

HAVE DANDRUFF TRY THIS IF YOU

Or Are Bothered With Falling Hair or Itching Scalp.

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft and look and feel a hundred times better.

If you want to keep your hair looking rich, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for nothing destroys the hair so quickly. It not only starves the hair and makes it fall out, but it makes it stringy, straggly, dull, dry, brittle and lifeless, and everybody notices it. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

Girls Fail to Get Far in Night Clothes After Escaping from Good Shepherd.

The flight of Alta Ruder, 17, and Elizabeth Agnes, 18, from the Home of the Good Shepherd in their nighties Thursday night brought them up with a round turn at Sawtelle. Their plans were well laid, but fate played them a trick, which is why they are now prisoners at the Detention Home.

Fleeing through the night like specters, the girls made their way to Sawtelle, expecting to find a friend. But alas, the friend had moved away and strangers occupied the house. They shrank back from the strange face which peered at them through a window in answer to a timid knock, taking refuge in a shed.

The stranger, however, had pity on the girls and took them in. But they could not countenance wrongdoing and so the probation office was notified and R. Murphy and Miss Holgate went after the erring ones. They came back yesterday much chastened, but bubbling over with the glee of their escape.

First, they broke through a door at the Home of the Good Shepherd and the suddenness of the door giving way precipitated them down stairs. Then they pried off a bar in a window, scaled an eighteen-foot wall and were off.

TRIAL IN DARKNESS.

City Maps Missing at Santa Monica and Mayor Offers Reward for Their Return.

Santa Monica is in a sad way. Its official maps are missing. To locate them has led to Mayor Dudley issuing a notice offering a reward of $100 for their return.

The circular states that minute books 3 and 4 and an abstract of Santa Monica city property were either lost or stolen from Department Four of the Superior Courts last December when the tidelands suits were tried.

Judge Works, Clerk Doane and Bailiff Rico say "you can search me." There is yet a bunch of lawyers to be questioned on the probability that the books might have been toted in error to their offices. Meantime City Attorney Tanner demands the record and insists upon having them, whereat Mayor Dudley hangs up a reward.

Eventual working out of arrangements whereby the railroads will permit the routing of passengers from here to San Diego during 1915 under the special rates of one fare for the round trip, was forecast yesterday by General Passenger Agent Peck of the Salt Lake, on his return from the meeting of the Transcontinental Passenger Association in San Fran...

"Rate clerks and others are busy working on the problem," said Peck. "I have no doubt that the decision will be to make no extra charge for the trip from here to San Diego where a passenger holds a round-trip ticket from the East."

Tying—Untying.

ANTA ANA IS REAPING RENO'S LOST INDUSTRY.

Suspicions of Orange County Judges Aroused Over the Increasing Number of Three-Month-Residence Cases. Persons Who Fear Judge Monroe Apparently Filing Their Actions Out of His Jurisdiction.

Judge W. H. Thomas

Of Orange county, who doesn't believe in letting Santa Ana become a second Reno.

ANTA ANA, already famous as a Gretna Green, is budding into the notoriety that Reno has only recently thrown off. Superior Judge Thomas of Santa Ana says the bud will likely be nipped.

As a Mecca for scheming lovers who desire to be married quietly or secretly away from home, the government seat of Orange county has come to stay. Whether it will remain a refuge in time of divorce for the unblessed married persons, who for reasons of their own, do not wish to face proceedings in this city, remains to be seen. Orange county's judges are finding out that the courts there have been trying Los Angeles divorce cases, and the idea does not meet with favor.

Santa Ana's experience as a Reno came because it has been an easy matter for a resident of this city to establish a fictitious residence of three months in Orange county for the purpose of bringing divorce proceedings there.

There has been no advertising of Santa Ana in its new role. Publicity is likely to put an end to the game, or at least make the procedure more difficult of carrying through.

The Orange county Superior judges, W. H. Thomas and Z. B. West, have their suspicions aroused, and woe unto him who dares expose his hand, if in truth he is using the judge as a catspaw to pull chestnuts out of the marital flames.

HERE'S THE SCHEME.

If a resident of this city desired to get a divorce and did not want it known he might find himself in great difficulty were it not that Orange county is conveniently located. He might have to give up his business and move to some haven where six months' residence is set as the limit. He can't go to Reno any more, for the Nevada laws now require a year's residence.

Judge Monroe is a terror to those who seek legal separation. His keen and almost harsh way of investigating the innermost thoughts of those who sit in the witness box is reputed to make shy ones cringe. It may be that some of the disgruntled ones have concluded that they would have better luck with a judge in some other county—Orange county has been selected by some. It is convenient, geographically.

A person not wise to the game might think he could rush down to Santa Ana and get a divorce just as easily as he can a marriage license. It is not quite that bad. It never was easy to get unmarried as it is to get married. Civil procedure and the customs of civilization have handicapped the breaking of marital ties. It takes time and sometimes caution. Under the California law a plaintiff in a divorce case must have been a resident of the county in which the action is brought for at least three months.

How then is a resident of Los Angeles to bring an action in Orange county?

OH, SO SIMPLE.

It's perfectly simple. And you do not have to move to Orange county either. You can go right along with your business. You need not miss a lodge meeting or a single service at your church.

Take an electric car to some point in Orange county, for instance, Huntington Beach or Newport Beach. Rent a room, say you live there, and stick to that story through thick and thin. You need not be hindered from spending a good many days and nights away from home, but nevertheless that room is your residence. At the end of three months your attorney can file a divorce complaint for you at the Courthouse at Santa Ana.

It is all so perfectly simple that the only wonder is that it has not been done oftener.

The white lie is made remarkably easy when the other party to the divorce defaults. When the case comes up for trial there is no person in court to dispute the story.

Who is going to give the judge a tip that the plaintiff is not a resident of Huntington Beach? Who is going to tell him that all he has to show for his residence in this county is a receipt for three months' room rent?

DIVORCE EVIL.

Until a few months ago Orange county had but one department of the Superior Court. After the new department was created and Judge West was appointed, all civil cases were turned over to him for trial. Judge Thomas thus became the divorce judge of Orange county. Both judges have strenuous ideas on divorce. In fact, for a number of years Judge Thomas has lectured frequently on "The Divorce Evil."

"From now on," declared he, "that matter of residence is something that is going to be inquired into mighty closely by this court. Legal residence in the county is one of the things that must be proven under the law, and it has always been proven to my satisfaction in every case that has come before me. I have taken the testimony presented because my suspicions had not been aroused.

"A residence made by renting a room or a cottage with no intention of becoming a permanent resident of the county is a purely fictitious residence, and a fraud upon the court. It becomes about the same thing as perjury."

Judge West declared that the period of residence required, three months, is too short.

"The Legislature ought to make it six months at least," said he. "I had one case where I suspected that the man was not a real resident of this county. I made the inquiry from the attorney and found that he had lived here with his brother for a short time, and had then spent a good deal of the rest of the time at work in Los Angeles. He then returned to his brother's, and he swore most positively that his intention had always been to make this his permanent residence, that his absence in Los Angeles was only temporary and did not break the continuity of his bona fide residence here. He brought corroborative evidence, and I had to give a decree in accordance with the evidence."

ARE THEY BONA FIDE?

During the last five months a number of divorce cases have been filed in Orange county where at least one of the parties to the suit are believed to be actual, if not at present, residents of this city.

Dr. Rockwell R. Robinson, dentist, and one of the leaders of the Order of Christian Mystics, which has lately come into notoriety because of the recent killing of one of its members by a fanatic, filed a suit in Orange county for divorce from Alice Maud Robinson. The wife declared that Robinson had never lived in Orange county and the case by change of venue was sent to the Los Angeles courts. He had established a residence, fictitious or otherwise, without leaving this county.

Ida May Bosenberg started an action for divorce from Oscar A. Bosenberg, a jeweler of this city, February 14, and secured an interlocutory decree March 20. She testified she lived in Anaheim with her mother.

Roy W. Peacock was married to Lillian M. Webb in Santa Ana March 1, 1909. Both gave this city as their place of residence. Now they have filed a suit for divorce in Orange county. Webb is a real estate man in this city.

There are many other cases on file in Orange county in which the court is determined to question the residence carefully. Cases under consideration are the following:

Jay Walter Tully vs. Mabelle Beatrice Tully, Rilla Harrison vs. Theodore E. Harrison, Joseph S. Manchester vs. Minnie M. Manchester, Iva Vassar vs. F. E. Vassar, C. R. Smith vs. Mamie E. Smith, W. C. Bunyard vs. Bessie I. Bunyard, Julia Corral vs. Conception Corral, Lillian Evelyn Cook vs. Harry Sawyer Cook, H. N. Hays vs. Lulu M. Hays, Arthur J. Stokes vs. Lillian M. Stokes, Rhoda H. Oliver vs. John W. Oliver, Carrie Cumming Sharp vs. John W. Sharp and Kenneth C. Tate vs. Ella Rawlin Tate.

POLITICAL TIPS.

How it happens that Mr. Bryan "rides behind" on the Ass of Democracy is explained by Col. George Harvey in the North American Review, wherein he says President Wilson realized that no back was strong enough to carry the burden of Bryan and therefore he took Bryan to his Presidential bosom. Col. Harvey sets forth the terms of the agreement under which Bryan was to ride behind. Wilson reserved to himself the making of all appointments. Whenever important foreign questions came up, Wilson was to hold the portfolio. Bryan, thus relieved of many onerous tasks and responsibilities, was to have the privilege of continuing his lucrative lecturing. And it was agreed that Bryan need not serve wine at his public entertainments.

The contest for the Alabama Senatorship between Representative Underwood and Representative Hobson will undoubtedly turn upon the question of prohibition, which is a prominent issue in the campaign. Underwood has remained at his post in Washington, where he earns $25 a day representing the Ninth Alabama District. Hobson has been in Alabama making an extended campaign and continuing to draw $25 a day as Representative from the Sixth District. The first issue is prohibition, which Hobson has made his hobby, but before Hobson was either a total abstainer or a Prohibitionist, Underwood voted for a measure that made it unlawful to ship liquors into dry communities for sale therein. There are three other candidates for the Senatorship, but their prominence is entirely overshadowed by the Hobson-Underwood contest.

What unexpected matters may be injected into a campaign is shown by Representative Hobson's attack, in his campaign for the Alabama Senatorship, on Thomas F. Ryan, who put up $500,000 to pay the debts of the national democracy in 1904. Hobson is a Democrat, and he is now assailing Ryan for his contribution of $35,000 to the Underwood Presidential campaign fund last year.

President Wilson recently announced in the most positive terms that under no circumstances would he interfere in purely State matters, but a few days ago he authorized the following statement regarding the political situation in Tennessee:

"My judgment is very clear and decided that it is the duty of all Democrats in Tennessee to subordinate any differences they have had in the past and stand solidly together for the sake of the prestige and success of the party throughout the nation."

The following day the Independent Democratic State Executive Committee met to call the State convention. The President's harmony suggestion was discussed and the majority of the speakers characterized his action as "ill-advised," and declared that he did not know the conditions existing in Tennessee. A resolution was also adopted regretting that he listened to certain representatives of the national government regarding purely local and State affairs.

Ambassador Page, who recently provoked criticism for having "jokingly" expressed satisfaction that the English would get more benefit from the Panama Canal than any other nation, is in the limelight again. Begging letters bearing the name of the Ambassador have been received by many Americans in London asking donations to the Royal Literary Fund. The principle of the Royal Literary Fund is to administer assistance to authors reduced to distress by unavoidable calamities or deprived by enfeebled faculties or declining life of the power of literary exertion. The object is a worthy one, but it is a decided innovation for the Ambassador to allow his name to be used for the purpose of begging.

Former Congressman Nicholas Longworth has announced himself a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in the First Ohio District. The Progressive influence of Roosevelt is evidently lost upon his son-in-law.

John B. Barnhill, candidate for Representative-at-large from Illinois is not asking the support of suffragists. In fact he says they have been threatening him ever since he announced his candidacy for Congress on an anti-suffrage platform.

"I admit that woman has a grievance," says Mr. Barnhill. "But it is the same grievance that man has—the lack of sufficient wages. I believe that nine-tenths of the women would rather have a husband than a vote.

"True statesmanship will realize that the one supreme problem of the country is to increase wages until all men desiring a home will be able to marry and maintain a home. Double the wages of men and solve the grievance of both men and women. Then every woman will take charge of a home instead of campaigning for votes."

Speaker Champ Clark does not forget the past nor blind himself to the present. The other day Representative Murray of Oklahoma endeavored to call up his resolution requiring the State Department to transmit to the House a report on the recent Monroe doctrine speech of Ambassador W. H. Page in London. He contended that the resolution was privileged. After considerable argument, Speaker Clark ruled that as the resolution called for "opinions and conclusions" from the department, it was not privileged.

"I don't know," said the Speaker, "whether the State Department knows what its policy is or not or whether it knows what its policy will be tomorrow or next year or fifty years from now. Certainly a statement on this point could be no more than an opinion."

Gov. Walsh of Massachusetts wants to abolish the expert State commissions that have managed the various departments of the State, because the members of the boards do not devote their entire time to the work of administration. There is no charge that they shirk the State's work, but they do not devote all their time to it. This is beating Gov. Johnson's ingenuity in an endeavor to get into his hands all the elements of the State government.

Eight women have been sworn in as deputy assessors in Chicago. This is the first experiment of its kind in the country, and the women will be expected to pay particular attention to the personal property holdings of women. They will ask the women if they have personal checking accounts, what stocks and bonds they hold in their own name, and the cost of furs, silk and lingerie they have imported.

The Democratic State Committee of Kansas has sent to each of the 517 Democratic county officials of the State a request for a contribution to the State campaign this year, and it is said by members of the committee that it is expected most of the county officials will respond to the appeal for help. There are 700 other county offices held by regular and Progressive Republicans. Heretofore it has been the custom for the Democrats to levy contributions upon all the lady stenographers employed in the county offices, but this assessment will be omitted this year.

Hon. Harvey C. Garber, who was national committeeman and Ohio manager of Woodrow Wilson, that was, was not recognized as patronage distributor by President Wilson. He is now working for the nomination of Representative Whitacre for Governor of Ohio, although Gov. Cox is seeking a second term and has the sympathy of the Washington administration. Congressman Whitacre was the first man in the Ohio delegation in Congress to speak out openly against former Gov. Harmon, and now some of these sayings are being used against him to solidify the union of the Harmonites with the Coxites.

GLIMPSES OF SAN FRANCISCO.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 27.—Every little bit helps. The management of the Union Steamship Line is out with the statement that this city will be the terminus of a direct line of big freighters between the Pacific Coast, Australia and New Zealand. The volume of business has increased so much of late to warrant this and there is every reason to believe that when the Panama Canal is opened that there will be a much greater increase.

About June or July, 1915, it is expected that at least 50,000 young people will be headed this way to attend the big fair. They will be members of the Young People's Societies of the world. A Congress will be held lasting ten days, and will be composed of the Christian Endeavor, the Epworth League, the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, the Baptist Young People's Society, the Daughters of the King and the King's Daughters. It is certain the visitors will get as much pleasure from the visit as we will have in entertaining them.

For a long time the Olympic Club has had it all its own way. That is as far as masculinity is concerned. Now the ladies plan to form a club of their own along the lines of the Olympic organization. The only thing different will be the absence of a bar. Prominent clubwomen have the matter in hand and are talking of erecting a magnificent edifice in the vicinity of Union Square.

There has been a sneaking suspicion for some time past our loaves of bread were getting smaller and smaller though the price remained the same. The Supervisors have at last come to the rescue of a suffering public. They have formally ordained that a loaf of bread must weight at least twelve ounces. It may weigh more but the baker will take good care that it does not.

The charter day exercises of the University of California went off with some eclat. W. C. Redfield, Secretary of Commerce, delivered the oration. President Wheeler announced that during the past year something like $3,000,000 had been donated to the institution. This was not quite enough but next year it is assumed that the contributions will be larger.

Mayor Rolph and the fire underwriters had some heated arguments this week. It was all about fire insurance rates. The chief executive wished them reduced because of the installation of the high-pressure fire-protection system. The underwriters insisted that the rates would not be reduced until ninety-five miles of high-pressure pipes had been laid. As the city has not the money to do this it looks as though there would be a deadlock.

At a recent bond election there were not quite votes enough to acquire the scenic Sutro property overlooking the Golden Gate. To offset this a plan is on foot to get forty-five acres of the and near the cliffs by giving in exchange some property owned by the city along Van Ness avenue. A majority of sensible people approve of this and believe that the exchange will be a fair one.

Dr. Woods Hutchinson spoke some comforting words at the meeting of the Commonwealth Club. He said that human beings ought to exercise plenty and eat whatever they liked. He was decidedly opposed to the modern idea of eugenics and believed that the improvement of the race ought to be left to nature. He was sure that Cupid was more than a match for those who wished only specially selected persons to wed.

It is said that in a few months there will be ferry aviation between this city and Oakland. The promoters hope to average $6 a trip. The rates will be according to weight, so it will be cheaper for heavyweights to patronize the regular ferries.

STYLES PROMPT SUICIDE.

Because he couldn't get the English effect into his tailoring of men's clothes, Max Goldberg, a tailor, No. 301 Centennial street, drank carbolic acid yesterday. The solution was weak and the membrane of his throat was strong, so the poison did not injure him dangerously. He was taken to the Receiving Hospital, where treatment resulted in his recovery. He is 53 years old.

APPRECIATIVE READERS PRAISE THE TIMES GREAT SONG BOOK.

The great musical treasury, "Heart Songs," now being presented by The Times to its readers for one coupon and the bare cost of distribution, has brought happiness to thousands of The Times' readers.

"Heart Songs" is not a mere collection of music and words, but it is a song book with a soul. Every song in this wonderful book has had some sacred memory, some touching experience, some sweet and hallowed association connected with it in the hearts of thousands. It is their song of joy—of sorrow—of thanksgiving—of love—of bereavement—of homecoming—of reunion—of all the tender sentiments that lift the human heart in worship to its Maker.

It is for this, by inspiration, that this unique volume is entitled "Heart Songs."

The following is one of hundreds of letters received by The Times from readers to whom this wonderful collection of old songs has brought joy and gladness:

No. 251 West East street, Colton,
Cal., March 16, 1914.

The Times, Los Angeles, Cal. Gentlemen: Your beautiful songbook was received this morning, for which we sincerely thank you.

It is indeed a treasure, and makes us feel as if we were back in the old days—the old, happy days.

Again thanking you, I am, with best wishes for your continued success,

Yours truly, W. COPELAND.

Full particulars of The Times' great song book offer are printed on page 29, Part III, of today's Times.

FEAR SHORTENS LIFE

Every time we speak a word or make the slightest movement we have used a vital substance which will tend to lengthen or shorten our lives.

This inherent power or energy is given to us in definite quantities and may be expressed as a given number of volumes. Under natural conditions a normal body will consume the requisite number of volumes of energy for good health by intuitively alternating exercise and health.

Fear and pain cause most of the disobedience against nature's laws, especially is this the case, where ill health comes from neglecting the teeth.

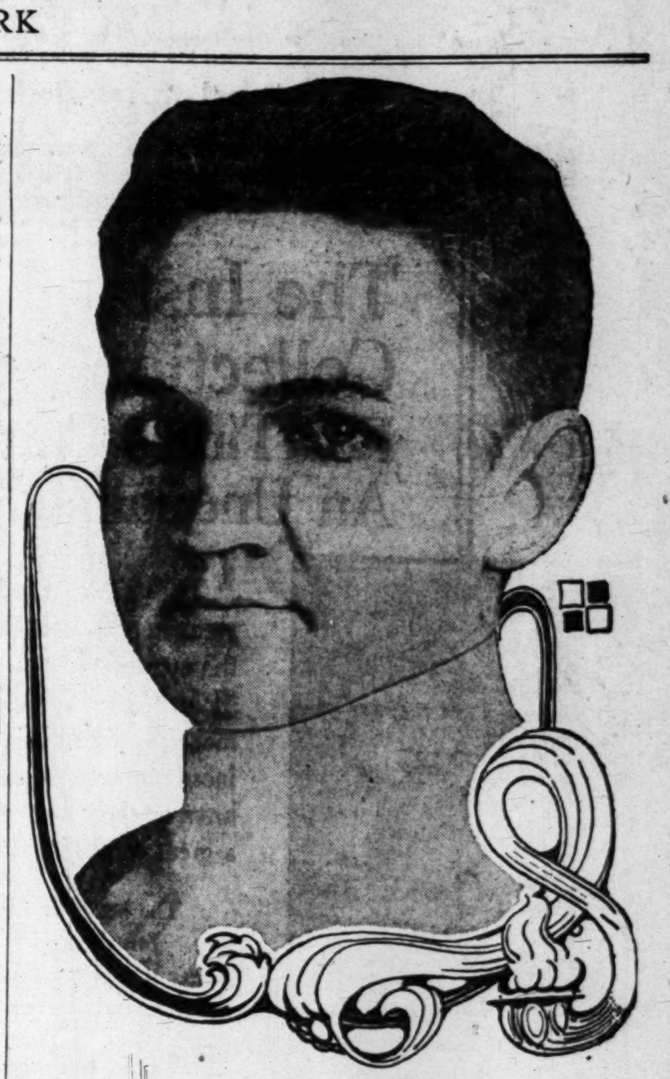
There is no need to fear pain when having a tooth extracted, filled, crowned or even a live nerve removed by Homer's new analgesic method.

But there is need of having a competent dentist examine your teeth every 3 or 6 months.

Receding or bleeding gums, teeth slightly sore or loose and a bad breath are indications of Pyorrhea. The loss of most teeth is caused by Pyorrhea.

Randsall states, the established fact, that nervous diseases and indigestion are frequently caused from swallowing poisons excreted from the gums around Pyorrhetic teeth.

dr. Homer's specialties are: Treating pyorrhea and making teeth without plates; giving a full set of solid teeth without plates and ordinary bridge work, if two or more roots remain in either jaw, his associates make plates to restore natural expression and prevent shrinking of the gums.



dr. Homer with offices in Orpheum Bldg., 636 So. Broadway, says "Avoiding fear and pain, prolong life."

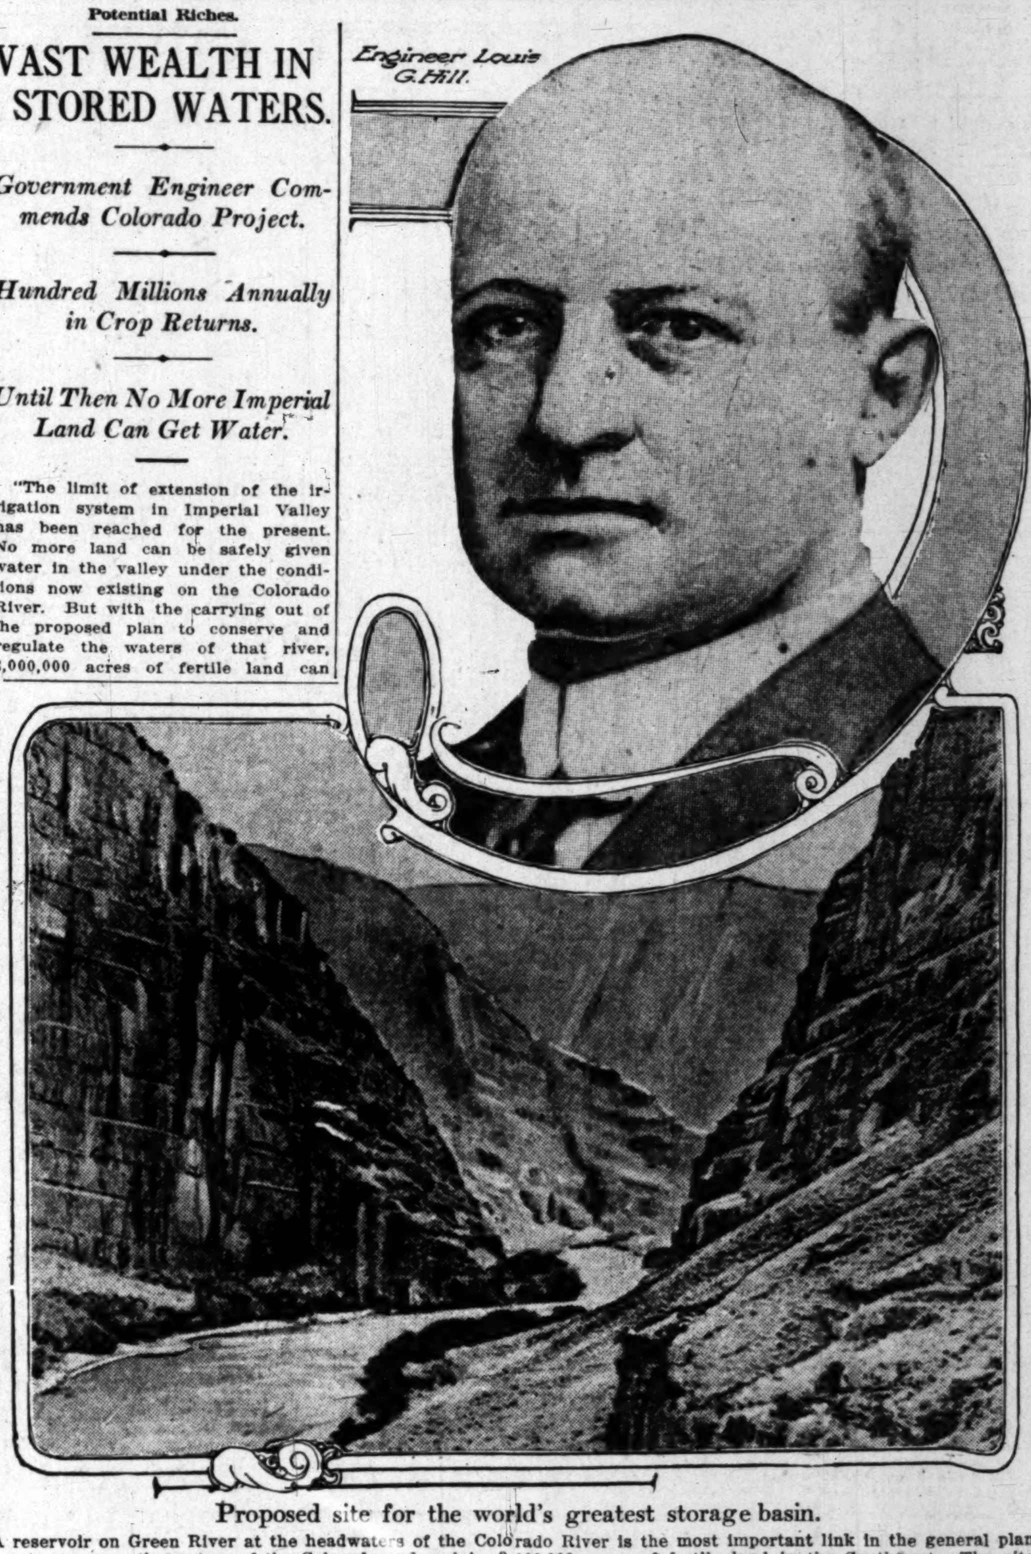
Government Engineer Commends Colorado Project.

Hundred Millions Annually in Crop Returns.

Until Then No More Imperial Land Can Get Water.

"The limit of extension of the irrigation system in Imperial Valley has been reached for the present. No more land can be safely given water in the valley under the conditions now existing on the Colorado River. But with the carrying out of the proposed plan to conserve and regulate the waters of that river, 2,000,000 acres of fertile land can be added to the rich southwestern domain. This land, at a conservative estimate, will yield $100,000,000 annually, a considerably greater amount than the entire project would cost."



Proposed site for the world's greatest storage basin.

A reservoir on Green River at the headwaters of the Colorado River is the most important link in the general plan to conserve the waters of the Colorado and reclaim 2,000,000 acres of fertile land in the Southwest. The site shown in the lower picture would be converted into a basin with a capacity of 3,500,000-acre feet. It will cost $7,000,000 and will require five years to construct. Hill of Los Angeles, for nine years engineer of the United States Reclamation Service, says the limit of irrigation and extension in Imperial Valley has absolutely been reached with the river in its present condition, but that land with a producing power of a million dollars annually can be brought under water by properly conserving and controlling the Colorado River waters.

This assertion made yesterday by Louis C. Hill, who recently resigned as United States Reclamation Service Engineer, is the conclusion reached as the result of ten years of thorough and discriminating study of the Colorado River from its source to its mouth and of the land in the Colorado basin.

Hill was supervising engineer of the southern district for the United States Reclamation Service for more than ten years. He recently resigned as chief of the southern district work, but continues to act as consulting engineer for the government, and has the Elephant Butte dam work directly in charge. He is now located in this city, having associated himself with Quinton and Code, with offices in the Hollingsworth building.

Hill's district in the government service included Southern California, Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, Utah, part of Colorado and part of Wyoming. During the ten years of his service he helped build the Roosevelt dam and the diversion dam at Yuma, including a general irrigation system to cover 200,000 acres of land in Salt River Valley.

Other work was the Laguna dam and levees on the Colorado, construction work on the Rio Grande, the Elephant Butte dam, and a four-mile tunnel in Utah connecting the reservoir on the Colorado side of the Wasatch Mountains with the irrigation system in Great Basin.

WATER IN RICH LANDS.

Hill has been studying the Colorado River for ten years and has investigated the reservoir sites in Colorado, Utah and Wyoming. He has seen them all and has had borings made. He says there is water enough in the Colorado, if properly conserved by reservoirs at the headwaters, to irrigate 2,000,000 acres of land below the Rio Grande and says that all of this land is immediately tributary to Los Angeles and Southern California.

A large part of the land, he says, is along the bottom lands of the river from Needles to below Yuma. The remainder is in the United States, located in and around Imperial Valley. "The climate and soil are both of a nature to make the entire basin the most fertile place I know of in the United States," he said yesterday. "A wide variety of crops can be grown and of a kind to produce big revenue.

"There is a big future in the southwest for long staple cotton and early fruit. It has already been demonstrated in Imperial Valley that high-priced cotton can be grown at the rate of more than a bale to the acre. There is much more land in Imperial Valley suitable for cotton and about 70,000 acres on the Yuma mesa, if water can be brought to the land to supplement the matchless fertility of the soil and the favorable climatic conditions.

LIMIT OF IRRIGATION.

"It is a big project, but it is worth while. Four hundred thousand acres in Imperial Valley have set a new standard in agricultural production and its future achievements will be far greater. It is a fact that cannot be successfully disputed that this now represents all the land that can be watered. It would be unwise and unsafe to attempt to extend the irrigation system further under present conditions.

"The project to conserve and regulate the waters of the Colorado River is the best the United States Reclamation Service could undertake. It will yield enormously in proportion to the investment. Further, it is a project in which not only the southwest, but the whole nation is interested, for it would add tens of millions to the annual producing power of our lands."

Hill says it would require at least ten years to build the reservoirs and conduct the water to the land and points out the certainty that Imperial Valley and Salt River Valley development will have reached a stage by that time where land values will be much higher than now and the government's investment correspondingly better.

He estimates the cost of the entire project, including all projects now completed or under way, reservoirs and distributing systems at $45 per acre. This, in his opinion, is considerably less than the annual producing power of the land to be reclaimed.

WORLD'S BIGGEST RESERVOIR.

Nearly $20,000,000 would ultimately be required for reservoirs alone. The big project, he says, should be laid out in detail and a general policy adopted. Then the work could be done by units, always with reference to the ultimate completed system.

The site for the biggest and most important reservoir, as selected by Hill and other engineers, is in Northwestern Colorado on Green River. This reservoir will cost $7,000,000, will require five years to build and will have a capacity of 3,500,000 acre feet. This is twice as big as the next biggest reservoir in the world, except the Rio Grande reservoir, and it is 20 per cent. larger than that.

This reservoir alone would permit a diversion of 8000 second feet of water, sufficient to irrigate 500,000 to 600,000 acres. If the big reservoir is built first, it would compose the first unit of the general plant, which would include five or six smaller reservoirs. Its construction would go a long way, Hill says, toward solving the problem of river regulation and control, and would lead logically to the consummation of the complete project to conserve all the waters of the Colorado and the reclamation of 2,000,000 acres of land.

The reservoir sites are not now readily accessible and railroad extension would be necessary to enable the work to be done to full advantage. There are many distinct advantages, however, discovered by the investigation made by engineers. The government could make its own cement and mine its own coal on the spot. The actual work of reservoir construction on the principal site would require less time than the preliminary work, but Hill believes all of it could be done in five years.

COLLECTOR ASKS KISSES.

But Fair Debtor in Return Raps Ruffian's Ear with Floor Mop and Notifies Police.

Some collector who placed a money valuation on kisses is alleged to have attempted to collect a payment from Mrs. Stella Shubin, No. 132½ North Gless street, yesterday, and when she told him she had no money, he said he would take kisses in default of cash. Mrs. Shubin struggled against the advances of the ruffian, and succeeded in repulsing him. When he went out the front door, she nipped a piece of his ear off with a floor mop. Then she notified the police.

FORTY THOUSAND DOLLARS YEARLY.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS LEARN PRACTICAL FINANCE.

Pupils of Hilltop Institution Make Enviable Records as Business Men and Women in Variety of Enterprises Requiring High Order of Commercial Sense.

Forty thousand dollars handled annually by the students of one Southern California High School is regarded by their preceptors as proof of the practical character of higher education in Los Angeles.

At the Los Angeles High School 2000 students, ranging in age from 12 to 20, conduct a business to be envied by real merchants. The immense receipts come from varied activities which are all "student-managed," such as the cafeterie, book store, weekly paper, semi-annual magazine, "pay" entertainments, debates, etc.

The school cafeteria produces the largest amount of revenue, its three student managers handling in excess of $200 daily. Wholesome food, much of it prepared by the students themselves, is provided at ridiculously low prices, a satisfying meal being procurable for 5 cents. All of the several hundred waiters, clerks, cashiers, etc., are students. A new $10,000 building houses this popular branch of the school.

Of next importance is the book store, in which a complete line of books and stationery is sold at "lower-than-down-town" prices. Here second-hand books are disposed of for the students at a small commission, which furnishes the running expenses of the store.

The weekly paper also deserves special mention as the largest High School news sheet in California. Consisting of four news sheets and a blue sport sheet, it involves the handling of about $2000 per year.

A moving-picture machine installed in the assembly hall is a constant source of revenue and entertainment. Its operators are students and in addition to High School purposes it is used for social center and night school also.

Athletic contests and debates net in the neighborhood of $10,000 annually.

The $40,000 vanishes immediately upon arrival, being used for expenses and improvements, but experts say that Los Angeles' unique student management plan is worth thousands in experience to every High School pupil.

FLOORED BY FICTION.

Leon Thibedeaux was arrested yesterday while walking in a sea of fiction. While returning to his rooms, early in the morning, he forced out a pane of glass from a magazine case on South Hill street. Magazines sprawled forth from their roost, and fell about Thibedeaux's feet. He was found by the police wallowing through several hundred magazines, unable to regain his footing. He will be arraigned in Police Court Monday.

THE POLITICAL WATCHTOWER

In 1910 the vote in California showed with perfect clearness that the Republican party was dominated by the feeling, which has become the fashion to call "Progressive." It was, in fact, the sentiment, which has been Republican since the foundation of that party, stimulated into abnormal expression by various influences, which had been operating for some years. Had it not been for a national entanglement, everything would have followed a normal course. The attempt to found a national party on the personal ambition and passion of one man and the introduction of Socialistic theories, resulted in the complications which for a time beset the party.

The "Progressive" party, as a national party, being now evidently moribund, it has become a practical question with its membership in California what course to take. And the course that the majority are taking is strikingly shown by the registration returns, which, a day or two ago stood 227,045 Republicans to 121,564 "Progressives." Democratic registration being less than 500 behind the third partyites.

Why are the well-meaning progressive Republicans, who temporarily deserted the Grand Old Party, coming back into the fold? Why are they abandoning, by thousands, the red bandanna of Johnson-Eddie-Earl & Co? Because Gov. Johnson has betrayed the interests of the people in building at their expense the most powerful political machine any western State has ever known. Because, under his administration, taxes have increased at an astonishing rate. Because, under his regime the cost of running the State government in 1912-13 was nearly $7,000,000 more than in 1909-10, the last year of Gov. Gillette's administration.

Because the majority of the loyal men and women of this great State are doing some thinking for themselves. Because Gov. Johnson's tricky platform buncombe now fails to "bunk" 'em. Because Rebater Earl is Johnson's main supporter, both scentiet and financial. Earl stands discredited by his own confession and you remember that old hook nose adage with pianola variations "as the twig is bent, so is the candidate inclined." They're coming back Father Abraham, half a million strong.

It will be nip and tuck between the Democrats and "Progressives" for the third hole in registration for the August primary. The chances favor the "Progressives" being the tail of the procession. The Republicans have a fair prospect of a clear majority over Democrats and "Progressives." It is evident to a horned toad that the rally to the Republican party is a spontaneous expression of a conviction in the electorate that there is neither hope for the "Progressives" nor use for such a misguided party, but that the only way to get out of Bourbonic gloom and can the many "General" Kelleys and "Colonel" I.W. Works, is to restore the Grand Old Party to power. The "Progressive" campaign has always been a campaign of vagueness and clap-trap. As former Vice-President Fairbanks said Friday night at Long Beach, "the Republican party has always been the party of rational progress and it has ever heeded the voice of the people." What "social justice" can you expect, Mr. and Mrs. Progressive, from Rebater Earl, George W. Perkins, trust magnate, "Boss" Bill Flinn of Pittsburgh, Senator Henry Lyons, Guy Eddie, Marshall Stimson, Frank Mouser and a score or more of equally illustrious "reformers?"

Friend Republican, have you heard the sad news? George W. Perkins, one of our cutest trust performers is still opposed to an amalgamation of the Republicans and "Progressives." In a private letter, which inadvertently (ha, ha) found its way to the dear peepul, Perkins urged the recipient to "swat" any attempt at fusion he might find. Here is the letter in part: "Every day makes it more certain that we are in for a knock-down-and drag-out fight all along the line." Sounds like Terrible Teddy, eh? Then "The Republicans do not seem to realize that a great many of us pledged our honor to this cause." Perkins pledged about $200,000 before the Roosevelt-Flinn-Hanna clique let him in the game. It cost Perkie that sum to Dutch cleanse his record, which was not often mentioned in parlor society. And "There is no more chance of their old leaders or old principles ever again being acceptable to our people than there is of a snow ball to survive in Hades."

Aha, now we know just where to find George W. Perkins, who never fails to remind us that he is "fresh from the people." Perkins was considered in his day the premier amalgamator of trusts in the country. When the U.S. grand jury got busy back in gay old Gotham, not so many eons ago, Perkie was one of the stellar witnesses for himself. He escaped by the skin of his teeth and didn't "go up the river." Come to think of it, that inquisitorial probe must have taught T.R.'s doughbag vendor a mighty good lesson on "when not to amalgamate." Let him go.

The ballot that will be used in the November election will bear a close resemblance to a civil service examination paper. In the first place there will be twenty-three constitutional amendments submitted at that election to the people and the title of each of these must be printed in full on the ballot. Then there will be four bond propositions. There will be six initiative measures and four laws submitted through the invocation of that famous red instrument, the referendum. Through the initiative there will be placed on the ballot a proposed law to prohibit prize fighting; one to prohibit the sale and manufacture of strong drink; an eight-hour law; a law establishing property qualifications for citizens taking part in bond elections; a law abolishing the poll tax, and one amending the Torrens land act. The four measures to be submitted under the referendum are the "blue-sky" law, the act relating to the sale of fish and game, the water commission act and the alleged red-light abatement and injunction act, whereby certain well-meaning citizens hope to rout vice as a commercial proposition. And in addition the ballot will contain the names of about 100 candidates for State and county offices. Help!

The recall campaign against Supervisor Norton is off with a bang. Three candidates are already kissing the babies and doling cigars to prospective voters in the Second District. More are expected before Tuesday, the last day on which nominating petitions may be filed. Earle Y. Boothe, a prominent automobile dealer and leader in the business and fraternal life of Los Angeles, was the first in the race. Then followed Louis H. Schwaebe, former City Auditor. Schwaebe also vends honk-honk machines. Many leading citizens in the district have written Schwaebe, urging him to run. Attorney Ira W. Brynes, sturdy Republican, has taken out a petition. Constable Henry Hayes hasn't made up his mind. Norton denies reports that he will resign before election. Yesterday the Supervisors set May 5 as election day. Political wiseacres agree that Norton hasn't a chance to win. His defeat will come as a gladsome gift to Norton's colleagues on the board.

Former Judge Walter Bordwell of Los Angeles will not be a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor. But the distinguished jurist will make the race for Chief Justice of the State Supreme Court. Associate Justice of the Supreme Court Angellotti and Superior Judge Conley of Madera county will be Judge Bordwell's chief opponents.

Isadore B. Dockweiler for Governor on the Democratic ticket! That's the talk down this way. And they do say Isadore is willing. Dockweiler is the strongest man that could be taken from the Bourbon stable from this end of the State. In fact, he is the strongest man mentioned so far for Governor by the Democrats. Izzy is a powerful speaker, an aggressive campaigner, an able lawyer and popular citizen. He ran for Lieutenant-Governor in 1902, when F. K. Lane headed the ticket, and was beaten by less than 1500 votes. Fred H. Hall of Bakersfield and Senator John B. Curtin of Sonora are the two leading avowed Democratic candidates. Signor Caminetti is a joke as far as the Governorship is concerned. 'Tis said that Caminetti, who is Commissioner of Immigration, recently received a blue envelope from President Wilson, giving him permission to run for Governor provided he resigned his $6000 a year job. Other cruel-hearted persons do say that Signor Cam, the net, has visions of a tin can coming his way and wants to get out from under by running for Governor. Anyway, we'll wait and see. But Dockweiler sounds good.

Reports that the Young Men's Republican Club was organized to boost the personally-conducted ambitions of this or that candidate received a death wallop yesterday when the club passed a resolution that it will not indorse candidates for county offices. Following is the resolution:

"Resolved, that the Young Men's Republican Club of Los Angeles county will not, at any time prior to the coming primary election, select or indorse any candidates for office except candidates for non-judicial, State and Federal offices."

THE WATCHMAN.

Craze for Expensive Food.

[Indianapolis Star:] A well-known Indianapolis grocer said lately that the much complained of high cost of living grows in part out of the fact that consumers are not satisfied with products that were once considered sufficient. Within the memory of people still young, oranges answered for an occasional treat and were not served every morning at breakfast. Now, even the daily orange is discarded for the more expensive grapefruit. No one buys plain lettuce any more; everyone demands head lettuce. Even when meats were reasonable in price it was not considered necessary to serve them three times a day. Now that their cost is heavy, the hunger for steaks and roasts and fancy cuts seems to have intensified. The agitation that goes on and investigations being made may result in some reduction of needlessly high and speculative prices, but, meanwhile, there is no scarcity of wholesome and substantial food at fairly moderate cost. Plain living is always possible.

A New One.

HATCH TURTLES IN INCUBATORS.

GEORGIAN DOES WHAT EXPERTS SAY IS IMPOSSIBLE.

Has Hatched Over Twelve Thousand Terrapin This Season, for Which He Received Three Dollars Each When Five Inches in Size. Losses Are Very Small.

[St. Louis Globe-Democrat:] Armed with a portable incubator containing eggs scheduled to hatch every day during October, Alexander M. Barbee, proprietor of the terrapin farm at Isle of Hope, is making his second trip to the northern markets, where he will demonstrate to the doubting Thomases and to the government experts at Washington, who claim that the trick can't be turned, that the delectable diamondbacks can be hatched and reared artificially.

After several days in Atlanta he will go successively to Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York, remaining for several days or a week in each place, and his eggs will be hatching every day during all that time. They will hatch while you wait, and the baby terrapin will be laid in your hand so that you can see for yourself that it is alive and kicking.

Barbee's incubator looks something like a suit case. The interior of it is divided into compartments and filled with sifted sand in which the eggs are deposited. The date on which each egg is scheduled to hatch has been marked on the shell. Underneath the trays containing the eggs is a larger compartment in which several half-grown terrapin will be taken along, including Toby, which is Barbee's special pet. Toby will follow Barbee around like a dog.

After Barbee's trip last year an expert from the bureau of fisheries of the Department of Agriculture came down from Washington to tell him that the thing he had accomplished could not be done. Barbee demonstrated to his satisfaction that it was being done every day. He showed his visitor that it was a fallacy that turtle eggs will not hatch if handled; that the little terrapin can be raised to maturity without great trouble. The expert took a series of pictures and returned to Washington.

Barbee gathers his eggs daily as a farmer gathers those of his hens. He handles them with impunity, buries them in his incubators, and then takes them out at the proper time and allows the young terrapin to hatch out in his hand.

The expert saw that a number of Barbee's terrapin were darker in color than the others.

"I see you've got a number of Chesapeake terrapin in here," he said.

Barbee told him that if they were they had certainly been hatched from eggs that were laid on the coasts of either Georgia or South Carolina. He then explained that by actual tests he had found he could control the color of the markings on the shells of terrapin by hatching the eggs in either light or dark sand. The expert opened his eyes in astonishment. He could not make denial, because Barbee had actually done it.

Out of 13,000 eggs incubated this summer at his plant at Isle of Hope, Barbee has hatched over 12,000 young terrapin. With the counts—five inches or more in size selling at $36 a dozen, and the loss by death exceedingly small, Barbee believes that he has a gold mine.

Barbee has been in the terrapin business nearly a quarter of a century. During that time he has learned pretty nearly all there is to learn about this member of the turtle family. Previous to taking up the terrapin industry he was a conductor on a street car. He was one of the first to take cars over the Isle of Hope run.

Just before the last Presidential election William J. Bryan visited Savannah to talk over the situation with Pleasant A. Stovall, now minister to Switzerland. He then visited the terrapin farm at Isle of Hope. Barbee picked out a terrapin egg that was on the point of hatching, placed it in Mr. Bryan's hand and then talked to him until the egg had become warmed. Mr. Bryan was startled within a few minutes to find a live baby terrapin crawling about in his palm. He caused Barbee to send that particular terrapin by mail with his compliments to Josephus Daniels at his home at Raleigh, N. C.

se who like carefree amusement d color, movement and girls, will uch pleasurable anticipation in ming engagement of this big York Winter Garden production, Honeymoon Express," which is the attraction at the Majestic er beginning tomorrow evening, stay of one week, the final performance to take place on Sunday ng, April 5, with matinees on nesday, Friday and Saturday.

this carload of fun which proved the finest success ever staged at New York Winter Garden, Al Jol- the famous black-face comedian, has demonstrated conclusively he is not a one-joke, single-song maker, but an ebullient and orl funster who is able to dispense by the dozen, who can sing alany song that the audience request, so extensive is his rep, and who dances with a reckof a speed demon, leads the inal cast which made "The Honeymoon Express" the great success it during its long run of thirty in New York and subsequent agements of extended duration in , Philadelphia and Chicago.

should not be gathered, however, "The Honeymoon Express" is a -person entertainment. It is not, se the cast which has been supd by the Winter Garden managereveals any number of wellmusical comedy entertainers. ct, one is able to find an assemseldom seen in one company, h contains Melville Ellis, Mlle. Robson, Ada Lewis, Anna ton, Marie Fenton, Sylvia Sun Doyle and Dixon, Donald Mcld and Arthur Monday.

owing the same line upon which Winter Garden shows are built, playgoers here have already seen themselves how generous is this gement, in the production of Passing Show of 1912," seen last year. "The Honeymoon Ex" also boasts of a frolicsome, unusually attractive, wellchorus with sixty beauties, in grandeur of a more or less of raiment.

story, this big spectacle has to a matrimonial affair of a husband recently divorced, and wife. A telegram received just the decree has been granted ans that the husband has fallen to a fortune which to possess he have a wife. The divorced wife of this condition and the way the fortune, only to learn he has left for "gay Paree," pon she gives him a race for mony by speeding to Paris in automobile. Like "The Passing of 1912," which has its runaway this mammoth and latest Winden show also discloses a big in the race scene with a said to be startling.

every respect "The Honeymoon " can be depended upon as a typical Winter Garden meof mirth and melody, staged costumed by people who know to do these things, presented and ed by people who are all in their work.

Empress.

One of the biggest bills that has come to the Empress Theater in many a day will open at this popular-priced vaudeville theater tomorrow afternoon. The new Sullivan & Considine bill is splendidly diversified, is full of surprises and novelties, and should prove one of the best from every viewpoint of recent weeks.

Heading the new bill is the latest, prettiest and most successful of all of Joe Maxwell's splendid productions for this circuit. This is Joe Maxwell's Seven Dancing Girls, an organization of steppers and tangoists, who have caused quite a sensation with their ensemble work all over the circuit.

This act is no less than a dancing chorus. Every one of these pretty, young women are terpsichorean experts, trained to the minute in every type of dancing. The act is gorgeously costumed and presents a series of startling effects of a new and novel nature.

The second feature of the new bill will be the favorite mile-a-minute mirthmakers, Spissell Brothers and Mack, the famous eccentric acrobatic comedians who will this time be seen in their latest hit, "The New Chef." This trio are funmakers of the rarest sort as well as being acrobats from their toes up and they come warranted to provide about three laughs

Marie Lloyd "Queen of Lunnun."

The famous English music hall artist, who will be the Orpheum's unique headliner during the next two weeks.

Climbing to Success.

SONG FROM GALLERY GAVE AL JOLSON START.

THE New York Winter Garden has established for itself a trademark second to none in American Theatrical entertainments, and which made a signal place for itself in New York's amusement world so that now any one of the offerings that are staged there and which are later sent on tour from that big playhouse of international novelty and spectacle is reasonably assured of patronage.

Last year playgoers of this city were able to judge for themselves of the brand of entertainment furnished on the stage of the Winter Garden in the production of "The Passing Show of 1912," a nebulous musical comedy web, travestying many of the previous season's most familiar plays which were seen here and proved to be far in advance of any of the musical entertainments shown in this city for a decade.

So great was the success attending this first invasion by the hosts of the Winter Garden in New York that it was a sure thing that other attractions from the big playhouse would follow in the not too far distant future, although it is a big undertaking to pick up a Winter Garden show, bag and baggage, with all its attendant ramifications and send it on tour.

Thus encouraged, the New York Winter Garden management now sends to Los Angeles the brightest star in its entire constellation, Al Jolson, who together with the entire original company of merry-makers and a large chorus of bewitchingly beautiful show girls, will be seen at the Majestic Theater, beginning an engagement of one week tomorrow evening.

To make it full measure it has been arranged that this engagement will not close until the following Sunday night.

"The Honeymoon Express" is the play which will be given and is heralded as the Winter Garden's highest example of production and prosperity. It is said to have attained a record of prosperity which lasted thirty weeks in New York, establishing the longest reign of popularity ever accorded any Winter Garden attraction.

JUST IN FUN.

The avowed purpose of all shows from the Winter Garden is to present an entertainment for the edification of those theatergoers who find ordinary attractions tame and uninteresting. Their only serious purpose, if it can be said that any Winter Garden production was ever serious, is to keep things moving at a lively pace.

To accomplish this, they succeed by producing a liberal number of clever funmakers in the principal roles, who are able to deliver the goods with a whoop an da bang, and assembling them in productions which are put together at considerable expense by men who have a well developed sense of humor, musicked by men who know how to make their feet keep time and then send these

MARIE LLOYD LONDON'S IDOL.

She's Risque to a Degree, but Irresistible.

Responsible for Invasion of English Stars.

Presents Unique Types in Individual Way.

BY GARDNER BRADFORD.

Marie Lloyd, the Lloyd of the Lloyds, will be at the Orpheum for two weeks beginning tomorrow. Most everyone out here has seen either Alice or Daisy, but this is the first time that Marie has dared the rigors of the cross-continent tour, and her appearance is liable to be both a surprise and a shock to those who are conjuring up a vision of her, based on the performances of the two little sisters.

For Marie Lloyd is utterly unlike the other two, both in physique and in her work.

To be sure, there is a certain something about them all which bears affidavit to the relationship, and in the last year or so Alice has been adding poundage in a way that will made Marie look to her laurels—that is, if she is keen on possessing the most avoirdupois in the family, as well as the biggest salary.

Marie Lloyd is the vaudeville, or rather, music hall queen of London, and has reigned as such for years. She is as well known in the metropolis of the world as is the King himself, and with a few million people, is quite a bit more popular.

She is typical of the English music hall, as coarse as they desire her to be, as witty, in the broad English way, and utterly original, both in the types which she depicts and in the way she presents them.

STANDARDS DIFFERENT.

Since she has been on this side, Marie Lloyd has been subject to not a little criticism. I don't mean her family affairs, for I believe that the family life of stage people is none of the public's business, but her work, which all goes to show that England and America have decidedly different standards.

It is a common occurence for an American star, especially a monologist, say Julius Tannen, for example, to go across and fall down with an awful thud, simply because our style and our humor is too fast and too subtle for the Britons.

Picture then, the English artist coming over here, with stuff broad enough and blunt enough for the phlegmatic Briton. Not only do we "get it," but it is received with such instantaneous and forceful impact that one is prone to sit aghast and wonder why the authorities permit it.

PRUNING USELESS.

Both Martin Beck, of the Orpheum, and B. F. Keith, of the Keith circuit, have tried the pruning experiment for the offerings of the English artist, but in no case has the result been successful, and now I take it that Marie will come to us unshackled, and if we find her songs a little risque, or very broad, let it be remembered that it is not she, individually, who is to blame, but the whole British empire, which bows before her and holds her in as high esteem as we do May Irwin, Emma Carus, Stella Mayhew, or Clarice Vance.

Although I have not seen Marie Lloyd's present act, I know her well enough to feel sure that anyone who is looking for that which is off-color will find plenty of it. On the other hand, if one takes it as it is meant—just in fun—and is interested enough to look beyond, he will find that Marie Lloyd is a real artist and a unique one.

One might term her a cartoonist of London types. She does not reproduce them with any degree of fidelity, but exaggerates their peculiarities, stretches their songs to the limit, and makes good fun out of very ordinary people who live very humdrum, hopeless lives in the biggest city in the world.

Out of these commonplace people she makes her act, and costumes her songs in the same ridiculous manner in which she apes her prototypes, giving to the whole an artistic touch which is Lloyden in its subtleness.

FIRST TO COME HERE.

She was the first of the Lloyds to come to this country, despite the fact that both younger sisters have come to the coast before her, and although it is some ten years ago, the impression, she made at that time is still vivid to those who saw her.

One feature in particular that I recall was a burlesque on the Spanish craze of the time in which Barcelona was the song hit. It was pronounced by all of the critics as the most exquisite burlesque of the day.

Now, I understand, she has gone after the costume craze and is bringing with her some bizzare gowns which in themselves are screams, but which are even more hilariously effective when coupled with the songs that go with them.

DASH HER FORTE.

Dash and ginger are Marie Lloyd's forte, and in this respect she is greatly unlike either of her sisters, who tend towards that which is quieter and more dainty, even if fully as off color.

It was Alice Lloyd who introduced "Come Along and Splash Me," and that is the sort of song which Marie does not do.

For the purposes of comparison one can conjure up Vesta Victoria, for she and Marie Lloyd are more nearly alike in their treatment of songs than any other two people I know of.

Yet their subject matter is radically different, and so too, are their personalities.

Of course Marie Lloyd could never be the idol here that she is in England, because America cannot stand much of the English methods. They are too crude for us and leave too little for the imagination.

But it is interesting and entertaining to see, at least once, the woman, who, on her side of the ocean holds today much the same position as did Pauline Hall in this country when she was at the zenith of her wonderful career.

MUSICAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

ORPHEUS CLUB AND SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA CONCERTS.

Cadman, the Composer, to Play With Brahms Quintette—Plans for Great Musical Festival and Congress Next Year—Combined Glee Clubs Contest.

BY HECTOR ALLIOT.

The last chamber music concert of the series by the Brahms Quintette will be given on Friday afternoon, April 10, and Saturday evening, April 11, at Blanchard Hall. These events will undoubtedly prove the most interesting and the largest attendance thus far this year is expected. Charles Wakefield Cadman has generously tendered his services to the quintette and will play the piano to his own trio on this programme. The soloist for the event is Clifford Lott, baritone. Group for string quartette: "Baurree" (Bach,) "Siciliano and Tambourine" (Leclair,) "Musing" (Jessie Safford Edwards,) "Old Dance" (Frank H. Colby,) "Serenade" (Victor Herbert,) "Trio in A Major" (Cadman,) composer at the piano; songs by Clifford Lott, baritone; piano quintette (Cesar Franck,) constitute the programme.

Los Angeles 1915 Music Congress.

The past week has been an interesting one in musical circles from the fact that Mrs. Julius Eugene Kinney, president of the National Federation of Musical Clubs, and Mrs. Emerson Brush, vice-president, have been visiting in the city. They are here for the purpose of completing arrangements for the great musical festival and convention of the national federation during the summer of 1915, at which time the prize American opera, for which $10,000 has been offered by the citizens of Los Angeles for the best American opera, will be produced.

At the same time that the National Federation of Musical Clubs will meet here, an association which numbers 120,000 musicians, the Congress of Musicians, under the direction of Charles Wakefield Cadman, will also convene in connection with this event.

During the past week Mr. Cadman has also been a guest in this city and handed a report to the local association, which is herewith given for the benefit to those interested in musical affairs. It shows the enthusiasm that prevails concerning the great festival that Los Angeles has been so fortunate in securing. Mr. Cadman's report is as follows:

"I have been able to interest some of the leading musicians in various parts of the country in the forthcoming biennial convention of the National Federation of Musical Clubs and of the Music Congress. While no arrangements for any part of the proceedings are yet completed, I find a keen interest in everything which the national federation is doing for the work of 1915.

"Last fall I started to find members for the committee of the congress for the encouragement of American music, to be held in connection with the biennial proceedings and the performance of the prize American opera. I succeeded in securing the co-operation of Arthur Foote and George Chadwick of Boston, Arthur Farwell and Leonard Liebling of New York, the latter now editor of the Musical Courier. Mr. Farwell, although not officially connected with Musical America, still contributes editorials and articles on American music, and he has promised to give us what publicity is needed in this way. Also, Carl Busch, the composer and conductor of the Kansas City Orchestra, accepted at once, and has shown himself eager to make the congress a success. Foote and Chadwick lend their moral and professional support to the movement and have promised to attend and conduct their works. Since the supervisors of public school music are federated, I have made their president, Miss Casterton, a member of the committee, also Tali Esen Morgan, the choral conductor and musical propagandist of New York City, who brought his National Association of Organists to Los Angeles. Charles Farnsworth of Columbia University we made a member of the committee in order to enlist the support and indorsement of the Music Teachers' National Association. Mr. Farnsworth expressed himself as enthusiastic for the congress, and offered to do all he could and get others to attend the biennial. He asks if there is not some way in which delegates from their organization can be sent. Henry Hadley of the San Francisco Orchestra accepted a place on the committee, but his work will not permit him to take an active part in the propaganda or in outlining programmes. Oscar Sonneck, the music librarian of Congress in the national capital, accepted at once, and will lend all official aid to our meetings. He will no doubt address us upon some national phase. I have urged this as strongly as possible and he is considering anent the congress."

During the past week it has been the good fortune of this delegation to hear some of our best concerts, including the Lyric Club, the Symphony and the Brahms Quintette, and it is pleasing to note that Mrs. Kinney's praise for the work being done in California was of the highest.

The local musical people, including all of the clubs and organizations, are lending their support to the forthcoming event, and that co-operation will mean success for Los Angeles in making the event one of national importance.

Closing Symphony Concerts.

The Los Angeles Symphony will give its eighth and closing public rehearsal and closing concert for the season Friday afternoon and Saturday evening, April 3, 4, at the Auditorium. The programme will be made up entirely from numbers selected by several hundred of Symphony patrons:

For the selection of the Symphony the Schubert unfinished in B minor, and the Tschaikowsky sixth, the "Pathetique" also in B minor were almost evenly chosen, so it has been decided to play the Schubert to open the programme, as it is unusually short, only two movements having been completed, and to close the programme with the third movement of the Tschaikowsky work. This is the number which was much appreciated at the last concert. Ippolitow-Ivanow suite "Caucasion Sketches" will also find a place upon the programme. This is a number which attracted great attention when it was first played here, and as it is written in a style descriptive of the life of the Russian Steppes, with a strong flavor of barbarism, it is decidedly unusual and interesting. The suite is in four movements "Dans le Defile," "Dans l'Aoule," "Dans la Mosques," "Cortege du Tartare."

Debussy, the most modern of the French modern school, will also have a place, since there was almost a universal request for the repetition of the charming number, the prelude to the second act of his "Martyrdom of Saint Sebastian." This number was one in which the orchestra was given a fine chance to display its beautiful ensemble, and under the Tandler baton few selections played this season have been more generally liked than this one.

In many respects, the section is interesting. It should also merit the consideration of many others to whom attendance at these concerts has not come to be a matter of custom, since upon this occasion the selections by the orchestra will all be those which have been played many times, and are given a perfect interpretation, and have met with the approval of a majority of the concertgoers.

Seats for the public rehearsal on Friday afternoon and for the concert Saturday evening, will be placed on sale at the Auditorium box office Monday morning.

Edna Howard Fowler Recital.

In Music Hall, Blanchard building, Miss Edna Howard Fowler, who appeared recently in recital, will give a vocal concert, assisted by several young artists.

Mrs. Bernice Roche Oberwinder.

After fourteen years of absence abroad, Mrs. Bernice Roche Oberwinder has returned this week to her former home studio, No. 2727 Halldale avenue. During her stay in Europe, this young pianist studied five years with Mme. Carreno and was also the pupil of Bruno Gortatowski in Berlin.

She appeared in concert in Berlin, Dresden, Leipsic and Munich, and played twice before the Prince and Princess Ludwig Ferdinand of Bavaria at the Nymphenberg palace. Mrs. Oberwinder intends to permanently locate here and follow her profession.

Orpheus Club.

The Orpheus Club will give its second concert of the season at Temple Auditorium Monday evening, March 30, and will be assisted by Mrs. Edmund Shank, soprano; Leroy Jepson, tenor; Mrs. Bessie Bartlett Frankel, reader, and F. Bruschweiller, composer and musical director of national reputation.

The club will sing two of Mr. Bruschweiller's compositions under his direction, and in one a tenor obligato will be sung by the club's director, J. Dupuy.

Will Garroway will, as usual, accompany both club and soloist. Mr. Dupuy will direct.

Combined Glee Clubs' Concerts.

Ellen Beach Yaw will be the soloist at the combined glee clubs' concert to be given at the Auditorium on April 11, by Pomona College, Occidental College and University of Southern California.

A loving cup will be presented to the club, which will receive the greatest number of credits from a jury composed of well-known choral leaders.

A banner to the captain of the winning team of the conference meet, held on the same afternoon, will also be presented.

Gertrude Cohen Recital.

Next Tuesday evening Miss Gertrude Cohen, pianist, will give a concert at Huntington Hotel, Oak Knoll. Her programme will include selections from Beethoven, Schumann, Chopin, Schubert and Liszt.

Local Composers' Concert.

A concert presenting local composers and their works will be given at St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral, this evening at 7:15. De Chauvenet's "American Symphonic Rhapsody" for piano, organ, violin and orchestra will be rendered by Jean de Chauvenet, pianist; Ernest Douglas, organist, and Oscar Werner, violinist. Two movements of Mr. Douglas's "Suite" will be played by himself and de Chauvenet. De Chauvenet's new musical setting of "Stand Up for Jesus" (dedicated to Mr. Douglas) will be sung as a processional by the vested choir.

Symphonic Concerts for 14 Years.

Louis Lombard, the able conductor of the "Theatre du Chateau de Trevano, Lugano (Switzerland) has just issued invitations to his friends to attend the 860th consecutive weekly symphonic concert next Sunday. Every week for fourteen years a concert, containing exclusively compositions of one nation, are given by professors in the royal conservatories of Italy at this castle.

Mischa Elman Here Next Month.

On his way to Australia, which will be in reality the begining of a transcontinental tour, Mischa Elman will stop over in Los Angeles for a recital, scheduled for the Auditorium the evening of April 28. He has arranged an unusual programme. It will include the Beethoven Sonata, D Major, Goldmark's Concerto, Op. 28; Handel's Sonata E Major and a group of Chopin-Auer, Schumann, Gretry-Franko and Wieniawski's Polonaise A Major. Percy Kahn will preside again at the piano.

Maggie Teyte.

The petite English singer, Maggie Teyte, who will visit Los Angeles next season, has returned to her charming English home outside of London, where she will rest until April, when she appears with the Boston and Covent Garden opera companies during their season in Paris. At the close of this limited engagement she will make a three-weeks' tour of the provinces, appearing in London with Kubelik in recital and later with Kreisler. She has proved herself one of the most delightful singers before the public and when she returns to America next year it will be for the third consecutive season.

Flonzaley Quartette.

"If there is finer ensemble playing in the world today than that which was heard from the Flonzaley Quartette at its last concert of the season in New York, it has not yet been heard in America." Such was the criticism of one of the best-known musical journals of this country on the occasion of the quartette's concert in Aeolian Hall. The Kneisels and the Olive Meads were in the audience, while Edward de Coppet, founder of the quartette, was one of the most enthusiastic listeners. The Flonzaleys will be in Los Angeles on May 8 at the Auditorium.

Marcella Craft.

Marcella Craft, a Riverside girl who in the last five years has attracted world-wide interest from her operatic appearances in Berlin, has just enjoyed the distinction of a guest private appearance before the royal family in Berlin. The Kaiserin presented her with a lyre pin encrusted in diamonds, with the imperial monogramme. During the coming month Miss Craft will sing for the Kaiser's daughter, Victoria Luise, and husband, the Duke of Brunswick, at Brunswick.

The Brahms Quintet.

Oskar Seiling, first violin; Louis Rovinsky, second violin; Axel Simonsen, violoncello; Rudolf Kopp, viola; Homer Grunn, piano.

"A THOUSAND YEARS AGO."

Percy Mackaye Has Written a Romantic and Poetic Comedy Which He Locates in Peking, But Which Has Nothing At All to Do With China or the Chinese.

BY HENRY CHRISTEEN WARNACK

IN SPITE of the fact that "The Yellow Jacket" got over here and in the East; that Louis J. Stellmann is trying out a new Chinese play in San Francisco April 18, and that Percy Mackaye's "A Thousand Years Ago" is being hailed with acclaim wherever English is read, I do not for one moment imagine that the drama is coming under any marked Chinese influence.

People go to see "The Yellow Jacket" purely for the mental surprise contained in the American execution of the Chinese system of imaginary scenery.

I started to call it Christian Science scenery as long as it is something that is not and nothing that is something.

When persons who have just been executed on the spot cheerfully arise and nimbly scale a ladder to a ten-foot balcony, it is very pleasant to be assured that they have ascended to heaven. It seems to disabuse our flminds of a fear that Paradise is difficult to gain. Any of us would be willing to climb a short ladder to get to a better and a brighter world after we were dead sure that we no longer had the slightest chance to remain in this one by the help of the knife, medicine or prayer, yet none of us really believe that the Chinese think either as picturesquely or as stupidly as this comedy so laughingly suggests.

I have not read Stellmann's play, but he has been a close student for many years of San Francisco's Chinatown, both before and after the earthquake and the fire, and the chances are that the managers will take it and the people will go to see it for its American kinship and understanding.

Percy Mackaye is an American who does not write like a Chinaman. Sometimes I think he comes as near writing a universal tongue as any man living. If ever a playwright gave free rein to his imagination, Mackaye does.

The wonder is that he remains both playable and marketable, while cramming his works with poetry and ideas. He might get even better results if he took to prose more, for the best of poetry is not essential to comedy or drama.

The essential of a play is its action, and when people are the busiest with life, they generally speak the plainest prose. A subject should have peculiar nobility and should identify itself almost entirely with the classics to demand a literal poetic treatment.

Mackaye, however, is naturally exalted in verbiage, and has such an easy style of verse that his poetry is not objectionable. He should not be put in jail for writing it, and until he does something violent, he should even be encouraged.

The man is not quite 40 yet and he may outgrow it. If he never does we still owe him gratitude for eighteen excellent books, many of which are some of the best of our late plays. He has hung around the gate of greatness for a long time, and if he quits fooling and breaks inside, none of us should be surprised.

He had the key in the lock when he wrote "Fenris, the Wolf," but the thing is stage-unwieldy, and has so much to do with symbols and poetry that it would have to be tremendously well done or let alone, like Hauptman's "Sunken Bell." I think it will grow on us in the nature of a classic, but is not likely to be embraced with popular favor for many years to come.

This thing of "A Thousand Years Ago" is poetic comedy, but it does not make it Chinese simply to locate the action at Peking and give the bulk of the characters Chinese names and titles. The piece has the flavor of Mark Twain about it and Clemens might very well have written it.

On one point it is specially to be commended. Capocomico, the leader of five vagabond players from Italy, becomes Emperor for a day, straightens out the love affairs of Turandot, Princess of Peking, and is in line for the permanent royal favor of Altoum, her father, the true Emperor.

He could have anything he wanted and he takes only the withered rose which Turandot had given Calaf, the young Prince of Astrakhan, when she thought he was a beggar.

Capocomico accepts kingdoms for his four fellow clowns and singers, but himself seeks only more roses and romance. Empty-handed he came and empty-handed he goes away. Perhaps it were better to say that he came clothed with the riches of good will and abundant fancy and that he leaves without poisoning the sweet waters of his contentment with any of the world's dross.

Only one want avails anything in this life. It is the want to be wantless. This our gay Capocomico has and he is not deceived by compounds. He is untouched by wealth, unmoved by power, unawed by reward or punishment. He moves through trial and feast alike untouched, being within the law and yet above the law, possessed of the freedom and peace of spiritual realization.

You cannot give a man like that anything and never can he be robbed. He can do what he pleases with other lives because he has no selfish motives.

Look out for the man who wants nothing that other men has and who has nothing that other men want. If you listen to him speak he will bring you under conviction because his words are as pure as the sunshine and as sweet as rain. The earth cannot avoid the elements and no man can withstand impersonal truth.

Your only right to influence other lives lies in your having no demands to make for yourself. When you see because you do not look, and understand because you do not question, then what you see is the truth, and what you say will be heeded.

Mackaye has written a comedy about a clown and he has created a prince of light.

CRANKS.

Miss Hazel Hulse, a young Trenton girl, will in a few days start on a journey half way around the world to marry Arthur C. Bowman, a man whom she has never seen. Despite the fact that the two have never seen each other, both say there is nothing unusual in the case.

A certificate of proficiency in the domestic arts should be given away with each and every bride, according to H. L. Jones, a wealthy farmer of Geneva, Ill., and that is why he threw in a certificate of good measure when he gave his daughter, Miss Millicent Jones, in marriage to Merton Armagast, member of the school board of Joliet.

In a catch-as-catch-can, go-as-you-please oyster-eating contest in the grill room of the American Hotel, in St. Louis, recently, George C. Monroe of Salt Lake City defeated Albert H. James of Palmyra, Mo., by a score of 250 to 198. The oyster wrestling was witnessed by a large and enthusiastic crowd.

Residents of Jacobs, Jackson county, Illinois, celebrated the arrival of the sixteenth baby at the home of Mrs. Susan Temple of that place.

On January 20, 1872, Margaretha and Jacob Goetz of Cincinnati were married. On January 29 last, Mrs. Goetz, now 60 years of age and the mother of fourteen children, ten of whom are living, was granted a decree of divorce on the allegation of neglect. Last week Mrs. Goetz appeared at the marriage license desk in the Probate Court (where she was granted a divorce five weeks previously) accompanied by Daniel Jung, 50 years old, a wood dealer. Together they soulfully bought a marriage license.

KOPSERVICE Nemo CORSETS

Nemo KOPSERVICE CORSETS
No 552

KOPSERVICE CORSETS have brought happiness to a great host of women whose former efforts to attain the "nature figure" have caused them to suffer in health and purse.

They are a welcome relief to corset dealers whose shelves are filled with all manner of freaks and experiments, which not only fail to produce a rational "corsetless" effect but are positively dangerous and in every way unsatisfactory.

Talk can never take the place of service. These wonderful new Nemo KOPSERVICE models are one hundred per cent. service.

KOPSERVICE Corsets embody an entirely new principle in construction. You've never seen anything like it before. It's a combination of the comfortable old short corset with the sweeping, easy lines of the "corsetless" mode. Four models:

No. 561—Ideal for SLENDER or medium figures. Almost "topless," and all-elastic above waist-line. Very long skirt, with Lasticurve-Back. Suede batiste, sizes 20 to 30 ... $5.00
No. 562—For medium figures. Low bust; extra-long skirt, with Lasticurve-Back. Deep elastic gores in front give free breathing and the "nature figure." Suede batiste, sizes 20 to 30 ... $5.00
No. 551—For full figures. Improved supporting feature, with curved front steels. Low bust; long skirt, with Lasticurve-Back. Fine coutil, sizes 21 to 36 ... $5.00
No. 552—For full figures. Construction similar to No. 551, but with elastic front-gores, as in No. 562 ... $5.00

Nemo KOPSERVICE Corsets enable every woman to attain the true, healthful and graceful "nature figure" without discomfort or menace to health, and with no danger of losing her shape permanently. Every woman who aims to be up-to-date, yet values her health and comfort, will derive much benefit from studying these new models.

In "The Country Boy," Donald Bowles, Selma Paley, Beatrice Nichols, Walter Catlett, Grace Travers and a number of others of the Burbank company have scored individual hits of a real caliber and received no end of lavish critical praise for their splendid and incidentally delightfully numorous drawing of the many fine characters which Mr. Selwyn has provided in his story of the romantic adventures of the young country boy.

The play is delightfully clean and wholesome, full of crisp comedy, a dash of drama and a love story that is fascinating and holding from the first curtain to the last.

"The Country Boy" was originally given its first presentation on the stage of the Burbank Theater, but everyone who has seen the current revival have enthusiastically declared that the present cast and production are in more than one way superior to the original offering.

Morosco.

Today will mark the farewell performances at the Morosco Theater of the big Gaiety Theater success, "The Merry Gambol." There will be an afternoon and night performance today, after which the company will go direct back to San Francisco to begin their preparations on a new piece in which they will later return to the Broadway playhouse.

The second week of this bright, merry, tuneful revue has attracted even larger audiences to the Broadway playhouse than did the first, and it has been voted by everybody as easily the best offering that the Gaiety management has yet made.

Next week the Morosco Theater will remain dark, after which "The Girl Behind the Counter," the fourth of the series of Gaiety productions, which has just opened in the northern city, will come to Los Angeles to further delight patrons of fast musical entertainment.

In "The Girl Behind the Counter" the Gaiety management has assembled an imposing list of stars, and provided another beautifully gowned chorus that promises to outrank the beauties in "The Merry Gambol."

Woodley Theater.

One of the most vitally interesting programmes that has been thrown on the screen at the Woodley Theater for some time will be in evidence Monday, embodying some new features which Manager Woodley intends as a surprise for his patrons.

Of course, there will be retained those noted films which are typical of the Woodley Theater, such as the wonderfully interesting Mutual Girl, who is up to some new stunts, and the Keystone comedies, which are always sure to give every one a good laugh.

But the big features of the bill are a departure of startling nature, which will be excellent follows for that truly sensational film, "The Great Leap," which during the past few days has drawn such remarkable audiences to the Broadway picture palace.

In addition G. Percival Garratt has prepared a descriptive musical programme which bids fair to outdo anything that he has yet accomplished with the mammoth pipe organ.

"I exceeded even my own expectations with my music programme for 'The Great Leap,' and it has encouraged me to introduce some organ effects which I have never tried out before," he explained, and even those about the theater are wondering what they will be.

The new programme goes into effect tomorrow afternoon and will be changed Thursday.

Tally's Broadway.

The motion picture public is offered at Tally's Broadway for one week beginning tomorrow, a photoplay production that is entirely different from anything they have ever seen before. The story of a man's life written by himself. For the sake of driving his lesson home, Jack London's famous "John Barleycorn" story, is to be shown in a six-part motion picture. In it, London hos been unsparing both in telling of his conduct and describing conditions.

And when that conduct and those conditions relate to so intimate a side of a man's life as the part that drink has played in it, it can readily be seen that "John Barleycorn" is a distinct novelty. The picture is a swift and impassioned story of adventure, drawn with the hard lines of realism but lighted with all the color of romance.

As it is absolutely impossible for Tally to have more than the one week's showing of this great feature it may be well to state here that a lot of people are going to miss seeing it unless some of them try and attend matinees, which begin at 12, 1:30, 3, and 4:30 p.m.

Clune's.

The first installment of the famous multi-reel Pathe series, "The Perils of Pauline," will be shown at Clune's Broadway Theater commencing next Monday, with an entirely new bill of motion pictures and musical specialties.

"The Perils of Pauline" represent the last word in film realism and are perfectly photographed, and made with all-star motion picture actors.

A contest was run in the leading magazines of the country to determine before the producing of the serial picture who was the most popular motion picture actress in the county best suited for the part of Pauline.

Her adventures are many and embrace every part of the world and every condition of life. The picture promises to set a new record in motion picture circles, as it has received more advertising than any one motion picture ever produced.

Replete with thrills from start to finish, it promises to be the sensation of the year in local filmdom.

Miller's.

In securing first-run privileges on "The Perils of Pauline," the greatest serial photodrama ever produced, the management of Miller's Ninth, Spring and Main-street Theater have again demonstrated that they are right on the job in getting the very latest and most up-to-the-minute attractions in motion pictures for their ever-increasing army of pleased and satisfied patrons.

No more exciting, interesting, thrilling or mysterious series of pictures were ever made than those that have been produced from this wonderful story by Charles Goddard, the famous author and playwright, which is now being run in serial form in the papers. Prizes are offered for the solutions of mysteries that are brought out in the story and on the screen. Gorgeous, handsome gowns have been designed for the heroine by that arbiter of fashion, Lady Duff Gordon, the famous Lucile.

The enormous cast of screen artists that have been especially engaged to enact this beautiful romance of love and adenture in clude the following matinee idols of the silent drama: Crane Wilbur, Pearl White and Paul Panzer. Many others are in the cast and a large number of people are used in the production, which takes one to many strange places and brings one in contact with people of all nations.

The first installment of this great serial will be run all week beginning Monday and the first treat is in three reels. The usual high-grade comedies and dramas will complete the bill. A musical programme of excellence that follows the story on the screen will be furnished by the "Photoplayer."

EDUCATORS, CHURCHMEN.

Former President Taft, who was recently asked to become president of Delaware College at Newark, Del., has declined the offer, and says he will not accept the presidency of any college or university, as he believes he has other work in which he believes he can do more good.

The Rev. Dr. Meade of Waynesborough, Pa., who is connected with a college in that town, has accepted a call to the pastorate of the American church in Berlin, and will enter upon his duties this coming autumn. He succeeds the Rev. Dr. John R. Crosser of Chicago, who is leaving Berlin after three years' service.

Dr. C. Snouck Hurgronje, who has come to this country partly as a university lecturer, is professor of Arabic at the University of Leiden, Holland. As a scholar he determined to delve into the secrets of Arabic learning and mysticism, and disguised as an Arabic teacher he spent six months in the city of Mecca, sacred to Islam, and succeeded, at the risk of his life, in learning the secrets of the religion of the Moslem, and acquiring knowledge kept hidden from the outside world.

Prof. Karl Florenz, after spending a quarter of a century in Japan, is returning to Germany. He has long been connected wtih the Imperial university, and is one of the recognized authorities on Japan, having written extensively on religious and dramatic subjects. He was created a doctor in Japanese literature fifteen years ago. It is probable on his return home that Dr. Florenz will be appointed professor of the Japanese language in one of the universities.

The Rev. A. S. Hewlett, a cousin of the novelist, Maurice Hewlett, has resigned the comfortable living of St. Paul's Church, Birkenhead, in order to devote himself, like another Father Damien, to missionary work among the lepers at Kumato, an island off Kyushyu, Japan. Mr. Hewlett belongs to the High Church congregation known as the Cowley Fathers. He is unmarried and in the prime of life. He will sail for Japan in August.

The Ethiopians.

[London Chronicle:] Abyssinia, now brought into prominence once more by the final death of Menelik, is one of the countries to which foreigners and their own people have given different names. "Abyssinia" is derived from an Arabic word, meaning mixture or confusion, in allusion to the mixed character of the inhabitants. They prefer to call themselves Ethiopians; and it certainly is a fine old name, which makes even Menelik's alleged descent from Solomon and the Queen of Sheba seem a modern detail. For the Ethiopians, according to the Greeks, were the first inhabitants of the earth, or at any rate, the first who worshiped the gods. According to Homer, they were the favorites of the gods and the justest of all men.

At the theaters,

Al Jolson's Start.

productions on their way rejoicing with a splash, sparkle and sizzle.

In any one of these big shows not the least of its importance is to be found in the delightful femininity with which they abound. Girls are there in abundance; girls of one age, girls of another; girls that dance delightfully and girls that sing audibly. They fill the stage to its utmost capacity, swarms of them, smiling, humming, giggling unceasingly and every one of them up to the standard of pulchritude insisted upon by the tired business man.

At the head of the present Winter Garden organization will be found Al Jolson, a fellow with a nimble wit and a native sense of fun, whose rise to fame has been almost as sudden as it is remarkable. It is true that he served a lengthy and somewhat severe apprenticeship and has done many things in his time.

He does not deny that he has done the "two and three a day" on vaudeville circuits before he was able to qualify for big-time contracts, but it was not until he was engaged by the Winter Garden management as a member of its first cast at that playhouse that he found his best opportunity, and the audiences that applauded him into fame.

HOW JOLSON STARTED.

Jolson always had the burnt-cork bee in his bonnet. When he was a little boy in San Francisco he got the craze, and even in those days he was a comedian. He used to black up with the aid of burnt matches and sing comic songs.

It wasn't a comic song, though, that gave him his start. It was a pathetic ballad that attracted attention to him. That, and the theater's own cop.

When Al was a few years younger than he is now he was one of the gallery gods in the Chicago music hall. A young lady on the stage was interrupted in the performance by a boy in the box, who joined in the chorus, much to the amazement of everyone in the audience and apparently to the astonishment of the parties on the stage. Al was credulous in those days and did not know that the boy in the box had been put there for the purpose, and saw no reason in the world why he should not join in the song, too, inasmuch as he knew the song and thought he could sing it as well as they did.

So, after the boy in the box got through, Al started to sing the song, and immediately the gallery "cop," in language and action quite within Al's understanding, ejected him from the theater. Al says he not only felt put out, but was put out. However, he returned the next night and did the same thing. Finally the singer decided to allow him to sing the week out, and hired him at the end of the week to go to the next town with her.

STAR AT LAST.

And then and there began his stage career, which has kept on uninterrupted to the present time. When he reached a decision that he wanted to become one of Dockstader's minstrels he simply went to Lew, told him he must be engaged, sang a song or two, cracked a few jokes, did a buck and wing dance and eight movements from the "essence of old Virginia," and so hypnotized Dockstader that he engaged him immediately.

About this time, as the almanacs say, the Winter Garden people got after Jolson, and they have him yet, and continually keep spitting on their hands so their grip won't slip, for he has proved to be the highest trump card in the entire pack of those who have ever been seen at that playhouse.

Jolson takes pride in the fact that he comes from California, but he is not the only representative of that great State in this big company of fun-makers, as one finds in its list of players the name of Ada Lewis, most delightful of commediennes, the original "tough girl" in Ned Harrigan's "Reilly and the Four Hundred." Then, also, there is Melville Ellis, another native son, who not only does his share to contribute to the great success of "The Honeymoon Express" in a clever pianologue, but who also finds time to design every one of the costumes that are made, not only for every production staged at the Winter Garden, but for all the musical plays produced by the Messrs. Shubert.

Tucked away in its big chorus are three little dancers, also daughters of California, who, with becoming chorus-girl modesty, would not permit the industrious press agent to divulge their names. It is a safe venture, however, that this trio of native beauty can be easily detected, as they are described as the three prettiest girls in the entire bunch of Broadway beauty, with which this show abounds.

The week of "The Honeymoon Express" at the Majestic Theater should prove to be the champion gigglefest of the season, as there is no doubt that Los Angeles is just ripe for a giggle of the brand to be furnished by this Winter Garden theatrical jollification.

MEN AND EVENTS.

Matthews Blossom of Monmouth, Me., was the first rural mail carrier between Portland and Wiscassett in 1794. The mail was carried in pouches on horseback, while the carrier blew a horn to summon those for whom there was a letter and charged a shilling or more, according to the size of the letter and the distance it had traveled.

Robert Hunter, well known as an author, settlement worker and Socialist, who was the choice of the Socialist party in Connecticut for United States Senator, has declined to accept the nomination.

With a $1000 bill in his pocket which he had been unable to get changed, after trying more than 100 times in at least twenty different towns, John C. Johnson, son of a Philadelphia merchant, arrived in Sunbury, Pa., where he met friends and had something to eat for the first time in nearly twelve hours.

Mrs. Rudolph Blankenburg, wife of the Mayor of Philadelphia, has joined with Dr. Marie Jennie Howe of New York in the feminist campaign that is to be waged against "labeling" married women by their husband's names. The movement is for the purpose of permitting the married woman to retain her maiden name and eliminate the prefix "Mrs."

Charles Dare, a commercial fisherman in Utica, Ill., landed 10,000 pounds of carp in a single haul in Kelsey Lake. After dropping the net a school of fish swamped it, so that it could not be drawn in. The fish which did not get away netted the fisherman $600.

OVER THE SEA.

Sir George C. M. Birdwood, who has had more to do with expositions than any other man now living, having been connected with all the principal expositions since 1851, has just begun his 81st year. He was educated at the Edinburgh University, where he studied medicine, and in 1854 he joined the Bombay medical staff.

Miss Millie M. Mariner of England is probably the only woman submarine diver in the world.

The Queen of Denmark is the latest devotee of the tango. Twice within the last few days she has attended tango teas with her mother, the Grand Duchess Anastasia of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, and has had professional dancers perform in a private room. The Grand Duchess, who is 53 years old, is taking lessons from a male dancer.

N. V. Tilak, an Indian poet, whose fame in the western part of India is said to be greater than that of Rabindranath Tagore, the Nobel prize winner, is a Christian minister of Ahmadnagar. The assertion is made that the name of Tilak prevails over Tagore in all the wide region where Marathi is the people's tongue and Bengali is unknown, and that Tilak in his realm is every whit as much the idol of the masses as Tagore in his. Tilak's lyrics are saturated with the gospel. He is now composing an epic poem telling the story of the Christ in Marathi verse.

The question of whether Andrew Carnegie is a British subject or an American citizen has arisen again in a curious manner. The faculty of Aberdeen University proposed that Mr. Carnegie should be made chancellor of the university, to succeed the late Lord Strathcona. The proposal went along swimmingly until the student body insisted on knowing whether Mr. Carnegie was an American citizen or a British subject. "Who's Who" and other books of reference do not give any data on the subject. The American embassy was likewise unable to say positively whether Mr. Carnegie was a Britisher or an American, while so far as is known Mr. Carnegie is still a voter in his parish in Scotland.

FUTURE CITIZENS.

Edward Morris, vice-president of Morris & Co., packers, has just inherited $3,000,000. But it has not changed his routine of work. He is at his desk every morning at 8 o'clock. Only a half-dozen intimates knew that he had reached his majority.

The newest pastime in Skowhegan, Me., is coasting with a rooster. The children of Charles Moody have trained one to coast down hill with them, standing on the tail end of the runner.

Because Robert Thompson, 14 years old, of Minneapolis, was summoned for grand jury service by mistake and had to miss a session at school, he asked District Judge John H. Steele to write a note to the high school principal excusing his absence. The judge wrote explaining that "one Robert Thompson, No. 3933 Harriet avenue, who had hitherto been summoned by due process for grand jury service, being under legal age, is hereby excused."

Paul Daniels, 10 years old, of East Warren, Vt., has successfully broken to harness a pair of two-year-old steers. Last Saturday he hitched them to a sleigh and took his grandparents to ride.

Clinton Riggs of Raymond, Me., recently took part in a unique struggle with an otter, which he killed after an hour's fight. He intercepted it near a pond, and being hampered by snowshoes, and having for weapons only his hands, found the otter an active fighter.

IF YOU COULD HAVE YOURSELF TO STAND FOR YOU—

—You would avoid the irksome bore of twisting and turning to fit yourself alone.

—You would find that things you have always supposed no one but a professional dressmaker could make, you can make with ease if you but had yourself to sew on.

—You would thoroughly enjoy bringing out your own artistic designs, and seeing yourself as others see you.

—You could tell when things didn't fit before wearing them and remedy the cause.

—You would wear handsome, perfect fitting things, and prompted by such pleasure you would save 90 per cent. of the cost of things you now spend money for, by making them yourself.

—You would at once be able to judge an efficient seamstress before she ruined your clothes—and many more conveniences would you enjoy if you but had yourself to help you.

—"NATURE FORMS" are guaranteed to be an exact reproduction of the person's own figure, arms, bust, skirt and poise, YOU. Also adjustable in case you change in flesh or corset.

—We also make high-grade French tailored corsets, brassieres, etc., to order, and guarantee perfect satisfaction. Allow us to mold your figure for you. "Your Figure Is Our Study."

ART AND ARTISTS.

BY ANTONY ANDERSON.

Cardigan Bay.

Clean, green, windy billows notching out the sky,
Gray clouds tattered into rags, sea winds blowing high,
And the ships under topsails, beating, thrashing by,
And the mewing of the herring gulls.

Dancing, flashing green seas shaking white locks,
Boiling in blind eddies over hidden rocks,
And the wind in the rigging, the creaking of the blocks,
And the straining of the timber hulls.

Delicate, cool sea-weeds, green and amber-brown,
In beds where shaken sunlight slowly filters down
On many a drowned seventy-four, many a sunken town,
And the whitening of the dead men's skulls.

— [John Masefield.

In the Fine Arts Gallery.

The searcher for good pictures will always find new ones, carefully chosen, at the Fine Arts Gallery, Exposition Park. The curator of the gallery is reaching out in all directions, and he follows up one excellent exhibition with another.

At present the four walls of the finely lighted room are hung with landscapes and figures in oils, most of which you have not seen. There is no entrance fee, and the gallery is open every day from 10 to 4 o'clock—except that it closes on Wednesday at noon and opens on Sunday at 1.

Antonio Rocco has a delightful bit of color, Amalfi, tiers of yellow and white houses on a wooded hillside under a blue sky, boats of many colors drawn up on the foreground sands. Huitt Halliday, a Los Angeles girl who studied under Whistler, shows "The Letter Writer," a young woman in a salmon-pink flowered gown and gray sacque (if that's the word,) seated at a desk, the delicate gray tones of the whole room being very sophisticated and Whistleresque. Benjamin Brown shows a strong study of "The Surging Sea," level rocks solidly painted, boisterous green billows around them.

From H. O. Tanner we have "The Shepherd," an exquisite play of moonlight over tree-studded hills; from Charles Warren Eaton, "Pines at Knocke," a wonderful afternoon shadow on sanddunes; from Charles Melville Dewey, "Evening Marshes of Essex," beautifully atmospheric and poetic; from Chauncey F. Ryder the impressive "Cathedral Trees." All these men are artists of international reputation.

Jean Mannheim exhibits his brilliant study of textures and colors, "Portrait of Mrs. Orr," and also his finely sympathetic portrait of his mother. "Budding Spring," by Cullen Yates, has delicately tawny brown and grays, while Leonard Ochtman's "Autumn Days" has grays with browns that are the color of dregs of wine. In "Laguna Hills," by Hanson Puthuff, the autumnal colors are yellow, in William Silva's "Winter Sunset" there are warm tones in the snow that lies under a gray sky. The finely modeled hills in Norman St. Clair's "The Awakening Hills," a water color, enfold bluish shadows, and "Primrose Valley," by Anna Hills, is flooded with sunlight.

N. Deneal Morgan's "Windswept Trees," a water color, is simply and directly handled; Franz Bischoff's studies of flowers in sunlight are superbly colorful; William Mouncy's sketch, "Tongueland Church," shows a radiance of gray sky; the mystery of moonlight is well rendered by Jack Gage Stark in his "Granada;" Dudley Hardy's "Lemon Silk Stocking" is a riot of color, reds and greens; G. J. Sijthoff's "The Lesson," is a fine Dutch interior with figures, one a delightful towheaded child; Max Wieczorek's portrait of "Maxine" presents us to a frank-eyed child in blue; Irving Couse's "The Image Maker" shows us a semi-nude Indian in front of the firelight this artist paints so well.

A notable study of sea and shore is William Ritschel's "Traveling Shadows," a level shore, the sky reflected in little pools left by the sea. Frederick Waugh's powerful pictures of the sea are represented by two splendid examples, "Coast of Maine" and Tanglewood Tales. By Charles Louis Turner.

"Bailey's Island," and Edgar Keller's fine studies of New York bridges are hung near them. Jules Pages is represented by six delightful scenes from Brittany, Helena Dunlap by her "Cafe in Venice," charming and gay, sunlight falling through the trees on pink and white tables round which happy men and women are grouped. Ivan A. Olinsky has a beautiful study of a mother and her two small children, the flesh tints exquisite, the color scheme full of rich harmony.

All these pictures deserve much more than the brief mention I have made of them—so it will pay you to go and study them for yourselves.

Arts and Crafts.

The exhibition of the Arts and Crafts Society of Los Angeles, which opened last Wednesday in Blanchard gallery, under the auspices of the Ruskin Art Club, will continue through the coming week, the gallery being open every day except Sunday from 10 to 5.

This is decidedly the most notable exhibition the Arts and Crafts Society has ever held, and proves conclusively that we have as fine a body of workers as any in the country. Some of the exhibitors, indeed, have more than a national reputation—Ernest Batchelder, Douglas Donaldson, Emma Waldvogel, the Johannets, Charlotte Mytton and others. As one wide-awake girl said in my hearing in the exhibition room: "I thought of going East to study craft work, but found I didn't need to, for the best teachers are right here."

Not the least interesting part of the exhibition is that set apart for the work in textiles and pottery by the pupils of the classes in Los Angeles High School and Polytechnic High School. The work shows original invention as well as excellent technical training.

Ernest Batchelder, lecturer, writer and authority in the arts-crafts, shows some of his beautiful tiles; Charlotte Mytton, some finely-bound books; Douglas Donaldson, Mrs. Fred Bacon, Rose Connor and Miss Underwood, original designs in jewelry; F. H. Robertson and Cornelius Brauchman, pottery; Ralph Johannet, Salome Johannet and Emma Waldvogel, artistic embroidery, some of it combined with the most exquisite stenciling; Julia Bracken Wendt, Maud Daggett and Emilie Perry, sculpture; Leta Horlocker and Myrtle Murphy, ceramics; Margaret Patterson and Esther Crawford, wood-block imprints.

Is William Wendt an Impressionist?

[Editor Art and Artists:] In taking the liberty of asking for an expression of your opinion on the question I am about to mention, I am aware that I have no sufficient grounds for trespassing upon your time except community of interest and the high regard I entertain for your judgment in matters of art, as manifested in your "Art and Artists."

Recently I took two friends of mine to view and enjoy Mr. Wendt's paintings at the Friday Morning Club, having myself previously spent considerable time most pleasurably in musing over these pictures that are to me the finest I have seen locally. One of my friends pronounced Mr. Wendt's work impressionism. I do not know how well informed he is on art matters, but his fine intellectuality and general culture make his ideas worthy of consideration.

Nevertheless, I cannot class William Wednt an impressionist—unless, perhaps, in the very broadest sense of the term. I am delighted with his breadth in handling, fine color, and, most of all, his bigness of feeling and poetry. The atmosphere that is so subtle and charming a quality of his thoughtfully-sincere work seems to me to be the result of a true rendition of values rather than the methods of impressionism. But my idea of impressionism may not be sufficiently comprehensive. So an expression of your opinion as to whether Mr. Wendt's work is to be so [illegible] would be much appreciated.

Yours very truly, S. R. A.

William Wendt is not an impres- sionist in the sense of that word when we apply it to Manet, Monet, [illegible] and the others, but in the broadest sense of the word he most certainly is, for he has, as you point out, breadth of handling, [illegible] color, poetry and feeling—all [illegible] qualities of true impressionism. You err when you suppose that impressionists do not, as a rule, strive for the correct rendition of values by close and sincere study. The men who plaster paint on canvases merely for "color effects" or other "effects" are not impressionists—they are daubers. You were right—and your friend was right. This sounds a little Delphic, a little cryptic, but after all art is as paradoxical as life itself.

A melody, borne through the [illegible] haze
Of Life's forgotten days;
The tumult dies around us, [illegible] thrilled,
With roar of traffic stilled;
Our eyes are dimmed—our [illegible] turn back—and then
We dream old dreams again.
Sometimes, beneath Love's [illegible] smiling skies,
Remembered perfumes rise;
An incense from the violet or [illegible]
Where summer's south wind [illegible]
Lost fragrance from old lanes of [illegible] nonette,

And in the twilight of the [illegible] turn
To where old altars burn;
And new-found Love must [illegible] moment then—
We dream old dreams again.
And then, like silent ghosts [illegible] memory's tomb,
They come in night's deep gloom,
Gray ghosts, uprisen from the [illegible] less dead,
They come with phantom [illegible]
Without excuse, as restless as [illegible] spring,
That wander, whispering;
And jeer that we have gone [illegible] away
From what we dreamed [illegible]
We cry to God, as in the [illegible]
Old wounds gape wide again.

The Many Roads.

Although the Gift of Gifts was [illegible] to her keeping,
Her eyes were blinded to its [illegible] worth;
For she was young and gay, he [illegible] a merry scamp
Whose roving eye would [illegible] lier sight
Than shapeless wifehood [illegible] at home.
Life's many roads stretched out [illegible] gold to gray—
They chose a pleasant avenue [illegible] Youth and Laughter:
"Keep we these glad [illegible] while we may!
Why dim with cares these [illegible] years?" they said.
Alas! her man is dead, he [illegible] gone;
She lies alone and listens to [illegible]
The sighing winds around [illegible] house.
She hears outside her window [illegible] fitfully,
Sad little voices asking her [illegible] to go;
"O little wandering souls," [illegible]
"God pity you!—I cannot [illegible]
I only know the road my feet [illegible] trod
Leads downward to the Hill of [illegible] less Age,
To darkening years of utter [illegible] and vain regret!"
—[E. H. Wolff, in New York [illegible]

Peace.

What was the first prophetic [illegible] that rang
When down the starry sky the [illegible] sang,
That night they came as [illegible] Birth—
What Word but peace, "[illegible] good will on earth?"
And what was the last [illegible] Master said
That parting night, when [illegible] brotherbread,
That night he knew men [illegible] let him live—
Oh, what but "peace I [illegible] "peace I give?"
And yet behold; near two thou- sand years
And still the battle-wrath [illegible] the tears.
Let mercy speed the [illegible] swords shall cease,
And men cry back to God [illegible] shall be peace!"

Gray ghosts, uprisen from the drea

They come with phantom tread,
Without excuse, as restless wind

FOR WOMEN AND MEN.

Facts, Features and Fancies.

BEAUTY HINT: At the beauty goods counter in a large oriental I noticed a unique sort of face powder. It was in the form of a egg, placed in a glass-covered box upon a soft nest of cotton, ly as though some mysterious powder hen had laid it there. She Who Sews.

Anne has most helpful ways and what I observed her doing for grandma, interested me greatly.

Grandma loves to sew and yet she cannot very well see to thread her needles; so Anne takes a half-hour now and then and threads upon a spool of cotton a whole paper of needles, of the size which grandma prefers to use. When she needs a needle, the dear old lady pulls out the thread to the desired length, holding one of the threaded needles in her hand, breaks off the wished-for length, after pushing backward the reserve stock of needles, and uses it. When another length of thread is wanted, she does the same and so on, until all the threaded needles are used. By then, Anne has found time to thread a new spool with needles.

Easter Stickers.

Have you discovered the Easter stickers?

Similar to those used for Christmas packages are they, but the emblems are appropriate to the Easter season—chicks, rabbits, living eggs and the many other conceits supposed to symbolize the fruitful spring festival.

So, if you are sending Easter gifts you may give a hint of the contents of the package by placing an Easter seal upon its cover; or if you are writing Easter letters, they may contain the greeting in emblems rather than in words.

Sunfast.

Old Sol may send his boring gaze in vain through those sunfast window draperies, for he cannot fade or rot them. This is something which every housewife appreciates. The trifle of additional cost is much more than offset by the durability of these fabrics and the colorings are such as will correspond with, and add to, the restfulness of any room. After all, what does more to the effect of a home than the window dressing. It is there that the eye rests most frequently and when the draperies are satisfactory one is well repaid for having given time and some money to securing the best and most harmonious.

Fashion Fondly Fosters.

There are a few changes in blouses, but almost without exception the loose kimono style prevails.

Babies' hats are smaller in shape, nestling close to winsome curls, and they may flare slightly at the sides.

The favorite trimmings for spring hats are flowers, fruits, striped quills, ribbon fantasies, wings, small ostrich tips and jet.

In millinery is found small shapes that are turned and twisted away from the head; also extremely high turbans.

There are some draped styles making their appearance that emphasize the vogue for polonaise and overskirt fashions.

Fashion has reduced the bodice of evening gowns until almost nothing remains but narrow strips of lace extending over the shoulders.

Shallow collars of crepe de chine with picot edges will be worn with the frocks of taffeta, crepe de chine and charmeuse.

Some of the new blouses have yokes that extend across the back and shoulders, sometimes forming half of the upper sleeve.

The new frocks of wash materials are cut with low neck lines that require a guimpe, or they follow the lines of the jumper.

The plaque-shape hat is attracting most attention at present. It is almost flat on top and elevated by a bandeau at the side back.

The skirt with the winding flounce draperies will be very much worn. These skirts have a ruffle winding around the figure in serpentine fashion.

Afternoon wraps are frequently of taffeta, quilled and ruffled with elaborate neck ruffs or hood collars that show to advantage a bit of bright lining.

This year there is no depending on the waist line. It has lost its stability; it goes up and down, and is entirely at the mercy of the type of gown worn.

SCIENTISTS, EDUCATORS.

Col. Sir Francis Edward Younghusband of the British army, the first white man to lead a military force into the sacred city of Lassa in Tibet, has arrived in New York for the purpose of making a tour of the United States. The famous soldier is 51 years old.

Dr. Frank P. Graves, professor of the history of education at the University of Pennsylvania, may be the successor of W. W. Boyd, dean of the college of education of the Ohio State University, who has resigned to become president of the Western College for Women at Oxford.

William F. Wallis, member of the faculty of the Carnegie Institute of Washington, who has been taking measurements of terrestrial magnetism near Rome, is about to undertake a scientific mission of unusual interest in Northern Africa. He intends to measure the terrestrial magnetism along the coast from Tunis to Alexandria as well as in the interior as far as possible.

According to Dr. A. K. Fisher of the biological survey of the Department of Agriculture, more than 400,000 prairie dogs, gophers, ground squirrels and mice have been killed in the government's campaign of destruction. The forage these rodents feed on would be sufficient for about 15,500 sheep or about 1600 to 1800 head of cattle, worth at least $150,000.

Thomas A. Edison is spending a six weeks' vacation in Florida, and is putting in much time studying the birds, flowers and plants.

WOMEN'S WORK, WOMEN'S CLUBS

BY SYDNEY FORD.

THE intellectual side of Paris was the theme discussed at the art and travel section of Ebell last Thursday and Mrs. B. W. Zens contributed a series of reminiscences of her stay in Paris, her visits to the Sorbonne, the College of France and her experiences in the lecture halls that was fascinating and illuminating.

As a sample of the genuinely conscientious and dignified work of the professors in these French halls of science and literature she related how, on one occasion, she went to hear a special lecture and, on arrival, found that she was the sole person there. Promptly on the minute, the professor appeared on the platform, gravely bowed to his audience of one and proceeded to give his lecture in as painstaking a manner as if the hall had been crowded. At the close, he again ceremoniously bowed, and left the platform.

Miss Helen Brooks, the instructor, gave a delightful talk on French sculpture, pictures being thrown on the screen of the products of some fifteen of the prominent sculptors of the nineteenth century.

At the luncheon which followed, the guests were seated at tables according to the State of their nativity. Of course Iowa has the largest showing. It does beat all how those Iowans flock to California. They say that Iowa is the only State in the Union that shows a decrease in population, and this is due—not to the absence of the stork—but rather to the tremendous immigration to California.

Illinois was a good second, and California not far behind. Then there were tables surrounded by native-born New Yorkers, many of the Southern States, Pennsylvania, Colorado, Missouri, Ohio, Massachusetts and Minnesota. As the luncheon progressed, Mrs. H. M. Voorhees called for toasts to the various States from different representatives, which were responded to in delightful impromptu fashion. The Californians burst into song—"I Love You, California," and the Ohioans bragged about their Presidents, and Indiana about their poets, and Minnesota about furnishing flour for the whole world, and Massachusetts people declared they had everything, from the Pilgrim Fathers down. Miss Hicks, who is an Illinoisan, played a couple of piano selections for us to boost her State, and Mrs. C. Q. Stanton, curator of the section, reminded us that when the cotton crop of her native State of Tennessee failed the whole world hangs its head—because we must have clothes.

Miss May Gearhart, superintendent of drawing of the Los Angeles public schools, told in the most interesting fashion of her work in developing the initiative of the child by allowing him to express his preference with his pencil—what is vital to him—which is the keynote of the method upheld and instilled into the public schools by Supt. Francis.

Illustrative of this responsibility of choice of subject which is pushed upon the child, Miss Gearhart told several amusing incidents. Since it is now approaching Easter, it follows as a matter of course that chickens are a favorite subject for the drawing lessons. The other day a youngster drew a flock of yellow, fluffy little chicks following a big, black rooster. His teacher remarked as she inspected his work that it would be more proper to have the procession of chicks following a hen.

"Yes, but I thought I'd let the father take them out today," was the quick response of the small artist.

Reminds me of a little child I knew who was very fond of horses and when her teacher told the class to draw an apple, she drew on her slate a horse instead. When the teacher saw it she said:

"Why, I told you to draw an apple."

"I did," instantly responded the youngster, "and the horse ate it up."

Miss Gearhart told us how to harness play to work, and how she had legalized the drawing of automobiles in a certain boys' class so as to make the subject as dignified and beneficial as it is fascinating. She told us too how she made perspective drawing a playful pastime for a class of girls by simply introducing the patchwork quilt idea and the interior furnishings of a room. The girls took to it like magic and were hardly conscious that they were doing the hitherto hated perspective work.

Club Women Abroad.

As usual, many Angelenos are planning tours abroad this summer and one hears of most alluring trips these days that thoroughly arouse the wanderlust.

Miss Fannie E. Duvall and party will sail from New York for Italy via the Cunard line on April 30. Among the Los Angeles members of Miss Duvall's party will be Mrs. Josephine Rowan and Miss Joy Rowan.

Mrs. H. K. Williamson sails in May for Europe, and will enjoy an automobile tour through England, afterward visiting the continent.

The Cecelia White party also sails in May, and this includes Dr. and Mrs. H. G. Brainerd.

Mrs. E. R. Brainerd of the Alexandria expects to spend the summer abroad, accompanied by her son.

Mrs. Florence Halstead is planning a tour of Norway and Sweden, and a visit to the international meeting of the Young Women's Christian Association, which occurs in Stockholm, I believe.

Bits of Philosophy.

"Nobody in this world finds the best in anyone when he finds fault," observed Mrs. Carrie Jacobs-Bond in her little talk before the music section of Ebell last Wednesday morning. "You don't have to be a critic to enjoy good music," she added, and then she stripped off her gloves, sat down to the piano and gave us her "Perfect Day"—a composition that had its inspiration on Mt. Rubidoux. "All sorts of interpretations have been given to the mood which inspired this song," she said. "I have been told that it was the result of a love affair. It isn't so. I haven't had a love affair in twenty years. It was just pure love of nature that inspired the song."

Her bits of philosophy expressed in a single line strike home every time. For instance, here's this one: "What you can't help—forget."

Is there any wiser philosophy than that?

Babies Life-Saving Station.

A milk station for the poor little kiddies in that region surrounding the maternity cottage on Utah street. That is what we must have, my sisters. Since Nathan Straus has been here, explaining and demonstrating the beneficial effects and the wonderful work of these life-saving stations for the babies, we have been aroused to the situation—and here is a chance right now to put it into practical shape.

If you had been present at the annual meeting of the directors of the Maternity Cottage last Tuesday evening and had heard the report of the physician who looks after the ills of the little folks in that neighborhood—Dr. Lyle McNeill—you would have been genuinely convinced as I am, that the only humane thing to do is to establish a milk station there at once.

Why, the death rate among the babies is something appalling, and would be reduced tremendously—so the good doctor says, and proves by statistics—if only we had one. And what makes it so opportune just now is the fact that the directors of the Maternity Cottage have a vacant lot adjoining the place, and they have money enough on hand to buy a portable cottage to put on that lot for a station—so you see, all we lack is the milk and testing apparatus, and things to supply it.

Now, who will come forward with pledges enough to feed those babies pure milk? I am sure there are clubwomen who would be glad to contribute $5 a month apiece to keep this going. My sisters, do not be backward in coming forward. Make Mrs. William Baurhyte's heart jump for joy by pledging the support of this humanitarian scheme. You know, she is the president of the organization and, of course, was re-elected the other night. The board of directors includes Mmes. W. F. Howard, J. D. Fredericks, C. H. Lippincott and E. N. Martin. The vice-president is Mrs. L. C. Torrance, the recording secretary, Mrs. C. C. Wright; the corresponding secretary, Miss Katherine Torrance, and the treasurer, Mrs. W. H. Noble.

Communicate with any of the above women and tell what you will do toward giving the poor little babies down in that neighborhood pure milk—and please don't be slow about it. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

Sierra Madre Show.

One of the features of the Sierra Madre Flower Show, which will open April 2, will be a Japanese miniature garden presented by the Japanese boys of Sierra Madre. There will be a musical evening on Thursday, after the prizes for floral exhibits have been awarded by Mayor Jones, and a concert on Friday evening by the Brahms trio. On Saturday afternoon the school children will sing a cantata and the festival will close that evening with a dance.

April at Ebell.

Archibald Sessions, assisted by a double quartette, will give a musical, "The Blessed Damozel," "The Tale of the Dismal Swamp," at the first April meeting of Ebell, and the following week Dr. John Balcom Shaw of Immanuel Church will lecture on "Recent Discoveries in Egypt." On April 20 Prof. Edwin R. Snyder of Sacramento will speak on "Vocational Education in the State of California," and the last Monday in the month we will have a reading with musical accompaniment of Maeterlinck's "Pelleas and Melisande," by Mrs. Blanch Hardy Morgan and Mrs. Gertrude Ross.

Ruskin Art Exhibit.

The Ruskin Art Club's exhibition of arts and crafts now in progress at the Blanchard gallery has been attracting wide attention and much praise, both on account of the high quality of the exhibits shown and the artistic beauty of their arrangement. Striking color scheme have been carried out in the decorations of the rooms, great masses of dyed eucalyptus branches having been used to give the keynote. The walls are hung with rare oriental rugs, loaned by F. K. Loftus, their rich, soft coloring making a harmonious background for the display of the brilliant-hued textiles, the quaint embroideries, the bronzes, pottery, jewelry, tiles and ceramics.

Such a high standard has been maintained in the quality of the work admitted that it is difficult to make a choice for special mention. The stained glass of C. G. Rudie and his designs, which are of a strongly-poetical character, have aroused great interest, as have also the soft-toned tiles of E. A. Batchelder, the delicate wood prints of Miss E. M. Crawford and Miss Margaret Patterson and the fanciful tiles of Miss A. Newcome. There are the reliefs of Miss Maud Daggett and Miss Emile Perry, the pottery of Cornelius Brauckman and F. H. Robertson, who holds the secrets of four generations of pottery makers.

Mrs. Julia B. Wendt contributes copper relief work and a charming design for a book plate. Then there is the interesting metal work of Mrs. de la Monte, Harry Sheppe and Miss Alice Carrwile, the jewelry of Douglas Donaldson, and rarely beautiful ceramics by Miss Horlocker, Mrs. Anna Emerson and others—but the list could be extended indefinitely.

On Tuesday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Johonnot, assisted by Miss B. Mattoon, will explain the process of the wood-block color prints, which are new in Los Angeles, and on Thursday afternoon Mrs. E. C. Sterling of Redlands will exhibit her collection of rare laces gathered in many lands, and will give a talk on the lace industry among the Pala Indians—examples of their work being on exhibition.

The exhibition will be open daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. during the coming week, closing on Saturday afternoon, April 4.

Jewels and Jems.

A subject that is always of interest to the average woman was presented last week at the Wednesday Morning Club when Mrs. Gertrude Reynolds McMullen gave a lecture on "Precious Stones," illustrated by stereopticon slides showing how valuable gems are found. She is an expert on this subject and gave a lot of information not generally known to the laity. Music was furnished by a quartette—Mmes. Goodfellow, Patterson, Bronson and Campbell.

Plans are going forward for the floral fete of May 22 and 23. There will be refreshment booths in charge of the different sections of the club, each of which will give an entertainment.

Highland Park Ebell.

The national child labor bill now before Congress was read by Mrs. George Rice before the Highland Park Ebell at its meeting last week and she urged agitation in its favor, as it provides that no manufacturers or employers of children under 16, who fail to comply with certain conditions safeguarding the health and general welfare of such children, may ship or offer for sale any products manufactured by them.

Reports from the Santa Barbara convention were given by Mmes. G. E. Dickinson, E. L. Quinn and Miss T. E. Roberts. It was decided that the club will assist the library board in maintaining a social center for the young people of Highland Park and Garvanza in the new library building and Miss Harriet H. Foote and Mrs. S. F. Judson were appointed delegates to attend the monthly meetings of the board.

The address of the morning was by Mrs. A. B. Galentine of Redondo on "Civil Service Reform" and was a clear and concise exposition of reforms needed in prisons, psycopathic hospitals and elsewhere and a call to women to help to bring about the necessary changes.

The programme for next Tuesday has been arranged by Mrs. Harriet Myers, the well-known bird lover. The speaker will be Miss Julia Ellen Rogers, who will give personal reminiscences of work done to protect birds and trees in Germany by Baron von Berletech. Rae Condit will give whistling solos, and Miss Priscilla Butterfield will sing.

College Women's Club.

The April meeting of the College Women's Club will be a tea at the Clark Memorial Home on Loma drive Saturday, April 4, at 2 o'clock. The hostesses will be members from Cornell, Mt. Holyoke, Swarthmore, Bryn Mawr, Radcliffe, Vermont, Pennsylvania Medical College and Middlebury. Mrs. Charles F. Nelson will be in charge and the programme offered will be a lecture recital of Scotch and Irish folk lore and songs by Miss Harriet Kemp with Miss Updyke as accompanist. Miss Margaret McKee will whistle.

The primary ballots are out for the annual election of officers, to be returned by April 6 to Mrs. Claire Murphy of the Nominating Committee, No. 1141 West Twentieth street. Arrangements are being perfected for the creative evening, which is to be given this year on the evening of April 18 at Cumnock Hall. The two plays chosen by the committee are "The Flax," by Miss Marjory Driscoll, and "The Progenitors," by Miss Nina Updyke. These, together with original songs, will form the programme which will be followed by a reception and social evening. This is regarded by the club as the social and literary event of the year as it stands for the very essence of the life of the club, its education and creative results.

The following new members are announced: Miss Anna Laura Bradley of Pasadena and Mrs. Eva Dickover Ferguson of Glendale; Stanford Graduates—Mrs. Vera Bradshaw Thomson of Knox College and Mrs. Ida Walz Washburn of Hollywood, University of Michigan.

Beaumont Club.

The San Gorgonio Club at Beaumont has decided to change its name to more directly identify it with its location, and it will henceforth be known as the Beaumont Club. It is to be incorporated with a view to purchasing property for a clubhouse site. The Civics Committee has been authorized to secure a restroom for the benefit of out-of-town visitors, and the club will furnish and maintain it for the good of the community. That town of Beaumont is up and coming.

Browning Club.

Browning's poem, "Easter Day," will be the subject of an address by Rev. William M. Brooks at the April meeting of the Browning Club, which will be held at the home of Mrs. E. R. Monk, No. 1611 South Flower street, on Friday, April 3, from 3 to 5 o'clock. Browning songs will be sung by L. Will Walker and tea will be served. An executive board meeting will precede the programme.

Glendale Club Reciprocity Day.

The Tuesday Afternoon Club of Glendale will hold a reciprocity day session on April 14, when the programme of living pictures presenting the women of the Bible will be repeated. Mrs. H. Montague Porter will speak on "Palestine As It Is Today," and preceding the afternoon's entertainment a luncheon will be served at the Congregational Church, corner Third and Central avenues, in charge of Mrs. Daniel Campbell, chairman of the Hospitality Committee. This will be followed by a half-hour auto ride for guests, who will then be taken to the clubrooms for the programme. Mrs. J. G. Hunchberger is in charge of the auto party.

On Thursday evening, April 2, Dr. Albert Hatcher Smith will give a lecture on "A Literary Ramble in Massachusetts," which will be followed by a clever burlesque, "The Third Degree," given under the direction of Mrs. Coral Harrison Stoane. Many prominent club members will appear in the laughable farce.

Dogs Give Alarm of Fire.

The pavilion of the Surbiton Golf Club at Waffron's Farm, Upper Long Ditton, was burned recently. The alarm was given by the caretaker's dogs, which, while he was at supper, barked persistently. He went to discover the reason, and found the pavilion afire. The local fire brigades were at once communicated with by telephone, but by the time of their arrival, the clubhouse being some two miles from Surbiton, the premises were blazing fiercely.

Dead in a Wood.

Walking through Burnham Beeches a gardener named Thomas Newell found the dead body of William Richard Monk, aged 61, a native of Burnham, it was stated at the inquest, when a verdict of "natural death, accelerated by exposure," was returned. Monk had refused offers of assistance toward a home, preferring to "rough it," and sleeping out on the open commons and bracken. The body had apparently been in the beeches for some time.

Motor-Car Fire Death.

The circumstances in which Philip Playford Joss, aged 32, a London ship owner, was burned to death under a motor car were explained at a recent inquest at Caterham. The car turned over on its side. Mr. Joss was pinned under it, and when the vehicle caught fire he was shockingly burned. Arthur Brandt, the owner and driver of the car, who made a brave but unavailing effort to extricate his companion, was complimented on his pluck. The jury returned a verdict of "accidental death."

Recovery from Lockjaw.

It is an exceptional occurrence for a person suffering from acute tetanus, or lockjaw, to recover, but such a case is reported from the Norfolk and Norwich Hospital. A boy of 11, George Brock, was received into the hospital suffering from the effects of a scratch on his big toe caused by a nail in his boot. He was found to be in a state of acute tetanus, unable to open his jaws at all, and rigid from the top of his head to the soles of his feet. The doctors at once began to administer large doses of anti-tetanus serum. Soon the spasms became less frequent. The patient was able to take liquid fluid, and finally the spasms passed off, although the rigidity continued for some days. Last week-end he was able to take his discharge.

IN FRANCE.

Japs Study Art in Paris.

The latest art colony in Paris is made up of Japanese street artists from Tokio, who have set up their household gods in the working-class quarter of Javel on the left bank of the Seine. Their first prospects are most encouraging. The exotic character of their work has made an immediate appeal to the fancy of the novelty-loving Parisian, and there is already a big demand for their Japanese interpretations of the city's familiar scenes and landmarks. The venerable pile of Notre Dame they represent standing out against a gray, cream-colored sky, and the fragile, rigid lines of the Eiffel Tower, repellant to the occidental artist, seem almost beautiful through the medium of their quaint oriental pencillings.

Scientists and psychical investigators are baffled by a series of strange manifestations observable nightly at a little house at Fougeres-sur-Bievre, near Blois. The house is a sort of bungalow, belonging to a retired business man. Between 10 and 11 at night, and again just before daybreak the curtains of the house occupied by the owner and his grandson are shaken feverishly as if by an invisible hand. At the same time a dull thumping shakes the walls and the floors, causing the plaster to fall in thick flakes from the ceiling. Electricians thought perhaps it might be caused electrically, but a thorough search revealed nothing to support this theory. It is thought by the non-superstitious that there may be a subterranean passage from the old castle of Fougeres near by, communicating with the "haunted house," and that the phenomena are either caused by an inrush of wind, or by some one who is desirous of acquiring the "haunted" premises at a low price.

A New Da Vinci.

A painting attributed to Leonardo da Vinci has been brought to light through the sale of the effects of a woman who had in her possession a number of objects of art taken from the ruined palace of Francis I. The picture represents a female figure bearing a strange resemblance to Mona Lisa, holding on her knees a child whose features recall those of Francis I. Several artists who have examined the picture say that it is the work of Leonardo da Vinci.

Electric Towing.

A new and simple system of electric towing has been installed with great success on the canal from the Marne to the Rhine, near Nancy. Along the banks a series of stout posts has been placed fitted with rollers, over which run endless cables which, at each end of the installation, pass around a drum worked by electric motor. The barges hitch their tow rope to the cable by a special contrivance. Prolonged trials have established that the new method costs about 50 per cent. less than any other method tried up to the present, and is, in addition, much quicker. The great superiority of the system consists in the ease in which it can be applied anywhere without altering in any way the banks of the canal or the type of barge used.

A Patriotic Dance.

In Paris the tango is as hopelessly out of date as the Cubists of 1913. If you want to be in the artistic swim you must be a neo-Cubist, and if you want to be an authority on dancing you should at least have heard of the three new dances: A l'Americaine, the Ta-Tao and La Danse Hypnotique.

They were performed first at the Cirque before the most select audience in Paris—"tout ce qu'il-y-a de plus collet-monte."

The following description will give some idea of them:

In the Americaine the two partners hold each other's finger tips and dance a sliding step. They appear to be flirting with one another, but stop short of anything that would shock a bishop.

In the Ta-Tao you use your hands as well as your feet, and do feats of bowing that are not easy unless you happen to be slim.

In the Danse Hypnotique the man must pretend that he is putting his partner to sleep, obedient to his eye and uplifted finger. The lady, when quite hypnotized, falls between the legs of her partner.

This was danced originally by Prof. Lafitte, who looked like a Mephistopheles with his sinuous figure, long fingers and pointed beard.

In the last figure—there are seven altogether—the man takes both arms of his partner from behind, and makes her hand touch the ground twice, watching her as she gets up. Then with his hands he takes hers and makes her bend rst to the right, afterwards to the left. Finally, he makes her pass under his arm, and with his eye motions her to take herself off.

The lady must be ready, in short, to be something like a medium. As it seems unlikely that many girls will allow themselves to be hypnotized by their partners it seems doubtful if the danse hypnotique will become the rage.

Ugliest Woman Fascinates.

Mlle. Polaire, who boasted that she was the "ugliest woman in the world" when she was in the United States, has her troubles in the not very elegant shape of an elderly admirer, who besieges her dressing-room nightly in Paris.

Polaire, who is a kind-hearted little lady, has been very long-suffering with him. But a night or two ago the flare-up came. There was a sound of battle in the wings. Everybody ran forward just in time to see an elderly gentleman being vigorously propelled out of the star's dressing-room with a flea in one ear and his opera hat over the other. A basin of soapy water discharged by a bejeweled hand completed his discomfiture.

"I've had enough of it," explained the angry Polaire to sympathetic inquirers. "It was rather funny at first. He is a poet and used to bring me poems in a bunch of violets every night. But latterly he has been getting out of hand. He brings a folding stool with him and sits outside my dressing-room, and pulls out from his pocket two chops (wrapped in a sonnet to my eyebrows,) a bottle, and a single, very dirty, glass. To-night he came in and said if I would give him a kiss he would introduce me to President Poincare. He hadn't been shaved for a week. You saw what I gave him," ended Polaire, viciously.

But she wasn't rid of her admirer. Two hours later, when supping at the one and only Paillard's, the elderly gentleman, looking more dilapidated and unshaven than ever, reappeared. As he was smelling very strongly of rum, and nobody in Paillard's is allowed to be redolent of anything save vintage champagne, he was ejected by two waiters and the chasseur, under the masterly directions of the maitre d'hotel.

IN BELGIUM.

Leopold's Colossal Fortune.

The private fortune left by King Leopold amounts to $21,000,000, according to a government memoranda attached to the bill for settlement of the estate, filed in Brussels. The figures support the reputation which Leopold had of being one of the shrewdest business men in Europe, and, large as they are, they do not include about $6,000,000 given to the Baroness Vaughn, second wife of the King, nor various other millions he gave away. In the long itemization of his personal property it appears that he held shares in companies all over the world to the present total value of $12,000,000.

As previously announced, the Belgian government proposes to pay the three daughters $1,000,000 each in consideration of their giving up further claims, and to pay the Empress Charlotte of Mexico $700,000 for the royal properties of Clargnon and Ardenne. The state will also renounce a claim for about $700,000 of shares in the Congo, which King Leopold had given to his unfortunate sister, Charlotte, and pay $1;200,000 for that part of the million invested in the Foundation of Niederfulbach, which had not been turned over to the state as a part of the Congo public property.

The government will also pay another $1,200,000 to the royal princesses for furniture, paintings, jewels, Egyptian antiquities, silver and gold table services, and about 30,000 acres of land in the Congo, which belonged to the Princess Clementine, the wife of Prince Victor Napoleon. Besides all these sums, something like $4,200,000 were paid over to the heirs immediately after King Leopold's death.

For Reform in Congo.

Reforms in the Congo, which were urged by King Albert in his address to Parliament, are being put into effect gradually and the prediction is made that the colony in Africa soon will cease to be regarded as a burden to Belgium, or as a source of criticism from the powers, as was the case under the late King Leopold.

The large deficits recorded each year since the Congo was incorporated into Belgium have made financial help one of the first needs. The government plans to grant this by indorsement of all of the past and future debts of the Congo.

It is also proposed to grant the colony a greater administrative autonomy.

The colonial government is to be transferred to Boma or to an even more central point so as to enable the Governor to receive the various district presidents and to permit him to frame adequate laws, inspired by real necessities of each district. It will also make possible the institution of a regular yearly budget which does not now exist.

Another reform is the reorganization of judicial power, modifying it so as to give certain colonial agents police power, such as exists in certain British colonies. This will secure for the white people a greater prestige in dealing with the natives.

New Boats for Congo.

The Belgian government is sending three so-called sliding motor boats to the Congo for river traffic. These boats are fifty-seven feet long and have a draught of only 27½ inches. They are driven by motors of 300-horse power and have on ordinary speed of twenty-three miles an hour. The boats can each bear a load of eight tons and accommodate eight passengers in an airy cabin suited to the tropics. The accommodations are much like those of a Pullman car.

The boat service for freight, mail and passengers will be started on June 4, from Leopoldville to Stanley Falls and upon some other river routes.

A World's Congress.

The Union of International Associations, composed of some fifty international associations, professional, scientific, technical, benevolent and political, has decided to organize a world's congress to meet next year at San Francisco during the Panama-Pacific Exposition. It appears from a communication received from San Francisco that 202 various congresses have already been announced. The union's idea is that the world's congress should be made up of delegates chosen by the national and international congresses, which will assemble in San Francisco. No effort has yet been made toward a programme.

IN SWITZERLAND.

Absinthe Habit Growing.

Opponents of the prohibition of absinthe in Switzerland declare that since the law went into effect the consumption of that spirit has greatly increased. They claim that the principal effect has been to give to absinthe the powerful and widespread publicity, and to introduce it into many homes where it was hitherto unknown. Another effect has been the flooding of the market with a host of inferior products destined to replace absinthe, which itself is smuggled in in large quantities and forms a fast-growing and highly remunerative illicit industry.

They propose that a government monopoly of the sale of absinthe should be substituted for total prohibition. This, however, is strongly combated by temperance advocates.

Boy Boasts Two Stomachs.

A male inmate of a hospital at Interlaken has been discovered to have two stomachs.

The youth in question, who is aged 19, was under examination by the Rontgen rays for stomach disorders when the doctors found that he was possessed of two stomachs.

The case has caused a great sensation in the medical world, and the youth is going to Berlin for further investigation to be made.

"John Orth's" Fortune.

Division of the fortune of "John Orth," the long-missing Archduke John Salvator of Austria, is again being sought by members of the house of Hapsburg. Leopold Woelfling, himself a former archduke of Austria, is leader of the present agitation for settlement of the estate. Woelfling, who has been a Swiss citizen since he renounced his title and married Maria Ritter, the daughter of a German horseman, has taken up the question of the fortune with Emperor Francis Joseph, but it is doubtful that he will meet with any success. The Emperor, many years ago selected the year 1917 as the one in which the affairs of the vanished archduke should be settled.

It has been estimated that the fortune which the Archduke John Salvator left when he fled from Austria twenty-four years ago with the actress, Ludmila Strubel, in the ship St. Margaret—neither the ship nor its passengers ever to be heard of again—amounted to nearly $10,000,000. The great accumulation in interest may make it three times as great today.

IN RUSSIA.

Czar Attacks Drink Evil.

The educational campaign against intemperance has started with a vim in Russia. At the instance of the Minister of Ways and Communications a large railway car has been fitted out with exhibits showing the results of excessive indulgence in alcohol. It will be taken all over the railways of Northern Russia by a lecturer and several attendants. The car will be sidetracked at the principal stations and lectures on the evils of drink will be given to the railway employees. The lectures will be illustrated by magic lantern slides.

It is increasingly apparent that the recent changes in the Cabinet were due solely to the desire of Emperor Nicholas to strengthen his campaign against alcoholism. He is determined to do away with the "national vice," and he has instructed his new Ministers to attack the drink evil vigorously.

It is understood that the new administration proposes to reduce the production of vodka, the national drink; to increase the penalities on illicit trading; and to refuse hereafter to consider drunkenness as a mitigating circumstance in cases of crime. Excise officials are to be held to a stricter accountability for what goes on in their districts.

How the government proposes to meet the loss of revenue on vodka is not known. Receipts from taxes on liquors last year were $101,540,000, against total receipts of $6,118,000 from all sources.

The government intends also to take measures to render financial aid to small farmers and rural industries. The form of this relief has not yet been decided, but it is probable that it will include a system of cooperative country banks based on the system in operation in Germany and other continental countries.

THE RIGHT TO HISS.

Dublin Magistrate Reaffirms the Prerogative of the Briton to Damn a Play.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, March 14.—The Briton has a common law right to hiss a play, provided he does so within bounds. This right, first affirmed in a case reported in 1810, has been reaffirmed by a Dublin magistrate, who discharged a man charged with hissing a play recent imported from the continent. The defendant said the play was "foreign filth," and he considered it his duty to protest. His protest was so violent that the play was interrupted for some minutes.

The leading case of 1810 appears to have been the first instance of a prosecution for this offense. Counsel in that case said it had been difficult to find precedents, for although "catcalls are as old as the English drama, Mr. Garrick and the first men who have undertaken the management of our theatrical concerns have hitherto cheerfully yielded to the jurisdiction of the pit without a thought of appealing to the courts."

In the case of Gregory versus the Duke of Brunswick, reported in 1843, the defendants were sued for conspiracy to hiss off the stage an actor who was appearing as Hamlet. They set up that they considered the man's private character and career so bad as to disqualify him from playing. They admitted that they did "a little hoot, hiss, groan and yell at the plaintiff, and make little noise, outcry and uproar at and against the plaintiff," but they made only such a disturbance "as for the causes aforesaid" (the plaintiff's character) "they lawfully might."

It is said, however, that Macklin, the famous comedian, obtained a verdict of guilty in a prosecution against diverse persons for a conspiracy to hiss him off the stage whenever he might appear, and it is probable that the wanton hisser today would find himself without the law. If, however, the hissing be the spontaneous outcome of the spectator's feelings, he can safely "hoot, hiss, groan and yell."

CREPE materials are shown in a great variety of pretty new effects, wool poplins are high in Fashion's favor, checks were never so popular, serges are much in demand, mannish materials still hold their own.

New Color Tones for Spring

INCLUDE a wonderful assortment of shades that vary from the palest of pastel colors to very vivid tango shades, and, of course, the standard colors always in demand.

The values featured in this Monday suit offering are very much out of the ordinary—In fact, these suits would compare favorably with most $35.00 and $45.00 lines.

FRANCE DESIRES MORE RAKE-OFF.

Wants a Bigger Share in Gamblers' Profits.

Cabinet Scored for Taking the Tainted Money.

Little Switzerland Growing in Financial Power.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

PARIS, March 7.—Legalized gambling in France has increased so enormously that the government has decided it ought to get a greater share of the profits. Under an act passed in 1907 the State has been getting 15 per cent. of the gross receipts. A Parliamentary Commission has brought in a recommendation that from the gross incomes of gambling casinos the state should have 3 per cent. on incomes less than $2000 up to 45 per cent. on incomes exceeding $1,000,000, according to a graduated scale.

One hundred and thirty-three casinos were authorized by the Ministry of the Interior last season to have baccarat, the mechanical racing horses, whist, bridge, bezique, ecarte and piquet. The official figures before the commission show that the casinos in France at summer resorts and springs took in about $10,000,000 profit during a single season.

Enghien, which is within seven and one-half miles from Paris, had about one-fifth of the whole, or $2,000,000. One hundred and fifty trains a day run from Paris during the short holiday season and the opponents of gambling affirm that hundreds of young men and women from Paris become bankrupt at the tables every season. The municipal casino at Nice, owned by the city, took in $1,600,000 and paid nearly all the expenses of the local administration. A second casino at Nice under a license of the Minister of the Interior won for its proprietors $427,000. There were a number of little resorts which were run at a loss.

Public gambling revenues, according to the official figures, have increased about fourfold since 1907. These figures do not include 4600 clubs in France where gambling is allowed and for which the state also takes a percentage of the profits, nor the pari-mutuel machines at race courses, which last season took bets of about $80,000,000.

Some of the newspapers in reproaching the cabinet for trying to take more "tainted" money relate that one of the wealthiest proprietors of casinos in France began as a dishwasher in a restaurant, and that his income is now $400,000 a year besides that from his accumulations, which amount to $6,000,000. Another proprietor who was a house painter is reputed to have a fortune of $4,000,000.

THE SWISS AS BANKERS.

The little Helvetian republic is fast becoming one of the great money powers of the world. It is estimated that twenty Swiss banks have capital amounting to considerably more than the banking capitals of the national and State banks in New York City.

Andre E. Sayous, one of the French students of finance who have investigated causes for the rise of the Swiss financial power, declares that it is due largely to a steady migration of French capital which has been going on for years, and which recently has been prompted particularly by new taxes in France. Another reason is that Switzerland is a neutral territory among European powers and its bankers are frequently the negotiates of enormous loans, the bulk of the capital being drawn from France.

PREFECT'S GOOD RECORD.

The new Prefect of Police, Celestin Hennion, has completed his first year in office with a record widely commended in Paris. He has forced high police officials who formerly sat in state in their offices to go out and personally supervise the training of policemen on duty in the streets, which has worked to the improvement of the entire force.

By many simple devices he has also relieved the congestion of traffic on the principal boulevards, and he is now working in behalf of the Paris horses, notorious the world over as underfed and otherwise abused. A special committee has been appointed with full executive powers, not only in the streets, but to inspect stables, buildings, yards and other places where horses are used.

With new regulations governing the treatment of horses the Prefect hopes to make the now frequent complaints of cruelty among the rarest of entries on the police books.

RICH WOMENS' VICE.

In London the Prevailing Society Habit Is to Be Photographed as Often as Possible.

[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, March 24.—To be photographed is becoming one of the vices of the rich woman. Indeed, she needs to be rich if she is to keep it up, for the prices of the smart photographer are rising to alarming heights.

A remarkable thing about this prevailing habit is that the photographer as well as the clients are of the feminine sex; that is to say, the really fashionable ones. To obtain the combination of grace and charm which is the "note" of the up-to-date photograph, it seems necessary that it should be taken by a woman, and it is a strange fact that the personality of the operator seems to react in some occult way upon the portraits taken, so that the studios of certain "society" photographers in London are besieged with applications for sittings.

Anything from $21 a dozen is charged for the pictures, which in many cases are as artistically posed as the paintings many of them imitate. Fashions come and go as to how to be taken. There has been a craze for "backs;" that is, photographed in evening dress, in which the sitter looks over her shoulder. At the moment, to be taken against a window of small square panes of glass is one of the most popular poses.

Many women in this country are "done" at least every six months.

GERMAN AVIATOR IN PRISON.
RUSSIANS CHARGE ESPIONAGE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BERLIN, March 17.—Hans Berliner, a German aeronaut, has been imprisoned at Kirgischansk, Russia, since February 10, on suspicion of espionage. Berliner and two companions landed in the Ural mountains after a voyage of forty-seven hours from Bitterfeld, Germany.

Fashion Notes

—All the new coats have a flare above the knees.

—Barbaric necklaces of colored beads and odd shaped lozenges are more popular than ever. Another tango influence.

—Spring Waists have taken unto themselves the loveliest bright colors this season. They are made over soft laces and chiffons.

—The spirit of the dance is everywhere evident in woman's apparel, strikingly so in the tango trouserettes to match the costume worn at the dansant.

"Le Merveilleux"—Is the name applied to a hat and likewise to a cape of such novel design that they have set all Paris a-talking. The hat is made of net broche trimmed with a half circle of roses in which all the pastel shades are blended. The cape is the merest suggestion of a cape made in the Medici style of net broche.

Novelty Buttons

—They will add the needed touch to many a spring gown and coat. Every quaint shape, from the tiniest to the very largest sizes are here.

White Coat Buttons—With rings of black, are quite the thing. Small size, 50c dozen; large size, $1.50 dozen.

RIBBONS and LACES for the EASTERTIDE

—Every fashion favored ribbon and lace is here to help make your Easter costume a success.

FLORAL AND TAPESTRY STYLES IN LACES

—These patterns are the newest in shadow and Maline flouncing so popular for tunic and minaret dresses, and for the three-tiered skirts. Some come in medallion patterns large enough for hat crowns; white, cream and ecru, at $1.50, $2.00 and $2.50 a yard.

MALINE METAL LACES

—Something new in gold and silver metal designs with scalloped edges. Just the thing for tunics and millinery purposes. Widths 18 to 24 inches, $3.00 to $5.00 per yard.

CHIC LACE COATS

—Worn over an afternoon or evening gown they impart an air of elegance not to be resisted. Hamburger's have them in short and three-fourth lengths, of Venise lace and in Baby Irish, priced from $20.00 to $65.00.

(Hamburger's—Main Floor)

FRENCH RIBBONS, 2½ TO 4 INCHES, $1.00 YARD

—These Oriental and Jacquard designs are woven—not printed—and the color combinations are the delight of the Parisienne. They make ideal trimmings for the Easter hat. Widths, 2½ to 4 inches. They make their departure Monday at $1.00 a yard. See them early.

"PAON BLUE" RIBBONS

—All the shades of the peacock are variously blended in these ultra smart ribbons that are so fashionable and so hard to find. Double face satin, taffeta, moire and faille—some with the tango shade on the reverse side. Widths from 4 to 9 inches, at 50c to $1.50 yard.

VELVET RIBBONS, 69c

—Wide velvet ribbons with a heavy deep pile and taffeta back—excellent for millinery. In all colors and in black. You'd consider them low priced at $1.00 a yard tomorrow 69c.

Grecian Treco Corsets

The World's Greatest Gown Designer, M. Poiret, has given his unqualified endorsement to the Bien-Jolie Grecian Treco Corset! Why?

—Because this knitted boneless corset gives those lithe flowing lines so much desired.

—It gives the freedom requisite for the dansant, just the support needed to produce the new "Natural" figure, and the comfort that makes a day's outing truly pleasurable.

—A really comfortable corset that has every style requisite—$5.00 to $20.00.

Brassieres the Vogue

Fashion demands the Topless Corset—the Topless Corset demands the Brassiere.

—The brassiere gives just the support needed for the upper part of the figure without binding, or without stiffening the lines. Styles for every kind of figure at 50c, $1.00, $1.50 and up to $7.50.

Crepe Dresses, $5.95 Hamburger's Basement Store

—An Eastern manufacturer over-estimated his spring demands for crepe and poplin dresses and was left with a goodly number on his hands. Our good fortune in taking advantage of his mistake brings them here at great concessions in price. Pretty dresses that remind one of afternoon informal parties, lawn fetes and evening occasions. One model has a low yoke and drop shoulder—that modish blouse, effect so popular for spring. And there are many other styles. See them all. The colors include gray, Copenhagen, navy, tango and black.

Summery Coats, $8.75

—The new waffle checks, basket weaves, and light weight serges and diagonals fashioned into the jauntiest coats imaginable.

—Just the pleasing styles for motering, outing or for evening wear over the dainty frock. Note the satin or silk moire collars and cuffs, the slight yoke effect in front and the fancy button trimmings—there's a variety of pretty styles. In tan, blue, Copenhagen and tango colorings; sizes 14 to 40.

60 Trimmed Hats, $3.95

—We prefer to tell you how many there are and that each is worth more. You'll then better realize the advantage of an early call.

—One of soft supple hemp, sets on the head at a saucy tilted poise and is trimmed with a single flaring stick-up of Maline. Another model of hemp is faced with self colored satin, trimmed with a maline bow. Around the crown closely nestling forget-me-nots are peeping—there's a style in the group to please every fancy.

Silk Boot Stockings at 29c

—The popular and practical silk boot stockings, in black. They are slightly imperfect, the reason for this notably low price, but irregularities that can scarcely be detected.

(Hamburger's—Basement Store.

Lingerie Blouses at $1.50

STATES IN SOUTH AS DEFAULTERS.

Nine Have Repudiated Debts Owed in England.

Bondholders Say They Are Worse Than Honduras.

Over Seventy-five Millions Cannot Be Collected.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, March 15.—Nine Southern States of the United States now owe British bondholders a total of more than $75,000,000, not including interest, on account of debts which have been in default from forty to seventy years, according to a report of the counsel of the Corporation of Foreign Bondholders.

This association, organized forty years ago to protect the interests of holders of foreign securities, has for many years had eleven foreign states on its black list, but this year the republic of Guatemala, under pressure from the Foreign Office, has resumed payments after a default extending over fourteen years.

"The elimination of Guatemala," says the report, "leaves the unenviable distinction of defaulters to the republic of Honduras, and nine States of the United States of America, namely, Arkansas, Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and West Virginia."

It has not been possible to obtain reliable information with regard to most of these debts, but it is understood that the loans were contracted for public improvements, and do not include Confederate bonds or war debts.

With the exception of Alabama's debt, of which no reliable information is obtainable, the amounts owing British bondholders are estimated as follows:

Arkansas	$ 8,700,000
Florida	7,000,000
Georgia	12,700,000
Louisiana	6,000,000
Mississippi	7,000,000
North Carolina	12,600,000
South Carolina	6,000,000
West Virginia	15,222,570
Total	$75,222,570

FROM THE REPORT.

Of these debts the report, which is signed by Viscount Goschen, the new chairman, says:

"It is indeed deplorable that these prosperous and progressive States of the great American Union take no steps to settle their defaulted debts, and it seems, to say the least of it, an anomaly that the United States should insist on compliance with its obligations by a country like Santo Domingo when so many of the States within its own borders are not discharging their own engagements.

"The excuses put forward by these States for non-payment are manifold, but they may be generally classed under three heads:

"(1.) North Carolina pleads that her defaulted obligations were contracted while the State was being administered by the Federal government after the Civil War. The answer to this, of course, is that the bondholders have nothing to do with differences between the States and the Federal government. One or the other must be responsible for the issue of the loans in question, and it is most unfair that the State should refer its creditors to the Federal government and that the Federal government should refer them back again to the State. Tennessee for many years adopted the same attitude as North Carolina; but the former was wise enough to realize that no State can maintain its position in the world of credit which attempts to justify the repudiation of obligations by excuses which, in the case of individuals, would not be tolerated in any civilized court of law, and therefore came to a settlement with the holders of its bonds.

"(2.) Louisiana alleges that there were irregularities of some kind or another in connection with the issue of most of her repudiated bonds. It would, of course, put an end to all credit if a State, on discovery that its own officials had acted incorrectly in the course of the issue of a loan, repudiated all responsibility for the money obtained from the public. There is, however, one issue, or part of an issue, known as "baby" bonds, concerning which not even the foregoing excuse can be pleaded. In this case, in spite of the fact that the bonds are expressed on their face to be issued by the State of Louisiana in accordance with the State's Constitution, and although they are specially secured on arrears of taxes collectable by the State, which, it is admitted, were 'diverted' to other purposes, payment is denied on the astonishing plea that the bonds were not guaranteed by the State.

"(3.) Mississippi's excuse for not recognizing her defaulted debt is the worst of all. Between 1831 and 1838 the State issued two loans, for which she obtained full value and the proceeds of which were invested in the establishment and development of two banks. So long as the banks flourished and made good profits, the interest on the loans was paid; but when, owing to over-speculation, bad times came and the banks got into difficulties, Mississippi made this the excuse for ceasing all further payments to the bondholders. For a State to repudiate its obligations to its creditors because the investments it chooses to make with their money do not turn out profitably is absolutely indefensible, and, as far as the council are aware, such an argument has never been resorted to by even the most backward of the Spanish-American republics."

The report intimates that a proposal is now before the Foreign Office to secure a settlement of the claim against Honduras, but very little hope is entertained of it being successful. The amount due by Honduras, including interest, is roughly, $121,000,000. As no interest has been paid since 1872, and the rate on two of the loans was 10 per cent., the amount is largely made up of unpaid interest.

The White Plague in Japan.

[The Argonaut:] Consumption is said to claim more victims in Japan than in any other civilized country, and the government is about to take decisive steps to combat its spread. The Department of Home Affairs has decided to establish sanatoria in the cities having a population of more than 300,000, namely, Tokyo, Osaka, Kyoto, Kobe, Yokohama, and Nagoya. Those for Tokyo and Osaka will be constructed to accommodate 500 patients, that for Kyoto 400 and those for the remaining cities, 300.

Sir Max Waechter.

Propaganda.

SEEKS TO MAKE BRITAIN A FRIEND OF GERMANY.

[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, March 8.—A novel form of peace propaganda has just been launched with success in England by Sir Max Waechter. He has issued page advertisements in all the principal daily newspapers proclaiming that the time has come when the different countries of Europe must federate on one basis, and on one basis alone—in future there must be no war.

The experiment cost him hundreds of thousands of dollars, but it has succeeded in arousing the British to something like action. So vast a response has there been to his appeal that he has had to call a halt so that his staff may have time to cope with the enormous task of acknowledging and registering the applications for membership of his new league for peace.

It is significant that most of the replies to his advertisements have come from the working classes in the great industrial towns of the north of England, and that criticism and opposition have come from the leading shipbuilding centers where the population are to a very large extent dependent on British Admiralty contracts. Naturally at first sight these folks think that the abolition of war would mean ruin.

The present success of the propaganda seems partly due to the skill with which the advertisemnets have been presented, but still more to the conception on which the league is founded. Sir Max, who was originally a German born at Stettin and became a naturalized Englishman in 1865, aims at the magnificent ideal of the Federation of Europe on economic lines. He has already personally submitted his scheme to the sovereigns and governments of Europe, and now, in order to achieve his purpose, he intends to organize in all the states of Europe a propaganda by means of which public opinion may be enlightened as to the great advantages which all the peoples of Europe would derive from such an alliance or federation.

The first practical step to bring about the federation of Europe is to consist in an endeavor to create a complete and cordial understanding between England and Germany. England and Germany hold the key to the position. They are the leaders of the two great groups—the Triple Alliance consisting of Germany, Austria-Hungary and Italy, and the Triple Entente consisting of France, Russia and Great Britain. The one is the greatest land power and the other the strongest sea power. He proposes therefore that his league should concentrate all their forces upon bringing about a cordial Anglo-German entente.

He is so well satisfied with the success of his first skirmish in advertising that as soon as his staff has overtaken the work it has created he proposes to carry out a great campaign of propaganda throughout the British Isles by the same means, and when he has completed that he will go to Germany. This would seem to be a weakness in his scheme, for so long as his attack is one-sided it will not be difficult for leaders to induce the people to view his intentions with suspicion. Already some critics have suggested that he ought to begin the other way round, but the obvious plan and the only one that can possibly lead to success is to carry on simultaneously the propaganda in both countries.

Even their success would be very doubtful, for in the present state of feeling in Europe, the mere suggestion of an alliance between Britain and Germany would at once arouse suspicion in France, so that it would be wise to carry on the campaign at the same time in France.

Instead of doing this, however, he proposes that Great Britain shall first make friends with Germany, and then act as peacemaker between that country and France. The limitations of his plans are hardly compatible with the boldness of his idea, but they are probably due to the fact that at present he is doing the whole thing at his own expense and with the assistance of only a few women clerks. He announces, however, that he is at present engaged in forming an international advisory council of leading and influential men and women, and that when that is done the constitution and rules of the league will be submitted to them for approval and amendment, so possibly he may do the same with his plan of campaign. If he does it may yet develop into something with real prospects of success.

Again, while he asks everyone to join the league, he asks for no subscription, makes no charge for registration, and states clearly that members by joining the league incur no financial or other obligation. So that at present all he is doing is to enlist sympathy, but he is doing so with the excellent commercial precaution of taking its name and address.

Again, he is careful to state that his European Unity League will neither carry on nor encourage agitation against armies and navies. The league only advocates the reduction of excessive armaments where and when such reduction has become possible in view of the political and military circumstances. It recognizes that it is the duty of every government to arm its country for defense to its utmost capacity, that the instinct of self-preservation compels every state to protect its citizens against the horrors of war and disastrous defeat by all the means in its power, and that as long as the present political organization of Europe remains unchanged, armies and navies must be preserved and are likely to increase.

He does not intend to approach America for a time. Indeed, he uses America as a means of convincing Europe of the error of her ways, for he points out that as Europe's armament burdens increase she will be less and less able to meet American commercial competition, fostered as it is by a common-sense minimum of armament taxation. He also looks forward to the time when, European unity accomplished, Europe and America will combine to preserve the peace of the world.

WOMEN "CLEAN HOUSE."

They Visit a Derelict Husband and Force Him to Telegraph His Wife to Come Back.

[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

MUNICH, March 14.—A curious affair is reported by the Munich police to have taken place recently in a quiet residential street of the Bavarian capital, where there lived an otherwise harmless insurance agent and inspector, whose wife, owing to his "goings on," had left him and returned to her parents.

The mothers of the district, to the number of some 300, having learned that the insurance agent had formed another attachment, proceeded to storm the house. They cut off all possible means of escape, and with much noise, demanded that the couple should show themselves. Not a mouse stirred inside, and no reply came to the shouts. Thereupon the storming party waxed indignant, broke in the front door, lifted the inner door off its hinges, and, seizing the unfortunate feminine victim, proceeded to the modern version of tarring and feathering. They doused her in dirty water and thrashed her.

Then they seized the errant husband and forced him to send the following telegram to his wife:

"The house has been cleaned. Come back."

A deputation then met the wife at the depot about midnight, and escorted her triumphantly to her home. The police, however, put a stop to the subsequent hilarious housewarming.

The proceedings appear to have been a revival of the curious popular lynch justice by secret committees, which existed in Bavaria down to 1897, and was then ended by the imprisonment and punishment of the lynchers.

GERMAN COLONY WITH SLAVERY.

Dr. Schnee Defends Practice in East Africa.

Farmers Are Unable to Find Native Laborers.

Development of Athletics Reduces Drinking.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

BERLIN, March 7.—A brief, defending slavery for the colonies, declaring that its immediate abolition would lead to native risings, is handed in by the Governor of German East Africa, Dr. Schnee. In response to a resolution passed by the Reichstag last year, calling for the termination of household slavery by January 1, 1920, Dr. Schnee has reported that there are about 185,000 slaves in the colony at present, many of them captives in wars as late as 1905 and 1906, while others are being imported even today from Portuguese East Africa and British Cape Colony. But the number is steadily growing less.

A law passed a few years ago liberates all children of household slaves born after 1905; deaths are further reducing the number of slaves; many are able to buy their liberty for sums ranging from $2 to $15, and in addition, many owners are voluntarily giving their slaves freedom.

The Governor predicts that slavery practically will have ceased to exist without further restrictive measures by 1930, and pleads against setting any fixed date for a general emancipation, which, he declares, would ruin many plantation owners, provoke rebellion among the native farmers, and cost the government at least $2,000,000 to indemnify owners for the loss of their property.

The Governor uses arguments that had a familiar ring in the United States sixty years ago. He says that the negro by no means feels the lack of personal liberty as a hardship, that the slavery is of a decidedly patriarchal character, and that the labor exacted is light, that they are given certain days each week to cultivate their own little garden. By a general emancipation the aged slaves, who are now fed and sheltered by their owners when no longer able to work, would be thrown destitute upon the world.

In discussion of the report in the Budget Committee of the Reichstag, the Socialists and Clericals sharply criticised the attitude of the government behind which, they averred, was the self-interest of the plantation owners, seeking a cheap supply of labor. Advertisements from colonial newspapers, offering to sell or buy slaves, were read by the Socialists, who declared that the government was favoring and even promoting the slave trade, and a Clerical leader alleged that German planters organize regular man hunts to get labor for their plantations. Dr. Solf, Secretary of State for the Colonies, admitted that the law has been interpreted to justify compulsory recruiting of native labor for plantations and that grave infringements of the law had been committed by native soldiers with the knowledge and consent of their white officers.

The native population of Africa is at best steadily shrinking under contact with the white man. It has been thought that under the influence of white civilization, the cessation of the continual tribal wars and the introduction of scientific medical methods the negro population in Africa would grow rapidly. Diederich Westermann, professor at the Oriental Seminary of the Berlin University, declares, on the contrary, that the depopulation is steady and rapid. He cites the report of a Catholic missionary, Father van der Burgt, who, after twenty-two years' work in German East Africa, found that the native population in that time had decreased a third, if not a half. Infant death rates of from 47 to 80 per cent., and a surprisingly low birth rate are factors which missionaries observed in Togo, the Cameroons and other African colonies, as well as German East Africa.

EXODUS TO CITIES.

The Farmers' League, whose annual convention in Berlin just closed, declares that the exodus from rural district to city, has made it impossible for the land owners to find enough farm laborers. They have to depend on the hordes of Russians, Poles and other foreigners, who invade Germany each spring and return to their homes in the autumn, taking out of the country the savings of their six months' work. The problem has recently become graver, in view of the announced intention of the Russian government to forbid its subjects from coming across the border. This would mean that the German farmers would have to look elsewhere for no less than 400,000 laborers, at a time when army increases are about to take a further block of 180,000 able-bodied men away from productive pursuits.

Prominent speakers of the Farmers' League asserted that laws limiting the right of domiciliary choice of persons under 18 years old should be enacted. This would mean that the peasants, whose right to choose their own domicile and to move about freely was established by the imperial constitution more than forty years ago, would return to serfdom. It was also proposed that even adult inhabitants of rural communities should not be permitted to move to cities without first proving that they had secured a home there. How such a law could be enforced was not explained.

The same conditions make for the drift to the cities in Germany that are observed elsewhere. These are primarily the superior educational and social advantages. Another great factor here is the low wages prevailing in rural districts. An official report shows some 300 governmental districts, corresponding roughly to the American township, in which the prevailing wage for laborers 21 years of age and upward is 48 cents daily, or less.

BERLIN CHURCHGOERS.

The people of Berlin do not appear to be good churchgoers, according to a census taken of attendants at the Protestant churches the last Sunday in February. The count covered seventy-eight parishes, with a Protestant population of 2,060,000, of whom only 35,240 were counted at church that day, either morning or evening. Even according to the estimate of a clergyman, who criticised the figures as too low, the number was only 7000 greater. Thus, barely twenty out of every thousand Protestant Berliners, at the highest estimate, attended church on the Sunday in

THE MOODS OF GENEVIEVE.

No. 1—THE VANITY MOOD.

IF EVERY woman were to admit the whole truth about her moods there would be such revelations would turn topsy-turvy this gray- old world that thinks itself so

There is a mood that has such power within me that always, must I marvel and go down worship on my knees to it. It is vanity mood of me, radiant, eager seizes me when I am not on and fires me all at once with knowledge of my pretty girl —the being that is a barrier to hopes, splendid inner impulses, no one ever sees or believes. vanity mood is always ac- panied with a philosophical view-point. It teaches me the wonder and not the foolishness of dress.

It causes me to yearn to possess realms of shimmering silks, gray billowy feathers, foamy laces and glittering jewels.

And with all these I would bedeck the vain, sweet, laughing girl self of me that saucily perks her head on one side and cries: Look at me, admire me, idolize and worship me, for I am lovely."

On these days I am conscious of indulgent eyes, I seek attention and long for open wonderment and admiration.

In these moods I yearn for clothes that will express me as I really am. The imperfections of my simple wardrobe infuriate me beyond words. My hats devoid of modish feathers, my simple gowns without drapery, my unimpressive furbelows all seem an insult to the beauty that leaps in me.

My hungry soul cries out for lustrous fabrics and soft nestling furs to enhance the girlish loveliness of me.

I open my wardrobe door and fling the contents over chairs and bed. How loathsome is that blue suit, what a crime that I should cheat myself with shams and makeshifts and that stupid hat, which so pitifully lacks character, and shoes with every earmark of the bargain counter. Ugh! how I detest them all.

Then in the mirror I catch a glimpse of the tousled head of curls, the eyes of flame, the lips slightly parted in scorn, and I laugh; yes, I can laugh then.

I have something better than clothes, I have youth, beauty and health. No clothes could compensate.

Jacob H. Schiff, the New York banker, has just made a second notable gift to the library of Congress. It is to supplement the one made by him in 1912, consisting of a collection of Jewish books, comprising 10,000 volumes.

The second collection, like the first, was brought together by Ephraim Deinarda, a collector, who, after disposing of the first collection, went to Europe and then to Palestine to get a second collection which would supplement the first. It is this that Mr. Schiff has acquired and presented to the library.

It contains more than 4000 volumes touching every field of Jewish thought and learning, religious and secular, extending over many centuries. It includes, for instance, Bibles with their commentaries and supercommentaries, Mishnah and Talmud, with their commentaries; Milrash, codes of law, sermons, liturgy, philosophy, philology, scientific works, history, geography and belles letters in general.

Many of the books are first editions and rare. The collection includes also more than one hundred manuscripts, many bearing early dates, and can be traced to various countries, as well as several "incunabula" (fifteenth-century books) of importance.

While supplementing the former collection in several respects the new one has also individual features. There is an excellent collection of Jewish melodies and songs with notes and a fine collection of books and periodicals printed in Palestine. Of especial note is the extensive representation of the products of modern Jewish literature.

PULPIT VERSUS CHAIR.

Ministers Have Not Always Liked the Prominence Given to Music and Singers Dislike Criticism.

[Youth's Companion:] Differences of opinion between choir and clergymen are not, as many a perplexed music committee can bear witness, unknown in churches of today. But in our time such differences seethe under the surface; they are rarely brought before the congregation during the Sunday service. Our worthy ancestors, so much more strict than ourselves in most matters of religious decorum, were less scrupulous. When first the bass viol replaced the tuning fork and later the organ superseded the viol, old-fashioned ministers not infrequently voiced their disapproval from the pulpit in Scriptural language.

"These that have turned the world upside down are come hither also," proclaimed one clergyman, mournfully rising to announce his text on the conclusion of the reorganized choir's first effort. Another of a more outspokenly belligerent turn of mind thundered defiantly:

"And the songs of the temple shall become howlings!"

An interchange, mildly reminiscent of these departed days, took place not long ago, according to the newspapers. The minister, sitting in the pulpit, with an expression of attentive dignity, had listened to the singing of the usual anthem. Then he rose and stated, in a loud, clear voice:

"My text will be, 'And after the uproar was ceased.'"

"For a moment," declares the interested reporter, "the choir looked as if it had been fed on persimmons instead of peaches; then they got together, and in the softest kind of whispers began to talk it over. As a result of the conference, a slight change was made in the musical programme, and when the sermon had ended and the organ pealed forth, the choir burst forth zestfully:

"'Now it is high time to wake out of sleep.'"

A CENTIPEDE VEHICLE.

A Machine That Has a Perfect Walking Action and a Train Working on the Same Principle.

[Scientific American:] It is some years since the original pedrail steam road locomotive made its appearance in Great Britain, and in the meantime many important developments have been made, which have culminated in a motor vehicle and train working upon the same principle. This system aroused considerable interest at the recent commercial motor exhibition in London. It is the eighth vehicle of its type, and in its design many important new features have been embodied. The most salient of these new details is the introduction of an anti-friction spring roller chain of novel design, whereby friction is reduced to an insignificant point, the flange and axle friction which existed in former models having been eliminated entirely.

The machine has a perfect walking action, similar to that of a centipede, in which respect it differs materially from the so-called "caterpillar." Each foot is possessed of a perfectly articulated ankle, which gives it the desired freedom of motion while negotiating road obstructions. An ingenious means of causing the feet to approach and to recede from the ground horizontally, while preserving equal spacing, has been perfected by bringing suspension rails into different planes when guiding the foot carriers. The horizontal approach of the feet to the ground allows of their close proximity when taking or about to take a load, and also prevents any obstructive matter, such as stones and so forth, from being caught and squeezed between them.

Each pedrail places two and three feet on the ground alternately, and the force exerted by compressed springs is so adjusted that way two feet together can carry the load from which they are designed, while one foot alone would be unable to do so. Consequently, when an abnormal load is thrown upon a single foot it simply rises, and the obstruction is passed over without the customary jolt experienced in other vehicles. When three feet come into play the load still is supported only, there being no lifting effect. This is because the springs are incapable of more than a certain definite extension. The springs mentioned above are compressed by bolts threaded vertically, while their lower extremities are free to move sideways, like the clapper of a bell, and are attached to the foot, which is thus capable of a certain side motion, controlled by the springs, and which is brought into play when negotiating a corner.

HOW TO REST.

Alternating Physical Exercise Is Good for Those Engaged in Mental Occupations.

[Philadelphia Press:] The old problem as to what is the best form of rest is revived by the statement of Eugene Sandow, "the strong man," that playing golf at the end of the week's work is in nine cases out of ten harmful to the man engaged in sedentary occupations or in work involving mental strain. This physical culturist, if it is proper to call him such—which some people deny—avers that "when the week has been one of strenuous work the golf of Saturday or Sunday is only adding another form of strenuous occupation."

There is plenty of evidence in support of the good to be derived from alternating physical exercise with mental exercise. To cite two notable cases, Gladstone found the strenuous exercise of chopping down trees an excellent antidote of the fatigue resultant upon as strenuous a demand on mental energy as most men have been called upon to sustain, and our own Theodore Roosevelt could bring Russia and Japan to agree to end one of the most titanic physical conflicts in history and in between times wear out the strongest of his army aides in cross-country horseback rides or footraces.

The body rests while the brain works in most occupations and the mind is in repose when the body is busy. Sleep is still

Herpicide Co

The Ladies of Los Angeles Enhance their Personal Charm By the Use of

Newbro's Herpicide

It is a significant fact that Los Angeles people use more Newbro's Herpicide than any equal number of people elsewhere.

Desiring always to appear at their best the ladies of Los Angeles have been quick to recognize the great excellence of Newbro's Herpicide as they know that its intelligent use will add more to the beauty of their hair than anything else. They are justly proud of the radiance and luster of their tresses made possible by having hair that is clean and healthy and a scalp free from dandruff. It is by saving and beautifying the hair growing on their own heads that the Los Angeles ladies add so much to their personal appearance.

Fifteen years ago Newbro's Herpicide was the only germ remedy for dandruff in America. At that time, both the remedy and the theory were ridiculed. But since then Herpicide has achieved an almost marvelous success and the story of its astonishing merit has penetrated to every corner of the globe.

Now the Herpicide claims and Herpicide advertising have been freely copied by the manufacturers of other scalp remedies. Bear in mind, too, that during this change of front the remedies themselves have not been changed, simply the claims for them. Here is the point. Why should you experiment with something, claimed to be as good as Herpicide when genuine Herpicide, the Original Germ-Remedy, may be purchased in every drug and department store in Los Angeles.

The "just as good" kind is good for the substitutors' cash register, but is not good for your scalp.

Applications of real Herpicide can be obtained at any good barber shop.

A DEBUTANTE'S LETTER.

REDLANDS, March 28.

Sorry, Coralie darling, to have come away without answering your note, but you will see I'm in Redlands with the pater for that big invitation golf tournament. All the nice men are here for it, and it's most tantalizing. I'm the loneliest maid that ever was. They golf all day, dine and play cards all night—and getting up next morning is a perpetual miracle.

One famous golfer got up four times yesterday and went to bed again, and yet achieved the wonder of appearing on the golf course soon after 9 a.m. They undertake to get each other up in a case like that, but every time they got the ex-champion nicely started on dressing himself, and left him while they attended to the next sleepy-head, he went back to bed again!

Still there are lots of nice things about Redlands. For one thing, they have all the roses all over the city just like Los Angeles means to have next year. Every little house and even the stores are bowers of roses in full bloom, and the palms and orange trees everywhere make it a fascinating picture.

And for the moment Redlands society is all of aflutter over the engagement of Helen Humphreys to that great big red-headed Percy Harley. You remember him. He came down to the Los Angeles Country Club last year for the woman's golf tournament when Katherine Harley, his jolly sister, played runner-up to Mrs. C. R. Williams in the championship. He stands about 6 feet 4 inches, is a widower with a kiddie of 3 years and has only avoided a second matrimonial plunge during the last two years by sheer genius. He is considered quite a parti, of course, and Helen is about the nicest girl of her age here. She is the niece of Mrs. Henry Fisher, who is the Redlands social queen, and daughter of Maj.-Gen. Charles Humphreys of the United States army. Mrs. Fisher has the reputation of being a perfectly adorable matchmaker, an absolute genius for making the right people know each other.

Another jolly girl we met here is Amy Morrison—such a charming, unaffected little thing. She is about 17 and came here last December after a year or two abroad. And her dresses have just that touch. Her mamma is also in the social altitude here—Mrs. F. P. Morrison.

In fact, Redlands may be a country town, but oh! its social set is exclusive. The Country Club here is absolutely charming, and radiates the "right tone."

Sylvia Allen is another nice girl up here—mamma, Mrs. Halsey W. Allen. Awful dear people.

Lois Lehman is the captain of the women golfers — a fair, slender girl who looks as if she ought to play well. They have not taken to golf here until recently — the women, I mean—but now they are all enthused. Mrs. W. R. Severance, wife of that nice man who comes down to Los Angeles for all our tournaments, is one of the best players so far, and a Katherine Williams comes a close second.

This is bound to be a golf letter—we are all entirely nourished on golf this week. Did you hear about the fashionable society dame who tipped her caddie with a handful of cigarettes out at the Los Angeles Country Club? She carries them loose in her sweater pocket, and when she found she had no money on her she impulsively brought forth the cigarettes. The caddie loftily handed them back and said he did not smoke, thank you.

Now there is some talk of posting a notice in the women's locker-room to the effect that "Ladies will please be careful not to undermine the morals of the caddies."

Ahem!

They are teasing that magnificent Frank L. Miller up here because he is so elated and has won his team match against young Roy Holland. They will succeed in making a golfer of him yet. He has always worn such immaculate golf clothes, and the smart way in which he makes his soft collars stand up is a matter of burning envy. You know who he is, don't you? — the irrepressible bachelor of the Los Angeles Country Club and a perpetual disturber of the peaceful flow of pulses.

Gladys writes me that she is coming home for Easter, so we must have some tennis parties at the Country Club while she is here.

How did that new hat of yours turn out? It certainly had alluring possibilities. I wonder if hats really help? If it doesn't succeed in bringing the doctor to your knees I shall never believe in millinery again.

Yes, dear, I'll be home for the dance on the 14th—long before that. That, by the way, is my birthday, so I shall regard it as a birthday party. Can one conscientiously pose as a debutante after—well, never mind.

Love from

BETTY.

Suits of moire silk and of faille suits of exceptional richness and beauty $35.00

80 lace waists marked specially at $2.59

—We paid less than they were worth—and so Monday you and 79 other women (providing no woman buys more than one) will be able to buy them at $2.59 instead of more.
—They are mostly all in low neck styles with drop shoulders and kimono sleeves—
—It might be wise to give the 4th floor the first place on your Monday shopping list.

Other lace waists priced $1.95

—New novelty waists of lace and fine batiste combined—others of all lace. At $1.95 they are enough under their real worth to make the buying of two or three a real economy!—
Fourth Floor!

Moire ribbons — worlds of new ones ready here!

—Have you been looking—looking everywhere for Moire ribbons—?—and have you been disappointed at every turn?—
—Then you'll be glad to know that these new Moire ribbons have come and will be ready for you to choose from Monday—

—There are 4½-in. widths at 15c—the 5½-in. width at 25c—the 6-in. width at 39c, and the 7½-in. width at 65c.

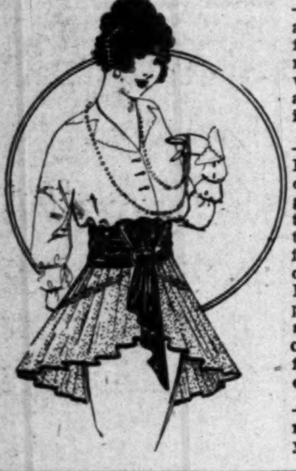
—Women will be wonderfully glad of an opportunity to have these stylish new flounces made up with all the cost and bother left out!—



—There are no conditions of any kind attached to this offer—except that you buy the materials at Jacoby's!—You will not be required to buy an inch more material than is absolutely necessary!

—And these new flounces!—How completely they will change the old frocks into garments of style and beauty!—how much more attractive they will make the new frock, especially when made of lace to match the waist. Many women are having simple little frocks made for street wear and then have one of these detachable flounces to add for Dressy evening wear!—

—Lace flouncings will be ready at 25c and up to $5.00 yard. North Aisle.

The popular La Camille Front-laced corsets are here!

—We have made few announcements that were of more importance than the announcement that this wonderful front-laced — ventilated back corset has established its new Los Angeles home on our Second Floor!—

—The women who are seeking health and comfort as well as style will be enthusiastic over this novel corset, for it's made with a ventilated back that permits the skin to have fresh air to breathe and yet holds the back rigid without the slightest pressure on the delicate nerves and blood vessels of the spine!
—Women who had given up the idea of finding a front laced corset of real satisfaction will be delighted with the new La Camilles!—They range in price from $2.50 to $8.00.
—And Monday—there will be many other new corsets and accessories out for you to see!—
—Treco mesh corsets and hip confiners at $2.50—$3.50 and more.

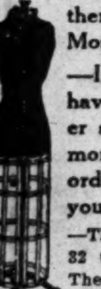
Expert Fitters—Private Fitting Rooms—Fourth Floor.

Do you remember that about six weeks ago we announced the purchase of a carload of adjustable dress forms to sell at $5.98

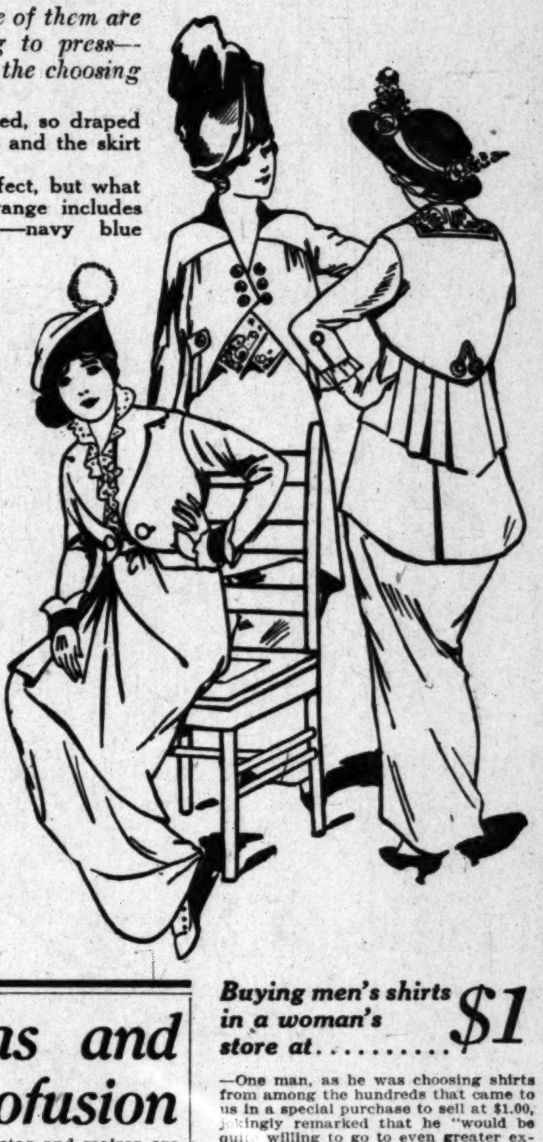


—Well—out of that carload of over 300—there are but a few over twenty left for Monday's selling!—

—If you've been shopping around and have compared these forms with those other stores are showing at more than a half more—we will not need to suggest that you order early the one you'll need to make your spring clothes over.

—They come in two sizes—one adjusting from 32 to 42—the other adjusting from 36 to 46—They're substantially made in every particular and will last for years.
Main Floor—Center Aisle—

—They have just put in an appearance—some of them are not out of their wrappings as this ad is going to press—they'll all be ready Monday—ready to make the choosing of your Easter suit a delightful task!—
—And these suits are so unusual—so ruffled, so flounced, so draped that one must look twice to see where the jacket stops and the skirt begins!—
—It will be hard indeed for you to think up a new effect, but what is among these new suits for Monday!—The color range includes purple—russet—silver gray—Labrador—Copenhagen—navy blue and black!—



New suits and dresses of unusual beauty for Easter $25

—The suits are of moire silk—of poplin—of gabardines—of wool crepes—of serge—and of novelties in ever so many different plain tones and in black and white checks—

—The dresses are of crepe cascade—of peau de cygne and of chiffon taffeta in tango, purple, reseda, Labrador, Copenhagen, tan, navy blue and black—

—The Styles?—We can but hint at them here—to attempt even a slight description would take a page or more of space for hardly two of the whole group are alike!—

—The suits have short Eton Jackets or blouses with a profusion of lace and embroideries and skirts that are bewilderingly flounced and ruffled—

—The dresses are delightful with their lace trimmed waists and "pouch"—bouffant and tiered skirt effects.

—You'll agree they are out of the ordinary at $25.00. Third Floor!—

Third Floor!

Black chiffon taffetas and moires are ready in profusion

—So many stores are sending forth the word that black taffetas and moires are not to be had—that a great many women will read the above headline with a great deal of pleasure!—
—The late Expresses have just brought many new pieces—and so for Monday we will have on display—

—36-inch black chiffon taffeta at $1.75 yard
—40-inch black chiffon taffeta at $2.00 yard
—36-inch moire (mixture) at $2.00 yard
—36-inch black all silk moire at $2.75 yard

—And then, too, there will be a showing of ever and ever so many other new silks—you'll find it hard to decide just which is the prettiest—
—36-inch silk poplin—a soft, lustrous quality that will drape into beautiful suits and dresses—quite a varied color range at $1.25 yard.
—38-inch rough, heavy, Chinese crepe in Gitana, sailor blue, wistaria, oriole, new blue, navy, maize, pearl, rose, black and ivory at $1.35.

SOCIETY.

were Mrs. O. P. Clark, Mrs. Russel J. Waters and Mrs. Henry P. Flint.

The rooms given over to the affair were decorated with a graceful arrangement of spring blossoms, including wistaria, pink roses and tulips. An enjoyable musical programme was presented during the afternoon by Mrs. Carlton E. Stockwell, who gave some of Mrs. Bond's compositions; Mrs. L. J. Selby, "The First Bluebird," and Walter Hastings Olney, a group of songs, including two of Mrs. Bond's; Miss Madeline Bridges, a group of negro songs, also including some of Mrs. Bond's. A social hour with dainty refreshments followed the programme.

Mrs. Jamison and Mrs. Bush have gone to San Diego, where they are the week-end guests of Mrs. Carrie Jacobs Bond at her country home, "Grossmont."

Easter Luncheon.

A charming hostess of the week was Mrs. Seth Hart, who entertained with an enjoyable bridge luncheon Tuesday at her home, No. 1164 West Thirty-seventh street. All the appointments for the table were suggestive of Easter. A long brass fern dish filled with jonquils formed the centerpiece for the table, and place favors were white rabbits, to which were attached small gold baskets, each holding a jonquil. The hand-painted cards marking covers were adorned with little chickens and perky Easter bonnets. Tables were arranged for auction bridge following luncheon and prizes were captured by Mmes. Paul and Kinney. Guests included were: Mrs. Sue Rech, Mrs. Edward F. Hobert, Mrs. Louis Dreyfus, Mrs. Joseph Wilson, Mrs. Arthur Kinney, Mrs. Walter Sebree, Mrs. Ernest Sutton, Mrs. David Unruh, Mrs. Roland Paul, Mrs. Harry Thomas, Mrs. Edward Skinner, Mrs. Samuel Reggle and Mrs. T. C. Egleston of Denver.

Wedding Invitations Issued.

Mrs. Cornelia W. Casewell, No. 817 Catalina street, has issued invitations for the marriage of her daughter, Miss Anne Casewell, to J. Staunton Mellon, the ceremony to be held at the family home the afternoon of April 14 at 4 o'clock.

Engagement Announced.

Another choice bit of news that Dan Cupid has been suppressing—lo, this long time: Miss Ella White Foster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Foster of Fair Oaks ranch, near Pasa Robles and No. 943 West Seventeenth street, this city, is to become a bride. Her engagement was announced yesterday at one of the season's daintiest parties—an afternoon Five Hundred given at Hotel Hollywood. Robert F. Beebe, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Beebe, No. 1814 Toberman street, is the fortunate man.

Decorations for this charming party were carried out in white and yellow. Carnations and jonquils arranged in baskets and vases were placed about the cardroom and score cards were done in cupids and yellow blossoms. Those enjoying the hospitality of the afternoon were Mrs. Harry Peterson, Mrs. E. A. Henderson, Mrs. H. W. Foster, Mrs. Emma Thompson, Mrs. Charles Brown, Mrs. A. M. Beebe, Mrs. Howard Way, Mrs. John Percival, Mrs. Charles Huff, Mrs. Harlow Potter, Mrs. Le Roy Jones, Mrs. W. L. Pinkham, Mrs. Dewitt Brady, Mrs. Paul Drennon Dodds, Miss Georgia Shropshire, Miss Helen Gibbs, Miss Nita Roe, Miss Helen Dicken, Miss Mary Groves, Miss Carrie Noble, Miss Clara Midcalf, Miss Louise Vandergrist, Miss Ida League, Miss Helen Servier, Miss Florence Cook, Miss Fern Wildey, Miss Adelaide Trowbridge, Miss Marie Jackson, Miss Anne Shepard, Miss Esther Davidson, Miss Mabel Chalfin, Miss Phoebe Joslin, Miss Kate Granger and Miss Pansy Newlin. The hostess was girlish and dainty in a gown of orange-color chiffon.

Elaborate Dinner Party.

Mrs. Philip Kling of Detroit, who, with her son, August Kling, is passing the winter at No. 109 Ford place, Pasadena, will entertain with an elaborate dinner party today, the dinner being served at Hotel Maryland. American beauty roses nodding from long stems in crystal vases will adorn the living-room, and a mound of pink roses and enchantress carnations will center the table. Covers will be laid for the hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schell, Mrs. Adelia Schell, Mrs. Viola Fredericks of this city, Mrs. M. Lewis and L. Hohner of Jackson, Mich., and Mr. and Mrs. B. Haehule of Hollywood.

Society Girl Complimented.

Miss Irene Hall, a young society girl of Washington, D. C., was the honoree at an enjoyable bridge afternoon, Friday, given by Mrs. Abner Neff, at her home, No. 505 North Hobart boulevard. An artistic decorative scheme had been fashioned from the lavender iris and the yellow jonquils, arranged in baskets and vases, and at the conclusion of the games, prizes were awarded to Miss Madeline Souden, Miss Grace Whitely and Miss Irene Adkins of Chicago. Elaborate refreshments were served. Those invited to meet Miss Hall, who is the house guest of Mrs. Neff, were Mrs. Tracy Becker, Mrs. A. J. Hill, Mrs. Edward Swift, Mrs. Grove William Hill, Mrs. A. J. Newton, Mrs. Harold Loomis, Mrs. C. E. Wilson, Mrs. Charles Moon, Mrs. William Riftenpart of Berkeley; Miss Winna Haines of Detroit; Miss Grace Whitely, Miss Irene Adkins of Chicago; Miss Beulah

Barker Bros. Great "Colonist Home Furnishing Sale"

—A great sale especially for the benefit of the thousands of new-comers to Southern California, to acquaint you with the splendid and unequaled home-furnishing service of the House of Barker Bros. A sale to welcome you to this grand land of sunshine and happiness. A sale to help you make your start in this new country under the most advantageous conditions. A sale to provide you with the very best in home-making necessities—furniture, carpets and rugs, draperies, and all the other requirements—at specially lessened prices which will enable you to begin your home-keeping under specially economized conditions,—and a sale to make you friends of this great store from the very beginning of your stay here.

—A sale, too, of equal importance to EVERY furniture buyer—whether new-comer or old-timer. A sale of such magnitude, extensiveness and far-reaching importance, that it offers inducements to EVERYONE who has home-furnishings to buy, without exception.

—This page but briefly and incompletely hints of the offerings, price-savings and advantages of this great sale. Every department participates. This great sale offers, to those who want to beautify and make their homes most "livable," comfortable and attractive, thousands and thousands of opportunities that are most extraordinary, and we say, without fear of exaggeration or contradiction, impossible of duplication elsewhere, in their extensiveness, worthiness and reliability. A sale that will again, as many times before in our thirty-three years of business, demonstrate our broad-gauge popular policy and the many pleasing features of our "Service that Satisfies."

SUPREMA REGNAT QUALITAS

"It's a Dream

—"But then they're all Dreams.

—"It seems to me that this splendid new third floor is just one glorious vision after another. The most exquisite, new, bewitching hats that I have seen at any Eastertide—

—"Isn't this lovely! (A Shepherdess Plateau—a crown of beauty)— —"And this! They're not alike at all, but it seems to me to be every bit as charming (a rare, precipitous, high-bandeaued creation rich with Hothouse Roses)—

—"And this! Why all the styles are so becoming I don't know which to choose"—

—And so they are—Never was a springtime more magnificently endowed by Fashion—

—Never was Bullock Millinery so distinguished, so notable in its leadership—

—Never were hats so expressive and delightfully brilliant in their Personality—

—"It's a Dream"—A Dream of Dreams —Magnificent in its Reality. (A Reality that is Art at its very Maximum.)

—It's a Pre-Easter display of Easter hats that no woman should fail to enjoy — and Paris may well consider herself unfortunate at being so far away—for while Parisian ideas are here—the best and foremost of them all—there are ideas that will be shown—that have been created in Southern California, in Bullock's own Ateliers—that for beauty and distinction will out-Paris Paris herself—

—It's a Millinery Fairyland—set with myriad gems — scintillant with "difference" and with suggestions—rich in Hats that can be seen nowhere else—that have pride in personality —in style—and value—will you see them, Monday?

—Hats to go with Evening Gowns—

—Hats for Morning and for Afternoon—

—Hats for Travel and for Home—

—The variety seems as endless as the individuality is exclusive—

—Hats with high uptilted brims—and then, Plateaux—as unlike as the Ruby and the Pearl —yet both designed to reveal the beauty of the hair — the former bandeaued, a precipice above the head; the latter, with transparent crown, a fancy headdress—transformed into a charming hat—

—Then there are Hats a la Shepherdess that seem to have floated from some old Colonial painting—Quaint, quite the most delightful modes of all—Developed in black hair braid is one with small round brim in front and raised above the head at back, a frill of lace outlines its contour—A broad band of velvet ribbon with bow and single streamer falling to the knee —Two French plumes nestle snugly along the crown—Exquisite!

—Then there are Southern California's own flower trimmed hats—for faultless Luncheon and Matinee Costumes——And Hats with Berries; even Oranges and Apples have been used—

—And Monday—New models will be out that have not been shown before—One, a picturesque hat of Black Horeshair and Jet tilted high upon the side—with Rosette of maline and outshooting ostrich feathers similar to an aigrette—

—Then there will be tailored Hats—

—Including those of the New Luster Straw to which Paris is so devoted now——And the woven Flexible Straws, trimmed with small crushed Roses and Buds—or perhaps a cockade has been used—

—A favorite is the conventional sailor with just the banded trimming—

—Simple Hats, elaborate creations—no matter what style you want—A Poke Bonnet, Sailor or Boat-Shaped Turban—A Plateau or a Precipice—All are here—All are ready—and all are superbly, bewilderingly becoming—in this great Pre-Easter display that comes with

Living Room Comfort

CONTRARY to what is perhaps the prevailing opinion, the comfort of the living room (or of any other room, for that matter) depends more on the judgment and care that are exercised in the selection of the furniture than in the amount of money that is lavished on it. This fact is most emphatically demonstrated in the "California's" showing of big, roomy, luxuriously-upholstered arm chairs, arm rockers and davenports—magnificent deep-cushioned pieces into which you fairly sink in care-dispelling comfort.

To every lover of the family fireside, this splendid furniture will particularly appeal.

It is not cheap furniture—nor yet is it costly. It is worthily built and, considering the lifetime service that may rightly be expected of it, is exceedingly economical furniture to buy.

Its character is such that it will even harmonize with any style furniture you may have. It may be covered to your order in any fabric you may select. The addition of even a single piece of this furniture will transform the atmosphere of the whole room.

We invite you to come and see it.

The window display gives a hint of the extensive showing on our floors.

We Are Painless Dentists

And yet there are people who go to their dentist, wait in an agony of apprehension for their call to his chair, and sit in justified fear and trembling while he probes and grinds and cleans and scours and hurts, hurts, HURTS! Simply because they have not been made to appreciate to the full how absolutely unnecessary is any pain. Yale Dentists, 444 South Broadway, Third Floor, Parmelee-Dohrmann Building.

Others were Miss Emily Ellias, Miss Lorraine Mitchell, Miss Emma Pulliam, Miss Barbara Mitchell, Miss Winifred Montgomery, Miss Atala Browning, Messrs. John Legg, Harry Braden, Dwight Stevenson, John Smalley, Fred Lartigue, Paul Steinmeyer and Shevis Mitchell.

A family birthday celebration was held Tuesday evening at the home of Andrew McIntyre, when his children surprised him with a party, the affair being to celebrate the gentleman's birthday anniversary. For several hours the McIntyre home was the scene of merrymaking. One of the features was the elaborate birthday dinner planned.

Complimentary to Rev. W. W. Utter and Mr. and Mrs. Powell, a social gathering was given Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins. Rev. Mr. Utter was formerly pastor of the Central Christian Church of this place, but is now in charge of the Christian Church of Corona.

The Social Missionary Union of the First Methodist Church met this week at the home of Miss Marion Henry, where a delightful evening was enjoyed. Papers were read by Miss Helen Wright and Esther Andrea; solos were given by Miss Lois Curtis; readings were rendered by Miss Nellie von Runkle, and there was a trio by Misses Marion Henry, Lela McConnell and Lois Curtiss, accompanied by Miss Vera Kimball.

Thirty-five members of the recently-organized Metaphysical Society were entertained recently at the home of Miss Jessie Stewart. Mental subjects were the topics of study for the evening. The features of the evening were the vocal selections given by Mrs. Edith Hauzhurst of Sierra Madre and Mrs. Alice Faris of Los Angeles.

A very enjoyable Five Hundred party was given Monday evening by Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Brown. The meeting night of the club has been changed from Wednesday to Monday evening. An abundance of roses were utilized to beautiful effect in the decoration of the various rooms. The customary late supper followed the cards of the evening. Members of the happy throng were Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Leppleman, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Cross, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Guthrie, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Payne, Dr. and Mrs. C. G. Farrow, Dr. and Mrs. Richard C. Lane, Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Howe, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Corwin, Mr. and Mrs. H. Henry, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hoff and the host and hostess.

An auction bridge luncheon was given Monday by Mrs. C. H. Woolsley at her home, No. 1629 Riverdale drive. Yellow blossoms and greenery were used in the decorations. Mrs. Clarence M. Good held high score in the cards. About twenty guests were present.

Casa Verdugo.

MRS. LAWRENCE W. ELEY and little daughter, Virginia, are the guests of Mrs. Loren W. Janes at Piru.

Miss Lillian Mills was the dinner guest of Miss Ethel Land on Tuesday evening.

Miss M. E. Harris of No. 1428 Valley View road entertained Miss Louise McClary of Los Angeles as house guest over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo W. Wheeler of the Monte Vista apartments, Glendale, have been spending the past two weeks at the home of Mr. Wheeler's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Wheeler.

Mrs. G. C. Eddings is entertaining Mrs. A. C. Brown of North Yakima, Wash. Mrs. Brown will probably remain during the summer.

Mrs. N. R. Brown and daughter, Miss Ruth Brown, Mrs. A. L. Davis and Miss Rae Davis motored to Los Angeles Wednesday evening with Jack Hanes, spending the evening with Mrs. Herbert Browne.

Mrs. Samuel Eastman entertained Friday afternoon in honor of her small son, who was celebrating his fifth birthday. The time was spent in merry games, and finally came the beautiful birthday cake, with its five candles, and other delicious refreshments. Tired, but happy little folks wished their genial little host many more happy birthdays and departed for their homes with the setting sun.

Mrs. Carl B. Haig and daughter Dorothy were guests at a most delightful birthday luncheon given by Mrs. Glieff of Hollywood in honor of her son, Joe Charlstrom. The house was tastefully decorated with roses and ferns, these same decorations being carried out on the luncheon table. Covers were laid for twelve and a dainty course luncheon was served.

Sunday, March 22, Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Moore entertained with a turkey dinner, in honor of the first wedding anniversary of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. Duane Moore. The house was profusely decorated with pink roses and lilacs. Covers were laid for eight, the other invited guests being Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Alberts, daughter and son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Moore.

Nat Browne entertained informally Sunday, the day being spent in playig tennis and enjoying a delightfully appointed 4 o'clock dinner. The table was decorated with roses, with the same beautiful flowers used in profusion throughout the rooms of this most charming home. The friends who enjoyed the hospitality of the genial host and his most estimable mother were Mr. and Mrs. Orton and Miss Orton, Miss Hogsett, Lawrence Lurrentine, Albert Corlson and L. R. Simms of Los Angeles, Miss Alpha Clemment, Miss Ruth Browne, Earl Shook, Glendale, and Walter Bowers.

Mrs. Sam Webb of Valley View road entertained with a family dinner Sunday. The table was decorated with Cherokee roses and smilax, the same beautiful flowers being used lavishly throughout the house. Covers were laid for seventeen, and a most delicious four-course dinner was served. It was a most enjoyable occasion, the reunion of the family, after many months of separation.

Miss Marjorie Duncan of No. 1914 Melrose avenue entertained with a musicale Sunday evening last. A most charming programme was rendered and during the evening a dainty luncheon was served. Among the guests of the evening were Miss Barbara Mitchell of Kenneth road, Miss Winnifred Montgomery, Vernon Snively, Hosea Brown and Louis Lepperman.

Laurel Canyon.

THE Laurel Canyon Woman's Club met Thursday at Bungalow Inn and listened to echoes from Santa Barbara by Mrs. F. M. Price and Mrs. C. L. Mann. Mrs. L. A. Newman had charge of the lesson on "Present Problems in the History of Our State." Mrs. R. B. Bowles of Hollywood read a very instructive paper on the Owens River, and Mrs. Newman then introduced Mrs. J. von Wagner, head of the Y.W.C.A. International Institute of Los Angeles, who told in a most graphic form her ideas of the "Influence of the Panama Canal on Immigration." Mrs. von Wagner made it plain that one great need is Federal schools, from which institutions workers may be sent into communities to teach foreigners sanitation and American methods and food values—always dwelling on the prevention rather than the cure of all ills.

Mrs. J. R. Lohmeyer, chairman of the department of music of the Woman's Club of Hollywood, contributed much of the enjoyment of the programme by singing several exquisite solos. Other guests present were Mrs. L. Webster, Mrs. William Davies, Mrs. DeCamp of Hollywood; Mrs. Dudley Dingle of Winnepeg, Man., and Mrs. M. B. Curler of Corinth, Mass.

Mrs. A. R. Perry of Los Angeles was a luncheon guest Tuesday of Mrs. J. A. Matthews.

Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Platt gave a dinner party Friday evening before the Yama Yama dance. The home was artistically decorated with wild flowers and covers were laid for Miss Virginia Baldwin, Miss Ruth Mizner, Mrs. L. Carr, Miss Virginia Platt, Louis Granger, Lester Thompson, C. Ainslee and Mr. and Mrs. Platt.

The monthly party of the Mountaineers' Club was under the auspices of Mrs. H. V. Platt and Mrs. C. S. Mann and proved a real diversion from the usual dignified gathering of this club, as it was a Yama Yama masked ball. About thirty couples came in costume and the prize for the most unique couple was given Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Rublee, Jr., and that for the most artistic was given Mr. and Mrs. William Young of Los Angeles. Other prizes for various stunts were won by Herbert Cornish, Miss Ruth Mizner, Miss Geraldine Tuly and R. D. Vercler.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Matthews were dinner guests on Monday evening of Mrs. J. W. Milliken.

Mrs. F. M. Rublee, Jr., visited at the home of F. M. Rublee, Sr., on Kingsley drive, Los Angeles, over the week end.

Eagle Rock.

DR. AND MRS. MARTIN POST entertained at dinner Friday Mr. Nolan and Mr. McKenney of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Schonoover of Alhambra.

Mrs. F. A. Keniston had as her guests on Saturday at luncheon Mrs. Brown, Mrs. J. White and Miss Gertrude Ward of Highland Park.

Mrs. B. B. Martsolf delightfully entertained the Glendale Five Hundred Card Club on Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Cowan of Ridgeway avenue entertained the Park College Alumni Club at their home on Saturday evening. Mr. Cowan is the president of the club and this is the annual meeting.

Dr. and Mrs. Carle Phinney, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Hannaford, Mrs. Truman, Mrs. Arthur Hannaford and Miss Erna Herzog attended the Lyric Club concert on Friday evening.

The Misses Richardson of Satsuma avenue entertained as week-end guests Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Hickox of Santa Ana and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Kimball of Long Beach. They attended the Lyric Club concert Friday evening and Sunday enjoyed the day in Soledad Canyon with Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hannaford, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hannaford and Leon Stone.

The Twentieth Century Club will give a hard times social April 1 at the home of Mrs. M. T. Lee. Prizes will be awarded for the most unique costume. The committee has obtained a wonderful collection of paintings direct from Europe, which were sold at one mill on the dollar, which enables them to exhibit this great collection at an admission of 5 cents. Admission at the door will be 15 cents. Those not in costume will be fined.

Whittier.

DR. AND MRS. G. E. WANBERG entertained Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Eames of Marshalltown, Iowa, last Sunday. The visitors are winter visitors at Long Beach.

Complimentary to her husband's mother, Mrs. John A. Davis, Mrs. Karl Davis entertained at an attractively-appointed luncheon Saturday. The honoree left this week for an extended trip throughout the East.

Mrs. Mary Burghart entertained Saturday in honor of Mrs. Julia Cutshall, who left early in the week for an eastern visit. During the evening the engagement of Mrs. Cutshall and H. B. Farrar of this city was announced. The wedding will occur on Mrs. Cutshall's return from the East.

Miss Jean Harwood was the honoree at a surprise birthday party given at the home of her mother, Mrs. Ellen Harwood, Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Milea Tomlinson entertained Tuesday in honor of Mrs. Mary Ann Morris, who has spent the winter with friends here, and who leaves soon for Bloomington, Ind. The guests were all friends of the honoree and included Mmes. Cyrus Trueblood, Katherine Tomlinson, Edith Cox, Anna Allen, Edith Stiritz, Rhoda Hare and Miss Estelle Trueblood.

The home of Mrs. Kate C. Lindley of North Greenleaf avenue was the scene of the first of a series of delightful functions given by the red rose section of the Missionary Society of the Methodist Church. About thirty guests were present. The hostess was assisted in her entertaining by Mmes. J. L. Snaveley, C. C. Barr and R. D. Ackley.

Mrs. Morris Peele entertained with a four-course luncheon Wednesday. Guests were: Mrs. Mary Cable and Mrs. William Letton of Glendale, Mr. and Mrs. S. Burke and Mrs. L. J. Cohoon of Crawfordsville, Ind., and Mrs. Mary Elliott of Whittier.

A notable house party assembled at the Hotel Greenleaf Sunday as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Pickett, the party including four pairs of sisters, who some time ago were all teachers in the schools of Minneapolis, Minn., but who for some time have been more or less widely separated. The party included Mrs. Henry Taylor and sister, Mrs. J. R. Pickett, of Whittier; Mrs. George Bryant Dane of Pasadena and sister, Miss Laura Jodon of Pomona; the Misses Jennie L. and Annie M. Heap of Los Angeles and Miss Mary Unger and sister, Dr. Louise Unger of Los Angeles. Saturday the ladies were the guests of Mrs. Henry Taylor. The entire party was somewhat of a reception to Dr. Louise Unger, who has recently returned from a four-year residence in Europe, where she was a student of Mme. Montessori, and from whom she received a graduation medal, given her personally by Queen Margarita.

The A. L. Reed home in East Whittier was the scene Thursday afternoon of a large gathering of ladies interested in missionary work. Automobiles running from the Congregational Church carried the guests to the delightful country home of the Reeds. The affair was given to aid the funds of the Congregational Missionary Society. A programme of musical numbers by local talent added to the pleasure of the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Owens, with Mrs. Owens's mother, Mrs. Sarah E. Wing, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. N. Hambleton of South Pasadena.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Beckett of Spiceland, Ind., are house guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Hinshaw. The guests expect to locate in Southern California.

Mrs. W. C. Resser of Fargo, S. D., and her daughter, Mrs. R. E. Heath of North Painter avenue, were guests Thursday of Mrs. Phillip Ferve of Los Angeles.

The Home Makers met at the home of Mrs. D. C. Andrews Tuesday and elected officers for the coming year. The election resulted in choosing Mrs. A. H. Gregg, president; Mrs. Elizabeth Bogue, vice-president; Mrs. W. E. Connors, secretary, and Mrs. Martha J. Townsead, treasurer. The subject of children's reading was discussed during the meeting, and will be continued at the next meeting, under the leadership of Miss Orendorf, assistant librarian.

Inglewood.

THE most notable event of the past week in Inglewood was the celebration of their golden wedding anniversary by Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Woods, Tuesday at their beautiful home on West Queen street, this city. The color scheme of gold and white was carried out in the floral decorations of all the spacious rooms, great bowls and baskets of California's golden poppies and yellow jonquils combined with dainty ferns rested on piano, mantel, tables and in the nooks and corners of the rooms. The decorations of the dining table consisted of a central basket of jonquils, yellow chiffon ribbons and fifty yellow candles, and the color scheme of gold and white was also carried out in the place cards and the eleborate course 1 o'clock dinner, for which covers were placed for twenty-eight relatives, including all of the couples' children, a number of sisters, one brother and other near relatives. Following the dinner the house was thrown open from 7 o'clock to 9 o'clock in the evening to the public, at which time a stream of callers thronged the rooms, many residents of Inglewood, Los Angeles and many other Southern California cities being well represented. Dainty refreshments in color scheme of yellow and white were served to all the callers. Children of the couple present were Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Capser of St. Paul, Minn.; Mr. and Mrs. B. O. Woods of Portland, Or., and Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Woods of Ocean Park. Three sisters of Mrs. Woods, Mrs. Electa Bryant of Hood River, Or.; Mrs. Julia Hogg of Kansas; Mrs. Ellen Chandler of New York and an only brother of Mr. Woods, Richard Woods and family of Pomona were also preesent. The couple was married at Hillesdale, N. Y., and has resided in California nineteen years. Among the vast array of gifts were $100 in gold coin, gold canhelabra, hand-painted dishes in gold and white, gold bonbon and other table gifts.

A. N. Hatherell left Inglewood Saturday for Munich, Germany where he goes to spend several months in studying the schools of that city, which are said to be along vocational lines, the most advanced of any in Europe. Mr. Hatherell will visit Italy, Switzerland, Paris and London before returning to America.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Rickard, who have been the guests of their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Stuart, during the winter, left Tuesday for their home in Kalamazoo, Mich.

An interesting meeting of the Inglewood Woman's Club was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. F. Monroe of Grevilla avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Sterl and daughter, Miss Helen, left Tuesday for their home at Abilene, Kan., after a pleasant winter's visit with their relatives,

KILL THE CATARRH GERM---USE HYOMEI

It's the Direct-to-the-Spot Method — You Breathe It.

Why delay and continue to needlessly suffer the ravages of catarrh germs? It is not only unnecessary, but dangerous. Try now—today — the Hyomei treatment for catarrh, head colds or bronchial coughs.

The Hyomei process of destroying catarrh germs, relieving head colds and healing the raw and inflamed mucous membrane is not only most effective, but is quick, entirely harmless and pleasant to use—it's nature's way—you breathe it—no bad-tasting drugs to upset the stomach.

You cannot successfully reach the organs where the catarrh germs thrive except with antiseptic and germicidal air. The common sense method is to breathe a few times daily health-restoring Hyomei. Being medicated air, it goes right to the spot and immediately reaches all the diseased tissues. Its antiseptic, healing begins at once.

If suffering from frequent colds, headaches, raising of mucus, spasmodic coughing, difficult breathing or that weak and run-down feeling, surely try Hyomei. All druggists sell it. Ask for the complete outfit—regular price $1.

FRECKLES

February and March Worst Months For This Trouble—How to Remove Easily.

There's a reason why nearly everybody freckles in February and March, but happily there is also a remedy for these ugly blemishes, and no one need stay freckled.

Simply get an ounce of othine, double strength, from your druggist and apply a little of it night and morning, and in a few days you should see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the light ones have vanished entirely. Now is the time to rid yourself of freckles, for if not removed now they will stay all summer, and spoil an otherwise beautiful complexion. Your money back if othine fails.

SOCIETY.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Parent of Market street.

Mmes. L. B. Harden and O. Spaulding were the hostesses Friday afternoon at the home of the latter to the members of the Christian Church Ladies' Aid.

Santa Ana.

ROYAL poinsettias bloomed in vases and jardinieres in the attractive West Fifth-street home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Curry that had been made especially charming for a conversazione-musicale given at the week-end by those hospitable people. Dainty booklets ornamented with poinsettia designs contained topics for the conversational periods which alternated with the numbers of the musical programme. This delightfully unique method of progression resulted in the more intimate acquaintance of the guests and won immediate favor. The interesting musical programme was contributed to by Miss Gertrude Utt with vocal selections, Miss Dorothy Butterfield with vocal numbers, and Mr. Albers of Los Angeles, whose skillful bowing of his violin met with instant appreciation. The programme numbers were closed with a reading by Miss Virgil Potts. Cooling ices, delicious cakes and confections were served by the hostess and assisting ladies. The guest list of the Currys included thirty-five of their friends from Los Angeles, Santa Ana and Tustin.

Journeying from Bement, Ill., to wed the young man of her choice, Miss M. Eleanore Rhode plighted her marital vows to Robert E. Mize of this city on Saturday, the marriage taking place in the Church of the Messiah in the presence of a few relatives and intimate friends. Rev. Rufus S. Chase, rector of the church, read the marriage lines. The bride, who is a strikingly handsome brunette, was costumed in a chic traveling suit of tango with every accessory matching. Orange blossoms and Maman Cochet roses furnished the floral touch for the simple but impressive wedding. Outside of the immediate family of the groom, who is a rising young lawyer, there were present Mrs. Mary Bryant, the aunt of the bride, who accompanied her on her journey to California; Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Galbreth of Los Angeles, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Eden of this city. Leaving at once on a honeymoon trip, Mr. and Mrs. Mize will be at home on their return at No. 816 Parton street, where a charming home, already equipped and furnished, is waiting the bride who crossed half a continent to meet her husband-to-be.

Misses Vera and Gladys Montgomery of Texas, who are visiting at the home of Mrs. Victor Montgomery, and who are possessors of all the famous charms of the South, were the guests of the young women who make up the membership of the N.M.U. Club, and who were entertained early in the week by Miss Adeline Hill, whose G-street home is the center of many pleasant hospitalities. Quantities of sweet peas in dainty baskets were generously used in decorations of the house, and the table, where delectable refreshments were served after an evening of embroidery, chat and music. Besides the complimented guests and their cousin, Miss Louise Montgomery, the young women enjoying the pleasant evening were Misses Zelma Sturgeon, Zoe Vanderlip, Alice Wasser, Rena Stafford, Marguerite Wallace, Mary Whipple, Frances and Gertrude Potts, Joy Baker, Hazel Stockslager, Lurline Dickey, Ruth Larsen. A special feature of the event was the singing of Miss Larsen in two classical numbers.

One of the "human interest" affairs of the week was a most agreeable surprise event on Monday afternoon with Mrs. Elizabeth Mills, founder of the Woman's Club of this city, as the central figure. The women of the club invaded the lovely home of their first president, going one by one at first, so that the "surprise" might not be suspected. Two sisters of the honoree, Mrs. S. A. Moon and Mrs. E. C. Horton, of Whittier, had arrived early in the day to aid Mrs. Mills in celebrating her 69th birthday, which was the primary cause of the afternoon affair, and when all of the club women had arrived the circle of friendship was complete. Mrs. Mills is fondly designated as the "Mother of the Club" and at the 5 o'clock collation, which was served amid a wilderness of roses sent by friends or taken in by the club ladies, she was made the recipient of ardent expressions of esteem and affection. Mrs. B. Uttley, the president of the Woman's Club, was mistress of ceremonies as well as the maker and donor of a handsome birthday cake on which blazed the tiny tapers that estimated Mrs. Mills's age to be 25 years instead of the 69 to which she confessed. The gift offerings were not confined to flowers, many valuable tokens being presented to Mrs. Mills. Covers were laid at the feast table for Mrs. Mills, Mrs. Theodore Winbigler, Mrs. S. A. Moon, Mrs. E. C. Horton, Mrs. B. Uttley, Mrs. Anna Gale, Mrs. Marcella Bonney, Mrs. R. H. English, Mrs. C. F. Crowe, Mrs. George Balderston, Mrs. J. B. Rowland, Mrs. J. J. Pyle, Mrs. Henry Diers, Mrs. Frank Ey, Mrs. Prince L. Tople, Mrs. J. S. Akin, Mrs. Ella Slocum, Mrs. C. P. Kryhl, Mrs. George A. Whidden, Mrs. F. A. Marks, Mizer.

Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Jumper entertained Friday evening with a card party. Five Hundred was the game of the evening and five tables were arranged. At the close of the games prizes were awarded for high scores and refreshments were served. The invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gustlin, Mr. and Mrs. L. Goepper, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Erway, Mr. and Mrs. Knight, Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Collins, Mr. and Mrs. William Morton, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jumper, Mrs. H. H. Lindenberger, Miss Hazel Knight, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jumper and Harry Jumper.

Long Beach.

COMPLIMENTARY to Miss Edna Smith of Prince Edward Island, a winter guest here, the Philathea girls tendered a surprise party at the home of Miss Dorothy Bell, No. 1053 Elm avenue. During the evening the engagement of the honoree to Jack Dixon was announced. After the guests were assembled they were divided into groups and a mock wedding ceremony was given. Miss Helen Rife rendered a vocal selection. Following the games, the dining-room was opened, revealing a beautifully decorated table. Places were marked by hand-painted cards; from each card a ribbon streamer led to the central decoration, kewpies hanging from the chandelier over the table. Dainty gifts were given Miss Smith by those present.

A charming wedding was that of Miss Edna Frances Patterson, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. James W. Patterson, and Ralph B. Snively, only son of Rev. J. Scott Snively of this city, which was solemnized at the home of W. M. Cook, in Los Cerritos. The bride has been popular in the younger set. 623 South Broadway

TANGO

The Tango Corset is very much in evidence at this establishment and a fortunate thing is the fact that we have a Tango Corset to fit any kind of a tango purse, starting at $1 for plain material, and ending with the most exclusive silks and novelty elastic creation. So at whatever price you wish to pay for a Tango come here. We also have tango fitters who know just how to adjust this newest feature in corsetry.

MADELEINE

No other corset has so many points of real merit as the celebrated Madeleine and in the matter of style it is in a class entirely by itself. There is a peculiar exclusiveness and custom-made individuality which is characteristic of every corset whether priced $5.00 or $50.00 that arrests the attention of discriminating women. Owing to the quality of fabrics and unusual flexibility of the boning a remarkable degree of corset comfort is enjoyed by the fortunate wearers of Madeleine Corsets. Our skilled corsetieres are interested to show the new models. We call particular attention to our south window display of Madeleine Corsets.

MR. AND MRS. WILL ADAMS on the evening of California's new orange day dedicated their beautiful new bungalow home. One of the chief virtues in the Adams ciriculum is hospitality, and right royally did they demonstrate it on this occasion. In keeping with orange day, the charming interior was redolent of the fragrance of orange blossoms while baskets of the golden fruit were significant of the day. The setting was brilliant and the atmosphere of youth seemed to radiate throughout the spacious rooms presided over by the young couple and thronged with young men and women. Whist games, played progressively, were entirely free from formality. First prizes were won by Miss Maude Compton of Los Angeles and Dr. Garland Ross of Santa Ana, and consolation prizes were awarded to Miss Kate Mungor and Lester Carden of Santa Ana. The refreshment service towards the closing hours of the happy evening was signalized by the orange day motif, delicious salad being served in orange shells, crystallized tangerines making a delicate confection to be served with the thinnest of sandwiches and aromatic coffee, while orange ice was companioned by orange cake. As Mr. Adams is a successful orange grower, the event was significant in a double sense. The company included guests from Los Angeles, Orange, Santa Ana and Tustin, and as the guests departed they joined in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Adams many happy years in the lovely new home which had been so happily "warmed."

Although the wind that sometimes sweeps in from the desert lying to the eastward was doing its breeziest best to distract their attention from books and famous authors, the ladies of Ebell literature section which met at the home of Mrs. J. P. Hight, on Newport road, were almost oblivious to its ragings as they read Robert Louis Stevenson's "Will of the Mill" and "Mark Twain's Courtship," one of the series of articles by Albert Bigelow Payne. They were further interested in a study of the current number of "The World's Work." A cheerfully spent social hour succeeded the study period, Mrs. Hight serving light refreshments as the ladies chatted.

Mrs. P. A. Trickey, assisted by her sister, Miss Turner, was the mistress of the merry juvenile amusements provided for the small guests of her little daughter, Alberta, on her birthday, which fell on a recent Thursday. After the lively games, and the bestowal of gifts galore on the favored small honoree, the children were invited to a feast of goodies served on a table on which was a miniature lake formed by a mirror reflecting lilies, nasturtiums and ferns. Miss Alberta's playmates present were Florence Mitchell, Marjorie Tubbs, Inez Klatt, Valencia Ruiz, Ruby and Jessie Simonson, Reba Connell, Velma Awe, Ida Holford, Marian and Helen Stanley, Ethel Williamson, Mildred Milne and Clarence Trickey. A special guest 'as Miss Lida Turner, the beloved teacher of the little girl whose birthday was observed.

Doctors Now Agree On Eczema Remedy

Confirm the Statements About D. D. D. Prescription

Geo. T. Richardson, M.D.: In my opinion D. D. D. should be applied in all cases of skin disease—an immediate relief to the itch, a calm to excited nerves, soft, soothing, yet a powerful agent, a strength to the general system."

Dr. Unna Holmes: "D. D. D. is as near a specific for eczema and the dreaded psoriasis as is quinine for malaria. I constantly prescribe D. D. D. also for salt rheum, tetter, barber's itch, pimples, all forms of itching eruptions, scales, sores."

Dr. Ira T. Gabbert: "I freely admit that D. D. D. reaches cases, and permanently cures them, more efficaciously than mine."

Dr. Gabbert's words are of special significance. He is known as one of the first skin specialists in the state of Kansas. Write to him. Dr. Ira T. Gabbert, Caldwell, Kans.

If you are affected with any skin blemish, even the slightest, or a temporary rash, try D. D. D. today.

Use it according to directions.

Notice how the skin is cooled, soothed, smoothed, refreshed the instant this liquid is used.

Then continue with the simple wash, and watch your cure.

All druggists handle D. D. D. Come to us and we will tell you of the marvelous efficiency of this remedy as well as the D. D. D. Skin Soap. We offer the first full size bottle on the guarantee that unless it does what is claimed, it costs you nothing.

SOCIETY.

of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. McConnell a few days the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Russell of Illinois arrived in Corona this week and intend to take up their residence here.

Mr. and Mrs. Joy Jameson, Eloise and Adelaide Jameson, and Miss Hattie Greenlaw motored to San Diego the latter part of the week, enjoying a sight-seeing trip and visiting friends. Mrs. W. H. Jameson and her friends, Rev. and Mrs. William Swaim, who have been visiting in the southern city, returned at the same time.

The many friends of Mrs. William Cant, nee Miss Lilah Robe, will be surprised to learn of her marriage in Mojave, Cal., on Wednesday of the week just passed. Both these young people were former residents of this city.

Mrs. Joe Story of Pasadena and mother-in-law, Mrs. Sarah Story of Bellingham, Wash., who is spending the winter in Southern California, returned to Pasadena Thursday morning, after spending several days visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Perle Glass.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert A. Todd spent the first of the week in San Pedro visiting their daughter, Miss Grace, who is instructor of domestic science in the High School of that place.

Miss Mary Birdsall of Glendale is a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Birdsall.

Mrs. J. P. Rice has as her house guest Miss Lida Henry of Rialto.

The little log cabin in the city park, San Bernardino, was the romantic setting for a pretty wedding, when Miss Helen Vaughn of that city became the bride of Ellis Arthur Tucker of this city. The ceremony took place Sunday, the Rev. Mark B. Shaw officiating. Only the immediate relatives were present. The bride wore a becoming suit of gray with hat and gloves to match. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Vaughn of No. 733 L street, San Bernardino. The groom is a young business man of this city. Following the ceremony an elaborate wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. The decorations were entirely of pink carnations and ferns. Mr. and Mrs. Tucker will be at home to their friends after April 1.

Downey.

MRS. JUDE M'KELLAR spent the week-end as guest of her sister, Mrs. J. O. McGee of Santa Ana.

Dr. L. M. Ryan of Banning, formerly of this place, spent several days visiting friends and relatives here.

Mrs. Pearl Ramsam and Mrs. Dr. Rowley of Los Angeles visited here the latter part of the week.

Mrs. A. L. Ball of Los Angeles entertained with a luncheon several of her Downey friends last Thursday. Plates were laid for sixteen, yellow being the color for the table and dining-room. Those enjoying the day were Mmes. McKellar, Williamson, Rives, Scott, Gordan, Ardis, Burke, Mount, Kenshaw, Travis, Ball and Misses McKellar, Leffler, Moors, Ball and Taylor.

Santa Paula.

ORCUTT'S CANYON was the scene of a merry barbecue dinner Friday, planned in honor of Miss Helen Dickey of Hollywood, a former Santa Paulan. William Stein and N. L. Claberg superintended the cooking of the barbecued meat. About twenty guests enjoyed the dinner under the big live oaks.

Mr. and Mrs. C. I. Peck entertained a number of relatives with an informal family dinner Sunday.

Miss Helen Dickey of Hollywood was the honor guest at a dinner party given by her hostess, Mrs. L. Briton Bowker, Thursday evening. Wild flowers and ferns formed artistic decorations.

Among other delightful affairs in honor of Miss Dickey was a dainty luncheon given also by Mrs. Bowker. Cherokee roses and apple blossoms were daintily used in a pink-and-white color scheme.

A tamale supper was enjoyed by eight men friends of John Uffen Friday evening. The affair was planned by Mrs. Uffen, and was a pleasant surprise to her husband.

The country home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Norman was the scene of a jolly Five Hundred party Tuesday. The green of St. Patrick's Day was liberally used in decorations and refreshments. About thirty guests enjoyed the hospitality of the Norman home.

Mrs. Lincoln Hall entertained a number of friends at an afternoon Five Hundred party in honor of Mrs. A. L. Drown of the Ojai Valley. Decorations of spring blossoms were used throughout the house.

Miss Jeraldine Laufman was hostess at an enjoyable dancing party given at her home Saturday night. White roses were used in carrying out a pretty decorative scheme.

After a Los Angeles honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Dundore have returned to their home here.

Ontario.

THE most delightful musical event of the season was the musicale of the Current Events Club, given Tuesday evening at the Masonic Temple. Those who took part in the programme were the pick of the best talent Ontario affords, which was further augmented by the presence of Mrs. H. A. Patterson of Mankato, Minn., a reader of note, and the possessor of a contralto voice. Of the singers, Mrs. G. Ben Henke, who, with her wonderful soprano voice, long ago won for herself a place deep in the hearts of Ontario music lovers, perhaps scored the greatest success of the evening. Her singing of "Valse Chantee" by L. Arditi fairly took her audience by storm, and it was followed by an applause which fairly shook the auditorium.

Prominent among the pretty affairs of the Lenten season was that at which Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Gardner were host and hostess Friday evening at their home. Decorations, foretelling the approach of Eastertide were particularly effective, and the tally cards, used in progressive Five Hundred, the order of the evening, were hand-decorated. Favors were in the shape of rabbits and chicks. The games were followed by a collation. Those who enjoyed Mr. and Mrs. Gardner's hospitality included Mr. and Mrs. C. Y. James, Mrs. Tripp, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Lampkin, Mr. and Mrs. William Atkinson Rankin, Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Fallis, Mrs. Clarence Edwin Christensen, Miss Josephine Wackerman and Harvey S. Abbott.

Charming in all its appointments was the pretty home wedding solemnized Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Welch on East J street, when their daughter, Miss Gladys Welch, became the bride of Glenn Morrison Atwood of Upland, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. R. C. Stone of the Upland Presbyterian Church. Roses, calla lilies and greenery were used effectively in decoration. The bride was attired in a handsome gown of white satin charmeuse with deep shadow lace and pearl trimmings. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and maidenhair fern. Miss Lois Welch, a sister of the bride, as maid of honor, was gowned in a dainty frock of yellow crepe de chene, and carried an arm bouquet of daffodils. The groom was attended by his brother, Floyd Atwood, as best man, and the bridal party entered to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by little Miss Clara Welch. The wedding was witnessed by about fifty guests.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. William Barwise was the scene of a quiet but pretty wedding at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon, when their daughter, Miss Ruby Barwise, and Charles Hadsell were united in marriage, the Rev. C. V. Cowen of Los Angeles officiating. The bride was gowned in white silk under shadow lace and white rose-bead trimming. She carried a bouquet of white sweet peas and carnations, and was unattended. The wedding march was played by Miss Alma Schowalter. The wedding was followed by a supper, after which Mr. and Mrs. Hadsell left on their wedding trip. They will make their home in Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Kirsten entertained a number of friends Saturday evening at their home on East E street on the occasion of the anniversary of their wedding. Following an hour at games and music a tempting supper was served. The guests included Mesdames Forshaw, Beck, Harle, Proctor, Duell, St. Clair, Buchanan, Payne, Pierce, Merrill, Wilson and Dossinger. Misses Caroline Etling, Katherine Staudte, Helen Mingo, Eva Couch, Della Applegate, Ruth Andrews, Irene Walsh, Lottie Schultz, Alice Downing and Adelaide Place.

In compliment to Frank Allen, the anniversary of whose birth it was, Mrs. Abraham Weiser entertained with a dinner party Thursday evening at her home. Table decorations were in roses and the dinner was followed by an evening at cards. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. William Mack, Miss Alice Spies, Miss Margaret McDonald, Miss Myrtle McNay, Miss Marie Rowe, Miss Ruth Whitney, Frank Allen, Martin Stewart, Otis Allen, Edward Mack, Arthur DeBerard and M. Gibbs.

Mrs. Elizabeth Serio returned the first of the week to her home in San Jose after a delightful visit in this city as the guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. C. Goodwin Frankish. In her honor Mrs. Frankish recently entertained with a charming afternoon affair at her home on South Euclid avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Lindley, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Muehe, Mr. and Mrs. William P. Arden, Mrs. Charles Henderson Ripple and Miss Aileen Macan made up a motoring party, which spent the week-end at San Diego and Coronado. They also took a run over into Mexico.

Buena Park.

MRS. GEORGE DURGAN entertained the Whist Club Wednesday evening with a "Chinese high tea." The affair was in compliment to her husband, who celebrated his 71st birthday anniversary on that day. The menu was composed entirely of Chinese viands and the table decorations were attractively carried out. Hand-painted place cards representing Chinese figures and the names of the guests were written thereon in quaint hieroglyphics, which caused much merriment in trying to decipher each name. Seated with this delightful couple were Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Chamberlain, Mr. and Mrs. George Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Warren, Mr. and Mrs. George Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Keith, Mr. and Mrs. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Wymard, Mr. and Mrs. I. B. Jaynes, Mr. and Mrs. James Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Wierbach, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Rose, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Gardner, Miss Helen Wymard, Miss Allen, Miss Ingram, Mrs. George Durgan, Jr., of Chicago and Mrs. Nettie Robeson, William Schumacher and Mr. Bishop. Mrs. Durgan was assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Durgan, Jr., and Mrs. E. C. Cady. Later cards and dancing were enjoyed until a late hour.

Mrs. D. W. Hasson was hostess at a pretty luncheon given in honor of the members of her Sunday-school class on Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Wanita Simpson is the guest of relatives in Los Angeles.

Invitations have been issued for a farewell party which will be given in compliment to Mrs. Nettie Robeson, who will leave shortly for an extended trip. Many of the friends of this talented lady greatly regret her leaving, as she is prominent in social circles here.

Mrs. Frank Marsh of Alhambra, who is the house guest of Mrs. J. F. Simpson, is the recipient of many social honors. A pretty tea was given during the week, at which she was the complimented guest.

Duarte.

THE pretty country home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter K. Shaw on Fallingleaf avenue was opened Thursday evening to a score of ladies and gentlemen who make up the Buena Vista Whist Club, and the evening's pleasures were of the happiest type. The living-rooms were tastefully decorated with beautiful roses used in prodigal profusion, and all the appointments were handsomely arranged. After an informal reception the guests entered into a whist tournament and later in the evening a tempting repast was served to the merry company.

Mrs. Mary Hoagland spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Guy Hinckley of Hollywood, where she was the guest of honor at a dinner given on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Moore of Buena Vista avenue entertained Friday evening at 6:30 o'clock with a dinner party at which covers were laid for twelve. The living-room was brightened with pink roses and ferns and the color scheme in the dining-room was red and white, the spring's bountiful offerings of roses being used with charming effect. The centerpiece was a mound of Marie Henrietta roses and those who gathered about the hospitable board were Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Ryder, Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Leffler, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Elliot, Mr. and Mrs. Freeland Hunter, Mrs. Mary Hoagland, Mrs. Stephen Wicks and Miss Rood.

Mrs. C. N. Cox gave a tea Friday afternoon between the hours of 3 and 5 o'clock to the ladies of the Methodist Church. An interesting programme preceded the social hour around the tea tables.

One of the pleasantest gatherings of the week was the young people's party given by Mr. and Mrs. Francis A. Bliss at their handsome country place, "La Felicidad," which overlooks the San Gabriel Valley. The orchards surrounding the Bliss residence are white with blossoms and the fragrance lent charm to the ride to the Bliss home, where a jolly evening was passed with games and amusing contests. After the collation the feature of the evening was the chorus singing, which concluded the programme.

Mrs. Walter B. Leffler was the hospitable hostess on Friday afternoon of a large coterie of Durate's women, who gathered for a March dime social. The affair took on the nature of an old-fashioned quilting bee and after the sewing had been laid aside, 4 o'clock tea was served under the direction of assisting hostesses.

The twelve ladies of the Fortnightly Auction Bridge Club were pleasantly entertained Tuesday by Mrs. Richard Poor, who gave her guests a cordial welcome in rooms brightened with baskets of March roses and other blossoms.

The ladies of chapter M of the P. E.O. gave a card party Monday afternoon at Hotel 'Leven Oaks. Mrs. King acted as hostess and among the guests from Duarte were Mrs. Bruce Radabaugh, Mrs. W. K. Shaw, Mrs. Joseph Fowler, Mrs. C. H. Sarwine and Mrs. Alexander B. Downe.

Miss Florence Blain has been spending the week with her cousins, the Misses Wilson, at Oceanside.

Mrs. C. H. Sarwine had as her guests Saturday at Oakleigh Mrs. Addie Bovey, Miss Ella Williams and Mrs. Sophia Dysart of Dixon, Ill., and Mrs. Mary Norton of Ottumwa, Iowa. Luncheon was served at 1 o'clock and the afternoon spent in social conversation and needlework.

Redlands.

THE annual meeting and election of officers of the Contemporary Club will take place Monday, when there will be a business session morning and afternoon, with a luncheon between times. Five new directors are to be elected and other business of importance will be considered.

Social events planned for the near future include a dance, which is to be given Tuesday evening, March 31, by Mrs. F. P. Morrison, and a luncheon at the Country Club, April 1, by Mrs. Fred Sewall. While Lent is being observed to some extent, there are occasional functions in which a little relaxation is permitted, such as the Saturday afternoon teas at the Country Club, where bridge and a little dancing is permissible.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Smiley leave their home at Smiley Heights Tuesday to go east by leisurely stages. They go to spend the summer at Lake Mohonk. Their daughter, Mrs. Thomas Sanborn, a recent bride, with Mr. Sanborn, will occupy the Smiley Heights residence during the summer.

Mrs. Samuel S. Sewall was hostess at a luncheon given to eight women friends at the Country Club Wednesday noon. The table decorations were spring flowers and the place cards carried out the same idea. After luncheon bridge tables were set and the ladies enjoyed two hours at cards.

Miss Emma Jackson entertained the members of the Time-to-Time Club Tuesday evening. The company discussed the matter of entertaining the Southern California Time-to-Time Club, which is to have its spring meeting in Redlands in April.

The marriage of Miss Margaret Davies, sister of Reese Davies, of this city, to Harvey Cross of Corona is to take place Tuesday afternoon, March 31. Mrs. E. J. Underwood will entertain the wedding party at a reception and dinner at her house after the ceremony, which takes place at Ontario.

Five ladies from the First Congregational Church went over to Corona Friday to meet with the ladies of the Corona Congregational Church, who had arranged an all-day sewing meeting, which was a "get-acquainted" gathering, delegates being invited from all the Congregational churches in the surrounding districts. The Redlands ladies were taken over in an auto by the Rev. Herbert Jump and had a pleasant outing. They were: Mrs. Frank Settelle, Mrs. F. B. Farwell, Mrs. A. E. Brock, Mrs. G. B. Dunham and Mrs. M. L. Black.

Miss Olive Wyman and Miss Ethel Sargent were hostesses at a linen shower given Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Sargent. The honor guest was Miss Estelle McGill, whose marriage to Conamer Alton Bridge is to occur April 6. The bride-to-be's chair at the table was weighted down with handsome linen articles presented by her friends. The table decorations were pink and white with pink-shaded candles. The evening was spent in playing games.

Mrs. T. B. Hutchins of this city was the hostess Tuesday at a gathering, at which a number of ladies from San Bernardino were entertained at a luncheon and musicale. The ladies came over in the morning and enjoyed a delightful luncheon. The color scheme was yellow and white. The drawnwork lunch cloth was laid over yellow. Yellow daffodils in a Dresden shepherdess china basket were the centerpiece. Downy little chickens held the place cards and were placed all over the table cloth. The menu was made up of all the dainties of the spring season. After luncheon the musisal part of the programme was enjoyed. In the party were: Mrs. H. Hilbert Smith of Redlands, Mrs. Gunderson, Mrs. Ada M. Lee, Mrs. T. W. Orme, Mrs. H. Noel Graham, Mrs. Clark B. Bennett and Miss Myrtle Shay.

M. S. Severance was host to a party of seven friends at the Country Club Wednesday noon. The table was set in the big main room and was decorated with spring flowers. Mr. Severance's friends included some of the visiting golf players.

Orange.

OF EXTRAORDINARY interest to society people here was the recent wedding in Alhambra of Miss Florence Marie Gitchell to Roy Elliott Campbell of this city. The bride was a former resident of Orange, where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Gitchell, held a prominent place in society and business circles. The bride, gowned in white chiffon taffeta, with garniture of old lace, and carrying bride roses and ferns, had as her bridesmaids Misses Elma and Ruby Campbell, sisters of the groom, of Orange, and Miss Mildred Caffrey of Alhambra. The maid of honor was Miss Gladys Vanhise of Orange. Miss Flora Palmer of Orange played the wedding march to which the bridal party was ushered into the brilliantly-adorned living-room, where the double ring marriage service was pronounced by Rev. Mr. Hill of Alhambra. The vows were taken under a canopy of ferns. The wedding collation was served in the dining-room, where carnations of pink and asparagus plumosus ferns were profusely and artistically employed. Orange society folk among the wedding guests were Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Campbell, parents of the groom; Messrs. and Mmes. E. E. Campbell, N. U. Potter, Owen Murray, E. E. Gise; Mmes. W. O. Hart, L. E. Jones, L. B. Gitchell; Misses Flora Palmer, Elma, Ruby and Margaret Campbell, Gladys Vanhise; Messrs. Henry, Ensley and Robert Campbell, M. M. Fishback, H. Z. Adams, Stacy Buchanan, Claude and Glenn Potter. Young Mr. and Mrs. Campbell left immediately after the

How to Look Years Less Than Your Age

The most aged face will look years younger after the use of ordinary mercolized wax for from ten days to two weeks. This remarkable substance, because of its peculiar absorptive power, actually removes the thin veil of faded or withered outer cuticle, a little at a time. Gradually the fresher, more youthful skin underneath is revealed. This absorption process being a purely hygienic one, an entirely natural complexion is acquired—quite different from the artificial complexion, which appears anything but girlish, though often bearing painful evidence of childishness. An ounce of mercolized wax, obtainable at any drug store, is sufficient to rejuvenate any complexion. It is put on like cold cream at bedtime, and removed mornings with warm water.

To eradicate such age marks as wrinkles and furrows, make a wash lotion by dissolving 1 ounce powdered saxolite in ½ pint witch hazel. This has wonderful astringent and tonic properties. It quickly effaces all kinds of wrinkles, no matter how caused, making the skin firm, smooth and young looking.

—Indestructo

—Suit Cases at $5.00.

—Traveling Bags $5.00.

—The wonderful Cruiser Wardrobe Indestructo Trunks, $39.50.

—A trio of exceptional values—all Indestructos, all from the great trunk store at Bullock's—4th floor.

—"The Cruiser" $39.50

—It's a new Trunk—A New Wardrobe—A New Indestructo—A New Value—

—It is called "The Cruiser" because it is built on such splendid lines—staunch, capacious and yet not heavy—

—It is to be sold at $39.50 as a very special regular value—because it is the desire to send out hundreds and hundreds of Cruisers all over the world as rapidly as possible to carry the message of Indestructo supremacy—

—It is the result of years of effort to build an uncommonly light wardrobe trunk that could be sold at a popular price—

—It has the strength to make it fearless of anything short of a wreck—in fact it bears a five-year guarantee against injury from any cause while in the hands of common carriers, and is also insured against loss.

—Height, 45 inches; width, 23 inches; depth, 21 inches; case of six-ply hardwood veneer, canvas covered; bindings of vulcanized fiber, 1-16 of an inch thick; cloth lined throughout; two heavy draw bolts instead of catches; raised top, to prevent standing upside down; ball casters; Yale lock; the hangers are of vulcanized fiber—the very best made.

—Then consider its weight—87 pounds.

—That leaves ample limit for a generous supply of clothing, shoes, etc., without paying excess baggage charges.

—Styles for men and women—$39.50.

The Traveling Bags $5.00

—Are as remarkable Indestructos in every way as are the Cruiser Wardrobes at $39.50. Built of sturdy 2½-ounce cowhide—16, 17 or 18-inch size—they are very strong, leather lined and have brass locks and catches—$5.

The Suit Cases $5.00

—Are 24-inch size—made of 2½-ounce cowhide with riveted corners—Linen lining and shirt fold—Wonderful suit cases—at a wonderfully low price—$5.

—Every traveller should visit this great Bullock's store for travelers—4th floor, Monday.

—A new section of interest on the 4th floor — Indian rugs and baskets—Visit this exhibit on Monday.

Bullock's 7th Inauguration

"Easter!

"April 12—and there is no Easter store like Bullock's—

—"All this month—Inauguration Month—has been given over to the exploitation of new merchandise—and new values—and to the development of new methods, improvements in service—

—"All this month—the activities of Inauguration have kept me thinking of Easter—and buying and I am of the mind that hundreds of others have been thinking and buying for Easter, too——"Haven't you noticed how busy Bullock's has been every single day?

—"Haven't you seen those wonderful showings of beautiful new Silks—The extraordinary values in Dress Goods—The rare range and varieties in exquisite new Cottons?

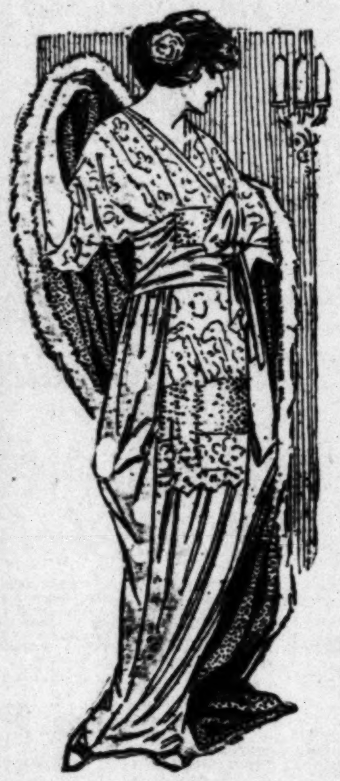
—"Haven't you seen the New Laces, Ribbons, Neckwear, Hosiery, Gloves and Shoes?— —"Haven't you? Then don't fail to visit Bullock's, Monday.

—"Easter, April 12—two weeks from today. Bullock's is your Easter Store, now."

Fashion Says: "You Have My Idea Exactly

—"In no store of all the stores in which I am so tremendously interested have I met with more enthusiasm and eager interest—In no store have I seen more intelligent and resultful consideration of the great questions of style

—"Just see this beautiful big, new third floor. I have been over it and over it again, studying it critically in regard to equipment, and arrangement—and I think it most admirable in every detail that concerns convenience and service. Then, it is so entirely different, and comfortable. Yes, even luxurious. Do you know I just couldn't help being a little more particular and painstaking in selecting



"This Great Range of the Most Beautiful New Styles that are Here, Anticipating Easter —"And that I am going to emphasize especially, commencing Monday morning. I wanted to have them notably individual, and worthy their splendid new home—

—"So you can tell Los Angeles and Southern California women—that there has been as much attention paid to the creation of the —"New Suits and Dresses—in the More Elaborate Easter Styles that Will Be Shown at $35, $39.50, $49.50 —to have them just as striking in their value—as there has been attention paid to the development of those extraordinary varieties of $25 suits that have been arousing such a remarkable tumult of applause—and that will still be another great feature on Monday.

—"Indeed, no woman who has the selection of new Easter garments in mind should fail to visit Bullock's third floor on Monday."

More than a million women do the week's wash with Fels-Naptha Soap!

They use it for general household cleaning, too.

Has it ever occurred to you, Madam who-spends-all-Monday-at-a-steaming-tub, that you are devoting one-seventh of your life in that back-breaking work?

Just think! One whole year out of every seven you spend steaming and boiling and rubbing-hard clothes.

It's unnecessary! An absolute waste of time, energy, coal and clothes.

You can do the work better—in half the time, and with one-tenth the work—If you do it in the FELS-NAPTHA WAY:

You wash the clothes in cool or lukewarm (never hot) water—soap them well; roll and soak them for about thirty minutes; rinse thoroughly—ready to hang out on the line.

Nellie Went to the Picnic

Bobby—(to Mrs. Boilem) "I want to take Nellie to the picnic tomorrow afternoon. Can she go?"

Mrs. Boilem—"Robert, you know I told you Nellie can't go out on washday. We don't get through until four o'clock."

Misty Drudge—"You let Nellie go, Mrs. Boilem. If you do your washing with Fels-Naptha Soap, you won't have to boil the clothes. You'll be all done before noon. My word for it!"

Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Lee of East Holt avenue are entertaining the former's sister, Mrs. Henry Cowles and her daughter, Mrs. W. R. Greenwood of Chippewa Falls, Wis.

Mrs. W. A. Bartlett entertained the Entre Nous Club at her home on Wednesday afternoon.

MUSEUM FOR THE BLIND.

In Collection Presented by Lord Durham Are Many Stuffed Animals in a Glass Case.

[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, March 14.—Lord Durham, who is one of the smartest men in the British peerage, has just presented for the use of the blind people of Sunderland, a specimen of a leopard, a small Himalayan bear, a young fish-eating crocodile, and an Indian antelope or sasin, which are set up in a large glass case.

They are displayed in jungle scenery at a moment when the sasin has fallen a prey to the leopard. The gift is the outcome of the recent experiments in Sunderland in the showing of museums and art galleries to the blind, and it is now suggested that municipalities everywhere should secure the assistance of travelers and big game hunters in collecting type specimens of animals for blind schools or institutions where the blind might conveniently handle them and so form some idea of their size and shape.

On the occasion of the recent visit of King George and Queen Mary to Lambton Castle, Lord Durham had the clay models in the museum (which were made by the blind after the experiments) taken to Lambton for the inspection of Their Majesties.

LONDON CABARET CLUB.

Curious Revels Are Held, One of Which Was the "Futurist Suffragist Night."

[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, March 21.—One of the smartest night clubs in London just now is the Cabaret Club. But it certainly gives extraordinary entertainments.

One night it appears they held "a High Court of Justice" there, and the judge was "assisted by a jury and a corps of executioners composed of the lady competitors of last week's beauty competition." The circular said there would be "no fines, but severe punishments." Another night the Cabaret announced a "futurist suffragette night. All gentlemen to appear in ladies' and all ladies in gentlemen's costumes. Pajamas, nightgowns and evening dress admitted."

A man who has the night-club habit badly, in order that his health may not suffer, goes to bed as soon as he comes home, sleeps till midnight, goes out and enjoys a merry supper at one of his clubs, comes back to bed between 5 and 6 o'clock in the morning and breakfasts at the usual time. Lots of people do it.

The only thing to be said about it is that it is more sensible than not going to bed at all.

"HOLY" EDITOR IS ANALYZED.

ROWELL'S BREAST BURNS WITH ZEAL FOR PUBLIC OFFICE.

Has Often Sought Office—Is One of Those Candidates Who Are Better Off When Unknown—Now Out for Senator With Nothing but "Sanctity" to Recommend Him.

Recently Town Talk, of San Francisco, started a "Who's Who Hereabouts" and article No. 2 was devoted to a discussion of Chester Rowell, known among his intimates as "Chattering Chet" although he prefers to have himself called the "Dana of Fresno." Rowell recently developed a severe case of the "Progressive Itch"—symptoms of which are portented by hunger for political office, and has announced his candidacy for the United States Senate. The elucidation of Rowell by Town Talk follows:

II—CHESTER ROWELL.

It is often greatly to the advantage of a candidate not to be well known. Indeed we know that most of our public men would never have become public men had they been well known before they aspired. We don't begin to get acquainted with our statesmen until after we put them in office, and then our sense of humiliation becomes acute. We feel like the farmer who bought a gold brick. It was not so bad in the old days when we had bosses to choose our public men for us. The bosses were students of character. They were never reckless in the distribution of their confidence, and sensible of their responsibilities and of their self-interests they usually bestowed their favors on men of a certain character. The character was not always of the finest qulaity, for the boss was concerned chiefly about qualities that did not appeal strongly to the imagination of the people. But the qualities that appealed to the political boss were not the worst qualities in the world. His preference was for men without peculiarities of temperament, men in whom the salt of the old Adam predominated, likeable men whose line of conduct could be forecast with some degree of accuracy. There is a great risk in having to do with people who can't be classed, men of sudden friendships and as sudden coolings. Such men will not come under any definition either for good or evil. They are made of opposites. To their character we can find no clue. They are forever perplexing us, always running counter to our previous opinion, baffling our forsight and sagacity. Amid their sinuosities and obscurities they usually have a touch of the Machiavellian. They are good men to steer clear of. Now it is men of this type that get along exceedingly well with the dear people. By the very flexibility of their character they are able to adapt themselves to propitious circumstances. It is highly to their advantage to be little known.

For example, let us consider Senator John Downey Works, first product of the direct system of government in California, most eccentric of men—a now-you-see-him-now-you-don't sort of man. Elected by the Johnson machine, the leaders of which stultified themselves and gave their first exhibition of sharp practice in politics to put him in office, he turned on them inside of a month and has been at outs with them ever since. Now Works got most of his votes from people who didn't know him. Years ago when he first came to this State, and was unknown even to the bosses they made the mistake of nominating him for the Supreme Court to fill out a short term. That was one of the times they were deceived. When he finished his term he sank into obscurity and there he remained waiting for a new generation to grow up, one that had never heard of him, and then he ran for Senator.

This year we have another unknown running for Senator—the Hon. Chester Rowell of Fresno. Rowell has had some prominence of recent years, but how many men in California know him intimately? In what position of trust has he ever displayed his character? How many men can testify to his reputation, good or bad? Has he any reputation? If so, is it a good reputation? Rowell is best known in Fresno. It is natural that he should be known in Fresno, as he has lived there almost ever since he came to California some fifteen years ago. He is the editor of the Fresno Republican, once an important and influential paper, but how did he reach this position? On his merit? Not at all. The paper belonged to his uncle, the late Dr. Rowell, and this is the story they tell in Fresno about the circumstances in which the Republican became an organ of the Progressives. Dr. Rowell was a Taft man, and he was not in sympathy with his nephew's attitude toward Taft just before the last National Republican Convention. However, he was persuaded by his nephew to let him urge the nomination of Roosevelt, but with the understanding that in the event of Taft's nomination the Republican would support the President. Before the nomination was made Dr. Rowell died and the paper that he bequeathed to his nephew supported Roosevelt.

Long before Editor Rowell became a Progressive he was well known in Fresno, and twice he ran for office there. Once he aspired to be the Mayor of the town. The same aspiration thrilled the breast of an undertaker, and the undertaker was elected by an overwhelming majority. As Samuel M. Shortridge afterward described the catastrophe in a public speech: "Rowell was snowed under! Can you imagine such a thing as a man being snowed under—in Fresno?"

When again Editor Rowell felt the impulse to chase a job, it was to a school trusteeship that he aspired. Now it was everywhere conceded that of the citizens of Fresno there was none better qualified for this particular job than Chester. He was a school teacher by profession. A man of bulging, beetling brow, he has besides the wisdom of Rooseveltia much book-learning—poses as an authority on grammar, hates a split infinitive, scorns a mixed metaphor and is on intimate terms with Euclid. Once more fate that employed an undertaker to bury him alive at the polls made him the victim of a blasting irony. His opponent for trustee was a man pre-eminently disqualified for the job. This candidate could read and figure. He knew the rule of three, but that was about as far as he could go in arithmetic. He had no philosophy except what he had gleaned from Artemus Ward. But the people of the only community in which Chester Rowell is well known elected the low-brow.

But the Fresno editor is not a man without friends. Originally a m[illegible] of the little band of altruists [illegible] started out to redeem the [illegible] government under the leadership of Rudolph Spreckels, when his [illegible] freres began to find one another out he stuck to the office-holding [illegible] remained true to the machine. [illegible] today in the beadroll of his [illegible] deeds the most brilliant are [illegible] sophistries in defense of the administration. There is nothing that [illegible] been done at Sacramento that he [illegible] not extol, and in his panegyrics [illegible] Gov. Johnson he can manipulate [illegible] the known metaphors without [illegible] a grain of sawdust.

At first Editor Rowell was [illegible] in the Senatorial contest as a [illegible]ing-horse for Johnson, a role [illegible] par with his self-respect. He was [illegible] pected to serve notice on his [illegible] friend and idol, the Hon. Francis J. Heney, and clear the track for the Governor. But the wild ass [illegible] both hind legs in the air and kicked the Governor out of the lot. So [illegible] it's a fight between Heney and [illegible] with the machine for the editor, [illegible] the times seems to cry for him. [illegible] favorite son of the Zeitgeist, he is stamped with the form and [illegible] of his day, and he will certainly [illegible] the Senate with the odor of his sanctity.

Diplomatists Are Asking Them[illegible]selves in All Seriousness Whether the Protectorate Ought Not to be Abandoned—Trouble Brewing [illegible] Develop Serious Consequences.

[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

ST. PETERSBURG, March [illegible]—Russian diplomatists are asking themselves today with great seriousness whether the protectorate over Mongolia ought not to be formally abandoned. Trouble is brewing in the region, and it is recognized that the vindication of Russia's rights may be, after all, worth the [illegible] treasure that will have to be [illegible] to put that trouble down.

What Russia sought in Mongolia [illegible] obvious enough. The country [illegible] form a buffer between Russia [illegible] China, and the Mongol nomads [illegible] to act as an advance guard in [illegible] tion Russia might think fit to [illegible] take, for defense or offense, [illegible] the ubiquitous Chinaman. The country, moreover, was reputed to be [illegible] in minerals and natural [illegible] generally, and it was regarded [illegible] likely market for the products [illegible] Moscow manufacturers.

On their part the Mongols [illegible] especially their ruling princes [illegible] their spiritual head, the Kutukhta [illegible] third "living Buddha," were [illegible] dreams of emancipation from the [illegible] litical and economic yoke of [illegible] Chinese, and of collecting [illegible] roof, in a kind of restored [illegible] Kahn kingdom, the numerous [illegible] tribes now scattered over the [illegible] expanse to the north of Gobi [illegible]

Both Russia and Mongolia [illegible] now found out their mistake. [illegible] sia has discovered that the [illegible] are not only intellectually, [illegible] physically, incapable of warlike [illegible] suits, owing to the wide [illegible] Lamaism and generations of poverty. The Mongols, on [illegible] hand, have made the discovery [illegible] Russia has no particular wish [illegible] them in their political and [illegible] progress. Being bound to [illegible] the clauses of the agreement [illegible] 4, 1910, Russia successfully [illegible] the Kutukhta's demand for [illegible] clusion of Inner Mongolia (which joins Southern Manchuria, [illegible] "sphere of influence") within [illegible] its of "independent" Mongolia, [illegible] depriving the Kutukhta of [illegible] part of the coveted territory.

Further, Russia has, contrary [illegible] promises, proved very illiberal [illegible] matter of money grants, both [illegible] Mongolian Exchequer and to [illegible] vate purses of the Kutukhta [illegible] Princes. Lastly, the advent [illegible] Russian trader and financier [illegible] turned out a curse [illegible] greater than the former [illegible] domination of the Chinese. [illegible] were turned out of the country [illegible] their re-entry was prohibited [illegible] to give the Russian friend a [illegible] The Russian friend came, [illegible] the poor Mongol began to [illegible] der the conditions established [illegible] new monopolist.

The Russian papers are [illegible] full of reports concerning the [illegible] state of mind of the Mongols [illegible] other day, that being the [illegible] year, the Kutukhta even [illegible] accord an audience to the [illegible] agent at Urga, for which [illegible] "court" had afterwards to [illegible] penance. They had to go [illegible] procession to the Consulate [illegible] crave forgiveness with all [illegible] of oriental subjection. Of course [illegible] sia is strong enough to [illegible] fingers at the Mongol [illegible] as said, she herself is rapidly [illegible] to the conviction that she [illegible] a bad bargain in undertaking [illegible] protectorate over the Kutukhta [illegible] his nomads, and it is not [illegible] possible that she may decide [illegible] mally to withdraw from her task.

GERMANY'S POSITION.

Imperial Chancellor Gives Reasons Why Country Will Not Exhibit at San Francisco.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, March 26.—The decision of the German government not to participate officially in the Panama-Pacific Exposition of 1915 is not in any sense based on political considerations, according to [illegible] Sutro, vice-president of the German-American National Alliance, [illegible] honor tonight at a dinner given by his friends in celebration of his return from Germany, where he has been active in the interest of the exposition.

ENGLAND PLANS TO ENCOURAGE HORSE BREEDING.

Famous American Millionaire Urges the British War Office Consider Seriously the Merits of the American Trotter in Order to Improve Their Cavalry.

[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, March 8.—A serious effort is being made in England at the present moment by experts to extol the merits of the American trotter, [illegible] thoroughbred or half-bred for military uses. As a matter of fact Britain's War Office just now is faced with the problem of the empty stable; and the authorities are at variance with the breeders as to the type of animals that are needed for British soldiers, and make them properly efficient.

The experts have got Walter Winans, the famous American millionaire breeder of all sorts of horses, on their side, and they are using with great effect the protest that he made the other day to the American press against puffing up the English hackney horse to the detriment of the American trotter. On every occasion [illegible] War Minister Seely and his assistants are faced with these plain striking words from Winans:

"All European governments except the English appreciate the American trotter as an army horse (in fact for all purposes.)

"The American trotter has won the [illegible] and Corinthian coaching competitions here (in England) against the English hackney, and yet the hackney is being forced on the United States as the horse to [illegible] cavalry horses from.

"They will all lie down and die in the first battle. Just imagine trying to make a team of hackneys take a gun up a steep hill."

And truth to tell the War Minister does not half like this candor. The words have an ugly sting about them that he would gladly ignore—if only the experts would keep quiet. But they will not.

THREE REASONS.

And there are three most excellent reasons which they give to prove why England should use the American trotter largely, if not to the exclusion of the hunter:

(1) The American trotter is more durable than the English hunter. It is not as fast at a sprint, but it will last longer, work harder, and do a greater variety of tasks.

(2) If the English government encouraged the breeding of trotting horses, farmers would breed them in much larger numbers than they breed hunters, because there is always a market in England for such cattle among storekeepers and farmers who use trotters in harness or a[illegible]

(3) The German, Austrian, [illegible], Roumanian and Russian governments are all encouraging the trotting breed for military purposes.

The superior stamina of the trotter comes not so much from greater bone and muscle, as from its characteristic trotting gait. It is all summed up in the old saying, "it's not the hoofs that hurt the horse's feet, but the hammer, hammer, hammer on the high road." A hunter gallops—that is, it moves first on the two fore and then on the two hind legs. A trotter moves alternatively on a fore and the corresponding hind leg, and then on the other pair. So both the hunter and the pacer have always two hoofs off the ground.

But a trotter goes with three feet always on the ground, which, of course, means less shock, less friction, and a much nicer distribution of weight.

In a pinch, of course, the English government has been glad of any old horse that could wear a saddle, but the traditional practice has been to aim at mounting the British army on a particular type of cattle—the hunter, to wit:

The hunter is the offspring of a thoroughbred sire, and a crossbred mare, and almost the only encouragement the English government gives to its horse breeders is the King's premium. This is a yearly allowance granted to owners of thoroughbred stallions on condition that they are placed at the service, either free or at a small fee, of tenant farmers who have good mares. The War Office has a lien on the progeny.

There are many weaknesses in this system. One is that the authorities do not keep an eye on the progeny, and it frequently happens that the colt becomes a 4-year-old and passes out of the farmer's hands without the War Office being any the wiser. Another, and a much bigger flaw, is that the farmers themselves have little use for the product of thoroughbred and cross-bred mares, and are therefore not very eager to breed.

BREEDER'S OPINION.

What should the War Office do? A well-known English breeder says: "In my opinion it ought to buy or lease several thoroughbred American trotting stallions, which could be offered either free of charge or for a small fee with good mares selected by district remount officers when they are appointed.

"By this means England would soon have at its service a reserve of strong, capable remounts. Farmers would be much more eager to avail themselves of the services of the thoroughbred trotter than of the King's Premium horses, because they would know that the progeny would be saleable at anytime from $150 to $300 each for van or trade purposes.

"In the Boer War the best horse work was done by the 'bus horses taken from the streets of London. [illegible] have disappeared never to return.

"But the butcher, the baker, the laundry company, the grocer and every other storekeeper still needs trotters for his business. Why should he not have a good trotter that could be on occasion a war horse capable of carrying a man or pulling a gun?

"From the inquiries I have made I am sure that there is more hope in this direction than in any other. It reaches me that the Canadian government is contemplating approaching the Imperial Parliament with a scheme for turning part of the Dominion into a nursery for Imperial army horses. The objection to this is that the horses would be a long way off when wanted, and the navy would have other things to do than escort the equestrian cargo over the Atlantic. Enough horses can be bred in England if only the army will use the horses that storekeepers would use."

ENGLISH SOCIAL HINTS.

The Countess of Warwick Advises Woman Guests Not to Talk Scandal at the Dinner Table.

[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, March 14.—The Countess of Warwick has been giving some hints to women who want to make a success of their lives in society in England. They include this most excellent advice:

"You generally have a few moments' conversation with the man who is to take you in to dinner before the meal is announced, and if you have not met him previously that rather breaks the ice, so that when you take his arm and walk into the dining-room you are both quite at ease. However much you find you have in common, though, don't neglect the man on the other side of you, because he also should be accorded some of your attention.

"Don't talk about the other guests at the table, and don't talk scandal. The only other point to remember is to be ready to rise when your hostess does.

"The knives and forks and spoons are always arranged in the order in which you are to use them, and should you inadvertently pick up the wrong one, it really would not matter at all. I have seen a Duchess absentmindedly use her meat fork for fish, if that is any comfort to you.

"The guest who can play auction bridge is a desirable at the moment, for almost all dinner parties of today terminate at the bridge tables and the 'little-music-after-dinner' period has passed.

"It is not really necessary to thank your hostess for a charming evening, but it is gracious to do so. I consider it quite admissible to speak to any woman at an afternoon reception even if you have not been introduced to her. You are both friends of the hostess and, therefore, are presumably desirable acquaintances, and introductions are not always possible where a hostess has numerous guests."

A Doctor's First Question Is______?

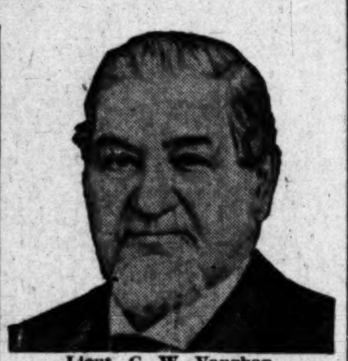
"How Are Your Bowels?" A Simple Remedy That Guarantees Good Bowel Action.

Trace the origin of the commoner ills of life and almost invariably you will find that constipation was the cause. It is not to be expected that a mass of fermented food can remain in the system beyond its time without vitiating the blood and affecting the nerve and muscles. It congests the entire body.

The results are colds, fevers, piles, headaches and nervousness, with its accompanying indigestion and sleeplessness. There is only one thing to do, and that is to remove the trouble, and when nature seems unable to do it, outside aid is necessary. You will find the best of all outside aids a remedy that many thousands are now using for this very purpose, called Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Many hundreds of letters are received by Dr. Caldwell telling of the good results obtained, and among the enthusiastic letters is one from Lieut. G. W. Vaughan, of 623 W. North st., Decatur, Ill. He is 72 and has had a bad liver and stomach since he came out of the army. He says he tried about everything, but never succeeded in getting permanent relief until he took Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. He is never without a bottle in the house, and he is never without good health.

It has untold advantages over pills, salts and the various coarse cathartics and purgatives, for while these do but temporary good, Syrup Pepsin cures permanently. The effect of its action is to train the stomach and bowel muscles to do their work naturally again, and in a short time all forms of medicine can be dispensed with. It can be bought without inconvenience at any near-by drug store for fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, the latter size being regularly bought by those who already know its value. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded.

Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it postpaid by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 419 Washington st., Monticello, Ill. A postal card with your name and address on it will do.



Lieut. G. W. Vaughan.

HISTORIAN IS NEEDED HERE.

Rich Opportunity for a Bancroft to Work.

Many Commercialized Histories All Immature.

"Police Book" Graft Shows How Books Are Written.

Some sort of a history of Los Angeles seems always in the writing. No city offers more rich material; its romantic and commercial associations are surprisingly interesting—almost spectacular. The number of histories, biographical encyclopedia and essays protracted into book length is surprising. Many of them end their chronicle before the industrial activity of the last decade, and most of those that do not have a mercenary taint appear to have been hastily thrown together to sell, rather than to endure as an authentic account of this remarkable city.

In many, many instances the "history" is obviously an excuse to charge "representative citizens" for pleasant little remarks about themselves which are incorporated in the "history"—a sort of "pay-as-you-enter" Hall of Fame.

At present a number of energetic strangers are busily attempting to get out a book purporting to be in the interest of the police department. Merchants and others are besought to advertise or give up money on the intimation that it will give them "a stand-in with the police"—that "the police will be peeved if you don't get in," and more flubdubbery of the same character—a sort of incipient blackmail. As a matter of fact, the police have nothing to do with it. It has neither been encouraged nor countenanced by the police department. There is nothing to prevent anyone's getting out such a book—but there may be a way to prevent such misrepresentation. That matter is being given attention.

"HISTORIES" SIMILAR.

In much the same way many of the "histories" of Los Angeles have been brought out. The "historian" explains that he wants to include biographical accounts of the "representative citizen" since otherwise the "history" would be incomplete. In some cases a little bickering has been known to bring down the price of being included as a "representative citizen" to a negligible figure. In certain other cases, "pioneers of 1898" and afterward have been included.

Los Angeles does need a Bancroft or some other son of Herodotus to write her annals, but the right man has not yot undertaken the work—if so, he has kept it secret.

The great history of Los Angeles—to paraphrase "the great American novel" for which publishers are always looking—must necessarily contain much that is biographical of the many strong, brave pioneers—both agricultural and industrial pioneers—but the selection, to be absolutely trustworthy, must be made according to the meritorious records, and not according to ability to pay for adjectives.

SOME OF THE HISTORIES.

The Chamber of Commerce has issued several books on Los Angeles, city and county. These have been authentic, but not comprehensive; that have had to do with advantages and opportunities, and have condensed the history of the city into paragraphs, whereas chapters—and long ones—are needed to tell of events up until twenty-five years ago.

In 1896 Dickenson's "Los Angeles Today Architecturally" came out. It is to be doubted if Mr. Dickenson himself could recognize the city "today" by his description. And it is the same way with the histories.

The Lewis Publishing Company of Chicago brought out a history in 1889. It purported to give "an illustrated history of Los Angeles county, California, from the earliest period of its occupancy to the present time, and glimpses of its future prospects, scenery, portraits of eminent men, etc." The history is interesting, but far from being complete. It also has a paid "biographical department."

HISTORIAN BEGAN EARLY.

It is almost interesting to note how far back the historian began to consider Los Angeles worthy of attention. A. T. Hawley brought out "The Present Condition, Growth and Progress of Los Angeles City and County" in 1876. Even as far back as 1870 Oscar T. Shuch came out with a book containing "representative and leading men of the Pacific, being original sketches of the lives and characters of the principal men," in which citizens of Los Angeles were included. In 1887 "Picturesque Los Angeles County" was published in Chicago, and "Souvenir of Los Angeles and Vicinity" was published at Columbus.

But even before that Salvador Ludwig, an Archduke of Austria, had published "Eine Blume Aus Dem Goldenen Lande Oder Los Angeles" in 1878. For reasons deemed obvious no comment is made on the merit of the information contained in this volume.

1901 PROLIFIC OF HISTORIES.

Soon it came to be quite the fashion among historians to use Los Angeles for a subject and the year 1901 gave birth to many. Charles Dwight Willard brought out "History of Los Angeles City," which was one of the best that had appeared, but like so many others was too small to tell the whole history.

"History of the Bench and Bar"—Los Angeles well represented—came out the same year with biographical accounts that have the ear marks of having been paid for.

James M. Guinn has broken all records in getting out histories, he brought out his first one in 1901. This may be accounted for by looking them over. One history has practically done for all of the subsequent editions. Of course, history doesn't change, but the burrowing historian is supposed to get a few new facts from time to time. Mr. Guinn has rather contented himself with getting new "biographical sketches." In fact, the "representative citizens" increased so rapidly that he was compelled to bring out two volumes in 1902; other volumes since, and is now engaged in collecting "biographs" for still another edition.

The first work of Mr. Guinn contained 191 pages of history and 950 pages of history was published in 1899 and was called "Los Angeles and Vicinity." The second was called the "Historical and Biographical Record," and contains 1300 pages. Of that number 191 were devoted to history and the remainder were biographical sketches — but, oddly enough, many of the previous "representative citizens" did not appear—nor were they dead.

In 1907 Mr. Guinn again brought out a history, called this time "The Southern Coast Counties of California," and for a third time printed his history, with a small amount of new data dealing with other counties, although the work contained 2275 pages. Again were there biographical sketches from which many "representative citizens" were eliminated as before.

GUINN CONTINUES HIS TRADE.

In 1910, for a fourth time, Mr. Guinn brought out another history called "Los Angeles and Environs," with new biographies and the history of Los Angeles seemed to have grown backwards, for out of the 1104 pages, but seventy were devoted to this city.

In December of last year, the Historical Record Company, of which Mr. Guinn is said to be one of the heads, put out a new band of solicitors to scout for more "representative citizens."

As Patrick Henry said, "we judge the future but by the past," and the inference is that the Historical Record Company will again have more biographies than history.

MANY OTHER BOOKS.

In 1906 a history of "greater Los Angeles and Southern California" with portraits and records of "representative citizens" again came from the press of the Lewis Publishing Company.

The Times in 1913 published, "Who's Who in the Pacific Southwest," which did not represent itself as a history in any sense, but was patterned after the standard "Who's Who," and was primarily intended as an authentic catalogue of prominent men and women.

Among the other histories published have been Wilson's "History of Los Angeles County, with Illustrations Descriptive of the Scenery, Residents, Fine Blocks and Manufacturing" (1880) which obviously was a money-making venture.

In 1876 a committee composed of J. J. Warner, B. Haynes and J. R. Widney published a "Historical Sketch of Los Angeles County from the Spanish Occupancy, 1771 to 1876"—a very good book for the period it covers.

A score of books have been written on Los Angeles, its industries, climate, people, homes, business establishments, opportunities and inducements for the homeseekers, and most of them have been accurate as their intentions have been sincere. But the great history of Los Angeles, unbiased, uncommercialized, and pregnant with the obscure facts uncovered by dint of research work has not yet been written. Each historian seems to have depended largely on the material of those who have written before him, so that there are a large collection of elaborations, but few—in strict truth, it may be said no really comprehensive history of the most wonderful city in the world and the richest county in the richest nation of the world.

A party of the name of Ingersoll, who has an ax out for other alleged historians, is said to be preparing a local history. It remains to be seen whether his work will bear the light of criticism. The book, if it is issued, will speak for itself.

Too Many "Genteel" Workers.

[Boston Transcript:] In the will of a Minneapolis multi-millionaire, William H. Dunwoody, is a bequest of $3,000,000 for the establishment and maintenance of a great industrial school in that city. Minneapolis is one of the greatest flour cities of the world, but the late Mr. Dunwoody has seen indications that its position was endangered by the desire of most of the young men entering business to keep their clothes clear of flour. The majority wanted to work in the counting room, to become clerks, not millers. Mr. Dunwoody's bequest is to provide technical instruction in milling to induce young men to learn the trade from the beginning, acquiring in their progress both the science and the art. What Mr. Dunwoody saw in Minneapolis may be noted in other cities, the desire of young men to follow "genteel" occupations, even at the expense of their prospects in life. Many a good mechanic is spoiled to make a clerk in no way distinguished from his associates in the counting-room.

THE BOTKINE BATH.

The Professor's Wife Carries Out His Instructions.

In the morning of a sultry July day Prof. Botkine of the University of California was sitting on his front steps at Berkeley. He was delightedly watching the efforts of his pet toad to capture a very large angleworm, and his enjoyment was enhanced by the fact that his beautiful German wife, who usually declined to interest herself in anything which she even suspected of a connection with science, was seated beside him, giving eager little pressures to his hand and uttering a pleased exclamation in her pretty foreign accent whenever the toad made an extra effort.

The fact was that she, while cutting roses, had been the one to see the beginning of the contest and felt the proper pride of a discoverer. The toad had been sitting still, looking as if carved by a Japanese artist, and giving no sign that it saw anything. The worm gave a little wriggle as it began to come out of the ground, when, quick as a flash, the toad made a leap and seized the end of the worm in its mouth.

Then began a tug-of-war. Every time that the toad gave a pull, the worm drew back. But the toad was not to be discouraged. It jerked and jerked, until it fairly stood on its hind legs. Still it could not dislodge the worm.

At this interesting point a train whistled.

"Why, Selma!" said the professor, "there is the train already. I had quite forgotten that I must go to the city today. Where is my hat?"

"Do wait an instant, dear; just see what that toad is doing," she answered, holding him back.

He glanced down and saw the toad twisting his leg about until the worm was wrapped twice around it, then the toad gave a hop, and out came the worm.

This had been too fascinating a spectacle to the unwary professor. He dashed into the house and back again, kissed his wife, and, with a regretful glance at her rippling hair and soft blue eyes, started off.

Suddenly he rushed back.

"Why, dear," he cried, "I forgot to tell you that Mr. Smith, the Canadian who wrote the paper on bacteria, will be here this afternoon to stay a day or two. He may come before I am back."

She clasped her hands in mock despair. "But what shall I do with him?" she wailed; "you know I cannot talk science and pollywogs!"

"Oh, don't be alarmed. He isn't so very dried up. Just let him have a good soaking in a bathtub. Then he will come out perfectly human and happy. He's an Englishman, you know," and the professor, with a laughing glance at his little wife's rueful expression, threw dignity and his coat-tails to the winds as he madly ran down the street, "looking like a great black bird of prey," as Mrs. Botkine laughingly remarked to herself.

But she grew sober as she thought how ruthlessly science and scientists seemed to dog her unwilling footsteps. Her husband certainly loved her, but he had a way of becoming utterly absorbed in his studies, and then bursting into her reflections with remarks which sounded positively ghoulish. He had appeared only yesterday in her own private sanctum carrying a "horrid snake" by the tail, and although he had not yet reached the pitch of the late Prof. Agassiz—who was said to have consigned infant serpents, for safe-keeping over night, to his wife's boots—she did not know where his enthusiasm might lead.

"I'm half afraid to go to sleep," she roguishly said to him one night. "I'm afraid that your deepest interest even in me is only scientific, and I believe you are capable of cutting me open to see what queer thing there is in my heart that I love such a bookish old bear with."

"Now here was this Canadian coming! And how was she to be properly interested in his old bacteria and not disgrace her husband by betraying her ignorance on the subject?" she asked herself.

Manifestly he must take a bath, and everything possible must be done to make that bathroom attractive, so that he should stay there as long as possible. She went upstairs, and with her own dimpled hands got down a new cake of perfumed soap. She eyed it critically. Perhaps his severe scientific mind would be disgusted with such effeminate luxury. Perhaps—who knew?—he might discover even in it the presence of bacteria! She had heard it said that a man with a theory finds examples of its truth in everything about him. Never mind! She would place beside it a cake of white castile and one of tar soap. Then, whatever his tastes, he must be pleased. She put the alcohol and a cologne bottle within easy reach; got out smooth and rough towels and a bath-blanket; saw that the shower-bath worked; and with a sigh of relief went downstairs to impress the cook that during the entire afternoon there must be plenty of hot water in the boiler.

Suddenly a happy thought struck her; she went into her husband's study and brought out every book on bacteriology that she could find. These she ranged on a shelf at the foot of the bath tub. Standing out a little beyond the others, as if but just shoved in, was Mr. Smith's own pamphlet on "Bacteria." She was sure of the vanity of authors. He would at least take this down to see if any passages were marked, and might be lured into the perusal of some other books.

Mrs. Botkine pinned on the wall some colored illustrations of various forms of bacteria, and then surveyed the effect with the calm satisfaction of a general who foresees the success of his maneuvers. She sighed regretfully that she could not bring herself to introduce into the room a few samples of the "germ culture" that her husband was carrying on, but she felt that she must draw the line at living germs.

She smiled again. To be sure, Mr. Smith might think her husband rather eccentric in pursuing his studies in this room, but he would certainly feel that he had found a congenial spirit in a man who could not tear himself away from his beloved bacteria even in his bath.

She had done all she could. With this virtuous feeling she was able to go about her occupations for the day, and in the afternoon even banished the thought of her expected guest enough to take a quiet nap.

She was awakened by a knock at her door, and the maid handed her a card bearing the seemingly innocent inscription, "Mr. Worthington Smith."

She was filled with a nervous fear, and her heart beat fast as she walked down the stairs. She lingered outside the drawing-room as long as she dared, and then, putting her trust in the bathroom, walked in and greeted her visitor with a smile of timid welcome.

He did not look at all alarming. She was surprised to see that he was young, darkly handsome, and dressed with more regard to fashion than the scientific mind generally deigns to bestow. He saw her timid air and blonde beauty with evident admiration.

After the first polite commonplaces Mr. Smith smilingly observed: "Prof. Botkine's recent researches have been of such interest to scientific men that they must lay him open to a great deal of persecution from inquiring admirers, but——"

"Oh, not at all!" she answered rather incoherently; "or rather I should say he likes to be persuaded—that is" (with some confusion) "he will be delighted to find you here when he returns. He was so sorry that he had to go to town for something. In the meantime I hope that you will let me look after you."

Mr. Smith thought that he should like nothing better, but contented himself with remarking:

"Thank you, very much. Perhaps you would be so kind as to explain to me a few things I should like to know about Prof. Botkine's theories of bacteria."

He was surprised to see a [illegible] flush and a look of distress come over her face, and before she could answer he hastened to add: "But I fear I am trespassing on your time. [illegible] do not let me incommode you. I have some uncut pamphlets in my satchel here, and will look them over as I wait," and he looked down embarrassed.

A furtive feeling of relief crept for a moment into her eyes. Then she thought that she could not be guilty of such inhospitality as leaving a guest to shift for himself forced upon her. But here he was, plunging into science the very first thing, and turning shy besides. Oh, she must send him off to that bath. It seemed rather awkward, but she nerved herself to the effort.

"No, Mr. Smith," she said, "I am sure that I could not tell you anything on the subject, and I could not think of leaving you here alone. You must let me make you comfortable. I know that after your journey you would like a bath."

He looked amazed and then embarrassed.

"Thank you, very much, Mrs. Botkine," he stammered, "but I do not care at all for a bath. I shall do very well here, and——"

"No, no!" she said, nervously, "I know that you are only afraid that there is no hot water on such a [illegible] day, and you do not wish to give trouble."

He put out his hand and tried to interrupt her, but she shook her head and went on rapidly:

"It is all ready. Everything is in the bathroom, and I will ring for James to show you up."

He looked thunderstruck at her insistence.

"But I assure you, Mrs. Botkine," he exclaimed, "it is not at all worth while. I——"

"Not another word, if you please, Mr. Smith. You will really annoy me if you refuse."

She thought to herself that he little knew how more than annoyed she was at the thought of his questions. As the man-servant appeared, she said:

"James, take this gentleman's satchel to the guest chamber and show him to the bathroom."

Mr. Smith endeavored to hang back and say something, but Mrs. Botkine smilingly waved her hand toward the stairs and walked into another room. She had looked alternately [illegible] triumphant.

As he followed James, Mr. Smith remarked to himself that before this experience he would have vowed she was too pretty to be eccentric. He had no wish to bathe, but, fearing to vex her, meekly proceeded to perform his ablutions.

She, meantime, was vastly relieved. She smiled to herself at the thought of how unwilling he had been to give the slightest trouble.

"I suppose he thought we Americans never had any decent [illegible] for a bath," she reflected. "The man really is remarkably good-looking for a scientist. If I had not known who he was I should have thought him just a nice young fellow and tried to get on with him. [illegible] George had not told me in [illegible]" She shuddered as she thought of her escape.

"I suppose he will be [illegible] looking before long. He is a sepulchre kind of man now. I do not see the slightest sign of it in him, but his seething [illegible] bound to cook his hair off in a few years. Even George is a little bald. But how delightful that Mr. Smith did not fathom my [illegible]"

She was so elated that she went to the piano and sang for a [illegible]

She was startled by hearing someone come rushing into the room behind her. She wheeled on the stool and encountered the gaze of Mr. Smith, who stood before her [illegible] decidedly uneasy.

"I beg pardon for interrupting, Mrs. Botkine," he said; "but I [illegible] to thank you for your kindness and to make my adieux."

"Why, Mr. Smith——" she began, but he waved his hand apologetically and continued:

"I am very sorry not to have seen Prof. Botkine, but perhaps I can come again. There is just time for me to catch the 5 o'clock train."

It was her turn to be amazed. She opened her lips to speak, but he went on, nervously:

"Pray forgive my leaving so abruptly. Thank you very much. Good afternoon," and bowing profoundly, he was gone.

For a moment she felt [illegible] Then a flood of questions [illegible] through her mind. Was the man insane? Or what had she done to offend him? What would her husband say? What was there in [illegible] turn an apparently "nice" [illegible] into such a distraught savage?

"Ah! recommend me to a [illegible] commonplace man who has no bacilli on the brain!" she sighed.

The rest of the day seemed [illegible] but at last she descried Prof. Botkine and with him a rather [illegible] "dug-up"-looking man.

"Oh, dear!" she moaned, "[illegible] another scientist, I know [illegible] him. What will he do, I [illegible] Dissect my cat, or say that he [illegible] dine with us because he [illegible] anything but bacteria?"

"Here we are at last," said the professor; "I found our friend [illegible] train. He had mistaken [illegible] and gone to Alameda. Mr. [illegible] me present you to Mrs. Botkine."

She welcomed her guest [illegible] but the minute she was [illegible] her husband she seized him by the lapels of his coat.

"What joke have you been [illegible] on me?" she demanded. "[illegible] Mr. Smith?"

The professor looked [illegible]

"Why, my dear, there [illegible] This is the Mr. Smith that [illegible] I was expecting this afternoon. What is the matter?"

"Matter!" she cried; "[illegible] Mr. Smith that came here [illegible] noon with a satchel and [illegible] your theories?"

"Why, we met him at [illegible] He had a few specimens of my friend's. He is the son of my San Francisco friend, Theodore Smith, of San [illegible] had just run over for a [illegible]"

"A short call!" she [illegible] "what will he think of [illegible] him upstairs to take [illegible]"

$10.00 Round Trip Fare	$200.00 Aggregate Purchases
$25.00 Round Trip Fare	$500.00 Aggregate Purchases

And so on for any intermediate or greater amount.

No sum will be refunded in any case in excess of the buyer's ACTUAL OUTLAY FOR TRANSPORTATION to Los Angeles and return, and entries on transportation checks will be limited to the amount of cash paid at time transaction is made.

Important to Visiting Buyers

When you have purchased your goods from the first merchant, ask him to enter the sale on a transportation check. He will do so and give you the check, on which you will have recorded any subsequent purchases you may make in other FREE FARE STORES.

When your shopping is finished, present this check at the refunding office, The Los Angeles Times (First and Broadway) and they will cash it without red tape, delay, or formalities. They will refund the full amount of your round trip fare if your purchases are sufficient; and if not, the percentage to which you are entitled.

The Los Angeles market offers an assortment of merchandise at all times equal in extent and variety to all possible demands of all classes of buyers. Los Angeles merchandise is suited to the special requirements of the people living in Southern California, Arizona and New Mexico. It is sold at prices, quality for quality, at least as low, and in many cases lower, than the same class of goods can be obtained from any other available source of supply. The visiting buyer in Los Angeles will be treated in such a way that he will come again. He will see and examine the merchandise before parting with his money, and a responsible local dealer will be answerable for its quality. The visitor will be considered as under the protection of the merchants whose names appear in this advertisement, and each one of them will see that his visit is made both pleasant and profitable. Moreover, each merchant will be as much interested in protecting the interests of the visiting buyer while he or she is in Los Angeles as the visitor himself could possibly be.

MRS. EDWARD F. DUNNE.

of the Governor of Illinois—Gov. and Mrs. Dunne Possess Many Distinctive Qualities Among Them—Largest Family of Any Public Man ew Serving His Country.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ASHINGTON, March 22.—"I fear I must be very trite" remarked Mrs. Dunne, wife of the or of Illinois, during her recent Washington, "and say home, band and children are all my d accomplishments and cer the whole of my mission in life. e even the most indefatigable dern women would find scant for hobbies in the care of such sehold as mine. Thirteen chilave come to bless our home and all lived to be old enough to possess a keen sense of loss passing away. There are ten with us although the oldest boy ried and has set his own roof. He is Edward F. Jr., and there chubby little son, Edward F. who is, as may be imagined, e idol of the family. I do not repeat truisms and obvious but I number myself among who find the crown of woman rearing large families and a home to the satisfaction In these days of complicated and of luxurious living, such can be easily exalted into a vo I have never found myself interest in passing affairs the care of my home and fam I should not rate these cares benumbing intellectually or in the physical sense. To favorite phrase, I believe I ad time to grow soul and mind y marriage.

the parents of a large fam as my husband and I boast at the diverse interests right into the home circle. ble is a sort of forum where are discussed and where we busy get a bird'seye view of ing world. I never have to ews of the sports for I get ev de of opinion from my sons variety of comment on per things connected with sports them. My daughters are active ways and bring the outside home. Books, the plays, fash charities, church news all come home table through my daugh there is scarcely a topic in we do not glean knowledge these many points of contact e outer world.

have many children has been ially, a blessing in all times, if elieve in revealed religion, and from this, they make the home it should be. Shopping and and attending to the wants children is occupation for one woman. Now, I have daughters who take some sponsibility of the home, and invaluable aids when the all topic of garments for the seasons come up for discus vast city like Chicago one ecessarily become absorbed in belevolent societies. Though little time to work in the active and now when I shall have leisure, I am living in Spring I have joined some of the clubs have the purely charitable aim. the features of the large and Catholic Woman's Club is and energy expended in vo training, and in entertaining people in a san and wholesome The work of this organization well known for me to do more in passing that its rooms in Arts building are always and that its promoters labor for a definite end. There divisions of interests in the under a committee which divided attention to details. ay it would seem that every of human endeavor is touched the meetings and every sort of ment provided. Working girls good council and often are in worthy homes, and experts tional training are always to ded. I give as much time as from home to attend some meetings. But all of my girls in such ways and usually I am to fill in what they have begun no time to finish."

and Mrs. Dunne are best in Chicago with their home in Sullivan Park, they keep in readiness for a henever possible. Sullivan Park the open country and Mrs. has a fervent devotion for space, to growing things, and room for the children to themselves about home. So ars ago they followed the city ward and erected their pleas There is room and to spare the various inclinations of so family and best of all there autiful flowers and shrubs and which have been carefully se The family is now rather scat and only on occasion are there The oldest child of this family, Edward F. Dunne married about three years ago Powers and he has a not far from his parents. There young daughters who are en social life in Springfield, even did in Chicago, Miss Mona and Eileen Dunne. They accompanied the Governor and Mrs. Dunne on their recent visit to Washington and were among the belles at the last state levee at the White House, that given in honor of the Army and Navy. They are of the most attractive type of American maiden, full of life and happiness and notably always well gowned. They were educated at the Convent of Mercy, and their younger sisters are still students at that Alma Máter. Ann Arbor, Mich., is Gov. Dunne's favorite seat of learning. His eldest son took his degree there and is now practicing law in Chicago. The second, Richard, also studied at Ann Arbor and selected engineering as his life work. There is still another son in the University of Michigan, Maurice, who is preparing for his A.B. degree. The younger boys are with their parents in Springfield and at present attend the public schools. The little girls are studying in an adjacent convent.

Gov. Dunne of Illinois and family.

Mrs. Dunne is a native of Chicago and was before her marriage Miss Elizabeth Jane Kelly, daughter of Edward S. Kelly, a native of Ireland, though for many years a valued citizen of Chicago. Her mother was Miss Kate Howe and she comes of an ancient line settled in Massachusetts long before the War of Independence. Mrs. Dunne received her education in her home city and her marriage occurred in Saint Jarlath's Church, some twenty-eight years ago. She has always been affiliated with Chicago and she has all the enthusiasm of the residents of that mighty metropolis for its present and future possibilities. As wife of the Mayor she had a broad vision of all degrees of life and this knowledge now extends to the State.

"I have never been more than normally interested in politics," said Mrs. Dunne, "except in the personal equation where they touched my husband's ambition. I can claim nothing toward the new law which entitled women to vote. It is now our obligation to vote, to look well into the reasons why we vote one way and not another. I shall fulfill what is deemed my obligation toward our State and community and certainly I shall endeavor to influence my children toward the discharge of all civic obligations. I hope all things good will come from the experiment and no logical reason to doubt this has been presented to me."

At present, Mrs. Dunne is exceedingly interested in her new home in Springfield and with characteristic energy she is transforming the executive mansion into the cosy nest to which all her family has long been accustomed. The formality of the State apartments is giving place to the air of livableness. A touch of home is given the plainest function and from the social standpoint, the regime of the Dunnes will be remembered with pleasure. Miss Mona and Miss Eileen enjoy the experience, though all confess to a longing for an occasional whiff of the lake breeze and the joy of the rushing streets of Chicago.

"Springfield is in a smaller degree as filled with novel features as the national capital. Here one meets people from all the world, while with us, it is from all the State," Mrs. Dunne explained. "But when one is so bound up in one spot, as all my interests are in Chicago, I feel only a sojourner, even in so delightful a city as Springfield. My memory goes back easily to the days when Chicago was not the second city of the Union, when it was easy to note changes and to admire progress. Now, after a brief absence, the miracle of change is impressed upon me. We all enjoy motoring and time was when we could see all our city limits at least occasionally.

"Now when the city extends farther and farther in every direction when pretty suburbs crowd on each other's heels, it is not possible to traverse all the distances when out for an afternoon diversion. Sullivan Park lies at quite a respectable distance from the center of the city and beyond are many charming villa towns, where the business and professional men make their homes. I rejoice in this growing disposition of Americans to leave the turmoil of streets and seek homes in the open country and wherever I visit I note the suburbs before the show places, the Federal buildings or other urban attractions. Denizens of Chicago long ago discovered the utility of a home with a garden. As the mother of many little ones, the enclosed space where the youngsters would be safe and yet free to romp in the open, presented the ideal home. I always commend this plan to a young mother, wherever it can be accomplished. To have one's flowers or perhaps some easily raised vegetables like lettuce, parsley, even the homely onion, is to get a large portion of the joy of living. No crusade of modern times makes as powerful an appeal to all my family as the back to the soil movement. If we could make this popular in a congested city like Chicago we would redeem many from disease and privation. The lure of the city is too much, especially for those who have the heritage of want and oppressed conditions on the other side. So much of the charitable work now in progress aims to send the young into rural districts and to let them grow up in wholesome surroundings. I take the keenest delight in our home in Sullivan Park and I am always thinking of the trees and flowers and how they are thriving, or in this sort of weather, how they are enduring the cold blasts and the prolonged season of snow."

Gov. and Mrs. Dunne belong to the strong wing known as Irish-American Catholics, and they are the strictest adherents to the ancient faith of their people. At present they belong to the parish of Our Lady of Lourdes, that is, this is their parish when in Chicago. But their support of Catholic interests is almost Statewide.

HOTELS SPOIL MAIDS.

They Get So Many Privileges in London That a High Rate Is Charged for Them.

[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, March 14.—Many of the most fashionable London chatelaines complain now that it is really the increased luxuriousness in the life of their maids who travel with their employers that has penetrated the whole class with discontent, and brings about the chief trouble in the management of big houses.

The fact that first-class hotels in Europe provide late dinners for the maids and valets of visitors, with coffee to follow every evening and liquors twice a week, that they have excellent servants' rooms, and that a high rate is charged for them—all this fails to propitiate Therese or Josephine or Leon when on their travels. A rich woman on leaving a large hotel at Venice recently found that the omnibus driver did not know which was the mistress and which was the maid, the latter having been presented with three or four bouquets by the management, while she herself had only been offered one. Moreover, the maid's jewel case was if anything larger than her own.

Many employers are victims to the extreme elegance of their attendants, and it is no uncommon thing to hear a lady declare that she could not afford such a hotel, but had to go there, "as Therese would never have stood the cheaper ones." Naturally, the hotel management do their best to propitiate the smart lady's maid of today. This state of subjection of the fashionable woman is brought about by her dependence on an equally fashionable maid, who knows that her mistress will be "lost without her."

A young woman about to marry the son of an impecunious grandee amused her friends the other day by informing them that they were going to economise by eating no vegetables, but of course her maid would always have her burgundy—she was used to it.

RIVERS HAVE SAME SOURCE.

The Euphrates and Tigris Have Their Origin in the Same Little Spring in Mountains of Armenia.

[Christian Herald:] In the mountains of Armenia, to the north of Bitlis and east of Lake Van, a little spring of pure cold water comes bubbling from the ground. A little pool is thus formed,, and from the pool one tiny stream runs north, another south. Should you follow the streams as they trickle down the mountainsides, you would find that one of them becomes the Tigris, the other the Euphrates. Thus the two mighty rivers of Mesopotamia begin their long journey of 1500 miles to the Persian Gulf.

To follow the Tigris down from one of its sources in Armenia to the Persian Gulf is a journey of more than a month and of unusual interest; few have ever accomplished it. In the course of that journey you pass through the countries of half a score of different peoples, each with customs and costumes both strange and varying. You hear as many different tongues, and see the forms of almost as many different religions. You find primitive peoples, almost savages, among whom, though some of them were civilized thousands of years ago, you take your life in your hands. You see people living just as they did in early Bible times; you pass among the ruins of the great cities of three thousand years ago. Probably the journey down no other river, even the Nile, is so full of varying interest.

Fatality.

YOUNG CHARLTON GETS SYMPATHY.

HAS MANY PRIVILEGES IN HIS ITALIAN PRISON.

American Who Killed His Wife During Their Honeymoon at Como Is Said by His Attorneys to Have Had His Conscience Weakened by Her Fascinations.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

COMO (Italy) March 14.—Porter Charlton, the young American who killed his wife, Mary Scott Charlton, when they were spending their honeymoon here in June, 1910, has acquired a sufficient knowledge of Italian to avail himself of the privilege under the Italian law to be the first and the last to address the jurors before whom he is to be tried on the charge of murder.

Sympathy for the accused youth has been demonstrated frequently during his detention in the San Donneno Jail, since extradition from the United States last August. While Charlton has been studying the language of the country, his lawyers have been working up public opinion in his favor. The effect is apparent. Visitors to the jail are many and privileges have been granted to the prisoner by the director and keepers of the jail. His meals are served from the outside. Good food and daily exercise in the court yard of the Palace of Justice have kept him in fine health.

It may be midsummer before the case is tried, delays being due to extended investigations undertaken by both sides.

Charlton's lawyers have been getting in touch with numerous witnesses in America. Twenty of them have been subpoenaed, and it is expected that several may appear personally before the Court of Assizes at Como to contribute their testimony as to the psychological condition of the accused.

While the case is new in the sense that it is the first time an American citizen has been extradited and tried in Italy, it does not differ greatly from the so-called crimes of passion so frequent here.

"Studying the terrible drama, we have become convinced and will demonstrate," say Charlton's lawyers in a sketch of the theories they will pursue, "that an obscure and inevitable fatality presides over these awful crimes, which go from love to death, from the idyll to tragedy, by which a human life is suddenly cut short by the hand of a creature who loved, and who still passionately loves, and who after the crime remains terrified, weakened and stunned by what he has done, incapable of believing that the blood was shed by him.

"Charlton, of weak character, inexperienced, overwhelmed by the artful attractions of Mary Scott, was captured by an almost pathological fascination, had his conscience weakened and enslaved, and became the easy tool of incoherent and illogical excesses.

"To prove this we have added to the documents of the trial the interviews with Dr. Procaccini, major in the royal navy, who traveled as Royal Commissioner aboard the steamer which brought Charlton from New York to Naples. Dr. Procaccini, after having studied Charlton for about two weeks, expressed the opinion that at the time of the crime he was in a state of 'moral infancy,' and, therefore, in a condition of not realizing the enormity of what he had done.

"In the majority of cases these crimes arouse the pity, not the severity, of the jurors. If the accused is acquitted the reason will not be found in sentimentality or distortion of the human sense of justice, but rather in the conviction of the jurors than human agencies should not inflict further penalties upon the man before them, who, having made a victim of another, is himself the victim of an inexorable fate.

"We shall prove before the Court of Assizes that the Charlton drama is due to an aberration which upset the normal mental faculties of the accused. This will clearly appear from the interrogation of witnesses, and our contention will be further supported by the testimony of Italian alienists."

THE SKIM MILK AGE.

Scarcity of the Lacteal Fluid Is Raising the Question of Using Former Waste Products.

[New York Mail:] The cattle scarcity affects something else besides the price and consumption of beef. It threatens the supply and use of milk. In Boston, where there was an appreciable milk scarcity during the year 1913, the question has been raised by the State Milk Inspector whether it will not become necessary to sell skim milk in the market, as an ordinary source of supply, as well as milk containing the cream. As matters are now, the skimmed milk, which is the bulk of the product and the most valuable part of it as far as the food content is concerned, is fed mostly to calves and hogs, or even thrown away. It is not regarded as possessing much value after the cream has been separated from it. Such an organization of the marketing and use of milk as would permit of the furnishing of skimmed milk to consumers, by the daily means through which they receive their full milk, would add a great deal to the food supply of the cities.

Little by little we are reaching the conditions of Europe so far as the utilization of food products is concerned. Europe throws nothing away. We have been in the habit of throwing about half of everything away. Europe burns its sawdust and its coal dust in briquettes; we burn ours in waste heaps. Europe uses the last ounce of its skim milk; we may have to. Here in America we seem to have skimmed off the cream of things. We have arrived at the skim-milk epoch.

CLOGGED NOSTRILS OPEN AT ONCE, HEAD COLDS AND CATARRH VANISH

In One Minute Your Stuffy Nose and Head Clears, Sneezing and Nose Running Cease, Dull Headache Goes.

Try "Ely's Cream Balm."

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it—apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear by morning! The catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake tonight struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith — just once — in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.

LESS MEAT IF KIDNEYS HURT OR YOU'RE BACKACHY AND RHEUMATIC.

Meat forms uric acid which clogs Kidneys; causes Rheumatism and Irritates Bladder.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that meat forms uric acid, which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headaches, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. The famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injurie, and make a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. Agents. —[Advertisement.

Dangerous Hair Dyes!

When you see the words "Shake Bottle Before Using" on a bottle of hair dye, BEWARE! It means that it contains Sugar of Lead and Sulphur. And Sugar of Lead is deadly poison! Such preparations are not only sticky and greasy, but they rub off. Beware of many so-called "walnut hair dyes." These dangerous coal tar products are not made from walnut stains and are liable to injure the skin and affect the eyesight.

Mary T. Goldman's Gray Hair Restorer is as clean and pure as water and contains no thick, heavy Lead and Sulphur that must be shaken up. It is absolutely harmless.

BE SAFE!—Use Mary T. Goldman's Gray Hair Restorer—BE SURE!

Mary T. Goldman's Gray Hair Restorer does not give the hair a "dyed" appearance because it is so mild. It makes the natural color come back in from four to eight days! Where the hair is just beginning to turn gray the grayness will simply disappear with one or two applications. All good druggists sell it at $1.00 per bottle. It is absolutely harmless.

FREE! Tell me the original color of your hair and I'll send you a trial bottle in an unmarked package so that you can prove what I claim. Kindly enclose five 2-cent stamps to cover cost of postage and packing. Mary T. Goldman, 329 Goldman Bldg., St. Paul, Minn.

The Doctor's Advice

by Dr. Lewis Baker

The questions answered below are general in character; the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers should apply to any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice, free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Building, College-Ellwood streets, Dayton, O., enclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given, but only initials or fictitious name will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

"Speaker" writes: "I am troubled with a tickling sensation after speaking, which is accompanied with a slight cough and hoarseness. Can I get relief?"

Answer: You will not only be relieved, but you will be permanently helped by using the following: Ask your druggist for a 2½-oz. bottle of essence of mentholaxene. This can be taken pure or can be made into a full pint of cough syrup. Full directions are given on the bottle for making. This is very easily made at home and is perfectly safe as it does not contain any harmful ingredients as do most of the so-called cough cures.

"Ida" writes: "I have suffered with stomach trouble and constipation for about two years, and I fear it will cause appendicitis if I cannot get some relief."

Answer: I recommend that you get tablets triopeptine and take a pink tablet after breakfast, a white tablet after dinner and a blue tablet after supper. This is a very excellent treatment and is widely prescribed for its gradual curative action. Continue this treatment for several weeks and I am sure you will be gratified.

"Samuel B." writes: "My pitiable condition is obviously due to intemperate living, but if I can find relief I will surely not disobey the laws of nature again. I am troubled with insomnia, nervousness, weakness, trembling limbs, severe headaches and a general poor health which unfits me for both work and pleasure."

Answer: A powerful tonic which will improve the nerves, aid nutrition and stimulate the organic functions, can put you on your feet and make a real healthy man of you. Obtain three-grain cadomene tablets, packed in sealed tubes, and take regularly as per directions which accompany each package.

"Overweight" asks: "I wish you would prescribe something to reduce my weight that I could safely take. I despise liquid medicine. Can you give a pill or tablet?"

Answer: I find many are like you, and advise that you obtain in sealed tube 5-grain Arbolone tablets. Any accommodating dealer can obtain from wholesale druggists. Full directions accompany each tube.

"Tom" writes: "I have very poor health on account of long standing constipation. I take medicine all the time, but would like to get something that would cure me."

Answer: More illness is caused by constipation than by any other ailment. You can get plenty of medicines that will relieve, but if you want something that will more than help you I would advise the use of three-grain sulpherb tablets (not sulphur tablets.) They can be bought at any drug store in sealed tubes with full directions for using. I have found them the most reliable and gradually curative.

"A. L. U."—I advise you to get the following ingredients and mix at home to correct your child of bedwetting: Tincture cubebs, 1 dram; comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz., and tincture of rhus aromatic, 2 drams. Mix in water and give 10 to 15 drops one hour before meals.

"Miss Anna" writes: "I suffer with very severe headaches which also affect my eyes. My throat and nostrils are affected by catarrh and my breath is very bad. Could you prescribe a cure?"

Answer: I have helped hundreds who suffer as you do by prescribing the following and have received many letters from grateful people which indicate that it is speedily curative: Purchase a 2-oz. original package of vilane powder; to a pint of warm water, add one-half teaspoonful and snuff the water from the palm of the hand through the nostrils two or three times a day or until they are thoroughly cleansed, then apply well up into the nostrils twice daily the following catarrh balm: To one level teaspoonful of vilane powder add one ounce of lard or vaseline. If used according to the above prescription your catarrh should soon vanish. This should be used occasionally to prevent its return.

"Mildred K." says: "Please advise what I can use for a good hair tonic. My hair and scalp are in a very bad condition and nothing seems to help."

Answer: The best hair tonic on the market is sold in 4-oz. jars and is called plain yellow minyol. Any up-to-date druggist will have it. This is superior to anything known for the treatment of the diseases of the hair and scalp. Two or three applications have been known to overcome it, while it makes the hair soft, fluffy and makes it keep its natural color.

"Jane" writes: "My nerves are in a dreadful condition, my appetite is very poor and I am extremely thin. My face is so thin that it makes me very unhappy. I should like you to tell me a true remedy."

Answer: If you wish to become stouter, improve your appetite and your nervous system, I heartily recommend the use of three-grain hypo-nuclane tablets, which you will find in any well-stocked drug store, in sealed cartons with full directions for taking. Hypo-nuclane tablets improve the nutrition, add red corpuscles to the blood, strengthen the nervous system and improve the general health. Many people report that they have gained from 10 to 30 pounds in two months.

"Harry" writes: "Both my wife and myself suffer with rheumatism. We would appreciate a reply telling us what to take:"

Answer: Mix the following at home or have the druggist mix for you: 2 drams of iodide of potassium; codium salicylate, 4 drams; wine of colchicum, one-half oz.; comp. essence cardiol, 1 oz.; comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz.; and syrup of sarsaparilla comp., 5 ozs. Take a teaspoonful at meal time and bedtime. Always shake well before using.

C. R. C. writes: "I suffer with kidney and bladder trouble, have large puffs under eyes, swelling of ankles, irregular painful urination, with headache, fever, chills, loss of appetite, etc."

Answer: The symptoms you mention are present when the functions of the kidneys are abnormal, and I would recommend that you begin taking at once balmwort tablets, sold only in sealed tubes with full directions.—[Advertisement.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN.

Mary: I have found that face powder clogs the pores and causes that rough, scaly condition of your skin. Make up and use this inexpensive lotion and you will be delighted with the results: Dissolve 4 ounces spurmax (which you get at the druggist's) in ½ pint hot water or witch hazel. After cleansing and drying the skin, apply the spurmax lotion, rubbing lightly, until it vanishes. This lotion imparts a clearness and velvety softness to the skin and restores the rose-tint of healthy maidenhood. The spurmax lotion is especially nice for sallow, "muddy," oily skins and is superior to powder, as it is invisible when on and will not rub off in patches.

Annie L.: Powdered delatone is the most effective thing of which I know for removing stubborn hair growths. Get an original package and mix enough powder with water to cover the hairs not wanted. Apply and in 2 or 3 minutes remove, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This is a quick, harmless method and seldom needs repeating. Be sure it is delatone you get.

Belle S.: Your pain in the small of the back, constant headaches and loss of weight is the result of poison-laden blood. Here is my formula for an old-fashioned system-tonic which, if taken regularly for awhile, will restore you to perfect health: To ½ pint alcohol (never use whiskey) add 1 ounce kardene (get from your druggist) then ½ cupful sugar and hot water to make a full quart. The dose is a tablespoonful three times a day. This is gentle in action, cleanses the blood of all impurities and is unsurpassed for clearing the skin of discolorations and restoring the healthy glow of youth to the complexion.

Mrs. B.: Quite right! Your brittle, falling hair is evidently caused by washing with an alkali preparation. Here is my way of cleaning scalp and hair so both are kept in perfect health: Dissolve a teaspoonful canthrox in a cup hot water and pour a little at a time on the head while rubbing briskly. This works up into a thick, creamy lather that stops irritation and dissolves every particle of dandruff and excess oil. After rinsing the hair dries rapidy with a soft fluff and beautiful gloss. Canthrox shampoos stimulate a healthy condition in the scalp and induce the hair to grow thick and long.

Mrs. Al.: Your excess fat will soon vanish after a short course of parnotis treatment, made by getting 4 ounces parnotis from your druggist and dissolving in 1½ pints hot water. The dose is a tablespoonful before meals. This gradually dissolves the fat and when your weight is sufficiently reduced your skin will be firm and free from wrinkles. No diet or exercise is necessary, as it cannot possibly do an injury.

Mrs. S. T.: To make your eyes sparkle I would suggest using simply crystos tonic which is inexpensive and easily prepared. Just dissolve 1 ounce crystos in a pint cold water and it is ready. Putting a few drops in each eye frequently soon relieves the smart and ache and will give to them a sparkle and expressiveness truly charming. This is excellent for weak eyes.

X. O.: Your dull, streaky hair indicates an impoverished condition of the scalp and hair-roots. I am giving you a simple recipe, which if you make up and use, will banish your scalp-troubles and make your hair grow thick, silky and fluffy. Get from your druggist 1 ounce quinzoin, pour into ½ pint alcohol, then add ½ pint water. Massage the scalp once or twice a week. This stops the irritation and overcomes dandruff and puts your scalp and hair-roots in a healthy, vigorous condition.

Dora M.: For banishing your wrinkles you will find a plain almozoin jelly-cream quick and certain in its action and also splendid for clearing the skin. It is made as follows: Stir 1 ounce almozoin into ½ pint water, add 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine and let stand over night. Apply a thick coating of the jelly-cream on retiring and massage well into the skin. Allow to remain on until morning, then wash off and rub some more on. This is unfailing and dispels freckles, blotches, pimples and other beauty defects. It is also excellent for chaps or tender skin.

THE ADVENTURES OF KATHLYN.

BY HAROLD MAC GRATH.

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS CHAPTERS.

Kathlyn Hare, believing her father, Col. Hare, in peril, has summoned her, leaves her home in California to go to him in Allaha, India. Umballah, pretender to the throne of that principality, has imprisoned the colonel, named by the late king as his heir, because he fears the American may insist on his royal rights.

Upon her arrival in Allaha, Kathlyn is informed by Umballah that, her father being dead, she is to be queen, and must marry him forthwith. Because of her refusal she is sentenced to undergo two ordeals with wild beasts.

John Bruce, an American and fellow passenger on the boat which brought Kathlyn to Allaha, saves her life. The elephant which carries her from the scene of her trials becomes frightened and runs away, separating her from Bruce and the rest of the party.

After a ride filled with peril she takes refuge in a ruined temple. The holy men and villagers, believing her to be an ancient priestess risen from the tomb, allow her to remain as the guardian of the sacred fire. But Kathlyn's haven is also the abode of a lion, and she is forced to flee from it, with the savage beast in pursuit. She escapes and finds a retreat in the jungle, only to fall into the hands of a band of slave traders, who bring her to Allaha to the public mart. She is sold to Umballah, who, finding her still unsubmissive, throws her into the dungeon with her father.

Bruce and his friends effect the release of Kathlyn and the colonel.

Umballah's attempt to recapture them is unsuccessful, and the fugitives are given shelter in the palace of Bala Khan.

Supplied with camels and servants by that hospitable prince, they start on their journey to the coast. The party is overpowered and taken in custody by brigands. The leader, recognizing the colonel, dispatches Ramabai and Pundita to Allaha for ransom for the white king, his daughter, and Bruce. Umballah journeys to the lair of the bandits. The colonel is delivered to him and he orders that Kathlyn and Bruce be killed.

CHAPTER XIII.

IN THE JACKAL'S LAIR.

THE golden sands, the purple cliffs, the translucent blue of the heavens, and the group of picturesque rascals jabbering and gesticulating and pressing about their chief made a picture Kathlyn was never to forget.

"Patience, my little ones!" said the chief, showing his white, strong teeth in what was more of a snarl than a smile. "There is plenty of time."

Bruce leaned toward Kathlyn.

"Stand perfectly still, just as you are. I believe I can reach the knot back of your hands. This squabbling is the very thing needed. They will not pay any attention to us for a few minutes, and if I can read signs they'll all be at each other's throats shortly."

"But even if we get free what can we do?"

Kathlyn was beginning to lose both faith and heart. The sight of her father being led back to Allaha by Dinga Ram, after all the misery to which he had been subjected, shook the courage which had held her up these long, unhappy weeks. For she realized that her father was still weak, and that any additional suffering would kill him.

"You mustn't talk like that," said Bruce. "You've been in tighter places than this. If we can get free, leave the rest to me. So long as one can see and hear and move, there's hope."

"I'm becoming a coward. Do what you can. I promise to obey you in all things."

Bruce bent as far as he could, and went desperately to work at the knot with his teeth. Success or failure did not really matter; simply, he did not propose to die without making a mighty struggle to avoid death. The first knot became loose, then another. Kathlyn stirred her hands cautiously.

"Now!" he whispered.

She twisted her hands two or three times and found them free.

"Mine, now!" said Bruce. "Hurry!"

It was a simple matter for her to release Bruce.

"God bless those rupees!" he murmured. "There'll be a fine row in a minute. Keep perfectly still, and when the moment comes follow me into the cave. They have left their guns in there."

"You are a brave and ready man, Mr. Bruce."

"You called me John once."

"Well, then, John," a ghost of a smile flitting across her lips. Men were not generally sentimental in the face of death.

"There are nine of us!" screamed one of the brigands.

"And I claim one bag because without my help and brains you would have had nothing," roared the chief. "Who warned you against the opium? Ha, pig!"

The first blow was struck. Instantly the chief drew his knife and lunged at the two nearest him.

"Treachery!"

"Ha! Pigs! Dogs! Come, I'll show you who is master!"

"Thief!"

The remaining brigands closed in upon their leader and bore him upon his back.

"To the tiger with him!"

"Now!" cried Bruce.

He flung the rope from his hands, caught Kathlyn by the arm, and, running and stumbling, they gained the cave, either ignored or unobserved by the victorious brigands.

They dragged the stunned leader to his feet and haled him to the cage, lashing him to a wheel. Next, they seized the rope which operated the door and retired to the mouth of the cave.

"Rob us, would he!"

"Take the lion's share when we did all the work!"

"Swine!"

"I will give it all to you!" whined the whilom chief, mad with terror.

"And knife us in the back when we sleep! No, no! You have kicked and cuffed us for the last time!"

Bruce picked up one of the rifles and drew Kathlyn further into the cave.

"Get behind me and crouch low. They'll come around to us presently."

The rascals gave the rope a savage pull, and from where he stood Bruce could see the lean striped body of the furious tiger leap to freedom.

"Keep your eyes shut. It will not be a pleasant thing to look at," he warned the girl.

But Kathlyn could not have closed her eyes if she had tried. She saw the brute pause, turn, and strike at the helpless man at the wheel, then lope off, doubtless having in mind to test his freedom before he fed.

The remaining brigands rushed out and gathered up the bags of rupees.

This was the opportunity for which Bruce had waited.

"Come. There may be some outlet to this cave. Here is another rifle. Let us cut for it! When thieves fall out; you know the old saying."

They ran back several yards and discovered a kind of chasm leading diagonally upward.

"Thank God! We can get out of this after all. Are you strong enough for a stiff climb?"

"I've got be—John!"

"Trust me, Kathlyn," he replied simply. He had but one life, but he determined then and there to make it equal or outlast the six lives which stood between him and liberty.

The brigands, having succeeded in their mutiny, bethought themselves of their prisoners, only to find that they had vanished. Familiar with the cave and its outlet, they started eagerly in pursuit. They reasoned that if an old man was worth three bags of rupees, two young people might naturally be worth twice as much. And besides, being tigers, they had tasted blood.

A shout caused Bruce to turn. Instantly he raised his rifle, and pulled the trigger. The result was merely a snap. The gun had not been loaded. He snatched Kathlyn's rifle, but this, too, was useless. The brigands yelled exultantly and began to swarm up the ragged cliff. Bruce flung aside the gun and turned his attention to a bowlder. Half way up the chasm had a width which was little broader than the shoulders of an ordinary man. He waited till he saw the wretches within a yard or so of this spot, then pushed this bowlder. It roared and crashed and bounded, and before it reached the narrow pathway Bruce had started a mate to it. Then a third followed. This caused a terriffic slide of rocks and bowlders, and the brigands turned for their lives.

"That will be about all for the present," said Bruce, wiping his forehead. "Now if we can make that village we shall be all right. Bala Khan's men will not leave with the camels till they learn whether we are dead or alive. It will be a hard trek, Miss Kathlyn. Ten miles over sand is worse than fifty over turf. I don't think we'll see any more of those ruffians."

"Kathlyn," she said.

"Well—Kathlyn!"

"Or, better still, at home they call me Kit."

They smiled into each other's eyes, and no words were needed. Thus quickly youth discards its burdens!

That he did not take her into his arms at once proved the caliber of the man. And Kathlyn respected him none the less for his control. She knew now, and she was certain that her eyes had told him as frankly as any words would have done; and she fell into his stride, strangely embarrassed and not a little frightened. The firm grasp of his hand as here and there he steadied her sent a thrill of exquisite pleasure through her.

Love! She laughed softly; and he stopped and eyed her in astonishment.

"What is it?"

"Nothing," she answered.

But she went on with the thought which had provoked her laughter. Love! Danger all about, unseen, hidden; misery in the foreground, and perhaps, death beyond; her father back in chains, to face she knew not what horrors, and yet she could pause by the wayside and think of love!

"There was something," he insisted. That wasn't happy laughter. What caused it?"

"Some day I will tell you—if we live."

"Live?" Then he laughed.

And she was not slow to recognize the Homeric quality of his laughter.

"Kit, I am going to get you and your father out of all this, if but for one thing."

"And what is that?" curious in her turn.

"I'll tell you later." And there the matter stood.

The journey to the village proved frightfully exhausting. The two were in a sorry plight when they reached the well.

The camel men were overjoyed at the sight of them. For hours they had waited in dread, contemplating flight which would take them anywhere but to Bala Khan, who rewarded cowardice in one fashion only. For, but for their cowardly inactivity, their charges might by now be safe in the seaport toward which they had been journeying. So they brought food for the two and begged that they would not be accused of cowardice to Bala Khan.

"Poor devils!" said Bruce. "Had they shown the least resistance those brigand chaps would have killed them off like rats. He beckoned to the head man. "Take us back to Bala Khan in the morning, and we promise that no harm shall befall you. Now, find us a place to sleep."

Nevertheless, it was hard work to keep that promise. Bala Khan stormed and swore that death was too good for the watery hearts of his camel men. They should be crucified on the wall. Kathlyn's diplomacy alone averted the tragedy. Finally, with a good deal of reluctance, Bala Khan gave his word.

So Bruce and Kathlyn planned to return to Allaha, and it was the khan himself who devised the method. The two young people should stain their skins and don native dress. He would give them two camels outright, only they would be obliged to make the journey without servants.

"But if harm comes to you, and I hear of it, by the beard of the prophet, I'll throw into Allaha such a swarm of stinging bees that all Hind should hear of it. Now go, and may Allah watch over you, infidels though you be!"

Umballah sent a messenger on before, for he loved the theatrical, which is innate in all orientals. He desired to enter the city to the shrilling of reeds and the booming of tom-toms; to impress upon this unruly populace that he, Dinga Ram, was a man of his word, that when he set out to accomplish a thing it was as good as done. His arrival was greeted with cheers, but there was an undertone of groans that was not pleasant to his keen ears. Deep in his heart he cursed, for by these sounds he knew that only the froth was his, the froth and scum of the town. The iron heel; so they would have it in preference to his friendship. Oh, for some way to trap Ramabai, to hold him up in ridicule, to smash him down from his pedestal, known, but as yet unseen!

He wondered if he would find any more of those anonymous notes relating to the inviolable person of Ramabai. Woe to him who laid them about, could he but put his hand upon him! He, Dinga Ram, held Allaha in the hollow of his hand, and this day he would prove it.

So he put a rope about the waist of Col. Hare, and led him through the streets, as the ancient Romans he had read about did to the vanquished. He himself recognized the absurdity of all these things, but his safety lay in the fact that the populace at large were incapable of reasoning for themselves; they saw only that which was visible to the eye.

On the palace steps he harangued the people, praising his deeds. He alone had gone into the wilderness and faced death to ransom their lawful king. Why these bonds? The King had shirked his duty; he had betrayed his trust; but in order that the people should be no longer without a head, this man should become their prisoner King; he should be forced to sign laws for their betterment. Without the royal signature the treasury could not be touched, and now the soldiers should be paid in full.

From the soldiers about came wild huzzahs.

Ahmed and Lal Singh, packed away in the heart of the crowd, exchanged gloomy looks. Once the army was Umballah's, they readily understood what would follow: Umballah would acclaim himself, and the troops would back him.

"We have a thousand guns and ten thousand rounds of ammunition," murmured Lal Singh.

"Perhaps we had best prevail upon Ramabai to strike at once. But wait. The colonel sahib understands. He knows that if he signs anything it will directly prove his death warrant. There is still an obstacle at Umballah's feet. Listen!"

Sadly Umballah recounted his adventure in full. The daughter of the king and his friend, the American hunter, were dead. He, Umballah, had arrived too late.

The colonel, mad with rage, was about to give Umballah the lie publicly, when he saw a warning hand uplifted, and below that hand the face of Ahmed. Ahmed shook his head. The colonel's shoulders drooped. In that sign he read danger.

"They live," said Ahmed. "That is enough for the present. Let us begone to the house of Ramabai."

"The colonel sahib is safe for the time being."

"And will be so long as he refuses to open the treasury door to Umballah. There is a great deal to smile about, Lal Singh. Here is a treasury, guarded by seven leopards, savage as savage can be. Only the two keepers ever dare approach them, and these keepers refuse to cage the leopards without a formal order from the king or queen. Superstition forbids Umballah to make way with the brutes. The people, your people and mine, Lal Singh, believe that these leopards are sacred, and any who kills them commits sacrilege, and you know what that amounts to here. So there he dodders; too cowardly to fly in the face of superstition. He must torture and humiliate the colonel sahib and his daughter. Ah, these white people! They have heads and hearts of steel. I know."

"And Umballah has the heart of a flea bitten pariah dog. When the time comes he will grovel and squirm and whine."

"He will," agreed Ahmed. "His feet are even now itching for the treadmill."

The colonel was taken to one of the palace chambers, given a tub and fresh clothing. Outside in the corridors guards patrolled, and there were four who watched the window. He was a king, but well guarded. Well, they had crowned him, but never should Umballah, through any signature of his, put his hand into the royal treasury. Besides, this time he had seen pity and sympathy in the faces of many who had looked upon his entrance to the city. The one

FROM LONDON GRAPHIC

[In a recent address before the Royal Geographical Society at London, Mr. Kipling used the phrase "Scouting along the Fantastic Sky Line of the Future," which aptly designates the trend that writers are taking in their desperate effort to secure original and interesting material.]

The purpose of "The Precipice"—which takes its name from the fact that during an expression of her views to the man she loves he tells her she is standing on the edge of a precipice—is to urge women to a larger activity in the world's affairs, to lift up the mammalia into the higher estate of motherhood," and to compel the respect of men for the intelligence and ability of women who are fit to be more than instruments of pleasure or amusement, subject to masculine dominance.

TOO MUCH CHAFF.

THE LAW OF LIFE. By Carl Werner. Dodd, Mead & Co., New York.

IT IS seldom in this day, when novelists are competing so strenuously among themselves for the attention of the public, that a book dares be uninteresting for a third of its length, taking a desperate chance of redeeming itself before the end. "The Law of Life"—and by what convolution of hypotheses it was given that title we do not know and dare not conjecture—takes such a chance.

Too much regular stage setting is used at first to make the beginning auspicious, and then the plot appears to be transparent, which is almost as disastrous to the reader's interest as if it did not suddenly develop most amazing complications later on.

Robert Mackenzie—the model young man who is pointed out to all the youths of Wellington as a fellow to pattern after—and Sidney Powell, who left Wellington to become a New York Alderman, apparently accomplishing that feat in an incredulously short time by methods not wholly scrupulous, love Helen Willoughby. She disapproves of the "double standard" and, as Powell's reputation has recently suffered, practically gives her consent to marry Mackenzie.

A certain day dawns after Mackenzie and Powell have returned to New York—the author warns us as the sun is peeping over the horizon that something eventful is preparing to happen, that had Robert Mackenzie known what was in store for him, etc., which is a very effective way for a new writer to disclose the secret of his inexperience. However, this day dawns: Mackenzie intervenes and saves a woman from thugs and hastens away before she has the opportunity to thank him. That night he and Powell are introduced to La Carmona, a Spanish dancer, who is "all the rage"—the dancer promptly kisses him, for lo! he saved her from the thugs who attempted to steal her valuable pearl necklace, which she was wearing per instruction of the press agent.

The occasion calls for the popping of a few corks. Mackenzie doesn't want to drink, but La Carmona is indignant and beautiful, and pleads. He drinks—drinks again, and wakes up the following morning with La Carmona sharing with him that piece of furniture which is dedicated to Morpheus. Straightway Mackenzie flies to Helen to explain—but Powell, who is really responsible for the mess, has seen to it that she already knows.

Out of that situation Mr. Werner works a story the ending of which can scarcely be anticipated. The plot is very clever; it is handled, however, too much with the idea of giving reward to the meritorious—although La Carmona deserves far better than the treatment accorded her. Despite the complication hinted at, there is nothing to offend the taste in the treatment of the story.

A COMPLEX CHARACTER.

THE BUTTERFLY. By Henry Kitchell Webster. D. Appleton & Co., New York.

THE Butterfly is rather a delightful and astounding young personality. She is not really a butterfly in the ordinary sense of the novelist. She is, in her way, quite a sincere creature—sincere and consistent with her own inconsistencies. She loves, like the butterfly, to flutter her gauzy wings of being contentedly in the sun. She is a professional dancer—a wonder, full of the naivete of temperament—not the temperament that indulges hysterics. Her particular indulgence is fancies. She is warm-hearted and generous, full of impulses. She creeps up behind a young man in the study of her fiance, covers his eyes with her hands, and kisses him, because she likes his looks!

There is a murder complication, in which the girl displays the sharpness of her wit, and her ability as a detective, for she outdoes the professionals; knowing the truth herself, there are reasons why her large heart shields the criminal. Her method of working is so innocent in appearance that she turns the work of the real detective into a laughing matter.

Through all of the seeming flippancy of the girl's character she is possessed of a surprising fund of knowledge along different lines, and a cool and convincing personality under the frills of attractiveness, as well as unflinching physical courage and adroitness. And yet it is all done so simply behind the imperturbable, dimpled mask. In many ways she displays the irresponsibility attributed to her profession. She does not bother about an engagement made if she does not choose to keep it. She embraces the young man who pleases her in public. She places him in a position where he is credited with reckless morals, which are foreign to the serious young professor. In fine, she stirs his ambitions hotly, and makes him utterly discontented with a professorship in a college town. She draws him into a great metropolis, and throws open the door of success. But what of the fiance and the murder mystery? The latter is a large part of the book.

EXOTIC LOVE TALE.

THE SOUL OF LIFE. By David Lisle. Frederick A. Stokes Company, New York.

A RATHER sensational name for a rather sensational novel is "The Soul of Life, or What Is Love?" It is not sensational after the manner of melodrama, but is, nevertheless, exotic, and full of food for the sensations. The opening scene is in a sort of salon set apart for the great actress, Lucienne Gerome, in the top floor of a Paris theater. Oriental draperies, oriental servants, oriental perfumes create an enervating atmosphere about the "riotously superb and extravagant" creature. The other riotous creature in the story is a wealthy poet, who also lolls in an atmosphere of perfumes, silks, flowers and tea brewed in filagree silver and daintiest china service. His specialty is entrapping the affections of beautiful and unusual women, and tiring of them immediately upon succeeding. The superb Lucienne, spurning all varieties of great men, has fallen a victim to the insinuating poet, and is suffering under the cooling of his passion.

A young girl of eighteen, who, in a most unusual way, has won Lucienne's professional approval, is cast to play a complex character in the production with which Lucienne is the star. The girl is ambitious, full of temperament, but exquisitely innocent—too innocent to please Lucienne and the manager in her part. It is decided by the playwright that she needs experience—the one great experience. The poet meets her, and commences to weave his web about her. In the meantime a wholesome English youth is in love with her, and wishes to withdraw her from the hectic life and profession which she has chosen. The gradual breaking of Lucienne's beauty through rage and jealousy, the driving ambition of the young girl, the cool, selfishness of the poet, the faith and steadfastness of the English youth—all of these contribute to a situation which must inevitably end in tragedy for some of the principals. The situations between Lucienne and her manager are well and cleverly handled.

SPECTER OF REMORSE.

THE HOUR OF CONFLICT. By Hamilton Gibbs. George H. Doran Company, New York.

LIKE most stories concerned with English life, or life on the continent, much time is given to character drawing, perhaps, a little too detailed where subordinate characters are concerned. The effect is as it would be in a painting where backround detail is brought out too vividly, interfering with the effect of perspective. However, the characters thus drawn all have their own peculiar interest. The theme of the story is woven about a young man, whose advent into the world twenty-four years previously, was looked upon by his parents as rather an unfortunate accident. The parents are society people, who spend much time in London, each one seeking his and her amusement, according to individual fancy. The child is turned over to hired help, is duly educated as befits a young man of his social standing, but never knows the affection of parents, and the real meaning of home. In fact, what he sees in his own mother—who, even after he has grown to manhood, has the face and figure of a girl—shakes his belief in all womanhood.

He goes to a summer resort on the coast of France, and there falls in love with a charming French face and a sweet personality. Poor Toinette! His first resolution is to amuse himself. But she wins upon his real feelings. However, this does not save his beautiful victim. He climbs to her chamber window in the night. Hedged in by unwholesome traditions, he prepares to leave her the next day. His last glimpse of her before departing is of her white, cold face, and marble hands crossed on her breast, with the seaweed clinging to her little shoe.

Back in London the young man sees in the domestic life of an erstwhile college chum, who has taken the girl he loves to shelter until he can legally marry her, what he himself might have done. The specter of remorse gives him no rest day or night. And every day his love for the lost Toinette grows stronger, but of the maelstrom of despair, and from the very door of death come the most startling denouements.

Society, in many of its phases, is not spared some telling prods.

ADVENTUROUS HEROINE.

THE FULL OF THE MOON. By Caroline Lockhart. J. B. Lippincott Company, Philadelphia.

MISS NAN GALBRAITH—comfortably ensconced in a comfortable home, with plenty of good clothing, all amusements in which young women usually indulge, beside belonging to the "Pine-Tree Hunt Club," and having a fiance measuring up to the standard of any right-minded girl—sighs for adventure—even demands it. Regardless of parental and fiance-ental objections, she must take a trip into the West, in search of new experience. She carries her point; and not allowing even her sweetheart to follow her, she journeys toward the Mexican frontier. She tells her young man that she wishes to test out her love for him in this absence, and the meeting of fresh faces and novel conditions.

Nan begins to meet with experience as soon as she strikes "Hopedale." She is practically kidnaped by a black-browed rancher of evil reputation, but is saved by his half-breed wife. She falls in love—or, rather, thinks that she does—with the handsome foreman, and takes him away from his cow-girl sweetheart. She entices him into a declaration. She rides the range, goes to a big dance, where the American cowboys and the Mexicans are at swords' points—or, rather, pistols' points. Then suddenly, Bob, her eastern fiance, appears, and at a crucial moment, when the Americans are at a disadvantage.

Then there is more trouble. The handsome foreman is discharged from the ranch of the man whom Nan repulsed, and he is accused of rustling. There is a very amusing court scene, in which the judge goes into a drunken slumber, and Bob saves Nan's foreman. In fine, Nan has excitement and adventures galore of every sort that might be supposed to pertain to a frontier town. But she grows to love the place, and it finally comes to a point where she must make her choice between the two men who love her—the physically splendid, but rather illiterate foreman, or the cultured lawyer from the East. What Nan does will not fail to interest.

FOR THE TRAVELERS.

THE SOUTH AMERICAN TOUR. By Annie S. Peck. George H. Doran Company, New York.

MISS PECK is a mountain climber and explorer, whose experiences and travels in South America have fitted her to write a descriptive guide to the countries commonly visited in the grand tour of that land.

Her book is almost encyclopedic in its scope, and covers a range of information that includes the sights for tourists to look for, the noted features of different localities, the commercial activities of the various cities and districts, with a guide to hotels and instructions as to when and how to travel to the best advantage.

The historical associations of the various places, which have been set forth in the book, make interesting reading and serve to arouse the reader to wish to follow in the course that Miss Peck has mapped out—and make the trip.

It is more than a mere guidebook—it is interesting, and what is far less usual, very well written.

TOPOGRAPHY IN FICTION.

THE BOOKLOVER'S LONDON. By A. St. John Adcock. Macmillan Company, New York.

SO DISTINCTLY English is "The Booklover's London" that the full enjoyment of it can scarcely be realized by one who does not know both the city and English literature.

Mr. Adcock says: "I can scarcely walk down any of its streets but my boyhood or my younger manhood has been there before me; something of my past has been trodden into its stones and is inseparable from it, though none knows anything of this but myself."

From the passages of Dickens, Fielding, Shakespeare, Dekker, Defoe, Addison—practically all of the writers of note who have laid scenes in London town—the author takes descriptions and wanders about showing us what those scenes are like today, how they have changed and what associations cling to them.

He says: "You may be irresistibly attracted to London by its glamorous literary or historical associations. . . . by the countless real and imaginary romances of men and women who have died and men and women who have never lived that fill its highways and byways, day and night with dreams and ghosts—there is such magic in the very names of many of its streets that, if you know it, when you read them and say them to yourself the long rows of modern buildings grow as unsubstantial as a mist and fade away, and rows of smaller, quainter, more picturesque houses rise in their stead and all old London as it used to be, but never will be again, closes in about you as by enchantment."

AID TO DICTIONARY.

ROGET'S THESAURUS. Edited by C. O. S. Mawson. Thomas Y. Crowell Company, New York.

ROGET'S great work the "Thesaurus of English Words and Phrases," has been thoroughly revised and brought up to date by Mr. Mawson. The new edition comes in large, clear type, printed on thin paper for convenience in handling. As the volume is one to which constant reference is made by students, literary workers, and many professional people, the advantages of the new edition will be appreciated by all who have become addicted to the pleasurable study of synonyms.

As nearly every one knows, the Thesaurus supplements the work of the dictionary, for while the latter aims only to show the idea of a word, the Thesaurus supplies the apt word for the given idea.

Mr. Mawson has added many new words, eliminated some of the more obsolete, and introduced markings that will enable the reader to distinguish them as well as the not-yet-sanctioned slang expression. It is the finest work of its kind that has yet appeared.

IN THE VERNACULAR.

SONNETS OF A SUFFRAGETTE. By Berton Braley. Brown & Howell Company, Chicago.

THIS little volume includes, besides the "Sonnets of a Suffragette," the "Love Sonnets of a Manicure," the "Love Lyrics of a Shop Girl" and "Love Lyrics of a Chauffeur." They are all in their proper vernacular and spirit, and quite cleverly done. The suffragette sonnets are particularly bright. In the midst of the heroics in behalf of the "Cause," the natural woman breaks in, with her love of pretty gowning, and her love of being loved. It ends up in the good old way, with the rosy fingers of the baby clutching after "Speaker" Daddy's gavel.

The manicure sonnets, full of sighs and glances and the holding of hands, the longing for the "guy" who will "hand out" a square deal, are characteristic, and when Mam'selle Manicure finally lands her man, she decides to make her husband a present of a safety razor, because "I'm the only manicure who's there."

"Of course, I trust my husband," she hastens to add, "sure! but then. Them manicures is sirens with the men!"

The "Love Lyrics" that follow are interesting in their own way.

REVIEWS IN BRIEF.

THE RED TAVERN. By C. R. Macauley. D. Appleton & Co., New York and London.

"The Red Tavern" is a historical novel of adventure, laid in England in the time following the accession to the throne of Henry VII, after his defeating and slaying of Richard III. After the smothering of the hapless little Princes in the Tower, Sir Richard Rohan became the next rightful heir. Richmond, seated on the throne, and fearing possible designs of the young knight, dispatches him with a message to Douglas of Scotland, where the plan is to involve him in a quarrel, and remove him by death in combat. But the young knight has plans of his own, and moreover a sturdy strength of body that commands respect. He becomes involved, at the Red Tavern, in a way to test his knighthood and chivalry. The manner in which he proves himself equal to a delicate situation involving the affections of two ladies shows him to be a gallant gentleman as well as a doughty knight at arms.

BURBURY STOKE. By William John Hopkins. Houghton, Mifflin Company, Boston and New York.

There are some books which one cannot help wondering why they were written. Such a one, in our opinion, is "Burbury Stoke." It is supposed, probably, to be etchy or sketchy, with interesting character delineations. It is supposed to be written with a vein of dry humor to keep the reader in a perpetual jolt of amusement, with an occasional break-in of pathos. The writer evidently has knowledge of the waters of bay and sound, and knows how to sail a cat-boat. He has less knowledge in creating and holding story interest. Things just happen now and then in his novel, without any particular reason or regard to sequence. Worst of all, the characters are not attractive.

A DOUBTFUL CHARACTER. By Mrs. Baillie Reynolds. George H. Doran Company, New York.

One becomes interested in the "doubtful character" from the moment his somewhat stern and unsympathetic visage peers from the door of the bunkroom of a high Alpine inn, when Aunt Fazackley demands loudly that he give up his berth for her accommodation. There are sudden denouements which throw the young man into the company of Miss Fazackley's niece, precipitate a romance, upon the heels of which treads tragedy. It is an attractive story of love, adventure and mystery, in which the author cleverly obscures the solution until the very last pages.

THE BOY AS A CITIZEN. By Thomas Tapper. Platt & Peck Company, New York.

Such passages as this: "One of the first facts the American boy should learn is this one, of the rights of others. Let him get that fixed in mind, and he will always be so certain of his own rights that he will never need to talk about them," and "The American boy ought to learn as soon as possible that a law is not a restriction, but an honorable agreement. And its purpose is to give everyone an equal chance to work or play"—will show something of the tone and purport of the little volume. The book has the virtue of brevity, and the boy or parent will find himself stimulated and no doubt helped by its perusal.

OUT OF EGYPT. By M. Elisabeth Crouse. Richard G. Badger, Boston.

The descriptions incident to the Nile journey are set forth in this volume, with historical incidents in proper sequence, and something of the religious evolution of Egypt, as well as its progressive development. It is arranged in a series of essays, which should prove instructive.

WITH THE AUTHORS.

Harper & Bros. announce reprintings of "The Forester's Daughter," by Hamlin Garland; "The Light of Western Stars," by Zane Grey; "The White Sapphire," by Lee Foster Hartman; "Life, Letters, Lectures and Addresses of Frederick W. Robertson," edited by Stopford A. Brooke; "The Courtship of a Careful Man," by Edward Sandford Martin; "The Franco-German War of 1870-'71," by Graf von Moltke; "Principles of Political Economy," by Simon Newcomb; "The Lane That Had No Turning," by Sir Gilbert Parker; "The Road to Nowhere," by Livingston B. Morse.

Although Dr. Richard C. Cabot's "What Men Live By" has been published scarcely a fortnight, Houghton Mifflin Company announce that they have made a third impression. "The Memoirs of Li Hung Chang," which attracted wide attention upon its appearance last fall, is in its sixth impression.

"The Print-Collector's Quarterly" for February, the first issue to appear under the imprint of Houghton Mifflin Company, was delayed by the recent transfer. Hereafter it will appear upon schedule time.

"Angel Island," that novel romance by Inez Haynes Gillmore, is creating a good deal of interest in various quarters. Before it could appear as a book, several theatrical managers asked for it, and it was scarcely off the press when rival newspaper syndicates were asking for "second serial" rights.

According to statistics compiled by the Publishers' Weekly "Mary Ward's Promised Land," the latest published volume in the "Little Colonel Series," by Annie Fellows Johnston, was the best selling juvenile book for the year 1913. "Joel: A Boy of Galilee," by the same author, and published by the Page Company, is soon to appear in the "movies," being licensed to appear in all countries of the world.

Raymond B. Fosdick, formerly Commissioner of Accounts of New York City, is at work on a volume discussing "European Police Systems," based upon intimate personal study extending over a period of a year and a half in twenty-two European cities. This will be the third in the series of books published for the Bureau of Social Hygiene by the Century Company, the others being "Prostitution in Europe," by Abraham Flexner, and "Commercialized Prostitution in New York City," by George J. Kneeland.

There is to be a new story of Pennsylvania Dutch life this spring by Helen R. Martin, author of "Tillie: a Mennonite Maid."

John Nolan, the author of "Replanning Small Cities," has been invited, at the instigation of Lady Aberdeen, to assist in the preparation of a civic exhibition in Dublin, which will last during the summer and fall, and to work on a plan for the general improvement of that city with reference to housing, parks, playgrounds, schools, etc. Mr. Nolan has sailed for a first consultation. His engagements will bring him to California in April.

Among the spring publications of Rand McNally & Co. will be "Figures Famed in Fiction," by H. G. Pilsbury, D. D., the author's idea being to introduce to new, and to recall to old readers certain of the strongest and best characters in American and foreign literature.

Mrs. Katrina Trask's play, "In the Vanguard," published by the Macmillan Company, has achieved the unusual distinction for a piece of dramatic literature of a third edition within a year.

The John C. Winston Company has brought out "The Story of Mexico," an elaborately illustrated volume by Charles Morris.

It is reported from London that Hauptmann's latest novel, "Atlantis," published there by Laurie, and in New York by Huebsch, is one of the great fiction successes of the season.

For March publication Houghton Mifflin Company announce: "Our Friend, John Burroughs," by Dr. Clara Barrus; "The Japanese Empire," by T. Philip Terry; Poems of Walter Conrad Arensburg; "The Passing of Empire," by H. Fielding-Hall; "The First Step," by Eliza Orne White; "Paul Verlaine," by Wilfred Thorley; "Commodore George Hamilton Perkins, U.S.N.: His Life and Letters," by Carrol Storrs Alden; "Lost Diaries," by Maurice Baring; and "In the High Hills," poems by Maxwell Struthers Burt.

Edwin Bjorkman is writing "A History of Nineteenth Century Scandinavian Literature" for Henry Holt & Co.

LITERARY CHIT-CHAT.

BY GENEVIEVE FARNELL-BOND.

Go into an assemblage of authors, poets, musicians, artists, and you will note how inevitably the conversation will lead in the direction of ethics. Art far art's sake, witticisms, the latest creations in art, the ethereal beauty of Miss T., the coming wedding of those two young poets with faces that seem to have come out of an exquisite archaic dream, the fact that B. is now really meeting with recognition, and when you saw him on the street the other day he was looking comfy and well-clothed, praises bel—all of these things are discussed in groups and pairs. But when the confab becomes general, when the master of ceremonies raises his hand for attention to a bit of verse, the remarks that burst afterward will not concern art alone—they will insensibly drift to the spirit underlying the work. All of these artists may differ one from another in their ideas of artistic accomplishment—why should they not? That is what spells individuality and genius. They may represent a dozen different forms of religion. But they are all seeking to touch the common cord among them. The one who denies it is a pariah, and looked upon askance. Brotherhood—service, sensibility to the necessities of others—I have noticed that both poets and prose writers are keenest on these matters. The artist and musician taken individually are sometimes equally so; but as a rule they are rapt more in the sensuosity—please mark that this is distinctly different from sensuality—of their work. This guest may go home and let his wife support him. That one may harangue her husband for lingering a bit too long in conversation with the temperamental pianist. The pianist herself may be an inordinate flirt. But who shall dare to say that the fine, still spirit, invoked by beginning the common level of thought high, with the Jovian light shining through the strange translucency of that great presiding face, with its white shaggy mane—who shall dare to say that a better, broader sense of things has not come to abide? What matter if one little foxy rogue, watching those who did the most talking, "touched" two or three of them for small loans a few days later, after a night of "blowing in?" He, like one of Dickens's estimable characters in "Bleak House," wishes to afford them the noble pleasure of exercising their philanthropy!

The Rev. Charles Fleischer is an author who is an ardent truth seeker, and of course professionally trained to impart this truth to others. He seceded from his post, where he was leader of a congregation in Boston, to gain elbow room for preaching in a broader field. At the non-sectarian services which he holds every Sunday afternoon at a theater, the meeting being known as the Sunday Commons, his battle cry is "America for Americans, and America for the World!" The author's forthcoming volume, "American Aspirations," will tell about his new religion, started some two years ago in Boston. "Aspiration" seems to be the keystone. Instead of the concluding prayer of the conventional form, Dr. Fleischer offers an "aspiration," in which he epitomises the day's address, "transmitting its values into something higher and more exalted." Why not an "aspiration" instead of a prayer, which latter is apt to be tinctured with more or less beggary and Uriah-Heapism? Haven't we had enough of the worm of the dust? Most of these worms are hypocrites, anyway, and give the nongrovelers to understand how much "holier than thou" they—the worms—are. Why not be a little more worthy of the God paternity, and cry out with the young Jewish poet, in his "Promethus Unbound:"

"O God, I god-like vie with thee In thy creative destiny!"—or some such words. It is not presumption so long as unegoistic aspiration and brotherhood is behind it. But this is off of the main literary trail. And we hope Dr. Fleischer will realize the reward that a brave step dictated by conscience deserves. Authors must "eat to think."

Jack London knows this, and has proven a good business manager for himself. He expects to make a good thing out of the moving-picture rights to his novels. "I'm bound to the moving-picture business for life!" he declares sententiously. "It's like matrimony; all I possess, dear moving picture business, is yours. I'm not going to write any original scenari, nor anything just for moving-picture use alone. But everything that I have written or may write—novels or short stories—is contracted for by the company with which I am connected. Bosworth is in the North now filming some of my Alaska stories. I hope to make in the neighborhood of $800,000 out of the movies in the next two years."

It is always interesting to note what big men—including authors—think of each other's works. William R. Thayer's latest book, "The Life and Times of Cavour," was mentioned in a letter to Mr. Thayer from a prominent New York financier, as follows: "In the meeting of a railroad board the other day, the chairman had some difficulty in bringing the meeting to order because three of the members were so absorbed comparing notes on your 'Cavour,' which they had all read." He adds, "How often do you suppose the wheels of business are blocked by discussion of that sort? Not often, I fancy."

And here is something which Prof. John Dewey of Columbia University says of James T. Shotwell's "The Religious Revolution of Today:" "The reader who starts in to learn something about the great change that is taking place in man's theological ideas finds that he is having presented to him, in succinct form, and by a competent authority, an account of the intellectual and practical transformation wrought in humanity's progress to civilization from savagery. The book has the wide sweep of many of the older philosophies of history, but its generalizations follow instead of preceding the facts"—for which the reader should be thankful, being given a chance to do his own thinking.

Paul Elder seems to be doing things in San Francisco. His catalogue of publications records a plethora of books on California subjects. There are also a number of most interesting subjects among his "Selected Publications," notably being one entitled "The Philosophy of Ingersoll," edited and arranged by Vere Goldthwaite. It will be delightful to get another peep into the soul of the great author and lecturer, in connection with whom the terms "atheist" and "agnostic" have so often been mixed, and who lived by his own words: "There is only one way to be happy, and that is to make somebody else so." We hope the Lincoln address is included in the new volume, for Ingersoll could not be fully and justly represented without it.

PROF. C. IRVIN ALTHOUSE,
NOTED ASTROLOGER AND PALMIST OF NATIONAL FAME AND REPUTATION.
STUDIO PARLORS, 539½ S. BROADWAY.
A RESIDENT OF LOS ANGELES 30 YEARS.

PROF. ALTHOUSE is an experienced practitioner in the science of modern ASTROLOGY, by which he has made many REMARKABLE PREDICTIONS. The horoscope shows the powerful influence of the planets in ALL AFFAIRS OF LIFE. It shows diseases, deaths, love and marriage, financial affairs, investments, changes, talents, environments, about children, relatives; when and where to travel, what to seek or avoid; when in danger of losses, troubles, etc., etc.; also your good periods coming —GIVING DATES of these events for the FUTURE.

PROF. ALTHOUSE read E. H. Sothern, Nat Goodwin, Schumann-Heink, Gadski, Admiral Schley, David Starr Jordan, ex-Gov. Pardee, ex-Senator Clark, Senator Smoot, Baron Rothschild, Gen. Chaffee, Edison, Sousa, Modjeska, Sembrich, Julia Marlowe, Anna Held, Jefferson, Capt. Hobson, Lillian Russell, Calve, Admiral Evans, H. E. Huntington, etc.

EXPERT PALM READING. READINGS BY MAIL.

DR. J. A. LARSON writes: "Your reading was the most satisfactory I ever had in my life. I know a great deal about these sciences, and I consider your work the most THOROUGH and RELIABLE of any reader in the United States."

PROF. ALTHOUSE'S wonderful proficiency in the casting of HOROSCOPES and in HAND reading has brought him a LARGE and SUCCESSFUL PRACTICE. The most private confidences are reposed in him, and his advice is sought in the most difficult and critical circumstances. Personal attention given. STRICT PRIVACY. HIGHEST GRADE OF WORK that skill and many years of experience can produce. HIGH CLASS PATRONAGE solicited.

Daily and evenings, Sunday 10 to 4.
STUDIO PARLORS 539½ S. BROADWAY...

PERSONAL—
MRS. MASSON,
the noted palmist of London, England, may be consulted at 822 S. SPRING ST., by those desiring CAREFUL, CONSCIENTIOUS AND SCIENTIFIC HAND READINGS, FROM ONE OF THE FOREMOST PALMISTS OF THE DAY.

The earnest student and thinker will soon learn in his investigations along psychological lines that that which pertains to occult phenomena proper can readily be distinguished from crude and oft-exposed SLEIGHT-OF-HAND TRICKS, the most common of which is the telling of the subject's name, age, etc., AFTER HE HIMSELF HAS WRITTEN THAT information.

PALMISTRY HONESTLY PRACTICED WILL NOT tell you your name, but it WILL give you information of considerably greater value in every-day life.

Your vocation, your present line of work, matters of health and domestic life, financial conditions and ways and means of climbing out of a rut of ill luck into wide paths of success and prosperity, can all be told you through scientific palmistry, WITHOUT A SINGLE QUESTION, WRITTEN OR VERBAL.

MRS. MASON DOES NOT APPEAL TO IGNORANT SUPERSTITION, BUT TO THE FINEST INTELLIGENCE.

HIGH-CLASS PATRONAGE SOLICITED.

"ARE YOU THE MAN I WANT?"

If you are, I can make you a success. I will spend patience and time with you to teach you the Real Estate Business. You can make a good deal of money while your are learning, if you will do just what I tell you to do. A man alone is often just like a ship without a helm. I am the helm. If you have a little better than average personality, appearance and manners; if you know what the full value of sticking to the truth means, I will steer you on the road where many men are making from $5000 to $20,000 a year. It all depends on you. This may be the definite change you have been waiting for. To shape your FUTURE TO SUCCESS, I want to talk to you any morning after 10 A.M. MR. HAMILTON, The JAMES R. H. WAGNER CO., Realty Board Bldg., 631 S. Spring st.

WANTED—

LISTEN TO TRUTH.

Many a woman recognizes in herself the ability to do better than she is doing, but how to get the opportunity to demonstrate that ability is a real problem. Recognizing time and energy as capital, there is no other business that will make the financial returns upon that capital that the real estate business will do. If you are ambitious, have better than average personality and appearance, and will do just as you are told, I will teach you the real estate business. You can make good money while learning, and I will guide you on the road where other women are making from $5000 to $10,000 a year. I will be glad to talk with you any day from 8:30 to 5:30.
